* The figures under "Rice, husked" represent the prices of common rice.

NOTE.—These statistics are compiled from the fortnightly returns furnished by District Officers to Local Governments and Administrations, etc. They relate to the wholesale prices in the principal markets (not necessarily district head-quarters) in each province on the last (or nearest mart) day of each fortnight.

†Prices are not reported.

The figures state prices in rupees per ten maunds;

TARIFF VALUATION OF SUGAR.

In supersession of Customs Circular No. V of 1911 it has been decided that, for the purpose of fixing the Tariff Valuation of Sugar imported into India, "Java 23 Dutch Standard and above" should be accepted as the standard grade by reference to which the other grades will receive their values by means of fixed margins, namely :—

Beet crystals	To be valued at the same rate as Java 23 D. S. and above.
Sugar, crystallised and soft, from Mauritius	Re. 1-8 lower.
Java 16 to 22 Dutch Standard	Rs. 2 ,,
Java 15 Dutch Standard and under	Rs. 2-8 ,,
Japanese and Formosan crystals	Rs. 2 higher.
China crystals	Rs. 2 ,,
Egyptian crystals	Re. 1 ,,

Returns have been received from October 1920 and the average value of "Java 23 Dutch Standard and above" for the eight months October, 1920 to May, 1921, is notified below :—

Description of sugar.	Imported during the month of May, 1921.		Imported since 1st October, 1920.
	Quantity.	Average net value per cwt.	Quantity.	Average net value per cwt.
	Cwt.	Rs. A.	Cwt.	Rs. A.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hours on Wednesday, the 6th July 1921, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. During the earlier part of the past week there was an almost complete break in the Arabian Sea monsoon. Later on it slowly strengthened in the Peninsula, where by the end of the week, under the influence of a feeble disturbance in the north of the Bay, it had begun to give fairly widespread rain. As is usual during breaks in the Bombay current the Bay monsoon was prevented from flowing up the Gangetic plain. The week was practically rainless in northwest India and elsewhere except in Burma, Assam, Bengal and Madras the week's rainfall was in considerable defect.

2. Burma.—In Lower Burma nearly general rain fell between the 30th June and 5th July, and local rain on the remaining day. In Upper Burma rainfall was local on the 29th June and 2nd, 4th and 5th July, and occurred at a few stations on two other days.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Rainfall was nearly general in Assam between the 29th June and 2nd July, and again on the 4th and 5th July, and in Bengal on the 29th June and 1st July; it was local during the rest of the week in both these areas. Local rain fell in Orissa on the 4th July, in Chota Nagpur on the 3rd and 5th July, and in Bihar on the 5th July; there were individual falls on three other days in Orissa, on two other days in Chota Nagpur, and on four other days in Bihar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Nearly general rain fell in the east of the Central Provinces on the 29th June and 2nd, 4th and 5th July, with a few falls on two other days. Rainfall was local in the east of the United Provinces on the 29th and 30th June, and in Central India East on the 3rd July. In the west of the Central Provinces there were scattered falls on six days. In Central India West and the plains in the west of the United Provinces there was no rain.

Northwest India.—The week was rainless except for a light fall at Surat, Rajkot and Sonamarg, and for three falls aggregating 0·82″ at Simla.

The Peninsula.—Nearly general rain fell in the Konkan between the 30th June and 5th July, in Malabar on the 1st and 4th July, and in north Hyderabad on the 5th July; and local rain on one other day in the Konkan, on four other days in Malabar, and on three other days in north Hyderabad. Rainfall was local in south Hyderabad on the 30th June and 1st, 2nd and 5th July, in Mysore on the 3rd and 5th July, in Southeast Madras on the 3rd July, and on the north Madras coast between 2nd and 5th July; there were individual falls on one other day in south Hyderabad, on three other days in Mysore, and on five other days in southeast Madras.

Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 2nd July, 1921.

Burma.—No rainfall was reported from Pakokku, Sagaing, Upper Chindwin, Yamethin, Meiktila and Myingyan but it was general elsewhere, being moderate in Lower Burma and light in Upper Burma. Agricultural operations for the main rice crop are progressing normally. In Upper Burma sowing of sesamum, maize, groundnut, cotton and autumn rice continues. Standing crops are in good condition except in parts of the dry zone. Livestock are generally healthy. The price of unhusked rice has advanced from Rs. 225-230 and that of white rice (specials) is quoted at Rs. 570-590 per hundred baskets.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Plucking of tea, transplanting of autumn rice and ploughing and transplanting of winter rice are in progress. Harvesting of broadcast autumn rice has commenced. Prospects of crops except those of jute are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The price of common rice continues to rise slightly.

Bengal.—Seasonable rain fell throughout the Province. Ploughing for and transplantation of winter paddy are in progress. More rain is wanted for agricultural operations in parts of western Bengal. Sowing of broadcast autumn paddy is finished. Prospects of standing crops are generally reported to be fair. The price of rice is almost stationary.

Bihar and Orissa.—The rainfall during the week was general over the Province the fall being heavy in parts of Shahabad and Sambalpur, moderate in parts of Darbhanga, the Santal Parganas, Angul and Ranchi and light in the rest of the Province. Sowing of autumn crops continues. Standing crops are doing well. 5,421 persons received gratuitous relief in Puri. The price of common rice has risen in six districts, fallen in five and remained stationary in the remainder. The average price of local common rice at headquarters was 5·97 seers a rupee against 5·98 seers in the preceding week and that of maize was 7·7 seers against 7·81 seers in the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from ten districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur is good.

United Provinces.—Light to moderate rain fell throughout the Province, though the fall was very unevenly distributed. More rain is required. Preparation of land for and sowing of autumn crops continue. Standing crops are in good condition. Prospects are favourable. The condition of agricultural stock is generally good but some cattle disease still exists in a number of districts. Fodder, water and market supplies are mostly sufficient. Prices tend to rise in places.

The weekly report on scarcity in Mirzapur is as follows :—Rainfall in cents :—Mirzapur 12, Chunar 93, Robertsganj 203, Ahraura 50 and Dudhi 67. More rain is urgently required. Dry west wind was universal during the week. Sowing of autumn crops and preparation of fields for its sowing continue except at Robertsganj. Conditions will rapidly become critical unless renewed rain sets in early. Cattle disease is reported from pargana Barhar. Fodder and water supplies are fair on the whole. The rain in June has increased grass supply. Market supplies are sufficient in the north. In the south west of Dudhi transport is being arranged as far as practicable by pack bullocks. Market rates :—Wheat 5, barley 8, rice 5, juar 7, Bajra 6, gram 6 and dal arhar 5 seers per rupee. Gram and juar are the staple grains. Price basis :—Upraudh 7, Barhar 7, Bijaigarh-Agori north of the Son 6, Agori south of the Son east of the Kanhar 6½ and Agori south of the Son west of the Kanhar 6, Dudhi east of the Kanhar 5½, between the Kanhar and the Rihand 5 and west of the Rihand 4 seers. List of gratuitous relief is being overhauled and expanded. Distribution of takavi has been practically completed. The number of persons relieved on test works was 370, in poor-houses 176 and gratuitously 8,851, total on Government relief 9,397. Labouring and cultivating classes are mostly affected in the south where the distress is increasing. One of the test works has been closed as local rain at the place has stopped possibility of work. The other works might close soon if renewed rainfall occurs. Crime figures are low. There is no perceptible wandering or immigration. Speaking generally no real case of emaciation is apparent. Cholera continues in rural and urban areas. Requisite precautions are being taken to combat the epidemic. No cases from influenza are reported. Labouring and cultivating classes are well off in the north but they are poor in the south. The physical condition of the people on relief is good. There are no epidemics on works or in poor-houses. Medical arrangements are sufficient. Clothing for the needy of the south is being arranged by private charity as also further subscriptions for running expenses of the Sadr poor-house.

Punjab.—Light rain fell in parts of nearly all the reporting districts. Rain though useful was quite insufficient and more is badly needed. Standing extra spring and autumn crops are generally about average on irrigated lands, much below average on unirrigated areas and withering in several districts. Sowings of cotton, fodder and other autumn crops continue and are generally below normal. Extra spring crops are being reaped. The expected yield is below normal. Cattle are generally weak owing to overwork and scarcity of fodder. Drinking water is scarce in some districts. Prices have advanced slightly in some districts and are stationary in others. Prices of wheat and barley are generally between warning and scarcity rates and of other foodgrains at or above scarcity rate. Stocks of foodgrains are generally sufficient. Price of wheat :—Rawalpindi 5¼, Ambala 5 $\frac{9}{16}$, Ferozepore and Lahore 5¾ and Lyallpur 6 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Light rain fell in one district. More rain is badly wanted throughout the Province. Maise is being sown in places. Prospects of standing crops are generally bad and great scarcity of fodder and water prevails in some parts. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at 5$\frac{1}{16}$ seers and in Dehra Ismail Khan 5 seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Rain slight. Prices are stationary. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—The week was generally hot, cloudy and slightly rainy. Spring crops are being reaped. Water is sufficient in the Baramula district but insufficiency is felt in the Anantnag district. No cattle disease is reported. Prices are high.

Baluchistan.—Good rain fell during the week at Kahan in the Marri country. Ordinary rain but insufficient for autumn sowings fell at Spintangi, Dirgi and Jhatpat in the Sibi district and Punga, Waha and Tor circles in Bori tahsil and in certain places in Duki in the Loralai district. Four villages in Zirrah and Mekrtar circles in Bori, some parts in Barkhan and Toisardrug and Kingri circles in Musakhel are reported to have received sufficient rain for autumn sowings. Few showers are reported in the Sherani country and at Lakaband and Murga in the Zhob district. Some Zhob tribesmen are reported leaving Bori for Zhob owing to news of rain. Famine is acute and increasing in the Chagai district which has now been declared a famine area. Scarcity is tightening everywhere in Zhob. Also in the Achakzai country and in Segi, Killa, Abdulla and Barshore circles of Quetta Pishin where no rain has fallen and no hope of improvement can be looked for from autumn crops. Irrigated crops in the Quetta subdivision have suffered heavily from dry winds and birds. In many mahals only anna crop is expected. 419 men are working on Nushki-Kharan road and 340 men and 83 boys at Kahan. Prices of staple grain are varying from 3 to 6 seers per rupee. In the neighbourhood of Quetta there were 25 cases of cholera resulting in 11 deaths.

Rajputana.—Rainfall varying from 5 to 224 cents fell during the week. More rain badly needed almost everywhere. The sky was cloudy at times. Preparation of land for autumn crops continues. Sowing operations have commenced in Tonk, Merwara, Shahpura and in parts of Jodhpur. The condition of cattle remained unchanged. Fodder and water scarcity exists in parts of Bikaner, Tonk, Kotah and Jhalawar. Water is scanty in Marwar and in northern Banswara. Cholera is still prevailing in Kotah and Jhalawar. Prices are stationary except in Kotah, Jhalawar, Dugarpur and Banswara where rise is reported.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was partial in Bhopal, Bundelkhand and the Southern States and nil elsewhere. The fall was insufficient in Indore, Barwani and Alirajpur. Preparation of land for autumn crops is in progress in Bundelkhand, Barwani and Jobat. Sowing continues except in some parts of Indore, Jobat and Barwani where it has been stopped for want of rain. In Alirajpur the sowing has been retarded. Weeding has commenced in Manpur. Autumn crops are withering in Rutlam and Barwani for want of rain. The condition of agricultural stock is unsatisfactory in Indore, Rutlam and Piploda, bad in Alirajpur and fair to good elsewhere. Fodder is insufficient in Indore, Rutlam, Piploda and Jobat. Prices are high. Baghelkhand report not received.

The weekly report on famine in Rewa is as follows:—The number of persons on works was 1,250, and in receipt of gratuitous relief 8,775. Poor-houses had 880 inmates. Owing to setting in of rains people are engaged in preparing land and sowing autumn crops. Eleven inches of rain fell on the 27th of June at Mangang. Relief will be stopped in northern tahsil at the end of July.

Gwalior.—The rain during the week was partial and insufficient. Agricultural operations including cotton sowing have commenced in some districts. Fodder is still scarce. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Central Provinces.—Light to moderate rain fell in the northern districts, Nagpur country and Chhattisgarh, nowhere exceeding 5½ inches. Except Narsinghpur and Buldana the districts of the Nerbudda and Berar divisions received practically no rain. Sowings for autumn crops are in full swing and germination is generally successful. The condition of cattle is fair to good except in Buldana. Fodder is still dear or scarce in Saugor, Hoshangabad, Chindwara and Betul. There are no marked variations in prices of foodgrains.

Feudatory States:—Moderate to heavy rain fell in the States. Sowings continue.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Good rain was received in the eastern and northern districts except Damoh but a break in the Nagpur and Berar divisions has caused anxiety. Sowings of autumn crops continue. The number of persons on works showed further slight decrease from 65,590 to 63,280. Relief works have been closed in Amraoti and are being closed elsewhere as necessity for their continuance disappears. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief has increased from 48,626 to 49,884. Mortality cotninued high in Damoh owing to cholera which is subsiding in other districts. The public health is otherwise fair. Distribution of takavi still continues in a few districts. Prices continue to rise slowly. Import of foodstuff continues wherever necessary. Scarcity of water and fodder is disappearing. Private kitchens in Chhattisgarh and private charity in Berar continue to give relief.

Bombay.—The rainfall during the week was partial and generally insufficient. More rain is badly needed. Sowing continues in parts but has been generally retarded. Germinating of seedlings is fair. Slight rain fell in Sind, where low water level in canals is retarding transplantation. Fodder is sufficient except in parts of Karachi, Nawabshah, Sukkur, Thar and Parkar, Gujarat, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur. Drinking water is adequate except in parts of Broach, the Deccan, the Karnatak, Kolhapur and Kathiawar. Water for irrigation is generally deficient. Cattle are in good condition except in Thar and Parkar, Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Bijapur. Prices are rising.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Number of works in progress:—Broach 7, the Panch Mahals 9, Ahmednagar 7, Poona 5, Sholapur 1, Satara 2 and Bijapur 10.

One private poor house is progressing in Ahmednagar. Gratuitous relief to the decrepit and the needy and dole to inferior village servants continue. Number on relief :—workers—the Panch Mahals 1,977, Broach 1,157, Ahmednagar 19,328, Poona 2,348, Sholapur 5,319, Satara 551, Bijapur 24,666; dependants—Ahmednagar 7,416, Sholapur 1,680, Bijapur 10,383; gratuitous—the Panch Mahals 2,345, Broach 1,911, West Khandesh 2,303, Ahmednagar 24,465, Poona 3,036, Sholapur 8,628, Satara 3,273, Bijapur 4,967 and Belgaum 3,315. The condition of the people on works and in receipt of dole is good. Fodder is scarce. Demand for Government grass continues. Cattle in camps are thriving. Cactus fodder operations are progressing. Drinking water supply is insufficient and measures for its improvement continue. Takavi is being given freely.

Hyderabad.—Slight and isolated showers were received during the week. The average fall for the dominions was 14 cents. Autumn sowings continue except in parts of the Gulbarga and Mominabad district. Cattle disease is reported in parts of the Aurangabad, Raichur, Usmanabad and Warangal districts. Prices of grains continue to be high and almost stationary. Fodder is still scarce in parts of almost all districts. Water is scarce in parts of Aurangabad and Raichur.

The weekly report on famine is as follows :—Distress still continues. The number of persons on relief is fluctuating. Relief works and poor-houses continue in the affected parts. Cheap grain shops remain established in Hyderabad City. Prices of foodstuffs have fallen. Juar is selling at 3¾ seers to 8 and rice at 2¾ to 4½ seers per rupee. Number on relief in thousands :— Works 60, gratuitous 42, total 102.

Mysore.—Rainfall nil in Chitaldrug and light elsewhere. Prices of foodgrains are steady. Markets are fairly well supplied. Standing crops are in fair condition. Ploughing and sowing are in progress. Paddy, ragi and sugarcane are sown in parts. Prospects of the season are fair but more rain is needed in the Kolar, Tumkar and Shimoga districts. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The rainfall during the week was light. Ploughing and sowing of seeds for rice continue. Water and fodder for cattle are available. Cattle are generally healthy. The public health is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was heavy in the Agency division and in South Kanara, moderate in Ganjam and Vizagapatam, nil in Godavari, Kurnool and Madras and light to fair elsewhere. Standing crops are fair generally but have withered or are withering in parts of Ganjam, Vizagapatam and Anantapur and require rain in parts of Kurnool, Bellary and Anantapur. The outturn of the harvested paddy and dry crops in parts of fifteen districts is generally fair. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding in parts of twenty one districts. The condition of cattle is good generally. Water is sufficient in parts generally. Pasture and fodder are sufficient generally except in parts of the Circars and the Deccan. Prices are stationary. Prospects are unfavourable in parts of Vizagapatam, doubtful in parts of Kurnool and fair elsewhere. Two test works are in progress in Kurnool with an attendance of 1,335 units.

The weekly report on famine in Bellary and Anantapur is as follows:—Four relief works are in progress in Bellary and five in Anantapur. Distress is moderate. Coolie classes are mostly affected. People are freely resorting to works. There is no marked foreign influx. The condition of the people on relief and the public health are generally fair. No emaciation is noticeable. Relief measures are adequate. No relief to weavers and artizans is necessary now. Need for private charitable relief for clothing is felt and is being met in Anantapur. State loans are being advanced. Prices of cholam :—Bellary 6·4 and Anantapur 6·5 seers per rupee. Number on relief :—Bellary—works 10,572 and gratuitous 2,249, total 12,821; Anantapur—works 7,522, gratuitous 3,505, total 11,027.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

Report of the operations of the Staff Selection Board, September 1st 1920—March 31st 1921.

The Staff Selection Board was created under the Home Department Resolution No. 2243 of August 30th and No. 2366 of the 15th September 1920, for the purpose of recruiting the clerical establishment of the Government of India and certain of the attached offices and to fix and from time to time revise the educational and other qualifications required of candidates for either division of the offices with which they were concerned, and to prepare annual lists of approved candidates for admission to these offices, selecting them by means of qualifying examinations and interviews.

2. The Board commenced working on the 30th August 1920.

CHAIRMAN.—SIR J. H. DUBOULAY, K.C.I.E., C.S.I.

MEMBERS. —THE HON'BLE MR. J. A. RICHEY, C.I.E.

THE HON'BLE DR. ZIA-UD-DIN AHMAD, C.I.E.

MR. R. J. WATSON.

3. Mr. J. D. V. Hodge was appointed Secretary to the Board, and sanction was accorded to the entertainment of a clerk on Rs. 150. Later, as the result of the increase and development of the work the pay of the clerk was raised to Rs. 200 and one clerk on Rs. 150 was temporarily added. During the period before the first examination, when the office work was extremely heavy, the Board were very grateful for the help of three additional clerks lent by the Reforms Department.

4. From the time when the Board began work till November, when they commenced their tour, their office was located at Simla in the house known as Beverley.

5. The first meeting of the Board, attended by all the members named above, was held on the 1st September 1920, and for a short time the Board sat daily to consider one by one the recommendations contained in the Government of India Resolution and to decide how each should be carried into effect.

6. Mr. R. J. Watson had been a member of the Secretariat Procedure Committee on whose recommendation the Staff Selection Board had been constituted; and his knowledge of the intentions of the Committee together with the intimate acquaintance with the working of a Secretariat have proved of the greatest value to the Board.

7. It was decided at the outset that for the first year of the Board's work the educational qualifications required of the candidates should be the degree of a university for the upper division, and the passing of the intermediate examination for the lower division; and that from European and Anglo-Indian candidates who had not been to a university the passing of the Senior Local Cambridge or equivalent examinations should be demanded. The 25 years age limit was retained. These qualifications were not, however, required of men already employed in the offices for which the Board was recruiting.

8. When considering the preparation of a list of approved candidates the Board found two distinct classes of candidates to be provided for, namely (a) outside candidates for admission to the Secretariat, who before the Board's creation would have submitted applications direct to the Secretary or Registrar of the Department they wished to enter, and (b) men already employed in the Secretariat or Attached Offices on a temporary footing who desired to secure permanent employment. As a result partly of pending re-organisation in some Departments and partly of the numerous posts created for war needs or other special purposes the number of men in this category was surprisingly large.

Appendix. 9. In order to draw the attention of prospective outside candidates to the changed system of recruitment and to widen the field from which recruits might be obtained a notification* was drawn up, which explained the Board's position, the nature of the posts to be recruited for and the qualifications required of candidates, and gave detailed instructions as to the method in which applications were to be made. The 1st October was fixed as the last date for receiving applications. This notification, which is reproduced in the Appendix to this report, was widely advertised in the Press.

10. In this regard the Board desires to tender its thanks for the assistance very kindly rendered by Mr. K. C. Roy of the Associated Press.

11. The number of applications from outsiders received in time was 1548, of whom those who appeared to possess the necessary qualifications and had observed the instructions given in the notification, numbering 1001, were placed upon the Board's preliminary list and called for examination.

12. In the meantime the Board had addressed the Departments of the Government of India with a view to obtaining information regarding the men already employed in their offices whose qualifications required to be tested by the Board. These included not only men employed on a temporary footing who aimed at securing permanent posts, but also, in view of article 26 of the Resolution of the 15th September, men holding permanent posts in the lower division whose claims for promotion were to be considered before the system of recruitment to the upper division was changed. It was decided that the examination set these men should be framed on the same lines as that prescribed for outside candidates. The number of men coming before the Board in this manner was largely increased by the adherence of the Army Department and Army Headquarters to the scheme: it was on the other hand lessened by the exclusion not only of certain of the Attached Offices for which recruitment by the Board was declared to be unnecessary (article 30 of the Resolution), but also, for the first year at least, of those which were situated away from the headquarters of Government.

13. The total number of Government of India (Civil Secretariat) candidates examined was 335, and included men from the following offices:—

Railway Department.

Director-General, Indian Medical Service.

Department of Commerce.

Home Department.

Reforms Department.

Public Works Department.

Director, Intelligence Bureau.

Department of Education.

Board of Industries and Munitions.

Legislative Department.

Department of Revenue and Agriculture.

Educational Commissioner with the Government of India.

...of the Board's ...ations. Article 20 of the Resolution left it to the Staff Selection Board to decide whether the interviewing of candidates or the qualifying examination should come first. The procedure thought most convenient was that an examination should first be held of all those on the preliminary list, and that the Board should then interview those only who acquitted themselves with credit at the examination, ruling out at once those whose results showed inferior attainments.

14. In view of the nature of the work done in the offices for which they were to select staff four tests were determined on, (a) the preparation of a précis and an index of a series of official letters taken from a file, (b) the correction of a page of English containing mistakes of vocabulary, idiom and grammar and misspellings, (c) the preparation of a draft letter from a typical office note, and (d) a paper on general knowledge. These tests were put into two papers of three hours each.

15. The Board set the papers themselves, but appointed separate examiners in Simla to go through and mark the results.

16. In order to suit the convenience of outside candidates it was decided to hold the examination simultaneously at the most important provincial centres. As the Board have no machinery of their own for conducting examinations away from headquarters the arrangements were made in consultation with Directors of Public Instruction, who nominated supervisors. The examination papers were despatched to the supervisors direct.

Examination of outside candidates.

17. The examination for outside candidates was held in the different centres on the 14th October 1920.

The number of candidates appearing at each centre was as follows:—

Simla	47
Lahore	220
Delhi	124
Allahabad	65
Patna	15
Calcutta	201
Dacca	64
Madras	59
Bombay	106
Nagpur	4

(Six candidates failed to appear for examination.)

18. Thanks to the assistance of the Directors of Public Instruction and supervisors the examination was successfully carried through, except in one particular, namely that certain of the candidates for posts of stenographer and typist, although present at the place of examination, failed to take the papers, being under the impression that they were required to submit to tests of technical ability only, and not to the same tests of general intelligence as other candidates. The Board had intended these candidates to take the written examination first and to examine their technical skill later when on tour, and had not foreseen this misunderstanding.

19. On the third November the candidates already in the employment of civil departments of the Government of India were examined at Simla. The papers were drawn up by the Board on exactly the same lines as those set at the previous examination, and were sent to the same examiners. The number of examinees was 335.

Examination of candidates from civil departments.

20. At this stage the Board suffered a loss in the departure of the Chairman, Sir J. H. DuBoulay, to Europe. While greatly regretting that he was unable to remain in India and preside over their work until the publication of this report the Board congratulate themselves on having had the advantage of his guidance through the earlier stage of the proceedings when future procedure was being outlined and the functions of the Board with regard to existing temporary staff were under discussion with the Departments concerned.

Changes in personnel.

21. In his place the Government of India appointed the senior Member of the Board, the Hon'ble Mr. J. A. Richey, Chairman.

22. In December Dr. Zia-ud-din Ahmad was forced to resign, to the great regret of his colleagues, by the urgency of his duties as Principal of the M. A. O. College, Aligarh, and his place was taken by Raja Narendra Nath, C.I.E., M.L.C., Punjab, who remained a member of the Board until the 27th January 1921.

23. The Board also co-opted members when necessary for special purposes. The following were co-opted in this manner:—

Diwan Bahadur L. D. Swamikannu Pillai, I.S.O., while sitting to interview candidates at Madras.

Dr. N. A. F. Moos, D.Sc. (Edin.), L.C.E., F.R.S.E., F.C.S., while sitting to interview candidates at Bombay.

The Hon'ble Nawab Abdul Majid, C.I.E., for two meetings to interview candidates at Delhi: Lieutenant-Colonel J. H. Bullen for one meeting to interview certain of the Army Department staff in Calcutta.

Miss A. Knox: for one meeting to interview lady candidates at Delhi.

Miss M. O. Cooper, Secretary, Young Women's Christian Association: for one meeting to interview lady candidates in Simla.

Touring and interviewing.

24. Leaving Simla in the second week of November 1920 the Board visited Lahore, Allahabad, Calcutta, Dacca, Madras and Bombay, returning to Delhi as their cold weather headquarters. At each of these places they interviewed those who had done sufficiently well in the written examination, and held technical examinations of stenographers and typists where candidates were forthcoming. Candidates were summoned before the Board one by one and questioned by the Chairman and Members. A system of marking was devised which recorded the joint opinion of the Board upon each man who came before them, and these marks were taken into consideration together with those secured at the written examination when it came to completing the final list of passed candidates.

Examination of typists and stenographers.

25. The tests applied to stenographers and typists were as follows:—

Stenographers:—A. To take down in shorthand a passage dictated at a speed of 120 words a minute for 10 minutes, and to transcribe it on a typewriter, 2½ hours being allowed for transcription.

B. The candidate to be given a letter, the headings of a reply to be dictated to him and a draft reply to be submitted within an hour.

C. A passage in manuscript containing a number of errors to be typed out within 30 minutes with the mistakes corrected.

D. An oral examination in the mechanics of the typewriter.

Typists:—C. and D. as above, and in addition (a) a printed or typewritten passage of 1200 words to be typed within 30 minutes; and (b) A statement in tabular form to be typed out in 30 minutes.

Preparation of final list.

26. On arrival at Delhi the Board were in a position to frame, as far as outside candidates were concerned, the final list referred to in the Government of India Resolution. Final orders were accordingly passed on the case of each candidate and lists were framed province by province in which the candidates' names stand in order of merit, together with such information as to community, character, etc., as enables the Board to choose suitable candidates when vacancies are reported. Certificates were issued to successful candidates, while the others were informed of their failure.

Number of vacancies dealt with.

27. From almost immediately after the constitution of the Board requests for approved men to fill vacancies began to come in from Departments, and these have become more numerous since the beginning of 1921. Up to the 31st March 1921 the number of vacancies which the Board were invited to fill has been 112. These vacancies are filled, so far as they are given to outside candidates, solely from the final list. The Board's practice when sending in nominations to Departments is to submit the names of more than are actually required, in order to give Departments a field for choice.

Interviews in Delhi.

28. The Board next took up in Delhi the interviewing of the Government of India candidates examined on the 3rd November. These interviews were conducted on the same general lines as those held in other parts of India. Two important differences of procedure were, however, introduced. In the first place Departments were invited to depute officers to sit with the Board as members and advise them while dealing with their office staff, and in making their final decisions in individual cases the Board considered the opinions of these officers as to the previous work and merits of each candidate. In the second place all who had appeared at the examination were interviewed whatever their results. It seemed to the Board not unreasonable to make concessions to this extent to men who had already served Government, in some cases for considerable periods. On the completion of the interviews with Government of India candidates and the discussions with departmental representatives the final decisions regarding the candidates were communicated to the Departments concerned.

Result of departmental examination.

29. 70 temporary men were found to be qualified for permanent employment in the upper division, 56 in the lower division, and 31 men holding permanent posts in the lower division were declared fitted for promotion.

17 stenographers and 61 typists were examined technically, of whom 3 stenographers and 23 typists respectively were found to be qualified.

Of the 335 men examined 149 failed to pass the Board's tests.

30. The names of qualified men of whom their Departments report that there is no likelihood of their being retained in final service are also added to the final list, and, generally speaking, in filling permanent posts preference is given to men with approved service in a Government office to their credit.

Examination of candidates from Army Headquarters.

31. The conclusion of this work left the Board in a position to deal with the staff of Army Department and Army Headquarters. These offices were brought under the Board for purposes of recruitment at their own desire, and their adherence to the new system could not be decided on and signified until arrangements for the examination of outside candidates and the staff of the civil Departments were already partially made. The information supplied regarding the examinees was not in the first instance sufficient for the Board's purposes, and by the time that complete information had been received it was already too late to digest it and arrange for their examination without postponing the Board's tour and with the tour the preparation of a final list. In any case the number of men concerned was too large to be included in one examination with the candidates from civil Departments. The work had consequently to be postponed until the Board had completed their dealings with outside candidates and civil departments. This delay had one advantage, in that it gave the Board an opportunity to examine certain men both outside and departmental who on account of sickness, leave or other causes had failed to appear at one of the previous examinations.

32. The examination was held simultaneously at Simla and Delhi and was attended by 513 candidates.

As many of these as were stationed at Delhi were interviewed with the help of departmental representatives during the days preceding and following the examination, and the usual examination was held in shorthand and typewriting. The interviewing of those who remained at Simla throughout the cold weather, the majority, was left until the Board moved up to Simla, with the Government of India, the 11th April being fixed for beginning the work.

33. On the completion of the interviews and after discussing certain individual cases with Departmental Officers the Board's final decisions were communicated to the Departments of Army Headquarters concerned.

Of the 474 candidates from the Army Headquarters who sat for the examination 78 passed for the upper division and 115 for the lower; 103 permanent lower division clerks appeared to qualify themselves for promotion to the upper division of whom 39 passed the examination; 38 typists out of 62 and one stenographer out of 20, who appeared, satisfied the Board as to their technical qualifications. Those who failed were permitted to reappear at the next examination.

96 temporary clerks failed to pass the Board's test.

Description of final list.

34. With the completion of the final list the first season of the Board's work comes to an end. It has, owing to the inclusion of large numbers of men already in employment, been very much heavier than it is likely to be in future years.

35. The final list of candidates prepared by the Board was divided into four classes—upper division; lower division; stenographers, and typists. Where a candidate for the upper division was willing to serve in an Attached Office a note to that effect was made in the list. The preliminary final list of passed outside candidates prepared by the Board contained 217 names. Of these a very small proportion expressed their willingness to serve in an Attached Office.

Description of appointments recruited for.

36. The various appointments for which the Board undertook recruitment are classified as follows:—

(a) In the Government of India Secretariat—1st Division (Assistants); 2nd Division (clerks).

(b) In Attached Offices in Simla and Delhi—Assistants; Routine clerks.

(c) In all offices—Stenographers and typists.

Having regard to the recommendation contained in the Government of India Resolution No. 2366 of September 15th, 1920 that stenographers and typists should form a separate class and the Board having reasons to believe from the information before them that the educational qualifications of the men who had taken up these studies were not usually of a high order it was ultimately decided that for the first year the selection of stenographers and typists should be determined by technical tests in shorthand and typewriting and by oral interviews.

37. With regard to Routine Clerks in Attached Offices, in view of the minimum pay offered (Rs. 75) the Board considered that the minimum educational qualification should be a pass in the intermediate examination of an Indian University. Similar qualifications were naturally accepted for 2nd division clerks in the Government of India Secretariat.

38. It followed that for Assistants the minimum qualification which could be accepted was the possession of a degree.

39. Candidates for all clerical posts were subjected to a written and oral examination by the Board, a much higher standard being required from candidates for the upper than from those for the lower division.

Necessity for a Leave Reserve.

40. A question which the Board wishes to bring to the immediate attention of Government is the need for establishing a leave reserve in every office. The lack of such a reserve from which arrangements can be made for carrying on work during short leave vacancies has added enormously to the work of the Board. At present every vacancy however short for which an incumbent is required has to be reported to the Board. There is sometimes difficulty and delay in securing a recruit for a short temporary vacancy. It is obviously not every man, nor is it probably the best man, who will care to come in the first instance to fill a vacancy which is only expected to last six weeks or two months. When a man has come up to Simla on the Board's recommendation to accept such an appointment the Board feel that it is incumbent on them to do what they can to find him further officiating employment until a permanent vacancy occurs for which he is suited. There are now some forty nominees of the Board officiating in temporary vacancies of varying duration. It is unnecessary to explain the complications which inevitably result. With the establishment of a leave reserve these difficulties would disappear, and the work of the Board which would concern itself only with permanent or long leave vacancies would be very appreciably lightened.

Importance of a uniform procedure for recruitment.

41. There is another matter to which the Board wishes to refer. It was evident from interpellations which were addressed to Government during the last sittings of the Imperial Legislature that the activities of the Staff Selection Board were of considerable interest to members of the public. The Board feels that the full benefit of those activities in the direction of greater economy and greater efficiency can only be realised if the procedure for recruitment prescribed by the Government of India in its Resolution No. 2366 of 15th September, 1920 is strictly followed by all concerned. If this condition is not fulfilled (and it has not been entirely fulfilled hitherto) it will be impossible for the Board to establish its reputation as an impartial body working in the interests not only of Departments but also of the clerical establishment itself, a reputation which is essential to the success of its operations.

APPENDIX.

Staff Selection Board.

In their Resolution No. 2213, dated the 30th August 1920, the Government of India in the Home Department have, in pursuance of the report of the Government of India Secretariat Procedure Committee, constituted a Staff Selection Board to take charge of recruitment for the Departments of the Government of India and the various offices attached to those Departments, whether situated at the headquarters of the central Government or elsewhere.

The posts for which the Board will recruit are of all kinds, including upper and lower division posts and posts of typist, stenographer, &c. The pay of the posts will of course vary with their nature, but the scales of pay are roughly as follows :—

Secretariat—

First Division, Rs. 175—500.

Second Division, Rs. 80—350.

Attached Offices, Simla and Delhi—

Assistants, Rs. 120—350.

Routine Clerks, Rs. 75—200.

There are further prospects for men of special ability.

The number of vacancies in the coming year, for which the Board will recruit at the outset, has not yet been estimated, and will if possible be published before the examinations take place.

In all cases appointments are subject to a period of probation, which will ordinarily extend to one year.

Candidates for appointment should apply at once to the Secretary, Staff Selection Board, Beverley, Simla, and the following points should be noted :—

(a) The minimum educational qualifications, as fixed provisionally, are, for Indian candidates for upper division appointments both in the Secretariat and attached offices the degree of a university, for lower division appointments the intermediate examination of an Indian university, for Anglo-Indian or European candidates for all posts the Senior Local Cambridge or equivalent examination.

Applications from candidates with qualifications inferior to these will not be entertained.

(b) No candidate will be appointed who is over 25 years of age when the vacancy is filled.

(c) Applications must be submitted in the special form approved by the Board, copy of which is attached. Full instructions (which must be carefully followed) are given on the form. No copies whatever of testimonials or other papers are to be attached to or forwarded with the form except in accordance with these instructions.

(d) Applications not received by the 1st October cannot be considered for vacancies arising in 1921.

The Board will hold a qualifying examination of prima facie suitable candidates whose applications are received within the time stated. The examination will not be of a scholastic nature, but will aim at testing the candidate's general intelligence and knowledge of English. Thus he will be expected to be able to prepare a subject index of a few papers and to write a précis of their contents, and to draft a letter. Stenographers will be expected to pass a test in shorthand writing and typewriting and typists in typewriting from manuscript.

The examination will be held simultaneously probably at Lahore, Allahabad, Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Nagpur, Delhi and such other centres as may be decided on. It will consist of two papers of three hours each and will be completed in one day.

Each candidate will be charged a fee of Rs. 2 to be forwarded by money order at the same time as his application.

After considering the results of the examination the Board will, before making a final selection, visit the more important centres and interview all candidates who have qualified in the written examination. No candidate will be appointed who has not satisfied the Board of his suitability at an interview.

It is expected that the written examination will be held about the middle of October, and that the Board's tour will start towards the end of that month.

Exact dates and places will be communicated to candidates later.

STAFF SELECTION BOARD.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING UP THE FORM BELOW.

Printed copies of this form will not be issued. Candidates must copy it out in their own handwriting, fill it in and return it so as to reach Secretary, Staff Selection Board, Beverley, Simla, by the 1st October 1920.

Applications must be forwarded through the Principal of the College in which the candidate studied, or, in the case of his having taken up employment since leaving the university, through the Head of the Firm or Office in which he is now working or last worked. A certificate (for which a space is provided) will be required from the gentleman forwarding the application to the effect that, to the best of his knowledge, the statements made in the application are correct. A space is also provided for any remarks he may have to make regarding the candidate's character or ability.

A medical certificate must be attached to the form signed by a Presidency or Civil Surgeon. The certificate must have been granted within six months from the date of the application. No papers whatever besides this are to be attached.

Warning.—Any attempt on the part of a candidate to enlist support for his application through influential persons will disqualify him for appointment. The Board will disregard spontaneous recommendations from persons not personally acquainted with the candidate's work, whether at school, at the university or otherwise.

Should any of the particulars furnished be found to be false within the knowledge of the candidate, he will, if appointed, be liable to be dismissed and if otherwise entitled to any Pension or Allowance, he will forfeit all claim thereto. The wilful suppression of any material fact will be similarly punished.

REMARKS.

In 82 of the principal towns in the various provinces in India with a population of over 30,000 and with an aggregate population of 7,911,172 6,678 deaths were recorded during the week ending the 1st January 1921. This corresponds to an annual death rate of 43·9 per mille.

76 of the towns for which figures are available registered 3,997 births corresponding to an annual birth-rate of 32·6 per thousand.

In the same towns 1,472 deaths were recorded.

The following of the towns returned a death rate of over 50 per mille:—

Delhi city (55·81), Maniktala (57·06), Puri (52·1), Lahore (54), Rawalpindi (59), Nagpur (79·16), Amraoti (53·11), Bezwada (59·6), Madras (56·6), Madura (66·7), Palamcottah (74·1), Tuticorin (77·6), Salem (92·3), Bombay (55·85), Poona (66·52), Sholapur (50·01) and Ahmadabad (72·39).

In Puri, Lahore, Nagpur and Amritsar the chief mortality was from fevers; in Delhi, Maniktala, Calcutta, Bombay, Poona and Ahmadabad from respiratory diseases; in Madras from dysentery and diarrhœa and in Madura and Salem from plague.

Cholera was responsible for 63 deaths, small-pox for 16 and plague for 82. Of the total mortality from cholera 53 deaths were reported from eight towns in Bengal Presidency and of the total deaths from plague 21 were recorded in Darbhanga, 38 in Madura, 70 in Salem and 24 in Coimbatore.

SIMLA, TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1921.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 12th July, 1921.

An Ordinance to prohibit certain transactions in order to give effect to the provisions of the Treaty of Peace made at Trianon on the fourth day of June, 1920.

WHEREAS an emergency has arisen which makes it expedient, for the purpose of enabling effect to be given to the provisions of the Treaty of Peace made at Trianon on the fourth day of June, 1920, to prohibit certain transactions;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 72 of the Government of India Act, the Governor General is pleased to make and promulgate the following Ordinance:—

ORDINANCE No. I OF 1921.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Ordinance may be called the Treaty of Peace (Hungary) Ordinance, 1921.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan, the Sonthal Parganas, the District of Angul, the Shan States and the Pargana of Spiti; and it applies also to—

(a) all British and Indian subjects of His Majesty within any State in India; and

(b) all servants of His Majesty, whether British subjects or not, within any State in India.

(3) It shall come into force on the date on which the Treaty comes into force.

Definitions.

2. In this Ordinance, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "custodian" means a custodian of enemy property appointed under the Enemy Trading Act, 1915; XIV of 1915

(b) "enemy debt" means any pecuniary obligation of the kind referred to in the first paragraph of Article 231 of the Treaty, as set out in the Schedule, and includes any sum which under the Treaty has to be treated or dealt with in like manner as an enemy debt;

(c) "national" in relation to any State includes the subjects of that State and any company or corporation incorporated therein according to the law of that State, and, in the case of a Protectorate, the natives thereof; and "British national in India" includes any person being a British national who resides or carries on business in India and any subject of a State in India; and

(d) "the Treaty" means the Treaty of Peace with Hungary made and signed on behalf of His Majesty at Trianon on the fourth day of June, 1920, together with all Protocols annexed thereto.

3. All property, rights and interests belonging to nationals of the former Kingdom of Hungary at the date when the Treaty comes into force (not being property, rights or interests acquired under any general licence issued by or on behalf of His Majesty) and the net proceeds of their sale, liquidation or other dealings therewith are hereby charged—

Creation of charge on enemy property.

(a) in the first place, with the payment of the amounts due in respect of claims by British nationals in India with regard to their property, rights and interests, including companies and associations in which they are interested in the territories of the former Kingdom of Hungary or debts owing to them by Hungarian nationals, and with the payment of any compensation which may hereafter be awarded by any Tribunal which may be set up under or in pursuance of the terms of the Treaty or by any arbitrator appointed by any such Tribunal and with payment of claims growing out of acts committed by the former Austro-Hungarian Government or by Hungarian authorities since the twenty-eighth day of July and before the twelfth day of August, 1914;

(b) secondly, with payments of the amounts due in respect of claims by British nationals in India with regard to their property, rights and interests in the territories of Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, in so far as those claims are not otherwise satisfied; and

(c) thirdly, with payments of amounts due in respect of claims by any British nationals of the nature referred to in clauses (a) and (b):

Provided that any particular property, rights or interests so charged may at any time be released from the charge so created by order of the Governor General in Council.

4. (1) No person shall, without the consent of the custodian appointed for the Province in which such person resides or carries on business, transfer, part with or otherwise deal in any property, right or interest which has become subject to a charge by virtue of section 3.

Prohibition of transactions in enemy property.

(2) Any person contravening the provisions of this section shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to three years, or with fine or with both.

5. No suit or other legal proceeding shall lie in any Court of law for the recovery of any enemy debt.

Prohibition of legal proceedings for recovery of enemy debts.

6. No Court shall take cognisance of any offence punishable under this Ordinance, unless the Local Government has, by order in writing, consented to the initiation of the proceedings.

Cognisance of offences against the Ordinance.

7. If His Majesty is pleased to make an Order in Council for the purpose of giving effect to the Treaty, then from the date of such Order this Ordinance shall be repealed.

Ordinance to stand repealed if Order in Council is made.

THE SCHEDULE.

[See section 2 (b).]

The following are the classes of pecuniary obligations referred to in the first paragraph of Article 231 of the Treaty:—

(1) Debts payable before the war and due by a national of one of the Contracting Powers, residing within its territory, to a national of an Opposing Power, residing within its territory;

(2) Debts which became payable during the war to nationals of one Contracting Power residing within its territory and arose out of transactions or contracts with the nationals of an Opposing Power, resident within its territory, of which the total or partial execution was suspended on account of the existence of a state of war;

(3) Interest which has accrued due before and during the war to a national of one of the Contracting Powers in respect of securities issued or taken over by an Opposing Power, provided that the payment of interest on such securities to the nationals of that Power or to neutrals has not been suspended during the war;

(4) Capital sums which have become payable before and during the war to nationals of one of the Contracting Powers in respect of securities issued by one of the Opposing Powers, provided that the payment of such capital sums to nationals of that Power or to neutrals has not been suspended during the war.

NORTHERN INDIA SALT REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Agra, the 1st July 1921.

No. 80.—In supersession of all previous notifications in the Northern India Salt Revenue Department on the same subject the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, is pleased to publish the following rules regulating the receipt of revenue for, and the issue and delivery on behalf of Government of salt (other than salt issued to farodis, banjaras and to certain Darbars under treaty), from the Rajputana sources of the Sambhar Lake, Didwana and Pachbadra, and the Punjab sources of Khewra, Warcha and Kalabagh.

1. Applications for salt from the above-mentioned sources will be accepted only from agents authorised in this behalf in respect of the various British districts and Indian States, or when made by or on behalf of Government or the military authorities or by a person specially authorised in this behalf by the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue; and shall be subject to the conditions hereinafter specified.

2. Applications will be received only at treasuries and post offices specially authorised in this behalf by the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue.

3. Applications from an authorised agent will be accepted only at such treasury or post-office and only in respect of such kind of salt and up to such amount as may be specified in the agreement under which such agent was appointed.

Applications from the military authorities will be accepted only at the treasuries authorised in this behalf as specified in the appendix to these rules.

Applications from any person specially authorised will be accepted only at such treasury or post office as the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, may designate.

4. Applications in respect of salt from the sources of the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha shall be accepted only for salt to be loaded and despatched by the Department, and in respect of salt from the sources of Didwana and Kalabagh only for salt to be removed from the storeyard by the indenter himself or his agent.

5. An applicant shall, at the time of presenting his application, pay the charges specified in rule 9, provided that when the aforesaid charges are paid into a post office a fee of two annas on each hundred rupees upon the amount thereof (subject to a minimum fee of ten annas in respect of each application) shall be paid at the same time.

6. All applications shall be made in the appropriate prescribed form of indent attached to these rules (procurable free of charge at all places authorised to receive salt revenue) the indent portion of which shall be filled in in duplicate and shall contain full and accurate particulars on all matters in regard to which information is required therein, including in the case of indents for salt from the sources of the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra or Warcha, the route by which the salt is to be dispatched, if not by the cheapest route.

7. No indent on the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra or Warcha shall be filled in for a less quantity of salt than one wagon-load*: all indents shall be in units of wagon-loads and not more than ten wagon-loads shall be indented for on a single indent form. No indent on Didwana or Kalabagh shall be filled in for a less quantity of salt than 100 maunds.

* At Sambhar and Pachbadra a wagon-load in all is 267½ maunds. At Khewra and Warcha it is 500 or 600 maunds at the option of the indenter.

8. Indents are non-transferable, and in the case of indents on the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha no change of destination or other details of consignment shall be permitted after an indent has been received in the salt source.

9. The Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha. The charges referred to in rule 5 are the duty on and price of the salt at the rates respectively fixed and in force on the day when payment is made as aforesaid, together with the cost of bags to hold the salt at such rates as may be fixed by the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, from time to time, and all charges made in connexion with bagging, weighing, loading and dispatching the salt. Provided that in place of paying the cost of the bags the indenter may enter in the space provided for this purpose in the form of indent the name of a local agent resident in the salt source by whom the bags will be delivered for marking and filling at such place and on such date and by such hour as may be notified to such agent by the officer in charge of the source: the bags for all consignments covered by a single indent shall be provided in the same manner, and it shall not be open to an indenter to pay the cost of the bags of one such consignment and not of another.

Except as prescribed in this rule no bags shall be accepted by the Department for indenters' consignments. Provided always that, in the case of military and other Government indents for which the indenting authority desires to supply bags, the bags of such authority may be accepted and utilised for the clearance of the consignment.

The number of bags required for a wagon-load of the Sambhar Lake or Pachbadra salt is 107. In the case of Khewra and Warcha rock salt which is not weighed by the bag the number of bags required for a wagon-load varies. For Khewra and Warcha salt payment shall be made for 230 bags in respect of a wagon-load of 500 maunds, and for 280 bags in respect of a wagon-load of 600 maunds. The cost of extra bags used, if any, in excess of either number will be recovered by dispatch of the consignment value-payable for the amount due for such extra bags.

Didwana and Kalabagh. The charges referred to in rule 5 are the duty on and price of the salt at the rates respectively fixed and in force on the day when payment is made as aforesaid.

10. If subsequent to the date of payment and prior to the dispatch of the salt to the consignee any alteration in the rates of duty or price, or both, specified in rule 9 shall come into force, the duty and price in respect of such salt shall become payable at the rates so altered. The amount, if any, that may become payable in consequence of such alteration in excess of the amount already paid shall be paid by the applicant prior to the dispatch of the salt in the same manner as before, or otherwise as prescribed by rules. If payment is made into a post office, a fee at the rate and subject to the minimum prescribed in rule 5 shall be paid at the same time. The amount, if any, which may have been paid by the applicant in excess of the payment due under the altered rates shall be refunded to him.

11. On payment of salt revenue the officer receiving the money shall give the person tendering it a receipt specifying the amount of revenue and other authorised charges deposited and, in the case of a treasury, the number and date of the treasury receipt or, in the case of a post office, the number and date of the indent and the name of the source in regard to which the revenue was deposited. Where payment has been made in a treasury, the treasury officer shall by the same day's post dispatch, in the case of the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra and Khewra, to the Assistant Commissioner or in the case of Didwana, Warcha and Kalabagh to the Superintendent in charge, in a registered cover, foils 2 and 3 of the prescribed combined form of indent and receipt duly completed, together with an advice of the day's receipts of salt revenue as also of any payments made and accepted under rule 10. Where payment has been made into a post office, the receiving officer shall dispose of the indent in the manner prescribed in the rules for post offices.

Provided that in the case of a payment into a treasury of salt revenue by cheque under the provisions of the Resolution of the Government of India in the Finance Department, No. 26-A, dated the 13th January 1920, the treasury receipt portion of the combined receipt and indent form shall not be completed in the treasury until the cheque has been cleared and the final receipt delivered to the depositor, and thereafter the indent shall be forwarded to the salt source in the ordinary way.

12. The Assistant Commissioner, or in the case of Didwana, Warcha and Kalabagh the Superintendent in charge, shall compare the receipt accompanying an indent with the advice from the receiving officer and shall satisfy himself that it is correct and in order and that all charges due under rules 9 and 10 have been paid, and shall proceed as follows :—

The Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha. The circle officer under the direction of the Assistant Commissioner shall dispatch the salt, freight unpaid, to the consignee, and shall send the railway receipt by post to the consignee or other person who may have been specified in the indent.

Didwana and Kalabagh. The circle officer shall notify to the indenter or his agent the date on which his indent will come on for clearance. If the indenter or his agent fail to remove his salt on the date so notified, his indent shall be liable to cancellation and the revenue paid in respect of it to be refunded.

On the completion of the above proceedings the Assistant Commissioner shall cause to be refunded any excess payment due under rule 10.

13. The Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha. Where no payment has been made on account of bags and no local agent named in the indent, or where an agent has been named and such agent after being notified of the place, date and hour for the delivery of the bags fails to deliver them, the consignment shall be bagged in bags supplied by the Department and dispatched value-payable for the cost of the bags used plus postage and value-payable fee.

Shortage in the number of bags received from a local agent as well as bags rejected as unserviceable, not immediately made good or replaced, shall be made good from the departmental stock of bags in such numbers as may be necessary, and the consignment shall be sent value-payable for the price of the departmental bags used plus postage and value-payable fee.

Bags rejected as unserviceable which are not removed by the presenter within one month from the date of the dispatch of the consignment for which they were offered shall become the property of the Northern India Salt Department.

14. The clearance of indents shall be subject to such orders as the Commissioner may pass from time to time in regard to priority of issue ; and priority shall invariably be accorded to Government and military indents.

15. Salt will be issued as uniform in quality as possible from such stocks as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time direct, and at the Sambhar Lake, Pachbadra, Khewra and Warcha sources no indenter or indenter's agent shall be admitted to any depot or filling platform or allowed in any way to interest himself in the issue of salt.

16. Weighment and clearance may be suspended by order of the Assistant Commissioner when the weather at the source is unfavourable, and may be similarly suspended at the request of an indenter on his satisfying the Assistant Commissioner that the weather conditions at the destination of the consignment are such as to render its immediate dispatch inadvisable. For damp salt at the Rajputana sources such abatement for dryage, not exceeding 2½ per cent., shall be made as the Commissioner may at any time direct.

17. In the case of consignments dispatched by rail by the Salt Department, in regard to which a carrying railway requires or may at any time require the execution of a risk note by the sender, such risk note in such form as the railway authorities may require will be signed by the dispatching officer of the Salt Department, but neither in this nor in any other case does the Salt Department accept any liability whatsoever for any loss, damage, deterioration, leakage or wastage of the salt while in transit. The Department's responsibility ceases on the delivery of a consignment to the railway and the railway receipt shall be a sufficient release for the quantity of salt consigned.

18. Any indent not complying with the conditions prescribed in these rules shall be liable to rejection by the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, and in the event of such rejection the revenue deposited in respect of the indent shall be refunded to the depositor.

ORDERS BY THE HON'BLE THE AGENT TO THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL, RAJPUTANA.

NOTIFICATION.

Mount Abu, the 4th July 1921.

No. 3719.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 25, 28, 30 and 112 (2) (b) of the Abu Municipal Law, 1919, the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor-General is pleased to make the following rules for the assessment and collection of scavenging tax in the Abu Municipal Area :—

Title and extent.

1. (i) A tax to be called the scavenging tax shall be imposed on all houses and buildings situated within the Abu Municipal Area with the exception of those houses or buildings of which the Municipal Committee do not or shall not undertake the house scavenging.

Time of coming into force.

(ii) The tax shall come into force from 1st April 1921, and shall be payable for periods of one year ending on 31st March.

Nature of tax.

2. The scavenging tax shall include—

(i) A general scavenging tax.

(ii) A cess on private latrines, cesspools and receptacles situated in or attached to buildings in bazar limits.

Definition of bazar limits.

3. Bazar limits shall mean and include—

(i) the groups of houses in the Abu bazar comprised in blocks A to J.

(ii) the hamlets of Kala Chapra, Gora Chapra and Kumharwara.

(iii) any areas or buildings that the Committee may by notification declare to be within bazar limits.

Rate of tax and time when payable.

4. (i) The general scavenging tax shall be levied at the rate of 7½ per cent. on the yearly rental value of the building assessed and shall be payable in advance for periods of one year ending on 31st March.

(ii) The cess on private latrines, cesspools and receptacles referred to in rule 2 (ii) shall be payable quarterly in advance for the quarters ending on the 30th June, 30th September, 31st December and 31st March and shall be levied at the following rates :—

(a) Private latrines per seat Rs. 1-5 per quarter.

(b) Cesspools each Rs. 1-2 per quarter.

(c) Receptacles each Rs. 0-6-0 per quarter.

Provided that

Proviso in respect of offices and similar buildings.

(i) In the case of offices and buildings of a like nature where in the opinion of the Committee the amount of the tax leviable would exceed the actual expense to the Committee of the scavenging done the assessment may be reduced.

Proviso in respect of religious or charitable institutions.

(ii) The Committee may exempt wholly or partially temples, mosques, or other religious or charitable institutions.

Proviso in respect of Government buildings.

(iii) In the case of residential buildings the property of Government half rates shall be charged for all periods during which such buildings are unoccupied on a certificate signed by the Executive Engineer, Abu Division. A building will be held to be non-occupied for the purpose of this sub-rule if the principal building held in separate tenancy is unoccupied.

Vacant rates in respect of private buildings.

5. When a residential building not being the property of Government remains unoccupied for a period of not less than one calendar month, the owner thereof shall be entitled to a refund of one-half of the amount of general scavenging tax due under rule 2 (i) proportionately leviable for the vacant period provided that (1) no refund shall be payable for any period before the owner has informed the Municipal Committee that the building is unoccupied, (2) no refund shall be payable if the owner fails to inform the Committee within three days of the re-occupation of such building, (3) no refund shall be payable when the annual rental value has been calculated on the assumption that a building will remain unoccupied during part of the year unless it shall remain unoccupied for the whole year, (4) no refund shall be payable when the total amount payable is less than 4 annas, (5) no refund shall be payable for a broken part of a month.

Vacant rates in bazar limits.

6. When a residential building situated within bazar limits not being the property of Government remains unoccupied for a period of not less than a whole quarter the owner thereof shall be entitled to a refund of half the cesses due under rule 4 for the vacant period subject to the provisos contained in the rule last preceding.

Powers of enhanced assessment up to actual cost of services.

7. When in any case the Committee considers that the amount of tax leviable is less than the actual cost of the scavenging performed, the assessment may be enhanced to an amount not exceeding the actual cost aforesaid.

Minimum tax payable.

8. The minimum amount on account of general scavenging tax leviable from any one building separately assessed shall be 12 annas, and all assessments shall, where fractions of an anna are involved, be calculated to the nearest anna.

Calculation of rental value of furnished houses.

9. In calculating rental value for the purpose of assessment a remission of one-eighth shall be allowed for furnished houses let on hire on account of the wear and tear of furniture.

Power to revise assessment.

10. When after assessment of tax has been made in any year the rental value of any buildings assessed is increased or a building is used for some other purpose than that for which it was used at the time of assessment the Committee shall have the power to revise the assessment and such revision may have effect from the date at which the rental value increased or the building was used for such other purpose.

Tax by whom payable.

11. In the case of private houses the tax shall be payable by the owner and shall in case of default be a charge on the property taxed. The term "Owner" shall include a mortgagee with possession.

Tax payable in the case of Government residential buildings.

12. In the case of a Government residential building the tax will be payable by Government when the building is not in use and no rent is being recovered. In other cases the Government will pay the tax due to the Committee and will make their own arrangements for recovery from the occupier or tenant.

Tax when payable.

13. The tax shall be payable within fifteen days of notice of demand being given by the Municipality at any time after the commencement of the year to which the assessment relates.

Committee may delegate powers.

14. The Committee may authorize any of its members or servants severally or jointly to make such enquiries and do such acts as may be necessary for the proper assessment of this tax.

Information regarding rent received.

15. The Committee or any of its members or servants duly authorised in this behalf may require any owner of house property to make a return showing the rent receivable or received on account of the property owned by him.

Rental value when uncertain how determined.

16. When a building is not leased on rent or the rent obtained thereon is not ascertainable the Committee may estimate the rental value and make assessment accordingly as provided by Rule 4 (i).

Notice of assessment.

17. A written notice of new assessment or re-assessment shall be given to every assessee. A notice shall be deemed to have been served if it shall be affixed on the building to which the assessment relates.

Objection to assessment.

18. An assessee receiving a notice of assessment or re-assessment under Rule 17 shall be entitled to lodge an objection with the Committee within one month of receipt of notice. If no objection is lodged within the period aforesaid the assessment shall be final.

Procedure of Committee on objection.

19. If an objection is lodged the Committee shall consider it and may pass such orders on it as it thinks fit.

Appeal against assessment.

20. A copy of any order passed under the rule last preceding shall be given to the objector and he shall be entitled to appeal against the order within one month of receipt of such copy to the Secretary to the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor-General.

Saving of existing assessment.

21. Unless and until altered, the assessments existing at the time that these rules come into force shall remain and shall be payable as if they were assessments made under these rules.

By order,

G. B. WALKER, Captain,

Secretary to the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor-General, Rajputana.

No. 970—1087.—The following draft of a Notification, which it is proposed to issue in exercise of the powers conferred by section 9 of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), is published for the information of all persons likely to be affected thereby and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration by the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner on or before the 15th August 1921.

2. Any objection or suggestion which may be received from any person with respect to the draft before the date aforesaid will be considered by the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner.

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 9 of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899) and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner is pleased to substitute the following for rule 5 of Part III of the Ajmer-Merwara Carbide of Calcium Rules issued in Notification No. 1286—1087, dated 29th October 1906, as amended by Notifications Nos. 66—1087 and 1386—1087, dated 19th January 1907 and 24th August 1920 respectively:—

"5. If any Carbide of Calcium becomes wetted while in the possession of a Railway for transport, it shall be destroyed by immersion in deep water. If, however, deep water is not available, the wet Carbide of Calcium shall be spread out in the open in an isolated position, all precautions being taken to prevent lights being brought near until the material has given off all its gas."

By order,

C. M. D. CADE, I.C.S.,

for Secretary to the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara.

The 4th July 1921.

No. 1042.—In exercise of the powers vested in him by section 12 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (V of 1898) the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner is pleased, as a temporary measure, to appoint M. Durga Pershad as an Honorary Magistrate and to invest him with the powers of a 1st class Magistrate to be exercised within the limits of the district of Ajmer-Merwara.

2. The Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner is further pleased, under section 37 of the said Code, to invest M. Durga Pershad being a Magistrate of the First Class with the power (1) to require security for good behaviour under section 110, (2) to make orders as to local nuisances under section 133, (3) to prohibit repetition or continuance of public nuisances under section 143, (4) to make orders under section 144, (5) to take cognizance of offences under clause (i) (a) and (b) of section 190, (6) to try summarily offences described in section 260, and (7) to hear appeals from convictions by Magistrates of the 2nd and 3rd classes under Section 407 of the said Code.

The 5th July 1921.

PREFATORY NOTE.

Prices of Country Produce and Salt in India in the first half of June, 1921, as compared with the preceding half month.

Wholesale prices of food grains and pulses in India in the first half of June, 1921, showed, on an average, a rise of 3 per cent as compared with the preceding fortnight. The increase was 5 per cent in maize, 4 per cent in barley and jawar each, 3 per cent in rice, 2 per cent in wheat as also in bajra, and 1 per cent in gram, while the price of arhar dál remained stationary.

There was also a rise of 4 per cent in salt and 1 per cent each in raw sugar (gúr) and ghi.

The noticeable fluctuations in provincial prices are as follows:—In Assam, prices of rice rose by 34 per cent, of salt by 32 per cent, and of ghi by 19 per cent. Bihar and Orissa recorded a rise of 17 per cent in salt. In the United Provinces, maize and jawar increased by 24 per cent and 23 per cent, respectively, while in Delhi, jawar rose by 14 per cent. Prices of wheat in the Punjab advanced by 1 per cent but those of rice in Bengal were the same as in the preceding fortnight.

These fluctuations are stated in the summary table below:—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hours on Wednesday, the 13th July 1921, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. During the past week the Bay monsoon was more active than usual, but the Arabian Sea monsoon was unsteady and gave less than the normal amount of rain except in the interior of the Peninsula. In northwest India rainfall is still in considerable defect, although towards the end of the week there was an extension of monsoon into the submontane Punjab.

2. Burma.—In Lower Burma rainfall was nearly general except on the 8th, 11th and 12th; on these days it was local. In Upper Burma local rain fell throughout the week.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Nearly general rain fell in Assam between the 7th and 11th, in Bengal on the 6th, 10th and 11th, in Orissa on the 10th and 11th, in Chota Nagpur between the 10th and 12th, and in Bihar between the 9th and 11th; rainfall was local or occurred at a few stations during the rest of the week in all these areas.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—There was nearly general rain in the east of the United Provinces on the 8th, in Central India West on the 7th, in Central India East on the 9th, in the west of the Central Provinces on the 7th, 8th and 12th, and in the east of the Central Provinces on the 6th, 7th and 11th; rain fell locally or at a few stations on one other day in Central India West, on two other days in Central India East, on three other days in the Central Provinces and on four other days in the east of the United Provinces. In the west of the United Provinces rainfall was local on the 11th and 12th, and occurred at a few stations on four other days.

Northwest India.—Nearly general rain fell in the hills of the Punjab on the 11th and in the adjoining submontane districts on the 11th and 12th. At Simla rainfall occurred on four days, the total amount being 5·19". There were scattered falls on five days in Gujarat and on the 12th in northeast Baluchistan. Over the rest of the division the week was rainless except for a moderate fall at Peshawar and Parachinar, a light fall at Gulmarg, Mount Abu and Jaipur, and two falls aggregating 0·94" at Udaipur.

The Peninsula.—There was nearly general rain in the Konkan on all days except the 8th, in Malabar on the 6th, 9th, 10th and 11th, in the Bombay Deccan on the 7th and 12th, in north Hyderabad on the 6th, 7th, 11th and 12th, in south Hyderabad on the 6th, 11th and 12th, in southeast Madras on the 10th, in the Madras Deccan on the 11th and 12th, and on the north Madras coast on the 11th; rain fell locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week in the Konkan and on the north Madras coast, on one other day in north Hyderabad, on two other days in Malabar and the Madras Deccan, and on three other days in the Bombay Deccan, south Hyderabad and southeast Madras. DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 9th July, 1921.

Burma.—The rainfall was general throughout Lower Burma but in Upper Burma the fall was scanty with no rain in three districts. Cultivation is progressing normally in Upper and Lower Burma. Standing crops are good except in four districts of Upper Burma, where more rain is needed. Livestock is generally healthy. The price of unhusked rice is slightly easier and firm at Rs. 225-227 and that of white rice (specials) fell from Rs. 590 to Rs. 562½ per hundred baskets.

Assam.—The weather was seasonable. Plucking of tea, ploughing and transplanting of autumn and winter rice and harvesting of broadcast autumn rice are in progress. Prospects of crops except those of jute are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The price of common rice remained unchanged.

Bengal.—Light rain fell generally in western Bengal. The rainfall was seasonable in other parts of the Province. Transplantation of winter paddy continues but agricultural operations have been retarded in western districts owing to insufficient rainfall. Harvesting and steeping of jute are in progress in eastern districts. Prospects of standing autumn crops have somewhat improved. The average price of common rice has risen by 0·4 per cent.

Bihar and Orissa.—The rainfall during the week was general over the Province, the fall being heavy in parts of Purnea and Angul, moderate in parts of Patna, Gaya, Muzaffarpur, Sambalpur and Shinghbhum and light in the rest of the Province. More rain is wanted in Patna and parts of Gaya, Champaran, Cuttack, Balasore and Manbhum. Sowings of autumn crops continue. Standing crops are doing well. 5,393 persons receive gratuitous relief in Puri. The price of common rice has risen in eight districts, fallen in three and remained stationary in the remainder. The average price of local common rice at headquarters was 5·88 seers a rupee against 5·97 seers in the preceding week and that of maize was 7·49 seers against 7·71 seers in the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur was good.

United Provinces.—Except in a few districts light rain fell throughout the Province. More rain is urgently needed. Agricultural operations for autumn crops were retarded in places for want of rain. Irrigation of sugarcane and autumn crops has recommenced in places. Standing crops are generally doing well but are withering in places for want of sufficient moisture. Prospects are so far favourable. The condition of agricultural stock is satisfactory but cattle disease is still prevalent in a number of districts. Fodder is getting scarce and dear in places. Water and market supplies are sufficient. Prices have risen in most districts.

The weekly report on scarcity in Mirzapur and Garhwal is as follows:—The rainfall during the week was light in the affected tracts. More rain is badly wanted. No damage to crops is reported. Transplantation of rice and weeding of mandua are in progress in Garhwal. Maize which has germinated in the affected tracts of Mirzapur requires rain urgently. The condition of standing crops is good. Some cattle disease exists in some patties of Garhwal. Fodder, water and market supplies are so far sufficient but prospects are gloomy in Mirzapur by the cessation of rain. Distress is being relieved in Garhwal by subsistence takavi but it is increasing somewhat in the south of Mirzapur. The physical condition of the people on relief is good and medical arrangements are sufficient. The state of the public health is good but cholera is reported from some parts of Mirzapur and steps are being taken to check the disease. There is no wandering or immigration. Crime figures are low. The price basis in Garhwal ranges from 2½ to 3½ while in Mirzapur it ranges from 4 to 7 seers per rupee. Importation of grain is brisk in Garhwal and prices are almost stationary but they tend to rise in Mirzapur. No relief works are needed at present in Garhwal but arrangements have been made for distribution of gratuitous relief. Some dhotis have lately been distributed to the needy in the south of Mirzapur and private charity is being organised to further the distribution of clothing to the destitute in the interior of the district and to maintain the sadar poor-house. The number of persons relieved in Mirzapur:—aided works 565, test works 358, poor-houses 163 and gratuitously 9,296, total 10,382.

Punjab.—Except for light showers in parts of Ambala and Rawalpindi the weather remained dry. The condition of standing crops is generally about average on irrigated and poor on unirrigated areas. Irrigated rice, fodder and other autumn crops are being sown. The area sown is below normal. Reaping of extra spring crops continues in some districts. The expected yield is below normal. Cattle are generally weak from over work and scarcity of fodder. Drinking water is insufficient in some districts. Test works are being started in Hissar. No releif works so far have been considered necessary in any other district. Prices show a slight upward tendency. They are between warning and scarcity rates in the case of wheat and barley and at or about scarcity rates in the case of other foodgrains. Stocks of foodgrains are sufficient except in a few districts. The price of wheat in Lahore and Lyallpur was 5¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was practically rainless. Rain is badly wanted throughout the province Prospects of standing crops are generally bad and great scarcity of fodder and water prevails in some parts. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at $5\frac{7}{16}$ seers and in Dera Ismail Khan at 5 seers per rupee.

Jammu.—The rainfall during the week was slight. Prices are stationary. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—No rain fell during the week and the weather was generally clear and hot. Spring crops are being gathered. Autumn crops are average. There is no disease among men or cattle. Fodder is scarce in Muzaffarabad. Prices are high.

Baluchistan.—The situation has improved somewhat by good rain in Sibi, Khushkaba and Mekhtar and in Zarra circle of the Bori Tahsil where sowings of autumn crops are reported. Moderate rain fell from Dirgi to Shahrigh while heavy rain storm visited Kohlu and a few showers were received in Sherani country. Some villages on Anambar and Vanechi in Duki have been irrigated by floods but generally Khushkaba tracts have not yet received sufficient rain. The situation in Barkhan and Musakhel is materially unchanged Musakhel tahsil, Mekhtar circle of Bori and Vanechi portion of the Poi circle in the Sinjawi tahsil have been declared famine areas. Lower Zhob also declared famine area and unless rain received soon there will be no unirrigated autumn crop while that irrigated will be considerably below average. Consequently present conditions will intensify till next May. Great scarcity of fodder prevails everywhere and mortality among animals continues. The outturn of irrigated crops in the Quetta-Pishin district is much below average owing to failure of rain and to damage by stormy winds and sparrows. People of Shorawak who came to the Quetta sub-division are returning to Afghanistan as Amir is said to be distributing takavi liberally. Cheap grain shops and relief works have been opened on Bogra Road in Chaman. Road work between Batezai and Barshore bungalow in the Pishin sub-division has also been taken in hand. Emaciation and crime among Marries and Bugtis are unchanged. Marries who had wandered to Duki are returning. Twenty-five hundred Bugtis who have been in great straits in the Mazaris and Gurchanis territory are reported mostly returning owing to rain in Sham. Famine is acute and increasing in Chagai. Takavi is being distributed and relief works are in progress. Prices of staple grain are varying from 3 to 5½ seers per rupee. No case of cholera is reported in the neighbourhood of Quetta.

Rajputana.—Rainfall varying from 12 to 92 cents fell during the week. It is badly needed everywhere. The weather is at times cloudy but hot. Preparation of land for autumn crops continues. Sowing operations have commenced in places. Cattle disease exists in Kishangarh and Dungarpur. Fodder and water are insufficient in Tonk and in parts of Kotah, Jhallawar, and Dungarpur. Cholera is still prevalent in Kotah and Jhallawar. Prices are stationary except in Karauli and Partabgarh where they are rising.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was general in Baghelkhand, partial in Indore, Bhopal, Malwa and the Southern States, and nil in Bundelkhand and insufficient in Indore Sailana, Barwani, Alirajpur and Jobat. More rain is needed in Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand. Sowing continues except in Jobat and Barwani, where it is stopped and in Alirajpur where it is retarded. Land is being prepared in Barwani and Jobat. Weeding continues in Manpur. Cotton has been damaged in Rutlam and the early sown corps are withering in Barwani. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good throughout except in Rutlam, Piploda, Barwani and Alirajpur and Jobat. Fodder is insufficient in Indore, Joora, Rutlam, Barwani, Alirajpur and Jobat, bad in Kurwai and fair to good elsewhere. Prices are high.

The weekly report on famine in Rewa is as follows:—The number of persons on works was 1,224 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 8,750. Poor-houses have 883 inmates. Owing to setting in of rains people are engaged in preparing land and sowing of autumn crops. Some emigration is reported from Deotar. Emigration from Raghupurnagar has stopped as people are engaged in cultivation.

Gwalior.—The rainfall during the week was partial and insufficient for agricultural operations. Cotton sowing continues throughout the State. Fodder and water are both scarce. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been cloudy with light to moderate rain throughout the Province. More rain is needed at once in parts of Betul, Balaghat, Buldana and Yeotmal and in the Vindyan districts where agricultural operations have been somewhat retarded. Sowings of autumn crops are well advanced in most districts and are approaching completion in places. Germination is generally satisfactory. Transplantation of rice has commenced. The condition of agricultural stock is generally good but cattle disease prevails in several districts. Fodder is insufficient in parts of three districts. Fluctuations in prices are unimportant and irregular.

Feudatory States:—The States received ample rain. Sowings of autumn crops are proceeding and germination is successful.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—During the week rain fell in all affected districts but more rain is required in Amraoti, Balaghat and Betul. The number of persons on works has slightly increased from 63,656 to 63,903. The rice is chiefly found in the Jubbulpore and Chhattisgarh divisions. Relief measures have been largely discontinued in Berar. Cholera is generally subsiding but has appeared in Akola and Buldana. The public health is good. There is appreciable change in prices. Import of foodgrains continues. No complaints have been received of scarcity of fodder or water.

Bombay.—The rainfall during the week was general in the Presidency except in north Gujarat. The fall is still insufficient and more rain is badly needed. Sowing continues but has been retarded in parts for want of sufficient rain. Germination of seedlings is fair. Slight rain was received in Sind, where low water level in canals is retarding transplantation. Fodder is sufficient except in parts of Karachi, Nawabshah, Sukkur, Thar and Parkar, Gujarat, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur. Drinking water is adequate except in parts of Broach, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur. Irrigation is generally deficient. Cattle are in good condition except in Thar and Parkar, Ahmednagar, Sholapur and Bijapur. Prices are fluctuating.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Distress is acute in Ahmednagar but is likely to decrease if rainfall continues. Number of works in progress:— Broach 6, the Panch Mahals 7, Ahmednagar 7, Poona 5 Sholapur 1, Satara 2 and Bijapur 11. One private poor-house is progressing in Ahmednagar. Gratuitous relief to the decrepit and the needy and dole to inferior village servants continue. Number on relief:— workers—the Panch Mahals 3,521, Broach 1,292, Ahmednagar 19,492, Poona 2,468, Sholapur 4,632, Satara 407 and Bijapur 26,496; dependants—Ahmednagar 7,595, Sholapur 1,735 and Bijapur 5,721; gratuitous—the Panch Mahals 1,779, Broach 1,883, West Khandesh 1,142, Ahmednagar 24,230, Poona 4,211, Sholapur 7,972, Satara 3,250, Bijapur 6,846 and Belgaum 3,718. The condition of the people on works and in receipt of dole is good. Fodder is scarce. Cattle in camps are thriving. Cactus fodder operations are progressing. Drinking water supply is insufficient and measures for its improvement continue. Takavi is being given freely.

Hyderabad.—Weather and Crop Report not received.

The weekly report on famine is as follows:—The rainfall during the week was nearly general but insufficient in parts of the Gulburga, Raichur and Nalgonda districts. The number of persons on relief is fluctuating. Relief works and poor-houses continue in affected parts but in some places are being gradually closed. Cheap grain shops continue in Hyderabad City. Prices of foodstuffs are stationary. Juar is selling at 3¾ to 8 seers and rice at 2¾ to 4½ seers per rupee. Number on relief in thousands:—works 50, gratuitous 38, total 88.

Mysore.—During the week the rainfall was light to fair. Prices of foodgrains are generally rising. Markets are fairly well supplied. Standing crops are in fair condition. Ragi and paddy are sown in parts. Prospects of the season are fair but more rain is needed in five districts. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The rainfall during the week was light and insufficient for ploughing and for rice nurseries in parts. Water and fodder for cattle are available. Cattle are generally healthy. The public health is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy in South Kanara, heavy in North Arcot, moderate in the Circars and the Carnatic except Nellore, Chittoor, Tanjore, Malabar, Cochin and the hills, nil in Tinnevelly and light to fair elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair condition generally but are withering or have withered in parts of Anantapur and Tinnevelly and require more rain in parts of Kurnool, Bellary, Anantapur and Malabar. The outturn of the harvested paddy and dry crops in parts of fifteen districts is generally fair. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding in parts of twenty-one districts. The condition of cattle is good generally. Water is insufficient in parts generally. Pasture and fodder are sufficient generally except in parts of the Circars and the Deccan. Prices are tending to rise. Prospects are improving in parts of Vizagapatam, doubtful in parts of Kurnool and Tinnevelly and fair elsewhere. One new test work was opened on the 5th July in Kurnool. The attendance on three test works was 1,754. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 961.

The weekly report on famine in Bellary and Anantapur is as follows :—Four relief works were in progress in Bellary and five in Anantapur. Distress is moderate. Coolie classes are mostly affected. The people are resorting freely to works. There is no marked foreign influx. The condition of the people on relief and the public health are generally fair. No emaciation is noticeable. Relief measures are adequate. No relief to weavers and artizans is necessary now. Need for private charitable relief for clothing is felt but is being met in Anantapur. State loans are being advanced. The price of cholam in Bellary was 6¼ and in Anantapur 6¾ seers per rupee. Number on relief :—Bellary—works 12,790, gratuitous 2,941, total 15,734 ; Anantapur—works 8,145, gratuitous 3,797, total 11,942.

No. 190.—The Report submitted by the Committee appointed in the Home Department Resolution no. 534-Political, dated the 21st March, 1921, as subsequently amended, to examine and report on the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, the Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act, 1908, and the Indian Press Act, 1910, is published below for general information.

H. D. CRAIK,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

Report of the Committee appointed by the Government of India to examine the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, and the Indian Press Act, 1910, and the Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act, 1908.

In accordance with the instructions contained in the Home Department Resolution no. 534, dated the 21st March 1921, we the members of the Committee appointed by the Government of India to examine the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, the Indian Press Act, 1910, and the Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act, 1908, have the honour to report for the information of Government and such action as they may think desirable, our conclusions on the questions referred to us for examination.

2. These conclusions have, we may state, been reached after a careful survey of the political situation, an exhaustive examination of witnesses who appeared before us and a scrutiny of voluminous documentary evidence including the valuable and weighty opinions of local Governments placed at our disposal by the Government of India as well as of the memoranda submitted to us by various members of the public. Many of these memoranda were sent in response to a general invitation issued by the Government of India to those interested in the subject under discussion to communicate their views to Government for the information of the Committee. We have examined orally eighteen witnesses, all connected with the Press and we also invited eight other prominent journalists to give evidence ; to our great regret, they were however either unable or, in some cases, unwilling to accept our invitation.

3. Of the Acts referred to us for examination, the Indian Press Act, 1910, is by far the most important and it will therefore be convenient if in the first place we record our conclusions in respect of that Act. This is the more desirable because our recommendations in respect of the other two Acts referred to us, must be largely dependent on our findings regarding this measure.

It is unnecessary to discuss in this report, the reasons which induced the Government of India to place the Indian Press Act on the Statute Book. Those who are interested in the subject will find the facts fully explained in the reports of the discussions on the bill in Council. It is apparent however that the main object of the Act was to prevent the dissemination of incitements to violence and of sedition, although the scope of section 4 of the Act is much wider. Since 1910, however, circumstances have changed very materially and we have to consider the necessity for the continuance of this law in the light of a political situation entirely different from that in which it was enacted.

4. The chief questions that have to be examined in our opinion are, firstly, whether the Act has been effective in preventing the evil against which it was directed ; secondly, whether legislation of this character is now necessary for the maintenance of law and order ; and thirdly, whether on a comparison of the advantages and disadvantages which the retention of the Act would involve, its continuance is desirable in the public interest. We may say at the outset that on a careful consideration of these points, we are of opinion that the Act should be repealed.

5. As to the effectiveness of the Act, it is generally admitted that direct incitements to murder and violent crime which are specifically referred to in section 4 (1) (a) of the Act are rarely found in the Press to-day. This was not the case in 1910 so far as a certain section of the Press was concerned and it is the view of at least one local Government that the Press Act has contributed to the elimination of such public incitements. We are not, however, satisfied that the cessation of such incitements is due solely or even mainly to the Act or that in present conditions the ordinary law is not adequate to deal with such offences. Further, it must be admitted that in so far as the law was directed to prevent the more insidious dissemination of sedition, of general misrepresentations of the action of Government, of exaggerations of comparatively minor incidents, of insinuations of injustice and of articles intended to exacerbate racial feeling, the Act has been of little practical value, for we find that a section of the Press is at present just as hostile to Government as ever it was and that it preaches doctrines calculated to bring the Government and also occasionally particular classes or sections of the community into hatred and contempt as freely now as before the Act was passed. Moreover, we believe that the more direct and violent forms of sedition are now disseminated more from the platform and through the agency of itinerary propagandists than by the Press, and no press law can be effective for the repression of such activities. In our opinion, therefore, it must be admitted that the Act has not been wholly effective in securing the object which it was enacted to achieve. We observe that one witness before us went so far as to say that it had both been futile and irritating.

6. Turning to the question of the necessity for such legislation we find that it was an emergency measure enacted at a time when revolutionary conspiracies, the object of which was directly promoted by certain organs of the Press, were so active as to endanger the administration. We believe that this revolutionary party is now quiescent, that the associations supporting it have been broken up and that many members of the revolutionary party have realized that the object which they had in view can, under present conditions, be achieved by constitutional means. Further, the political situation has undergone great changes since 1910 and the necessity for the retention of the Act must be examined in the light of the new constitutional position created by the inauguration of reforms. Many of us feel that the retention of this law is, in these circumstances, not only unnecessary but incompatible with the increasing association of representatives of the people in the administration of the country. We believe also that the malignant influence of seditious organs of the press will in future be, and in fact is already beginning to be, counteracted by the growth of distinct parties in politics, each supported by its own press, supplemented by the activities of a properly organized Bureau of Information, the value of which was admitted by many witnesses. It is true the scope of the Act is not limited to the prevention of sedition but it is not necessary for us to discuss in detail the subsidiary provisions included in Section 4 of the Act as we believe that these provisions have seldom been used and that the evils against which they are directed can be checked by the ordinary law. We think therefore that under present conditions, the retention of the Act for the purposes for which it was enacted is unnecessary.

7. On an examination of the third aspect of the case, viz., the comparative advantages and disadvantages of retaining the Act, we find that, while many local Governments advocate its retention in the interests of the administration, on the other hand the Act is regarded with bitter hostility by nearly all shades of Indian opinion. Most of the witnesses examined before us believe it to be indefensible in principle and unjust in its application. It has been said that the terms of section 4 of the Act are so comprehensive that legitimate criticism of Government might well be brought within its scope ; that the Act is very uncertain in its operation ; that it has been applied with varying degrees of rigour at different times and by different local Governments and in particular that it has not been applied with equal severity to English-owned and Indian-owned papers. A general feeling was also apparent among the witnesses that the Act is irritating and humiliating to Indian journalism and that the resentment caused by the measure is the more bitter because of the great services rendered to Government by the Press in the war. Many witnesses indeed are of opinion that the Act is fatal to the growth of a healthy spirit of responsibility in the Press and that it deters persons of ability and independent character from joining the profession of journalism. Finally it is maintained that the Act places in the hands of the executive government arbitrary powers, not subject to adequate control by any independent tribunal, which may be used to suppress legitimate criticism of Government and that such a law is entirely inconsistent with the spirit of the reforms scheme and the gradual evolution of responsible Government.

8. There is in our judgment great force in many of these criticisms. We find, as already noted, that the Act has not proved effective in preventing the dissemination of sedition and that it is doubtful whether it is necessary to retain it for the purpose of preventing incitements to murder and similar violent crime ; further in view of the cogent criticisms made as to the principles and operation of the Act, we have come to the conclusion that it would be in the interests of the administration that it should be repealed. In making this recommendation, we have not overlooked the opinion expressed by various local Governments that the retention of the Act is desirable in the interest of law and order. We observe, however, that there is a considerable divergence of opinion among those Governments on this point, and while we realize that the views of those who are opposed to the repeal of the Act are entitled to great weight, and indeed that these views have been accepted by the Government of India frequently in times past, we are satisfied that there is a genuine popular demand for its repeal and we consider that in the altered circumstances created by the reforms, the advantages likely to be secured by repeal of this measure outweigh the benefits which could be obtained by its retention on the Statute Book.

9. In our examination of the question of the repeal of the Press Act, we also considered the further question as to which, if any, of its provisions should be retained by incorporation in other laws. Various suggestions have been placed before us in this connection, some of greater and some of minor importance. Perhaps the most important of these is the question whether the dissemination of disaffection against Indian Princes through the Press of British India should be penalized in any way. We have been handicapped in our examination of this question by the very inadequate representation of the views of the Princes, many of whom were unwilling to allow their opinions to be placed before the Committee. We have however had the advantage of seeing some minutes submitted by them and of examining Sir John Wood, the Secretary of the Political Department. It has been argued that the Government of India is under an obligation to protect Indian Princes from such attacks, that the Press Act alone affords them such protection and that if it is repealed it is unfair, having regard to the constitutional position of the Government of India, vis-a-vis the Indian States, that the Press in British India should be allowed to foment disaffection against the ruler of an Indian State. On the other hand, various witnesses have protested in the strongest terms against any such protection being afforded to the Princes. It is alleged that the effect of any such provision in the law would be to stifle all legitimate criticism, and deprive the subjects of such States of any opportunity of ventilating their grievances and protesting against maladministration or oppression. We understand that before the Press Act became law, it was not found necessary to protect Indian Princes from such attacks, and we note that the Act, so far as the evidence before us shows, has only been used on three occasions for this purpose ; we do not, in the circumstances, think that we should be justified in recommending on general grounds any enactment in the Penal Code or elsewhere for the purpose of affording such protection in the absence of evidence to prove the practical necessity for such provision of the law. Our colleague Mr. Asad Ali desires to express no opinion on this question.

10. We have also considered the question of vesting Courts of Justice with power to confiscate a Press, if the keeper is convicted for the second time of disseminating sedition. Although section 517 of the Criminal Procedure Code affords some faint authority for the enactment of such a provision in the law, we feel that it would operate inequitably, particularly in the case of large and valuable presses used not only for the printing of a particular paper but also for other miscellaneous work. In the case of smaller presses the forfeiture of the press would probably not be an effective remedy and on a careful consideration of the facts we doubt the necessity for inserting any such provision in the law.

11. There is indeed only one provision of the Act which we think should be retained ; namely, the power to seize and confiscate newspapers, books or other documents which offend against the provisions of section 124-A of the Penal Code. If this power is retained the ancillary power of preventing the importation into British India, or transmission through the post of such documents, on the lines now provided for in sections 13, 14 and 15 of the Indian Press Act is a necessary corollary if the law is to be effective. The confiscation of openly seditious documents in no way, we believe, constitutes an interference with the reasonable liberty of the Press and the openly seditious character of some of the documents which are now circulated in India has convinced us of the necessity of retaining this power as a regular provision of the substantive law. The exact method by which this should be effected is we think a matter for the expert advisers of the Government of India to decide. We would however also provide for redress, in cases in which the owner of a press or any person interested in the production of any such document or in the possession of any particular copy of the document considers himself aggrieved by allowing such persons to apply to the High Court and challenge the seizure and confiscation of the document. We would also provide that when such an application is made the onus of proving the seditious character of the document should be on the Government. We think that the powers conferred by sections 13 to 15 of the Press Act might be conveniently incorporated in the Sea Customs Act and the Post Office Act so that the Customs and Postal Officers should be empowered to seize seditious literature within the meaning of section 124-A of the Indian Penal Code subject to review on the part of the Government, and to challenge by any person interested, in the courts. We recommend that in this case and in the case of seditious leaflets seized under the conditions referred to in the earlier portions of this paragraph, the orders of the Government should be liable to be contested in the High Court.

12. It follows almost of necessity from what we have said above that we recommend the total repeal of the Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act, 1908. We may observe that this Act has not been used for the last 10 years.

13. As to the Press and Registration of Books Act, we recommend that this Act should be retained with the following modifications :

(1) that no person should be registered as a publisher or printer unless he is a major as defined by the Indian Majority Act ;

(2) that in the case of all newspapers, the name of the responsible editor should be clearly printed on the front sheet of the paper and that an editor should be subject to the same criminal and civil liability in respect of anything contained in the paper as the publisher and printer ;

(3) that the term of imprisonment prescribed in sections 12, 13, 14 and 15 should be reduced to six months ;

(4) that the provisions of section 16 of the Press Act should be reproduced in this Act.

We have also considered certain other matters of detail which are of a technical nature. We think they should be left to the expert department to deal with.

14. We append a summary of our conclusions :—

(1) The Press Act should be repealed.

(2) The Newspapers (Incitements to Offences) Act should be repealed.

(3) The Press and Registration of Books Act, the Sea Customs Act and the Post Office Act should be amended where necessary to meet the conclusions noted below :—

(a) The name of the editor should be inscribed on every issue of a newspaper, and the editor should be subject to the same liabilities as the printer and the publisher as regards criminal and civil responsibility.

(b) Any person registering under the Press and Registration of Books Act should be a major as defined by the Indian Majority Act.

(c) Local Governments should retain the power of confiscating openly seditious leaflets, subject to the owner of the press or any other person aggrieved being able to protest before a Court and challenge the seizure of any such document in which case the local Government ordering confiscation should be called upon to prove the seditious character of the document.

(d) The powers conferred by sections 13 to 15 of the Press Act should be retained, Customs and Postal Officers being empowered to seize seditious literature within the meaning of section 124-A, Indian Penal Code, subject to review on the part of the local Government and challenge by any persons interested in the proper courts.

(e) Any person challenging the orders of the Government should do so in the local High Court.

(f) The term of imprisonment prescribed in sections 12, 13, 14 and 15 of the Press and Registration of Books Act should be reduced to six months.

(g) The provisions of section 16 of the Press Act should be reproduced in the Press and Registration of Books Act.

No. 1506.—Conductor Henry Nicholl is transferred to the pension establishment, with effect from the 21st May 1921.

REWARDS.

No. 1507.—His Excellency the Governor General of India has been pleased to confer the Volunteer Officers' Decoration upon the undermentioned officers :—

Major Oliver Edward McCutcheon, late 9th Northern Bengal Mounted Rifles, Indian Defence Force.

Major Thomas Robert Neely, late 1-36th Bengal-Nagpur Railway Battalion, Indian Defence Force.

No. 1508.—The following rewards have been granted to the undermentioned for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the field while serving with the Waziristan Force :—

Awarded the Indian Order of Merit, 2nd Class.

No. 491 Sepoy Shah Nawaz, 2nd Battalion, 25th Punjabis.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 23rd April 1921. During an attack by the enemy on a convoy he saw a British officer lying severely wounded, and, regardless of personal safety, he rescued this officer, carrying him across an open field for some three hundred yards to a place of safety. He showed great gallantry and devotion to duty.

Jemadar Jagat Singh, 28th Punjabis.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 10th April 1921. This Indian officer was on duty in camp when he heard that his company was in difficulty. He immediately gathered some men and was the first to arrive at the scene of action. Under heavy fire he reorganised the company and took up a position in order to cover the dead bodies of his British officer and men. He saved many dead from mutilation and saved the lives of many of the wounded. He showed initiative of a high order, absolute fearlessness and rendered great assistance to the Medical Officer.

Subadar Kara, 2nd Battalion, 41st Dogras.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 6th April 1921. At the battle of Rogha Kot this Indian officer led his platoon in an attack on the enemy on a steep hill under heavy fire with great gallantry. His leadership and coolness were greatly responsible for his platoon gaining its objective and also for the withdrawal of the wounded during the retirement against a numerically superior enemy at close quarters.

No. 2605½ Havildar Jiwan Singh, 58th Vaughan's Rifles (Frontier Force).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 6th April 1921. When in action near Sirak this non-commissioned officer was in command of a platoon which was ordered to make good a certain point, in order to effect a safe passage for the convoys from Wana and Tanai. When near the crest of the hill his first two lines were rushed by a large body of the enemy. Havildar Jiwan Singh rallied his men amongst whom there had been numerous casualties and consolidated them in a slightly retired position, where he was able to engage the enemy and prevent them from inflicting losses on the troops and animals in the valley, thereby largely accomplishing his objective.

His staunchness and fine example in holding on to a position of great importance, in spite of heavy losses, and with a platoon consisting chiefly of very young soldiers, were of the utmost value. He was in this position for nearly five hours and when reinforced managed to get away with all his wounded.

No. 2935 Rifleman Dante Pun, 1st Battalion, 6th Gurkha Rifles, attached 4th Battalion, 3rd Queen Alexandra's Own Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 31st March 1921. He was on convoy duty when the convoy was fired at. Finding it was not possible to remove a wounded man on a stretcher, he carried him for a distance of 500 yards up the hill to a place of safety. He was under heavy sniping fire the whole time, but displayed great coolness and determination.

Awarded the Indian Distinguished Service Medal.

No. 2196 Sepoy Hayat Muhammad, 2nd Battalion, 21st Punjabis.

No. 1742 Naik Abdul Qadir, 2nd Battalion, 25th Punjabis.

Subadar Kehr Singh, 58th Vaughan's Rifles (Frontier Force).

No. 2458½ Havildar Lal Singh, 58th Vaughan's Rifles (Frontier Force).

No. 4754 Rifleman Nawab Ali, 104th Wellesley's Rifles.

No. 4305 Lance-Naik Sher Muhammad, 104th Wellesley's Rifles.

No. 2443 Naik Ganpat Jadhow, 1st Battalion, 109th Infantry.

No. 513 Lance-Naik Dalsing Thapa, 4th Battalion, 3rd Queen Alexandra's Own Gurkha Rifles.

No. 1341 Rifleman Kharaksing Thapa, 4th Battalion, 3rd Queen Alexandra's Own Gurkha Rifles.

Ressaidar Fazaldad Khan, 3rd Government Camel Corps, Supply and Transport Corps.

No. 768 Lance-Naik Munshi Ram, 49th Pack Mule Corps, Supply and Transport Corps.

No. 1509.—The following amendment is made to Army Department Notification No. 200, dated the 28th January 1921 :—

For " No. 5148 Lance-Naik (acting Naik) Hansa Singh, No. 2 Bridging Train " read " No. 11901 Lance-Naik (acting Naik) Hansa Singh, No. 2 Bridging Train."

No. 196-T.-19.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

RAILWAY DEPARTMENT.

(RAILWAY BOARD.)

Simla, the 18th July 1921.

Amendment in Chapter III, Part I, of the General Rules of 1906 for working open lines of railway.

It has been brought to notice that it is possible for Rule 79 (1) (a) of the General Rules for working open lines of railway to be interpreted as giving the Guard powers to move, set and lock points independently of the Station Master, thereby conflicting with General Rule 247 (b), for the reason that under rule 247 the Station Master on duty or some one working under his orders should have full control of points, whereas rule 79 lays down that the Guard, who is not one of the Station Master's Staff, is responsible for padlocking all necessary points. In view of this the Railway Board have been advised that rule 79 should be revised which they consider necessary.

2. In exercise, therefore, of the powers conferred by the Notification of the Government of India in the Department of Commerce and Industry, No. 801, dated the 24th March 1905, the Railway Board sanction under section 47, sub-section (3), of the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (IX of 1890), the adoption by the administrations of all lines of railway in British India administered by the Government and for the time being used for the public carriage of passengers, animals and goods, of the amendment specified in the annexure hereto, to the General Rules of 1906 for working open lines of railway.

3. The Railway Board also desire that the said amendment may be brought to the notice of the administrations of the several railways not administered by the Government and that the Agents of those railways may be invited to submit a formal application for the adoption of the said amendment on their respective lines.

Enclosure to Railway Department (Railway Board) Resolution No. 196-T.-19, dated 18th July 1921.

Amendment in Chapter III, Part I, of the General Rules of 1906, for working open lines of railway.

For the existing rule 79, substitute the following :—

79. When a ballast train with coolies is stabled at a station it must be protected in the following manner :—

(1) the Guard in charge of the train must satisfy himself that all necessary points connected with the siding on which the train is stabled, have been correctly set against the train by the station staff, and must then inform the Station Master in writing that this has been done. Then until the train is ready to start,

(a) if the station is not interlocked—the Station Master will secure with his own padlocks the points connected with the siding on which the train is stabled in the presence of the Guard and personally hand over the keys to the Guard who will give a receipt for them and keep them in his possession ; or

(b) if the station is interlocked—the Station Master will tie a red flag on the lever-handle working the points, in the presence of the Guard.

(2) When under clause 1 (b) a red flag has been affixed, the Station Master must take steps to ensure that the lever is not worked until he has removed the flag in the presence of the Guard.

(3) When the train is ready to leave the siding, the Guard will inform the Station Master in writing and the Station Master having received back the keys from the Guard and returned the receipt for the same, will arrange for the correct setting of the points.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 18th July, 1921.

No. A.-181.—The following Order of His Majesty in Council giving effect to the adhesion of Czecho-Slovakia to the revised Berne Copyright Convention of 1908, published in the London Gazette of the 3rd June 1921, is republished for general information:—

AT THE COURT AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

The 27th day of May, 1921.

PRESENT:

THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Lord President.	Sir Frederick Ponsonby.
Lord Steward.	Mr. Baldwin.

WHEREAS His Majesty, by virtue of the authority conferred on Him by the Copyright Act, 1911 (1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 46), and having regard to the provisions of the revised Berne Copyright Convention of 1908, was pleased to make an Order in Council, dated the 24th day of June, 1912, Statutory Rules and Orders, 1912, No. 913 (hereinafter called the Principal Order), extending the protection of the said Act to certain classes of works to which protection is guaranteed by the said Convention:

AND WHEREAS Czecho-Slovakia has acceded to the said Convention:

NOW, THEREFORE, His Majesty, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and by virtue of the authority conferred upon Him by the Copyright Act, 1911, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered as follows:—

The Principal Order shall extend to Czecho-Slovakia as if that country were amongst the Foreign Countries of the Copyright Union therein named, subject to the following modifications:

(a) The provisions of Article 2, proviso (iii) (a) shall apply as if Czecho-Slovakia were included amongst the Foreign Countries named in those provisions.

(b) In the application of the provisions of Article 3 of the Principal Order to works of which the country of origin is Czecho-Slovakia the date of this Order shall be substituted for the Commencement of the Act and for the Commencement of the Principal Order.

(c) In the application to such works of Sections 1 (2) (d) and 19 of the Copyright Act, 1911, the date of this Order shall be substituted for the Commencement of the Act in Section 19 (7) and 19 (8) wherever that expression occurs, and the 22nd day of February, 1921, for the passing of the Act.

(d) In the application to such works of the provisions of Section 24 of the Copyright Act, 1911, the date of this Order shall be substituted for the Commencement of the Act wherever that expression occurs in Sub-section (1) (a) and for the 26th July, 1910, in Sub-section (1) (b).

(e) In the application of the Copyright Act, 1911, to existing works, nothing in this Order shall derogate from any rights in literary or artistic works restored in favour of nationals Czecho-Slovakia by virtue of Article 258 of the Treaty of Peace between the Allied and Associated Powers and Austria signed at Saint Germain-en-Laye, September 10th, 1919.

And the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury are to give the necessary orders accordingly.

Almeric Fitz Roy.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hours on Wednesday, the 20th July 1921, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. During the past week the Bombay monsoon has been vigorous and was reinforced in northern India by the Bay current, which, owing to an abnormal distribution of pressure, was temporarily withdrawn from Burma. Rainfall was heavy in the Peninsula and extended in abundance into Gujarat, Sind, Rajputana and the Punjab; but it was over 50 per cent. in defect in Lower Burma, Orissa, Chota Nagpur, Central India East and the Central Provinces West.

2. Burma.—In Lower Burma rainfall was nearly general on the 19th and occurred locally or at a few stations on the remaining days excepting the 15th; in Upper Burma rain fell locally between the 15th and the 19th, and there were a few falls during the rest of the week.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was nearly general rain in Assam on the 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 19th, in Orissa on the 14th and in Chota Nagpur on the 19th; rain fell locally or at a few stations in Assam on the other days, and in Orissa and Chota Nagpur on four other days. Rainfall was local in Bengal between the 13th and 15th, and again between the 17th and 19th, and in Bihar on the 16th, 17th and the 19th; a few falls occurred on the remaining day in Bengal and on one other day in Bihar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Rainfall was nearly general in the United Provinces on the 14th and 19th, in Central India West on the 14th and 18th, and in the west of the Central Provinces on the 13th and 19th; it was local or occurred at a few stations on two other days in Central India West and during the rest of the week in the other two areas. Rain fell locally in Central India East on the 14th and in the east of the Central Provinces on the 18th, with a few falls in the latter area on four other days.

Northwest India.—During the week rain fell on one or more days at all stations in the Punjab with the exception of Multan. There were a few falls in Baluchistan and Kashmir on two days and in the hills of the North-West Frontier Province on three days. Rain fell nearly generally in lower Sind on the 15th and locally in upper Sind on the 16th. In Rajputana West nearly general rain fell on the 19th and local rain on the 14th, 16th and 17th, while in Rajputana East rainfall was nearly general on the 18th and 19th, and occurred either locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week. In Gujarat rain fell nearly generally on the 14th, locally on the 15th and 19th, and at a few stations on the other days.

The Peninsula.—Nearly general rain fell in the Konkan throughout the week, in Malabar on the 13th, 14th, 15th and 19th, in the Bombay Deccan on the 13th, 14th and 18th, in north Hyderabad on the 13th, 14th, 17th, 18th and 19th, in south Hyderabad on the 13th, 14th, 15th and 18th, in Mysore on the 14th, 15th and 18th, in southeast Madras on the 14th, in the Madras Deccan between the 13th and 15th, and again on the 17th and 18th, and on the north Madras coast between the 13th and 15th; rainfall occurred locally or at a few stations on the remaining days in Malabar, Mysore and the Bombay and Madras Deccans, on one other day in north Hyderabad, on two other days in south Hyderabad and on three other days on the north Madras coast.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 16th July, 1921.

Burma.—The rainfall during the week was general throughout Lower Burma. In the dry zone of Upper Burma want of rain is general with no rain in three districts. Cultivation of the main rice crop is progressing normally both in Lower and Upper Burma. Ploughing for and sowing of groundnut, maize, sesamum, juar and autumn crops continue in Upper Burma. Standing crops are in good condition except in the dry zone where the crops are only fair or are withering for want of rain. Agricultural stock is generally healthy except in the Pegu Division. Price of unhusked rice is from Rs. 227 to 230 and that of white rice (specials) has risen to Rs. 590 per hundred baskets.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Plucking of tea, harvesting of broadcast autumn rice and ploughing and transplanting of autumn and winter rice are in progress. Prospects of crops except jute are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The price of common rice has risen slightly.

Bengal.—The rainfall during the week was general throughout the province, the fall being heavy in North and parts of East Bengal and generally light to moderate elsewhere. Transplantation of winter paddy is proceeding. Cutting, steeping and washing of jute are going on in low lands of Eastern Bengal. Weeding continues in western districts. Prospects of autumn paddy are generally satisfactory in East Bengal but those of other crops are fair. The average price of common rice has risen by about 0·11 per cent.

Bihar and Orissa.—Rainfall during the week was general over the Provinces, the fall being heavy in Shahabad and Purnea and in parts of Patna, Bhagalpur and Cuttack and generally light to moderate in the rest of the province. Sowing of autumn crops has been nearly finished. Transplantation of paddy has commenced but more rain is wanted for the operation in some districts. Standing crops are doing well, 5,471 persons received gratuitous relief in Puri. The price of common rice has risen in five districts, fallen in five and remained stationary in the remainder. The average price of local common rice at headquarters was 5·90 seers a rupee against 5·88 seers in the preceding week and that of maize was 6·88 seers against 7·49 seers in the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur is good.

United Provinces.—General rain fell throughout the province though it was light in many Districts. More rain is required. Slight damage to sugarcane and rice crops is reported by floods in Moradabad. Preparation of land for sowing of autumn crops continue. Standing crops are generally doing well, though suffering for want of rain in a few districts. Prospects, so far, are favourable. The condition of agricultural stock is satisfactory but cattle disease is increasing slightly. Fodder is scarce and dear in some districts. Water and market supplies are sufficient. Prices are still rising in places.

The weekly report on scarcity in Mirzapur and Garhwal is as follows:—Good rain fell in the affected tracts but more rain is still badly needed in Mirzapur. Transplantation of rice is nearing completion in Garhwal. Sowing of autumn crops continues in Mirzapur where the prospects appear unfavourable unless more rain falls early. Cattle disease is reported from some patties in Garhwal and from pargana Barhar in Mirzapur. Fodder and water supplies are sufficient. Import of grain is brisk in Garhwal and in Singrauli and Dudhi in the south of Mirzapur. Prices are almost stationary. Advances continue in Garhwal for the importation of grain and for subsistence takavi. In Mirzapur takavi distribution is nearing completion. Labouring and cultivating classes are still in good condition in the north of Mirzapur but are in poor condition in the south. The public health is good but some cases of cholera are reported from Garhwal as well as from Mirzapur. Steps are taken to localize the epidemic. Cases of emaciation were noticed in the south of Mirzapur. Crime is normal. There is no wandering or immigration. Gram and juar are staple grains in Mirzapur. Price basis ranged from 2½ to 3½ seers in Garhwal and from 4 to 7 seers in Mirzapur. The condition of the people on relief is good in Mirzapur. No relief works are needed in Garhwal at present where the demand for agricultural labour is reported to be heavy. Private charity is being organised at Mirzapur to maintain the running charges of the private poorhouse there and for the purchase of clothing. Numbers relieved:—Mirzapur—Aided works 489, test work 141, poorhouse 170, gratuitously 9,459, total 10,259, private poorhouse 82; Garhwal—gratuitous relief 143.

Punjab.—Rain fell in nearly all the reporting districts. Rain though useful for standing crops and for sowings was insufficient and more rain is badly wanted. The condition of standing crops is generally average on irrigated and poor on unirrigated areas. Sowings of fodder, millets and other autumn crops continue. The area sown is below normal. Extra spring crops are being reaped is some districts The expected yield is below normal. Cattle are generally weak from overwork and scarcity of fodder and are dying of starvation and disease in parts of some districts. Shortage of water for drinking and irrigation purposes is reported in some districts. Test works have commenced in Hissar. No relief work is, so far, considered necessary in any other districts. Prices have advanced slightly in some districts and remained stationary in others. Prices of wheat and barley are generally between warning and scarcity rates and of other foodgrains at or above scarcity rates Stocks of foodgrains are sufficient except in a few districts. Price of wheat:—Ferozepore and Lahore 5, Ambala $5\frac{3}{16}$ and Lyalpur $5\frac{1}{4}$ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Good rain fell in some districts and sowings of certain autumn crops are in progress. More rain is wanted for autumn sowings. Great scarcity of fodder and water prevails in some parts. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at $4\frac{15}{16}$ seers and in Dera Ismail Khan at 5 seers per rupee.

Jammu.—The rainfall during the week was moderate. Prices are stationary. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—It rained in the Muzaffarabad district and parts of the valley. The weather is generally hot. Prices are high. Agricultural operations for autmn crops are in progress in the Muzaffarabad district.

Baluchistan.—During the week the situation has further improved by rainfall at several places in the Loralai district, though it was only local in some places and is still badly needed in the dry crop tracts. Large number ot deaths among weak sheep and goats is reported as the result of rain. Good rain has also fallen in parts of Fort Sandeman and Killa Saifulla tahsils where prospects of autumn crops and grazing should greatly improve. There were heavy local showers in Shahrig in the Sibi district. No rain fell in the Quetta and Chagai districts. The number of beggars in Quetta has increased considerably. Further grant for takavi loans is urgently needed. 95 persons were employed on relief works in Quetta-Pishin, 512 men and 22 boys in Marri country and about 600 persons in the Zhob district. Work in Killa Saifulla has been temporarily abandoned in favour of agricultural operations on account of rain. Report has not yet been received as to the number of men employed on relief works in the Chagai district. Famine is acute and is increasing in Chagai. Prices of staple grains are varying from 3 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ seers per rupee.

Rajputana.—Rainfall varying from 8 to 160 cents was received during the week. The weather remains cloudy. More rain is badly needed everywhere. Preparation of land for autumn crops continues. Sowing operations have commenced in places. Fodder is insufficient in Tonk, Kotah, Jhalawar, Merwara and Dungarpur. Agricultural stock is becoming emaciated in places due to scarcity of fodder and water. Cattle disease exists in parts of Dungarpur and cholera in parts of Kotah. Prices are stationary.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was partial in Bhopal, Malwa and the Southern States. Slight showers were received in Bundelkhand. The fall was insufficient in Malwa, Alirajpur and parts of Barwani. Rain is needed in Bundelkhand. Sowing continues Crops are suffering for want of rain in Malwa. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good throughout except Khilchipur, Barwani, Alirajpur and Jobat. The condition of pasturing is bad in Khilchipur, Kurwai, Barwani, Alirajpur and Jobat. Prices are high. Indore and Baghelkhand reports not received.

The weekly report on famine is as follows:—The number of persons in works was 483 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 8,397. Poor-houses had 885 inmates. The number of children is increasing in poor-houses and of adults on gratuitous relief.

Gwalior.—Rain is partial and insufficient. Agricultural operations including cotton sowing have been suspended for want of rains. Fodder and water are scarce. Agricultural stock is in fair condition. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been cloudy and sultry. Light to moderate showers were received at intervals in all districts ranging from 43 units in Saugor to 3·90 inches at Raipur. Sowings of rice and cotton are nearing completion and those of other autumn crops are still in progress. Germination of crops is generally successful and weeding continues. Transplantation and thinning of rice are proceeding in Chattisgarh but have been retarded in three districts of the Nagpur division for want of sufficient rain Cattle are generally in fair to good condition except for sporadic rinderpest in parts of several districts. There are no marked fluctuations in prices.

Feudatory States:—Moderate to heavy rain fell in the States. Sowings of autumn crops are in progress and thinning of rice has commenced in places.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Good rain varying from 1·89 to 7·04 inches fell in all the affected districts except Jubbulpur, Nagpur, Balaghat and Chanda where no rain or rain less than one inch was received. Germination of autumn crops is reported to be excellent and prospects are at present satisfactory. Weeding has begun and is employing much available labour. The number of persons on works has decreased from 67,730 to 58,377. The decrease is general except in the Mandla and Chhattisgarh districts where there is no change. Relief works will probably close in Berar by the end of the month. Elsewhere works are being closed as necessity for their continuance disappears. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief has increased from 49,045 to 59,687. The public health is good except for cholera in a mild form in some districts. There is no change in prices. Import of foodstuffs continues wherever necessary. Distribution of autumn takavi has finished except in a few districts. Private kitchens in Raipur and Bilaspur and private charity in Akola and Buldana continue to give relief. Crime is heavy in Mandla and Damoh and normal elsewhere.

Bombay.—The rainfall during the week was general throughout the Presidency and also in parts of Sind but it is still insufficient in Gujarat, Kathiawar, Kolhapur and Sind where more rain is badly needed. Sowing continues but transplantation has been retarded in parts. Germination of seedlings is fair. Water in Sind canals is rising. Fodder is sufficient except in parts of Karachi, Nawabshah, Sukkur, Thar and Parkar, Gujarat, the Deccan, Bijapur and Kolhapur. Drinking water is adequate except in parts of Broach and Kolhapur. Water for irrigation is generally deficient. Cattle are in good except in Thar and Parkar and Kaira. Prices are fluctuating.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Distress in Ahmednagar is decreasing but is still considerable. Number of works in progress:— Broach 7, the Panch Mahals 8, Ahmednagar 7, Poona 5 Sholapur 1, Satara 2 and Bijapur 14. Relief works are likely to be closed if rainfall continues satisfactorily. One private poor-house is progressing in Ahmednagar. Gratuitous relief to the decrepit and needy and dole to inferior village servants continue. Number on relief works:—the Panch Mahals 5,807, Broach 1,386, Ahmednagar 22,451, Poona 2,744, Sholapur 3,770, Satara 407, Bijapur 28,800; dependants—Ahmednagar 9,025, Sholapur 1,384, Bijapur 6,824; gratuitous—the Panch Mahals 2,043, Broach 1,897, West Khandesh 1,488, Ahmednagar 24,266, Poona 3,866, Sholapur 6,789, Satara 3,292, Bijapur 6,054 and Belgaum 3,598. The condition of the people on works and in receipt of dole was good. Fodder is scarce. Cattle camps are being closed. Drinking water supply is insufficient and measures for its improvement continue. Takavi is being given freely.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was nearly general. The highst fall recorded was 6·09 inches in the Nalgonda district. The rainfall was insufficient in parts of the Gulbarga and Usmanabad districts. The average fall for the dominions was 2·03 inches. Sowing of autumn crops are in general progress. The condition of crops is fair. Lands for early rice are under preparation and sowings have commenced in parts. Crops have been damaged by insects in parts of the Nizamabad and Karimnagar districts. Fodder is still scarce in parts of Bir, Gulbarga, Nalgonda and the Nizamabad districts. Water is scarce in parts of the Bir and Bidar districts. Cattle disease is reported in parts of the Parbhani, Usmanabad and Medak districts. Prices of foodgrains continue to be high and stationary. Juar is selling at 3¼ seers per rupee in the Aurangabad and Bir districts.

Weekly report on famine not received.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good in the Kolar, Bangalore, Shimoga and Kadur districts and light to fair elsewhere. Prices of foodgrains are generally rising. Markets are well supplied. Ragi and paddy are being sown in parts. Prospects of the season are fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The rainfall during the week was light and insufficient for ploughing and for rice nurseries in parts. Water and fodder for cattle are available. Cattle are generally healthy. The public health is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy on the west coast except Travancore, light in Tinnevelly and moderate or heavy elsewhere. Standing crops are fair generally and have benefitted by recent rains but require more rain in parts of Bellary, Anantapur and Malabar. The outturn of the harvested paddy and dry crops in parts of fourteen districts is generally fair. Sowing of paddy and dry crops is proceeding generally in parts. The condition of cattle is good generally. Water is insufficient in parts generally. Pasture and fodder are sufficient generally except in parts of the Circars and the Deccan. Prices are tending to rise. Prospects are improving in parts of Vizagapatam and Kurnool, not encouraging in parts of Tinnevelly and fair elsewhere. Three test works are in progress in Kurnool with an attendance of 1,952. The number on gratuitous relief was 1,012.

The weekly report on famine in Bellary and Anantapur was as follows:—Four relief works in Bellary and five in Anantapur were in progress. Distress is moderate. Coolie classes are mostly affected. People are freely resorting to works. There is no marked foreign influx. Relief measures are adequate. No relief to weavers and artizans is necessary now. State loans are being advanced. Price of cholam:—Bellary 6¼ and Anantapur 6¾ seers per rupee. Number on relief:—Bellary works 14,634, gratuitous 3,280, total 17,914; Anantapur works 8,220, gratuitous 3,977, total 12,197.

NORTHERN INDIA SALT REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Agra, the 19th July 1921.

No. 105.—In supersession of all previous Notifications in the Northern India Salt Revenue Department on the same subject the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, is pleased to promulgate the following rules to regulate the purchase and issue of salt for removal by road from the Kohat sources and the Sultanpur Salt Works and for retail (farodi) sale within the Salt Department's jurisdiction at the Sambhar Lake and in "protected areas."

1. A person desiring to remove salt (other than Raj salt, that is to say salt due to a Darbar under treaty) by road from the sources of the Kohat Division and the Sultanpur Salt Works or for retail (farodi) sale under license in a "protected area" or within the Salt Department's jurisdiction at the Sambhar Lake, shall present in any treasury or sub-treasury authorised in this behalf by the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue, an application in the prescribed form, No. 10, attached to these rules (obtainable free of charge at all authorised treasuries and sub-treasuries) and shall at the same time pay the charges due on the quantity of salt to be removed, that is to say the duty and price respectively fixed and in force on the day when payment is made; provided that if subsequently, and prior to the removal of the salt from the source, any alteration in the rates of duty or price, or both, shall come into force, the duty and price in respect of such salt shall become payable at the rates so altered, and the amount, if any, that may thereby become due in addition to the original payment shall be paid into the treasury or sub-treasury by the trader prior to the removal of the salt. Similarly any amount which he may have paid in excess shall be refunded to him on his applying to the Assistant Commissioner concerned. All applications shall be subject to the conditions set out below.

2. The minimum quantity of salt for which payment shall be accepted is five maunds, and no fractions of a maund shall be permitted in an indent.

3. The treasury officer shall deliver to the applicant a receipt in form No. 11 and shall at the close of each day dispatch to the Assistant Commissioner or the Circle officer, as the case may be, an advice list of all receipts by him of salt revenue during the day as also of any payments made and accepted under the proviso to rule 1.

4. The depositor or his agent (see rule 7) after entry in English in the indent columns provided for the purpose on the reverse of the treasury receipt of the details of rawannas required and signing and dating the entry shall present the receipt to the Assistant Commissioner or the Circle officer, as the case may be, and shall receive in lieu thereof a rawanna or rawannas covering the quantity of the salt shown in the receipt, signed by the issuing officer and sealed in his presence, the receipt and advice list being at the same time defaced with the "rawanna issued" stamp.

5. The officers empowered to receive treasury receipts and grant rawannas are the Assistant Commissioners of the Sambhar Lake, Kohat Mines and Salt Range Divisions; the officers in charge of the Malgin, Jatta, Bahadur Khel and Karak Depôts in the Kohat Mines Division, and Warcha Depôt in the Salt Range Division, and the officer in charge of the Sultanpur Salt Works.

6. Treasury receipts shall be presented by the depositor of the money in person or by his agent to the officer empowered to issue rawannas at such hours as shall be fixed and notified locally in the case of each salt source.

NOTE.—The indent entries may be written by the depositor himself or his agent, or by any other person unconnected with the Department, or by the person who shall be retained for this purpose in every office where rawannas are granted, and who shall be paid by the depositor for his services at such a rate for each rawanna entered in the indent as the Commissioner may fix. The actual writer if other than the depositor or his agent shall invariably sign the indent as well as the depositor or his agent himself.

7. No person shall be accepted by the Department as an agent for a depositor of salt revenue unless his appointment as agent has been duly notified by the depositor to the officer concerned. The notification of a person as agent may be made in writing on unstamped paper. If formal powers-of-attorney authorising agents to act on behalf of their principals in one or more than one transaction are executed and presented in British territory, they must be stamped as required by law, viz., Re. 1 for a special power authorising the holder to act in one transaction, and Rs. 5 for a general power.

8. A certificate prepared in the manner prescribed in article 12 of the Civil Account Code may be accepted in lieu of a treasury receipt alleged to have been lost or destroyed, and shall thereafter be treated in all respects under these rules in the manner prescribed for the original document. Such certificate shall not be utilised except with the express sanction in every case of the Assistant Commissioner of the Division, who, before according such sanction, shall first satisfy himself that the original document has not been utilised and shall issue orders to impound it should it thereafter be presented to any officer in the Division.

9. The issue of rawannas on an indent shall not ordinarily be withheld pending the receipt of the advice list if it appears that the treasury receipt is genuine and in order, and provided the person or persons presenting it are ready with their empty bags, or (in the Kohat Mines Division) with nets and carriage for the removal of the salt. In such case the salt may be filled preparatory to weighment, but it shall not be weighed for clearance until the advice list has arrived and the receipt has been compared with it.

10. A rawanna shall be current and valid for 21 days, the period of currency counting from the day on which the rawanna is delivered to the trader, that day being included and noted on the face of the rawanna: provided that currency of a rawanna issued to a farodi shall be regulated by the special rules governing farodi trade.

11. After the period of currency of a rawanna has elapsed, the rawanna shall cease to be valid or of any effect whatever unless the period be extended in the manner hereinafter provided.

12. If anything occurs to prevent the owner of a rawanna clearing the salt before the expiry of the period of currency of the rawanna, the officer who granted the rawanna may, at his discretion, but subject to such restrictions as the Commissioner may from time to time impose, renew such rawanna at any time not more than six months from the date of original issue. If application for renewal is made later than a week before the expiry of the original rawanna, it shall be complied with only on the applicant's paying a fee of one-twentieth of the duty originally paid. The currency of the fresh rawanna shall not exceed that of the original rawanna.

13. Applications for renewal, except as provided in the preceding rule, shall be forwarded for the orders of the Commissioner, who may authorise such further renewals as he may think fit.

14. The Commissioner may, if he sees fit, authorise the refund of the whole or any portion of a fee paid under rules 12, 19 and 22.

15. On a rawanna being presented and salt being issued thereunder the salt revenue officer concerned, before allowing such salt to leave his charge, shall satisfy himself that such rawanna is still in force and valid and that it covers the amount of salt being issued. He shall then endorse the rawanna and return it to the trader, or his agent, or to the carrier of the salt. The salt shall then be allowed to proceed to its destination.

16. Rawannas, other than those issued to farodis, shall be transferable, and the salt covered by them shall be delivered to the person or persons presenting the rawannas at the circle or depôt for clearance, his or their receipts being taken on the delivery report at the foot of such rawannas.

17. When salt has been weighed and delivered to the holder of a rawanna he shall remove it within 24 hours to a distance of at least one mile from the depôt or storeyard, unless the officer in charge, by an order endorsed on the rawanna, permits him to keep it within a shorter distance.

In the case of Kalabagh, boats conveying salt from the depôt down the Indus shall not anchor at any place on the right bank of the river between the depôt and the railway ferry except such as may be prescribed by the Commissioner from time to time: and shall leave for their destination before the expiry of 24 hours from the time of delivery of the salt at the depôt.

18. If previous to the utilization of a rawanna any minor particulars in it require rectification, such as the description of carriage, owner's name &c., application must be made for such rectification to the officer in charge of the depôt or store before delivery of the salt is applied for.

19. If the dispatch differs in minor particulars which have not been rectified in the manner prescribed in the preceding rule, the whole dispatch shall again be liable to the payment of a fee not exceeding one-twentieth of the original duty, and shall on such payment be cleared, an entry being made on the rawanna that the payment has been levied as a penalty for infraction of rule, which infraction shall be specified by the officer in his own handwriting.

20. If the officer suspect fraud, he may refuse to deliver the salt except under security equivalent to its full value, together with the duty leviable thereon, and shall refer the case for the orders of his superior officer.

21. If the owner of a rawanna desires to divide a dispatch of salt covered by the rawanna, he shall apply to the officer who issued the rawanna, and the officer shall issue as many partition rawannas as may be required and cancel and resume the original rawanna.

22. When a rawanna is lost or destroyed previous to utilization, the person to whom it was granted may make application to the officer who issued it for a duplicate, and with the application shall deposit with the officer an amount equivalent to the duty paid for the original rawanna plus one-twentieth as a fee. The officer may thereupon grant a duplicate rawanna. On the expiry of the currency of the original rawanna, if it has not been utilized, the duty so deposited shall be refunded.

* The figures under "Rice, husked" represent the prices of common rice.

NOTE.—These statistics are compiled from the fortnightly returns furnished by District Officers to Local Governments and Administrations, etc. They relate to the wholesale prices in the principal markets (not necessarily district head-quarters) in each province on the last (or nearest mart) day of each fortnight.

(The figures state prices in rupees per ten maunds).

INCOME-TAX.

The 28th July, 1921.

No. 2191-F.—The following is published for general information :—

Report of the Committee, which assembled at Simla to make recommendations for the amendment of the Income Tax Act, more particularly regarding the assessment of mercantile profits.

PRESENT:

MR. G. G. SIM, C.I.E., I.C.S., President.

Members	Province
MR. A. R. LOFTUS TOTTENHAM, I.C.S., Collector of Madras.	MADRAS.
MR. C. BIRCH, M.B.E., Collector of Income Tax, Karachi. MR. MANMOHANDAS RAMJI, M.L.A.	BOMBAY.
THE HON'BLE SIR ALEXANDER MURRAY, KT., C.B.E. MAJOR W. B. KIRKWOOD, Assistant to the Collector of Income Tax, Calcutta. RAI SAHIB JADU NATH ROY.	BENGAL.
MR. W. GASKELL, I.C.S., Income Tax Commissioner, U.P. MR. S. H. TAYLOR, M.L.C.	UNITED PROVINCES.
DEWAN TEK CHAND, I.C.S., Commissioner, Amlala Division. RAI BAHADUR GANGA RAM, C.I.E.	PUNJAB.
MR. F. McCARTHY, M.L.A.	BURMA.
MR. E. L. TANNER, I.C.S.	BIHAR AND ORISSA.
MR. K. S. JATAR, Inspector General of Registration ...	CENTRAL PROVINCES.

MR. H. E. SPRY, I.C.S., from Bengal and MR. W. S. WATKINS, Income Tax Adviser to the Government of India, were also present.

MR. NARAYANDAS GIRDHARDAS, the non-official representative from Madras, was unable to attend the meetings of the Committee.

MR. TANNER was present at one meeting only.

The Hon'ble Finance Member opened the proceedings on the 12th July. The Committee finished its sittings on the 15th July.

1. We are of opinion that in view of the difficulties arising from a recent interpretation by a High Court of the word "Income" in section 3 of the Act, that section should be altered on the lines of the English Income Tax Act in order to provide that income tax shall be charged not on "Income" but "in respect of property, profits or gains" as described in Schedules or specific sections of the Act.

2. In view of the variety of systems of keeping accounts in this country we are of opinion that it is impossible to prescribe in the Act any uniform system of account-keeping on which profits shall be worked out.

3. We recommend that the Indian Income Tax Act should be extended in full to British Baluchistan and not confined, as at present, to the incomes of Government servants

4. We agree that the Indian Income Tax Act should be amended in order to provide that no account shall be taken of any income derived from a Hindu undivided family by any individual member of the family in determining the rate at which that individual member shall pay income tax on his separate income.

5. We agree that the Act should be amended in order to make the total income determine the liability to the tax as well as the rate at which the tax should be assessed on every portion of that income, and also in order to make the deduction on account of insurance premia permissible in the case of all incomes from whatever source derived.

We are not in favour of the recommendation made by the Mohammedan members of the Madras Committee that an allowance equal to or in lieu of insurance premia should be made in the case of those communities which have religious objections against life insurance.

6. The majority of the members of the Committee are of opinion that the adjustment system should be abolished provided that the assessments made in the current year be adjusted.

As regards new businesses we are of opinion that no assessment should be made until the second year. Provision should, however, be made in the Act for businesses that close down during the course of a financial year that the Collector may assess for that year on the profits received for the portion of the year during which the business is carried on.

We consider that there should be statutory provision that the owners of a business about to be closed down should give notice to the Revenue authorities of their intention to close down thebusiness 15 days before the business is closed down. An addition should be made to section 24 for this purpose. Rai Bahadur Ganga Ram and Dewan Tek Chand would prefer that this provision should not apply to persons who have not been previously assessed.

7. We are of opinion that all rules under the Income Tax Act should be made by the Government of India and that no rules should be made by the local Governments.

We endorse the opinion of the English Royal Commission on Income Tax in paragraph 408 (b) of their report that, where it can be done without detriment to the public interest, the general purport of the instructions issued to the income tax staff, so far as they affect tax payers, should be made available to the public.

8. As regards the question of the graduation of the tax we are of opinion that the grievance caused by the "jumps" is not sufficient to justify any change in the present system. Some members consider that the Schedule should be altered by the addition of two new rates of 7½ pies for incomes between Rs. 10,000 and Rs. 12,500 and 10½ pies for incomes between Rs. 17,500 and Rs. 20,000. The majority, however, do not consider that even this change is required.

9. We are of opinion that the distinction between registered and unregistered firms should be abolished and that the Act should make provision somewhat on the lines of the English Act for assessing the profits of partnerships as such at the highest rate. If the individual partners file their statements of personal income at the same time, the assessor will merely have to ascertain whether the whole of the partnership profits are accounted for in these personal statements, in which event he would charge the partners direct at the appropriate rate. It would be left for the decision of the assessor in each case to decide whether a partnership existed or not. The super-tax on unregistered firms should be abolished. Super-tax would then be levied on each individual partner on his total income. The only difficulty anticipated is as regards the non-resident partner. We consider that provision should be made in the Act empowering the Income tax assessor to call upon any resident partners or representatives of a firm to pay the super-tax due on the share of the profits belonging to any non-resident partner. We do not consider it feasible to insert any provision requiring any such resident partner or representative of the firm to get from the non-resident partner a statement of any other income that may accrue to him in India.

10. We are of opinion that the present rules made by most local Governments providing that the tax shall only be refunded in the district in which it was levied should be abolished and that any rules made should provide that a refund should be granted to an assessee in the district in which he is assessed to income tax, or, if he is not assessed, the district of his residence. We also recommend that it should be made obligatory on all persons who deduct income tax from interest on Government securities or the securities of companies to issue to all security holders a certificate that income tax has been deducted at the maximum rate, and that companies distributing dividends should be required by law to give a certificate that income tax has been or will be paid at the maximum rate. In both cases the amount of rate should be specified in the certificate. These certificates should be accepted as a final authority for a refund in the district in which the assessee is assessed, or, if he is not assessed, in which the assessee resides.

We recommend that applications for refunds should be received by post and that the refunds for those assessees who do not present themselves before the Collector should be remitted by money order. In such cases the cost of the money order should be borne by Government and should not be deducted from the amount refunded.

We are unable to support the recommendation of the Bombay Committee that in the case of Government securities the tax should be recovered at the lowest rate, the balance due being recovered direct from the assessee by the Collector.

RECOMMENDATIONS REGARDING SPECIFIC SECTIONS.

SECTION 2 (2).

11. Mr. Roy put forward the proposal that the members of a Hindu undivided family should be permitted to register their shares with the Collector and that where there is registration of the whole 16 annas share, assessment should be made individually on each member of the family only in respect of his share. He wishes this proposal to have effect although the income is not as a matter of fact actually distributed according to the registered shares. Mr. Manmohandas Ramji supports this proposal. Rai Bahadur Ganga Ram, Dewan Tek Chand and Mr. Jatar consider that the change proposed is neither possible nor desirable. The other members of the Committee do not wish to express any view upon this point, except to point out that if this proposal is carried out, the proposal previously made (paragraph 4 above) that the income derived by any individual member of an undivided Hindu family should not be taken into account in determining the rate of tax to which he is liable should have to be dropped.

SECTION 2 (4).

12. We agree to the proposal that the definition of Chief Revenue authority should be amended so as to permit a person other than the Financial Commissioner or the Board of Revenue being appointed as head of the Income Tax Department in provinces where these authorities exist. We also agree to the proposal of the Madras Committee that the designations of the Chief Revenue Authority, Collector and Commissioner should be abolished as they are likely to cause confusion and that the Income Tax authorities should be given a distinct nomenclature distinguishing between the assessor, the appellate authority and the head of the department. We also agree with the view of the Madras Committee that the Income Tax Commissioner should not be appointed as a matter of routine but should be an officer experienced in income tax work in India who is himself prepared to keep the post for a sufficient time to preserve consistency and continuity.

The Bengal members are only prepared to agree to the proposal regarding the amendment of the definition of "Chief Revenue Authority" on condition that their proposal regarding the association of non-official agency with the Commissioner of Income Tax in the disposal of revision cases and cases referred to High Court is accepted (see paragraphs 39 and 54 below).

SECTION 2 (5).

13. We agree with the proposal that the definition of "assessor" should make it clear that in cases where a business has various branches whether situated within the same province or more provinces than one, the assessor of the district in which the branch is situated should be given the powers conferred by this definition on the Collector of the headquarters district.

SECTION 2 (11).

14. We agree that power should be taken to fix by rule the "previous year" for any commercial community when the year adopted by the community does not conform with the present definition in the Act. There are two cases to be provided for, (1) the case where a commercial year may be slightly over or slightly under twelve months, and (2) the case where a commercial year ends shortly after the 31st March. In the latter case it is suggested that "previous year" should include a year terminating within one month after the end of the financial year.

SECTION 3 (1).

15. We are not in favour of the proposal of the Bombay Committee that the Act should be extended so as to make liable to Indian income tax incomes earned outside British India when not received in British India.

When an assessee domiciled in British India has an income accruing outside British India and brings that income into British India at intervals, the Act should provide that these accumulated profits shall be liable to assessment whenever brought into British India, irrespective of whether they are brought within the year in which they are earned or not.

SECTION 3 (2) (iv), (v).

16. We agree with the proposal that the concessions given to the particular provident funds mentioned in these clauses should be extended to the provident or superannuation funds of private firms and companies. It would, however, be necessary to lay down some general principles, (in particular providing that no such privilege should be conferred upon any funds which have not irrevocably left the control of the proprietors of the business), and these principles might suitably be inserted in the rules to be framed under the Act, pending legislation for such funds, which we understand is at present under consideration.

SECTION 3 (2) (viii).

17. We consider that the Legislative authorities should be asked whether this clause read with the definition of the word "business" in section 2 (3) will cover the case of a person purchasing one house with the intention of selling it for profit, and if the case is not covered, we suggest that the Act should be amended in order to provide for such a case.

SECTION 5.

18. We agree that efforts should be made to simplify the forms of returns for income-tax purposes so as to make them as intelligible as possible to the assessees, and that the forms should be prescribed by rules made by the Government of India.

SECTION 6.

19. We agree that this section should be amended in order to require all employers to deduct income-tax from all payments to their employees under "Salaries."

SECTION 8.

20. We agree that this section should be amended so as to provide for the case of premises let for business purposes and also for the assessment under this section of such premises as wharves, millyards, etc.

In view of the heavy loss that would be involved, we are not prepared to recommend that municipal taxation should be allowed as a deduction under this section. Mr. Roy and Mr. M. M. Ramji would allow deductions in respect of municipal taxation on house property and would make up the loss by increasing the rates of income-tax generally.

We do not consider that any allowance should be made for brokerage for arranging loans on mortgages and legal charges relating thereto as they are in the nature of capital charges.

We are unable to accept the recommendation of the Bombay Committee that, when the annual value exceeds the actual receipts from rent, tax should be levied from the tenant on the difference, or that the landlord should be empowered to recover tax from the tenant, as this seems to us to be a matter for mutual arrangement between the landlord and the tenant.

SECTION 8 (i), (ii).

21. We consider that the allowance of one-sixth for repairs is a generous one and that there is no case for increasing it. Mr. Roy dissents and would abolish the one-sixth allowance and allow actual expenditure in every case.

SECTION 8 (vi).

22. We do not consider that any alteration is required in sub-clause (vi) regarding collection charges.

SECTION 8 (vii).

23. We do not consider that any alteration is required in sub-clause (vii) regarding the allowance for vacancies. If there is any want of uniformity or regularity in connection with any such allowance the matter could be cured by executive instructions.

SECTION 9.

24. We do not consider it necessary or possible to specify in this section all allowances which are admissible or inadmissible. Suggestions have been received from Madras for the insertion in this section of a large number of allowances most of which are generally allowed under sub-section (2) (ix); lack of uniformity in granting deductions permissible under that sub-section can be provided for by the issue of executive instructions; in particular we consider that such instructions should be issued providing for allowances for bad debts, when consistent with the system of accounts adopted by the assessee.

SECTION 9 (2) (iii).

25. We agree that instructions should be issued that under section 9 (2) (iii) interest paid to a partner on a legal loan lent by him to the firm should be allowed as a business expense to the firm. We cannot accept the proposal made by the majority of the Madras Committee that the share of profits given to Mohammedan depositors in lieu of interest on borrowed capital should be allowed as a business expense.

26. We cannot accept the proposal made by the Bombay Committee that salaries paid to a partner should be allowed as a business expense.

SECTION 9 (2) (iv).

27. We agree that the allowances provided for in clause 9 (2) (iv) should be extended so as to cover insurance of stocks, stores and office furniture.

We are unable to support the recommendation of the Bengal Committee that allowance should be made for internal insurance by a firm itself. The non-official members from Bengal and the United Provinces dissent.

We do not consider it advisable to insert any provision in the Act for allowing as a business deduction insurance against a loss of profit. We think there should be a standing instruction that where the owner of a business asks for any such allowance it should be given on the assessee agreeing to pay income-tax on any amount recovered from the insurance company. The same principle should apply to insurance against loss of rent under section 8.

SECTION 9 (2) (vi).

28. We recommend that the section should be amended so as to provide that depreciation at the rates sanctioned by the Government of India should be allowed every year when there are sufficient profits and only the excess of the depreciation allowance over profits should be carried forward from year to year until absorbed, that this practice should be followed whether the depreciation allowance is adjusted in the accounts or not and irrespective of the amount shown in the accounts. We agree that the sub-section 9 (2) (vi) should be further amended in order that the rates of depreciation approved by the Government of India should be fixed rates and not maxima, and should apply to the whole of India.

SECTION 9 (2) (viii).

29. We are unable to accept the recommendation made by the majority of the Madras Committee that the provisions of this section should be extended so as to provide that all municipal taxes on a business whether in respect of premises or otherwise should be allowed as a business expense even if such a tax varies with the income of the business and is in the nature of a local income-tax.

SECTION 9 (2) (ix).

30. We are of opinion that bona fide expenditure for the welfare of the employees of a business should be allowed as a business expense under this sub-section on conditions to be prescribed by the Government of India or to be agreed upon between the Government of India and the assessee. We recognise that it is impossible to make any specific provision in the Act for this purpose.

SECTION 14 (2).

31. We consider that the words "by collection in that year" should be omitted, as they are inconsistent with section 36 (5).

We agree that it is necessary to omit from this section the words "and the taxable income of such company or firm is Rs. 2,000 or upwards" and to provide for the maximum rate being levied on the whole of the taxable income of the company or firm.

SECTION 17.

32. We consider that when a particular period is prescribed in the notice within which a return must be made, that period should date from the date of service of the notice on the assessee and not from the date on which the notice was issued. We consider it unnecessary to extend the period within which a return must be furnished to 60 days, as the Collector has complete discretion to extend the period.

SECTION 17 (2).

33. We are unable to accept the recommendation made by the Bombay Committee that the old summary procedure should be reintroduced for incomes between Rs. 2,000 and Rs. 5,000. Mr. Manmohandas Ramji dissents from this conclusion.

SECTION 18.

34. We do not consider that any change should be made in this section on the lines suggested by the Madras Committee, (viz., that the Collector must specify the particular accounts and documents to be produced and not to call for all documents and accounts as we consider that the present provisions of this section are sufficiently clear).

We agree with the Madras Committee that the section should be amended in order that it should not be obligatory on the Collector in every case to call for accounts where he considers the return in any way to be incorrect. We consider that this object could be attained by substituting the words "or produce" for the words "and produce" in sub-section (2). The object of the amendment is to provide that the Collector may dispose of a case by a personal interview with the assessee without being required by the Act to call for documents if he does not think this necessary.

We agree that the sections of the Act which provide that an assessee must attend either in person or by a pleader should be amended so as to allow the assessee to be represented by any person authorised by him.

We agree with the Bengal recommendation that a Collector should have power to call for the production of accounts whether a return has or has not been filed. We recommend that executive instructions should be issued to prevent undue detention of accounts called for by an assessor.

We do not agree with the Bombay proposal that income-tax Collectors should be debarred from taking notes from accounts of the names of persons who borrowed money from or lent money to the firm that is being assessed. We agree that any such notes must be kept strictly confidential. Mr. Manmohandas Ramji and Mr. Roy dissent from this.

SECTION 18 (5).

35. We recommend that the Act should be amended in order to provide for cases where the income from salary is by itself below Rs. 2,000 and is not liable to taxation at the source, and where an assessee's total income by the addition of other income to his salary is over Rs. 2,000. This suggestion is made as section 18 (5) refers only to sections 8-11.

SECTION 20.

36. We are unable to recommend the suggestion of the Madras Committee that an assessee should in all cases be supplied free with a copy of the Collector's order of assessment along with the notice of demand. We agree, however, that an assessee should be supplied by the Collector with a copy of the order of assessment free of charge if he applies for it.

The majority of the members agree to the recommendation of the Madras Committee that where there is a change in the proprietorship of a business or profession, it should be made clear in the Act that the liability for the tax based on the income of the preceding year attaches to the business or profession itself and that the new owners are liable for the tax although they were not owners for the whole of the time during which the profits on which the assessment is made were earned. This will also apply to cases where a company has been bought up by another company.

SECTION 21.

37. We are not in favour of the Madras Committee's proposal that an appeal should be allowed in cases where an assessee has failed to make a return or to comply with a notice requiring him to produce his accounts unless the appellate authority finds that the failure is knowing or wilful. We are, however, in favour of the proposal of the Bengal Committee that as it is very difficult to determine that a person has "knowingly and wilfully" failed to make a return under section 17 or to comply with the terms of a notice under section 18, section 21 should be amended so that any person who has after due notice and reasonable opportunity failed to make a return or to comply with the terms of a notice under section 18 should not be able to petition or appeal against an order of assessment or adjustment. Where, however, an assessment has in such a case been made under section 18 (4) and an assessee shows within one month from the date of service on him of a notice of demand to the satisfaction of the Collector that his omission to make a return or to comply with the terms of a notice under section 18 is due to want of due notice or lack of reasonable opportunity it should be open to the Collector to make a fresh assessment without the assessee having to file an appeal to the appellate authority against the original assessment. Dewan Tek Chand and Rai Bahadur Ganga Ram would prefer the Madras Committee's proposal.

SECTION 22.

38. As regards the view of the Madras Committee that the words "and fixing such time for payment as he thinks fit" in this section are inconsistent with the provisions of section 35, we are of opinion that section 22 only gives the Commissioner power, when he passes his final order on the appeal, to fix a date for payment and it gives the Commissioner no power to pass an order prior to the final order on the petition, requiring that the collection of the tax assessed shall be postponed, the Collector retaining his power under section 35 at his discretion to postpone collection pending disposal of an appeal.

We are not in favour of the suggestion mentioned by the Madras Committee that appeals should be heard by non official persons appointed by the local Government.

SECTION 23.

39. We are not in favour of the proposal put forward by the Bengal Committee that, if a petitioner so desires it, his petition should be heard and disposed of by the Chief Revenue Authority sitting with two non-official assessors whose functions would be advisory only. We do not think it would be possible to get a panel of non-official assessors willing to undertake this duty in most of the districts, and we do not consider it advisable that the Chief Revenue Authority should always deal with revision cases at the headquarters of the province. The non-official members from Bengal dissent.

SECTION 24.

40. We recommend that this section should be amended in order to make it clear that the penalty imposed under it is a penalty and is not "income-tax."

SECTION 25.

41. We agree that this section should be amended by altering the words "at any time in the year next following" to "at any time up to the end of the year next following."

Seven of the members of the Committee are in favour of extending the period under this section to three years, provided that in making assessments or re-assessments care is taken not to call for the production of account books unnecessarily and to detain them unduly. Six members of the Committee would retain the period of one year.

We agree that the last words of the section "and all the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly" should be amended in order to make it clear that all that is necessary is that the Collector should commence the proceedings for the assessment or re-assessment within the period prescribed by this section.

SECTION 26.

42. We agree with the proposal put forward by several provincial committees that this section should be amended so as to allow the Collector to rectify mistakes of his own motion.

We agree that it should be made clear, either by re-wording the section itself or by executive instructions, that the word "mistake" in this section refers only to a mistake which is patent from the facts or documents which were before the assessing officer when he passed the original assessment order and that it is not intended either to confer a general power of review or to authorise any assessee to introduce new facts. The period under this section should be the same as in Section 25.

We recommend that the word "may" in the first line of the section should be replaced by the word "shall"

SECTION 28.

43. We agree with the proposal of the Bengal Committee that provision should be made in this section to enable a Collector to require information to be given regarding specific payments when there is reason to believe that such payments could become liable to income-tax in the hands of the recipients. Mr. Manmohandas Ramji dissents on the ground that the Bombay Committee are opposed to any attempts to obtain information regarding the income of any assessee from any other party.

44. We are unable to propose, as recommended by the Bombay Committee any suitable definition of the words "business connection" and "agent." We are, however, of opinion that special efforts should be made to make the working of this section uniform and to define the policy to be followed throughout the whole of India, either by rules or by executive instructions

SECTION 35.

45. We do not see any reason to accept the Madras proposal for omission of the words "or if a time is not so mentioned, then on or before the first day of the second month following the date of the notice or order."

SECTION 36.

46. We agree with the proposal of the United Provinces Committee that sub-section (1) of this section should be divided into two sub-sections, one providing separately for levy of the penalty and one for realisation of the demand.

We do not think it is necessary to alter this section as proposed by the Madras Committee in order to make it possible to arrest a defaulter in the Madras City.

SECTION 37.

47. We consider that it should be made clear in the Act that where income-tax is deducted at the source it is the gross amount of the income before the income-tax is deducted that is to be taken into consideration in determining the rate at which an assessee shall be liable to income-tax on the rest of his income and also in determining his liability to super-tax.

Clause (b) of this section should be amended in order to make it clear that it is the amount of the profits to which a partner is entitled and not the profits which he has actually received which determines his personal liability to income-tax and his claim to a refund.

SECTION 38.

48. We consider that the period within which claims for refund under Section 37 should be allowed should be extended to three years from the last day of the year to which the claim related, if a similar extension is made with regard to the period prescribed in Sections 25 and 26.

SECTION 41.

49. We agree with the Bengal Committee that the question should be considered of whether a reference to Section 28 is required in this section, as it is not clear whether such reference is necessary in order to bring Section 177 of the Indian Penal Code into operation against a person who makes a false statement under Section 28.

SECTION 41.

50. As regards a suggestion from the Madras Committee for an alteration regarding the officer empowered to sanction prosecutions we think that the power to sanction prosecutions should be conferred upon the appellate authority under the Act and not upon the Income-tax Collector.

SECTION 42.

51. We agree that this section should be amended in order to make penal the disclosure of any information contained in any income-tax assessment record or any evidence or answer given by any person examined by revenue authorities.

We also think that it should be made clear in the Act that these documents or records cannot be called for by civil courts and suggest that the wording of the English Act should be followed, preventing public servants from disclosing information obtained in connection with the assessment of incomes except to such persons only as act in the execution of the Act, and where it shall be necessary to disclose the same to them for the purposes of the Act, or in order to, or in the course of, a prosecution for perjury committed in connection with proceedings under the Act.

We are further strongly of opinion that the practice in certain provinces of furnishing information to local authorities, who impose a tax on "circumstances and property" or a local income-tax of the details of assessments made by the income-tax authorities must be stopped.

We do not accept the proposal of the Madras Committee that for the words "Local Government" the words "District Officer or Magistrate or an officer of his status" should be substituted in the proviso, as Section 50 empowers the Local Government to delegate its powers to the head of the Income-tax Department.

SECTION 46.

52. The Legislative Department might consider the objection raised by the Madras Committee to the words "by the delivery or tender to him" in this section. That Committee recommends that the section should be amended in order to make it clear that a notice may be served in the manner prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure for the service of summons.

SECTION 47.

53. We agree to the proposal of the United Provinces Committee that this section should be so worded as to make it clear that the reference to the Government of India under this section is optional and not compulsory: that is, where the provinces concerned agree as to what is to be considered the principal place of business, no reference need be made to the Government of India.

SECTION 51.

54. We are of opinion that a reference to the High Court should be made only on a question of law and not on a question of fact. Mr. Manmohandas Ramji dissents. We agree to the proposal that this section should be amended so that the Chief Revenue Authority should no longer have power to withhold a reference to the High Court on the ground that an application is frivolous, or that a reference is unnecessary, but should be required to state a case to the High Court on the application of an assessee. Also that in order to provide against frivolous and unnecessary applications the section should contain a provision that every such application should be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 100. In order to safeguard the revenue the section must provide that the fact that a case has been stated to the High Court, shall not in any way stop the collection of the income-tax due from the assessee. The assessee must pay the tax, but if owing to the judgment of the High Court the amount of assessment is reduced the amount overpaid shall be refunded with such interest if any as the High Court may allow. Two members of the Committee would levy a fee of Rs. 20 and one member would charge no fee at all. The Bengal representatives and Mr. Birch are of opinion that there should not be an unrestricted right of appeal but that if the Chief Revenue Authority does not state a case on an application it should be open to the petitioner to require him to reconsider his decision sitting with 2 non-official assessors, the opinion of the majority to prevail.

We unanimously agree to the proposal of the Madras Committee that the section should be further amended in order to make it clear that the application for reference need not be made before the final order is passed by the Chief Revenue Authority but should be made within one month after the passing of the order. In order to secure the revenue such a reference should only be made after the assessment order has been passed.

We unanimously agree that no authority other than the Chief Revenue Authority should be required or allowed to state a case.

GENERAL.

54(a). We do not consider that any alteration is required in the definition of "Magistrate" in Section 2 (9) of the Act as suggested by the members of the Madras Committee.

55. We agree to the proposal made by several Provincial Committees that losses under one head of income should be charged against profits under another. Under the wording of Section 14 it is the aggregate amount chargeable under each head that determines taxable income, so that where a person has carried on a trade or profession and also has an income from house property if he has incurred an actual loss in the trade, the figure adopted under that head in arriving at the aggregate amount of income chargeable to income-tax is nil and not a minus sum. The majority of the Committee 8 against 6 are opposed to the proposal made by the Bengal Committee that business losses should be carried forward for 5 years.

56. The majority of the Committee are opposed to the Bengal Committee's proposal that provision should be made in the Act for making persons who are liable to income-tax liable to submit a return to the Collector of Income-tax whether called upon to do so or not.

57. We do not accept the recommendation of the Bombay Committee that accountants who claim to have examined accounts of a taxpayer should be called upon to take a declaration on oath that the accounts are correct for income-tax purposes and that a penalty should be imposed where certified accounts are found to be incorrect from this point of view.

58. With reference to proposals of the Bombay Committee and the United Provinces Chamber of Commerce we consider that there should be no alteration in the present provision regarding the super-tax on companies; more particularly in view of the loss of income involved. Under the terms of our reference we are debarred from making any proposals involving a loss of revenue unless accompanied by proposals for recouping that loss.

59. Our opinion has been asked by the Government of India on certain difficulties experienced in the working of Rule 15 of the Devolution Rules which provides for the provinces obtaining a share in the growth of income-tax receipts in so far as that growth is due to an increase in the amount of income assessed. The difficulty is that income-tax on the profits of a Company is collected in the province in which the headquarters of the Company is situated and the province where the whole of the operations of the Company are carried on, does not collect any income-tax from the Company. The non-official members recognize that there must be hardships in many cases but they are unable to lay down any general rule and leave it to the Government of India to decide where a case is such as to require any specific action. The case of Tata's Iron and Steel Works was considered an exceptional case. The non-official members of the Committee (other than the Bombay representatives) think that in this particular case as the whole operations of the Company are conducted in Behar and Orissa and as the Company itself has asked that the Income-tax assessed on it should be collected in Behar and Orissa, the Government of India should reconsider their previous decision in the matter.

Where the assessment of a Company or firm or business is transferred from one province to another, subsequent to the year 1920-21, the Committee are unanimously of opinion that the amount of income assessed in provinces in 1920-21 for the purpose of this Rule should be reduced in the case of the province from which the Company is transferred and a corresponding increase made in the assessed income of the province to which the business is transferred.

60. With reference to the suggestion of Mr. Manmohandas Ramji that provision should be made for the alleviation of the burden of double income-tax where the same income, or part of the same income, is taxed in more countries than one, it was explained that at a conference between representatives of the Home Government and the Dominions and of India an agreement was arrived at to the following effect:—

That in respect of income-tax both in the United Kingdom and in India there should be deducted from the appropriate rate of the United Kingdom income-tax (including super-tax) the whole of the rate of the Indian income-tax charged in respect of the same income, subject to the limitation that in no case should the maximum rate of relief given by the United Kingdom exceed one half of the rate of the United Kingdom income-tax (including super-tax) to which the individual taxpayer might be liable, and that any further relief necessary in order to confer on the taxpayer relief amounting in all to the lower of the two taxes (United Kingdom and Indian) should be given by India. That is to say, the proposal is that where income is liable to taxation both in the United Kingdom and in India, it should pay only at the highest rate leviable in either country. These proposals have been accepted by the Government of the United Kingdom and are embodied in Section 27 of the Finance Act of 1920. Under that provision a person whose income is assessed both in the United Kingdom and in India is entitled to claim from the authorities of the United Kingdom a refund or rebate of the rate levied in India up to one half of the English rate. We recommend that the Indian Act should be amended in order to implement the bargain arrived at and to provide that where any further relief is to be given in order to secure that such a person shall not pay a rate higher than the highest rate in either country, such relief will be given by India, subject to the limitation that the relief given in India shall not exceed half of the rate of income-tax and super-tax combined. At present the Indian rates of income-tax and super-tax combined are less than half of the rates in the United Kingdom, and therefore no loss will at the outset be incurred to Indian revenues from this arrangement. Loss will only be incurred when owing to any alteration in the rates, the Indian rate is more than half the English rate, and the loss would merely be the amount by which the Indian rate exceeds half the English rate.

61. The non-official members of the Committee desire to record their opinion that a matter of greater importance than the amendment of the Act is an increase in the number and efficiency of the staff, which should consist of officers of the highest training and integrity. They would emphasise that the Income-tax Department should include experts of high standing trained in accountancy whose remuneration should be such as to reflect the market value of their professional experience and attainments. Accountancy should be one of the foundations of training for the whole service. The scale of pay should be such as to attract the best material available and all posts in the department including the highest should be open to any officer of proved experience and capacity.

62. We have recommended that all the rules under the Act should be made by the Government of India and that local Governments should have no power to frame any rule. We have further throughout our report recommended that numerous details regarding assessment and the interpretation of provisions of the Act can only be settled and made uniform by issue of the rules and instructions. It is therefore essential in our opinion that the Government of India should have at least the nucleus of a department with functions similar to those of the Board of Inland Revenue in England.

63. In conclusion the non-official members of the Committee desire to place on record their appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Sim, and the other officers associated with him in preparing the materials for the consideration of the Committee and of the assistance rendered by them during the sittings of the Committee.

REWARDS.

No. 1546.—The following rewards have been granted to the undermentioned for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in the field while serving with the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force :—

Awarded the Indian Order of Merit, 2nd Class.

No. 3072 Dafadar Hazara Singh, 11th King Edward's Own Lancers.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 11th August 1920. An officer who had been wounded was seen falling from his horse and this Dafadar at once took a spare horse to his assistance though heavily fired at all the time. His courage and devotion to duty set an excellent example to his men.

No. 522 Acting Lance-Dafadar Teja Singh, 11th King Edward's Own Lancers.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 11th August 1920. Seeing that an attempt was being made to rescue a wounded officer he went to his assistance with a horse. Though heavily fired at, he refused to go back. His coolness and courage were conspicuous.

Ressaidar Dar Khan, 35th Scinde Horse.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 24th July 1920. During a rear-guard action at night he led his troop with ability and courage. When both squadron officers were wounded he took command and led three successive charges against the enemy. His bravery and initiative through the operations were most marked.

Risaldar-Major Nur Sher Khan, 37th Lancers.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 22nd July 1920. When in charge of a post he was surrounded by the enemy and subjected to heavy fire. With great presence of mind he kept his men in hand and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy. It was due to his courage and determination that the detachment were able to withdraw successfully.

Jemadar Chatarpal Singh, 8th Rajputs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 1st August 1920. During an attack the enemy broke through the line of a neighbouring unit and completely surrounded his post. He led the counter attack and drove the enemy back, inflicting heavy casualties. Though the enemy were far superior in numbers, he maintained his position intact until the line was restored. His courage and determination were a fine example to his men.

No. 404 Havildar Tara Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. During the attack on a column, he was often exposed to heavy enemy fire but repeatedly established his signalling stations. On reaching the most forward position, he twice climbed up a telegraph pole under fire in order to "tap in." He displayed great gallantry and initiative.

No. 2255 Sepoy Ram Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. During an attack on a position, he was one of a Lewis gun team. By the accuracy of his fire he materially assisted the advance of the line. He was severely wounded but refused to leave his gun. His determination and courage were a splendid example to all.

No. 254 Havildar Ganga Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 22nd July 1920. When the rear-guard was heavily attacked and driven back, on his own initiative he took up a position and brought such an effective fire to bear on the enemy that the latter were unable to advance. By his bravery and coolness he so inspired the men under him that the line was restored and the enemy driven back.

No. 4766 Havildar Hardit Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 22nd July 1920. During an attack on a position his platoon commander was wounded. He at once took command and by his skilful leading drove back the enemy. Later when the rearguard was driven in, on his own initiative he took up a position on the flank and by his accurate fire materially assisted in stopping the rush. His leadership and courage were an example to all.

No. 735 Sepoy Chanan Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on 7th July 1920. During an attack, when the firing line was unable to advance, he ran back fifty yards under heavy fire and brought up a Lewis gun. Though wounded, he managed to get the gun into action and his courage and coolness were beyond all praise.

No. 1712 Sepoy Gurdit Singh, 45th Rattray's Sikhs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. During an attack on an entrenched position, he handled his Lewis gun with such skill that the line was able to advance. He repeatedly took up positions under heavy fire in order to enfilade the enemy. His courage and determination were a splendid example to all.

Subadar Karim Din, I.D.S.M., 87th Punjabis.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 19th July 1920. During an attack on an entrenched position, he was ordered to reinforce the left of the line. He led his platoon with great courage under heavy fire. By the skilful handling of his men, he inflicted great loss on the enemy and secured the river, thus enabling the whole force to get water of which they were greatly in need. He displayed initiative and courage of a very high order.

No. 5224 Sepoy Juglal, 99th Deccan Infantry.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. Under close fire from the enemy, he carried a box of ammunition up to the firing line. Later, he brought back two wounded men with their rifles although heavily fired at during the journey.

Jemadar Harchand, 99th Deccan Infantry.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. As commander of the left flank guard, he led his platoon forward under heavy fire and materially assisted in breaking a strong counter attack. Throughout the action he displayed great coolness and bravery.

Subadar Mahepat Singh, 99th Deccan Infantry.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 2nd July 1920. He covered a withdrawal of his battalion and held his position with great determination in spite of the fact that both his Lewis guns were out of action, and that he was under heavy fire from a numerically superior enemy. It was owing to his courage, skilful leading and pluck that the battalion was able to withdraw successfully.

Jemadar Duli Chand, 99th Deccan Infantry.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 7th July 1920. When in charge of a platoon at a forward post, he sent two sections to reconnoitre the line. As they did not return he went out with a Lewis gun section and was attacked by two hundred of the enemy. He skilfully managed to get back to his post and collected his other Lewis guns. He then fought a rearguard action for five miles until he reached the main body. His courage and leadership were an example to his men.

Jemadar Dadu Ingle, 114th Mahrattas.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 4th July 1920. Although holding a position with a few men against a large number of the enemy, he managed to cover the retirement of another platoon and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy. It was due to his courage and determination that the platoon was able to withdraw in safety. Though at one time nearly surrounded, he refused to give way and set a splendid example to his men.

Subadar Shiambahadur Limbu, 1st Battalion, 10th Gurkha Rifles.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the 20th July 1920. During the relief of Rumaithah, a river had to be crossed. On reaching it, he quickly arranged for covering fire and then charged across the river at the head of his platoon. His pluck and initiative were an example to his men.

Awarded the Indian Distinguished Service Medal.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hours on Wednesday, the 27th July 1921, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. During the past week the monsoon has been more active than usual, but as the pressure distribution has been again abnormal the distribution of rainfall has been very unequal : thus while heavier rain than usual has fallen in Gujarat, Rajputana and the Punjab, there has been only about a quarter of the customary amount in Assam. Towards the end of the week a storm formed at the head of the Bay ; it is moving in a northwesterly direction and is likely to produce heavy rain near its track.

2. Burma.—Nearly general rain fell in Lower Burma throughout the week, and in Upper Burma on the 22nd ; there were local or scattered falls on the remaining days in the latter area.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was nearly general rain in Assam on the 20th, in Bengal on the 20th, 25th and 26th, in Orissa between the 24th and 26th, in Chota Nagpur on the 20th, 21st, 25th and 26th, and in Bihar on the 20th, 21st and 26th ; rain fell locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week in the first three areas, on one other day in Chota Nagpur and on three other days in Bihar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Rainfall was nearly general in the east of the United Provinces and of Central India on the 21st and 25th, in the west of the United Provinces on the 21st, 22nd and 25th, in the west of the Central Provinces on the 22nd and 26th, and in the east of the Central Provinces on the 21st, 22nd, 25th and 26th ; it occurred locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week in the east of the United Provinces and of the Central Provinces, on three other days in Central India East and the west of the United Provinces, and four other days in the west of the Central Provinces. In Central India West there was local rain on the 22nd, 23rd and 26th.

Northwest India.—Rain fell nearly generally in the Punjab East and North on the 22nd and 23rd, in west Rajputana on the 26th, in east Rajputana on the 23rd and 26th, and in Gujarat on the 20th and between the 22nd and 25th ; there were local or scattered falls during the rest of the week in Gujarat, and the Punjab East and North, and on three other days in Rajputana. Rainfall was local in the Punjab Southwest on the 26th, in Kashmir on the 22nd, in lower Sind on the 24th and 26th, and in the North-West Frontier Province on the 26th ; a few falls occurred in the North-West Frontier Province on three other days. From east Baluchistan scattered falls were reported on three days in the week.

The Peninsula.—Rainfall was nearly general in the Konkan and Malabar throughout the week, in the Bombay Deccan on the 22nd and 23rd, in north Hyderabad on the 20th, 22nd and 26th, in south Hyderabad on the 21st, 22nd and 24th, in Mysore on the 23rd and 25th, in the Madras Deccan between the 20th and 22nd, and on the north Madras coast on the 21st, 23rd and 24th ; it occurred locally or at a few stations on the remaining days in the Bombay Deccan, Mysore and on the north Madras coast, on three other days in north Hyderabad, and on two other days in south Hyderabad. In southeast Madras there was local rain on the 23rd, with individual falls on five other days.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 23rd July, 1921.

Burma.—The rainfall during the week was general throughout Lower Burma. The cultivation of the main rice crop is progressing normally in Lower Burma and standing crops are in good condition. Cattle are healthy except in the Pegu Division. The price of unhusked rice is from Rs. 235 to 238 and that of white rice (specials) is steady at Rs. 590 per hundred baskets. Owing to failure of railway communications no returns have been received from four districts of Lower Burma and ten of Upper Burma.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Plucking of tea, harvesting of autumn rice and transplanting of winter rice are in progress. The paddy and jute crops on low lands are reported to have been damaged by floods in some places in the Assam valley. Prospects of crops are moderate. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The price of common rice continues to rise.

Bengal.—Heavy rain fell in parts of north Bengal causing damage to standing crops on low lands. Elsewhere the fall was generally light. More rain is needed for transplantation of winter paddy which is progressing slowly. Prospects are likely to suffer if timely rainfall is not received. Reaping autumn paddy and cutting, steeping and washing jute are going on in north and east Bengal. The average price of common rice has risen slightly.

Bihar and Orissa.—Rain was general all over the Province, the fall being heavy in Shahabad, Champaran, Darbhanga and parts of Saran, Muzaffarpur, Monghyr and Bhagalpur. Standing crops doing well. 5,493 persons received gratuitous relief in Puri. The price of common rice has risen in seven districts, fallen in three and remained stationary in the remainder. The average price of local common rice at headquarters is 5·8 seers a rupee against 5·9 seers last week, maize 6·67 seers against 6·88 seers. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur is good.

United Provinces.—Rainfall was generally good throughout the province but more rain is still wanted in some districts. Preparation of land for autumn crops continues. Transplantation of rice has commenced in places. The condition of standing crops is generally good and prospects are favourable. Agricultural stock is in satisfactory condition though cattle disease is still prevalent in many districts. Fodder is on the whole sufficient though it is reported to be scarce and dear in some districts. Water and market supplies are sufficient. Prices are mostly stationary.

The weekly report on scarcity in Mirzapur, Garhwal and Almora is as follows:—The average rainfall was good in the affected tracts but more rain is still required in parts of Mirzapur. Labouring and cultivating classes are affected in the south of Mirzapur where distress is increasing as earthwork is now difficult. Crime is normal in Garhwal and Almora but shows an increase in Mirzapur. Transplantation of rice continues. There is heavy demand for agricultural labour in Garhwal. The physical condition of people on relief is good throughout. No wandering is noticeable but some cases of emaciation are reported from parts of Mirzapur. Medical arrangements are generally good but cholera is increasing in some rural and urban areas of Mirzapur district while it is dying out in Garhwal. Standing crops are generally doing well. Prospects are improving. The condition of agricultural stock is generally satisfactory though some cattle disease is reported from parts of the affected areas. Fodder and water are sufficient. Importation of grain is brisk. Advances for importation of grain, purchase of pack animals and subsistence takavi are being made in Almora. Regular gratuitous relief is being given both in Almora and Garhwal. Prices are rising in Almora but are stationary in Garhwal and Mirzapur. Price basis in Garhwal 2½ to 3¼, Almora 3 to 4 and Mirzapur 4 to 7 seers per rupee. Gram and juar are staple grains in Mirzapur. No relief works are needed at present in Garhwal and Almora. Numbers relieved:—Mirzapur aided works 20, test works 75, poor-house 182, gratuitously relieved 8,807, total 9,084. Garhwal gratuitously relieved 384, Almora gratuitously relieved 12, grand total 396.

Punjab.—Rain fell in all the reporting districts. The fall was moderate in parts of south east Ambala and Jullundur and light elsewhere. Rain was useful for standing crops and for sowings but more is needed. Standing crops are generally normal on irrigated to below normal on unirrigated areas. Sowings of rice, millets, pulses, etc., continue on both irrigated to unirrigated areas and are below normal. Germination is fair. Fodder is scarce but the recent rains will improve the situation. Cattle are generally weak from overwork and scarcity of fodder. Water generally sufficient. Prices generally stationary. Prices of wheat and barley generally between warning and scaricity rates and of others at or above scarcity rate. Stocks of foodgrains sufficient except in a few districts. Prices of wheat—Rawalpindi 4¾, Ferozepore and Lahore 5, Ambala and Lyallpur 5¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Good rain fell in some districts and sowings of certain autumn crops are in progress. More rain is wanted. Great scarcity of fodder and water prevails in some parts. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at 4$\frac{15}{16}$ seers and in Dera Ismail Khan at 4¾ seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Rain moderate. Prices stationary. Fodder insufficient.

Kashmir.—The week generally was rainless and hot. Operations in connection with autumn crops are progressing. No decrease in prices is reported.

Baluchistan.—Report not received.

Rajputana.—Rainfall varying from 24 cents to 791 cents was received during the week. More is needed almost everywhere. The weather remains cloudy. Preparation of land for autumn crops and sowing operations continue. Fodder is insufficient in Tonk, Kishengarh, Kotah, Jhalawar, Dungarpur, Karauli and Merwara. Agricultural stock is emaciated in places due to insufficiency of fodder and water. Cholera exists in parts of Kotah and small-pox in parts of Merwara. Prices are stationary.

Central India.—Rainfall was general except in Bundelkhand where slight showers were received. It was insufficient in Indore, Khilchipur and Baghelkhand. Sowing continues but is retarded in parts of Malwa for want of rain. Standing crops are improving in Indore. Elsewhere they are fair to good. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good except for some cattle disease in parts of Rewa. It is unsatisfactory in Barwani and Jobat and indifferent in Alirajpur. Pasturage is insufficient in Indore, Jobat and parts of the southern States and bad in Kurwai. Prices are high.

The weekly report on famine is as follows:—The number of persons on works was 425 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 8,351. Poor-houses had 883 inmates. Owing to setting in of rains sowing of autumn crops has commenced. Cases of cholera have occurred in Sohagpur, Beglari, Bandhogarh and part of Deosar.

Gwalior.—Rain is partial and insufficient. Agricultural operations are in progress but cotton sowing suspended for want of rains. Fodder and water are both scarce. The condition of agricultural stock is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be sultry with occasional clouds. The Vindhyan districts received practically no rain but moderate to heavy showers fell elsewhere, the largest quantity registered being about 4 inches in Amraoti. Rain received up to now has been generally well distributed and sufficient for agricultural purposes except in Bhandara and Balaghat where more rain is urgently required for rice transplantation. Sowing still continues in places and germination of crops already sown is good everywhere. Weeding is proceeding. Condition of standing crops is generally good and prospects are so far favourable. Agricultural stock is doing moderately well, new grass being available. No deficiency of drinking water is reported. General condition of the people is fair to good. Both labourers and agriculturists have ample employment commanding high wages. Food-stocks are sufficient. Prices of staple foodgrains and other necessaries of life continue to rule high. The rainfall closely corresponds with the average in eleven districts but is below normal in the remaining districts.

Feudatory States:—There was sufficient rain in the States. Transplantation and thinning of rice continue.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Good rain varying from 1·34 to 9·76 inches fell in all affected districts except Damoh, Mandli, Seoni, Chindwara, Raipur and Bilaspur where no rain or rain less than one inch was received. Sowings of autumn crops are almost completed. Germination is generally good but some resowing will be necessary. Weeding continues. The numbers on works decreased from 56,045 to 53,490. The decrease was general except in Jubbulpore, Raipur and Drug. Relief works being closed as necessity for their continuance disappears. Numbers on gratuitous relief 48,782 as compared with 49,228 in previous week. The public health is good except for the continuance of cholera in a milder form in some districts. Prices are rising slightly. Import of foodstuffs continues wherever necessary. Distribution of kharif takavi completed. Private kitchen in Raipur and Bilaspur and private charity in Akola and Buldana continue to give relief. Crime generally normal.

Bombay.—Rain was general and beneficial throughout Presidency and also in parts of Sind. More is still needed in parts of Kathiawar, Kolhapur and Sind. Sowing and transplantation continue. Germinated seedlings are thriving. Water in Sind canals rising. Fodder sufficient except in parts of Karachi, Nawabshah, Sukkur, Thar and Parker but improving in Gujarat, Deccan, Bijapur and Kolapur as green grass becomes available. Drinking water improving due to heavy rainfall. Irrigation water sufficient. Cattle good except in Thar and Parker. Prices fluctuating.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Distress is decreasing in Ahmednagar. Numbers of works in progress:—Broach 7, Panch Mahals 7, Ahmednagar 7, Poona 1, Sholapur 1, Bijapur 9. Relief works are being closed as rainfall continues satisfactory. Gratuitous relief to decrepit and needy and dole to inferior village servants continue. Numbers on relief works:—Panch Mahals 7,162, Broach 1,327, Ahmednagar 18,338, Poona 1,321, Sholapur 3,133, Bijapur, 20,385; dependants—Ahmednagar 7,639, Sholapur 809, Bijapur 5,072; gratuitous—Panch Mahals 2,683, Broach 1,940, West Khandesh 1,488, Ahmednagar 23,936, Poona 4,971, Sholapur 6,859, Satara 3,349, Bijapur 5,548, Belgaum 3,757. The condition of people on works and dole is good. Fodder is scarce. Cattle camps are being closed. The supply of drinking water is improving. Takavi being given freely.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was general. The highest fall recorded was 9·55 inches in the Nanded district. Average fall for the dominions was 2·30 inches. Sowings of autumn crops are in general progress. Condition of early rice is fair. Crops damaged by insects in parts of the Nizamabad and Karimnagar districts. Cattle disease reported in parts of Parbhani district. Drinking water supply sufficient. Green grass is available for cattle. Tanks have not received sufficient supplies. Prices of foodgrains continue high, and almost stationary. Juar is selling at 3½ seers in the Aurangabad and Bir districts.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Slight and isolated showers fell during week under report. Relief works are being closed gradually. Prices of food-grains continue high. Juar sells at three to six and half seers per rupee and rice at two and half to five. Number on relief works:—49,000, gratuitous 43,000, total 92,000.

Mysore.—The rainfall was good in the Kadur and Shimoga districts and light to fair elsewhere. Prices of foodgrains generally rising. Markets are well supplied.

Coorg.—Good rain fell during week. Ploughing for rice and transplantation continue. Water and fodder for cattle are available. Cattle are generally healthy. Public health is fair. Prices of foodgrains are high.

Madras.—Rainfall light to fair in Ganjam, Bellary, Anantapur, South Arcot, Salem, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly, the South except Tanjore and Travancore; very heavy in south Kanara. Moderate or heavy elsewhere. Standing crops fair generally. Outturn of harvested paddy and dry crops generally fair in parts of fourteen districts. Sowing of paddy and dry crops proceeding in most districts. Condition of cattle is good generally. Water insufficient in parts. Pasture and fodder sufficient generally except in parts of the Circars, Deccan and Nellore. Prices tending to rise. Prospects improving in parts of Vizagapatam, Kurnool, Tinnevelly and fair elsewhere. Three test works—Kurnool attendance 2,069, gratuitous 985.

The weekly report on famine was as follows:—Four relief works in Bellary and five in Anantapur were in progress. Distress is moderate. Coolie classes are mostly affected. People are resorting freely to works. No marked foreign influx. The condition of people on relief and public health generally fair. No emaciation. Relief measures adequate. No special relief to weavers and artizans is necessary now. State loans being advanced. Prices of cholam—Bellary $6\frac{1}{16}$ and Anantapur $6\frac{1}{2}$ seers per rupee. Numbers on relief:—Bellary—works 13,071, gratuitous 2,911, total 15,982; Anantapur—works 7,398, gratuitous 3,805, total 11,203.

Statement showing numbers on relief will be published next week.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

POLICE.

Simla, the 26th July, 1921.

RESOLUTION.

The Government of India and the Secretary of State in Council have had under consideration a number of memorials from officers of the various Imperial services concerning their pay, pensions and conditions of service. As there may be some delay in announcing the orders on the subject of the memorials of the services generally, the Government of India have decided to promulgate at once the following decisions affecting the pay of the Indian Police Service.

2. An examination of the scales of pay at present admissible to officers of the various departments shows that the Indian Police Service, the service whose pay was first revised, is at some disadvantage when compared with the other Imperial services. Its time-scale starts at a lower figure and rises to a lower maximum than that of other services, while there is a smaller percentage of administrative and other posts above the time-scale. It is recognised that the Police officer commences his service at a less mature age and has not to incur the expenditure upon technical education which is necessary in the case of members of such services as the Forest and Engineering Services. The Government of India consider, however, that these factors should not operate to place him throughout his service at a permanent disadvantage as compared with members of the specialist services; and they are accordingly pleased, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, to announce the following revised rates of pay for the Indian Police Service.

3. The ordinary time-scales applicable to the service will be as below :—

Year of service.	Inferior scale.			Superior scale.
	Pay.	Overseas pay.	Total.	Pay.	Overseas pay.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.

26	...	...	...	1,350	250	1,600

Efficiency bars will be in force as at present after the ninth year of service in the Inferior and the eighteenth in the Superior Scale.

4. There will be a selection grade on Rs. 1,450 plus Rs. 250 overseas pay. The numbers in this grade will be so fixed for each province that the total percentage of posts above the time-scale in the province held by members of the Indian Police Service will not exceed 10 per cent. of the provincial cadre.

5. The pay of Deputy Inspectors-General will be fixed at Rs. 1,750—100—2,150.

6. The annual increment of all Inspectors-General will be raised from Rs. 100 to Rs. 125 and the initial pay of the Inspectors-General in Assam and the North-West Frontier Province will be increased to Rs 2,250. The maximum pay will, however, remain the same as at present, except in the North-West Frontier Province, viz., Rs. 3,000 per mensem in the major provinces, Rs. 2,750 per mensem in the Central Provinces and Rs. 2,500 per mensem in Assam. The maximum pay in the North-West Frontier Province will be raised to Rs. 2,500 per mensem.

7. These orders will take effect from the 30th of April 1921, the date of receipt of the Secretary of State's sanction to the revision.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all local Governments and Administrations, the Finance Department and the Director, Intelligence Bureau, for information and guidance.

Ordered also that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

REMARKS.

During the week ending the 22nd January 1921, a total of 7,273 deaths were recorded in 83 towns in the various provinces in India with an aggregate population of 7,929,486. This corresponds to an annual death rate of 47·7 per thousand.

77 of the towns for which figures are available registered 3,971 births, corresponding to an annual birth rate of 32·3 per mille. In the same towns 5,657 deaths were registered.

The following towns recorded a death rate of over 50 per mille :—.

Howrah (57·1), Maniktala (56·1), Puri (84·7), Ludhiana (64), Lahore (52), Sialkot (62), Rawalpindi (61), Multan (59), Peshawar (55), Nagpore (85 37), Jubbulpore (71·74), Burhanpore (51·26), Amraoti (121·39), Madras (50·4), Conjeeveram (53·0), Madura (70·2), Tinnevelly (60·4), Salem (183·7), Bombay (60·9), Poona (69·62), Sholapur (116·88), Ahmedabad (57·17), Karachi (60·27) and Hyderabad (60·91).

In Delhi, Howrah, Amritsar, Nagpur, Jubbulpore, Amraoti and Sholapur, the chief mortality was due to fevers; in Calcutta, Lahore, Peshawar, Bombay, Poona, Ahmedabad, Hyderabad, Rangoon and Mandalay to respiratory diseases; in Madras to dysentery and diarrhœa; and in Madura and Salem to plague.

Cholera was responsible for 146 deaths, small-pox for 29 and plague for 325. Of the total mortality from cholera, 109 deaths were recorded in nine towns in Bengal Presidency and 16 in Cuttack, and of the total number of deaths from plague 193 were reported from Salem, 57 from Madura and 18 from Muzaffarpur.

IMPORTATION OF PLUMAGE (PROHIBITION) ACT, 1921.

AN ACT TO PROHIBIT THE IMPORTATION OF PLUMAGE.

[1st July 1921.]

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

Prohibition on importation of plumage.

1.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, a person shall not import into the United Kingdom the plumage of any bird.

(2) Goods prohibited to be imported by virtue of this Act shall be deemed to be included among the goods enumerated and described in the table of prohibitions and restrictions inwards contained in section forty-two of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, and the provisions of that Act and of any Act amending or extending that Act shall apply accordingly.

39 & 40 Vict., c. 36.

Exemptions and licences.

2.—(1) The plumage of the following birds, namely—

(a) birds for the time being included in the Schedule to this Act;

(b) birds imported alive;

(c) birds ordinarily used in United Kingdom as articles of diet;

is excepted from the prohibition on importation imposed by this Act.

(2) The prohibition on importation imposed by this Act shall not apply to any plumage imported as part of the wearing apparel of a passenger if, in the opinion of the Commissioners of Customs and Excise, that plumage is bona fide intended and is reasonably required for the personal use of the passenger.

(3) Where an application is made to the Board of Trade for the addition to or removal from the Schedule to this Act of the name of any bird, the Board may, after taking into consideration the recommendation made in the matter by the advisory committee to be appointed under this Act, by order add to the said Schedule or remove therefrom, as the case may be, the name of that bird.

An Order made under this provision shall specify the name of the species and of the order, if any, to which the bird mentioned in the Order belongs.

(4) The Board of Trade may grant to any person a licence subject to such conditions and regulations as they may think fit authorising the importation of plumage for any natural history or other museum, or for the purpose of scientific research, or for any other special purpose.

(5) Any person importing plumage under a licence granted in pursuance of this section shall on importation deliver to an officer of Customs and Excise a written declaration as to the nature of the plumage and the purpose for which it is imported, and any person importing any plumage which is alleged to be excepted from the prohibition on importation imposed by this Act shall, if so required, deliver to an officer of Customs and Excise a written declaration as to the nature of the plumage and the ground on which it is alleged to be so excepted.

(6) Anything authorised or required under this Act to be done to or by the Board of Trade may be done to or by the President, a secretary or an assistant secretary, of the Board, or to or by any person authorised in that behalf by the President of the Board.

Appointment of advisory committee.

3. Within four months of the passing of this Act, the Board of Trade shall appoint an advisory committee consisting of—

(a) An independent chairman,

(b) Two experts in ornithology,

(c) Three experts in the feather trade,

(d) Four other members.

All applications for addition to or removal from the Schedule to this Act shall be made to the Board of Trade, which shall refer such applications to the advisory committee, which shall, after due inquiry, submit a recommendation to the Board of Trade in regard thereto.

Interpretation, short title and commencement.

4.—(1) In this Act the expression "plumage" includes the skin or body of a bird with the plumage on it.

(2) This Act may be cited as the Importation of Plumage (Prohibition) Act, 1921.

(3) This Act shall come into operation on the expiration of nine months after the passing thereof.

RULES UNDER THE INDIAN TERRITORIAL FORCE ACT, 1920.

No. 1583.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (1) of Section 13 of the Indian Territorial Force Act, 1920 (XLVIII of 1920), the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following rules :—

1. These rules may be called the Indian Territorial Force Rules, 1921.

Short title.

2. In these rules, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

Definitions.

(a) " the Act " means the Indian Territorial Force Act, 1920; XLVIII of 1920.

(b) " Form " means a Form as set out in Schedule I;

(c) " regulations " means regulations made under Section 14;

(d) " Schedule " means a Schedule to these rules;

(f) " training year " means a period of twelve months beginning on the first day of April and ending on the thirty-first day of March;

(g) the expressions " Commanding Officer " and " Officer Commanding the corps or unit " include, in respect of any corps or unit other than a University Corps, the Adjutant of the corps or unit when that corps or unit is not embodied for training or military service.

(h) the expression " Officer Commanding the District " means the General or other officer in command of the military district or other area within which the head-quarters of a corps or unit constituted under the Act are situated.

PART I.

ENROLMENT.

3. Every person offering himself for enrolment shall fulfil the following conditions :—

Conditions of enrolment.

(a) he shall not be a person who is a member of a criminal tribe within the meaning of the Criminal Tribes Act, 1911, or who has at any time been sentenced to a term of transportation or imprisonment, or to whipping, or who has been ordered under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, to give security for his good behaviour, such sentence or order not having been subsequently reversed or remitted or the offender pardoned;

III of 1911.

Act V of 1898.

(b) he shall not have been dismissed from the Indian Territorial Force;

(c) he shall be of good character;

(d) he shall have attained the age of 18 years or, in the case of applicants for enrolment in a University Corps, the age of 17 years and he shall not have attained the age of 31 years:

provided that any non-commissioned officer or man of the Indian Territorial Force who desires to be re-enrolled as hereinafter provided during his current term of enrolment or any person who has completed a term of enrolment in the Indian Territorial Force or any soldier discharged from His Majesty's Indian Forces with not less than three years' approved service and with a good character may be enrolled if he has not attained the age of 35 years and does not belong to the Indian Army Reserve; and.

(e) he shall have attained such standard of height, chest measurement and physical fitness as may be required by regulations.

4. (1) A person desirous of being enrolled shall apply to the officer commanding the corps or unit for service in which he desires to be enrolled or to an officer who is a recruiting officer or assistant recruiting officer for the purpose of the enrolment of persons under the Indian Army Act, 1911, or to the District Magistrate of the district in which he ordinarily resides or to such other officer as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf.

Application for enrolment.

(2) The officer or Magistrate to whom an application under sub-rule (1) has been made shall cause the applicant to fill up and sign in his presence a copy of Form I.

(3) When the application has been made to any person, other than the officer commanding the corps or unit, empowered under sub-rule (1) to receive applications for enrolment, such person shall forward the application together with the Form referred to in sub-rule (2), to the officer commanding the corps or unit for service in which the applicant desires to be enrolled.

(4) Applications of persons desirous of being enrolled in a University Corps must be countersigned by the Principal of the College of which the applicant is a member, or by the Registrar of the University.

5. When an application is under rule 4 made to, or received by, the officer commanding a corps or unit, that officer shall satisfy himself in such manner as may be laid down by the Local Government that the application is in order and that the applicant fulfils the conditions of enrolment specified in rule 3, and may make such further inquiry as he thinks fit regarding the suitability of the applicant for the corps or unit in which he desires to be enrolled.

Verification.

6. If the commanding officer is satisfied that the application is in order, that the applicant fulfils the conditions of enrolment and that he is suitable for enrolment in the corps or unit for service in which he desires to be enrolled, he shall cause the applicant to be served with a notice requiring him to present himself for medical examination at a time and place to be specified in the notice.

Medical examination.

7. If the commanding officer is not satisfied that the application is in order or that the applicant fulfils the conditions of enrolment or that he is suitable to be enrolled in the corps or unit of his choice, or if the applicant fails to comply with the notice served on him under rule 6 or is reported to be medically unfit for service in the Indian Territorial Force, the commanding officer shall reject the application and shall inform the applicant accordingly:

Rejection.

provided that the Officer Commanding the District shall have power to review any case of rejection and may thereupon order the enrolment of the applicant.

8. (1) If the commanding officer does not reject the application, the applicant shall be accepted for enrolment, and shall be required to fill up a copy of Form II and to sign the declaration at the foot thereof.

Method of enrolment.

(2) If the commanding officer is satisfied that the applicant understands the questions put to him, and consents to the conditions of service, he shall sign a certificate to that effect on the said Form, and the applicant shall thereupon be deemed to be enrolled.

9. (1) Every person enrolled shall be attested by the commanding officer by whom he has been enrolled, and for this purpose an oath or solemn affirmation shall be administered to him in one of the forms specified in Form II or in such other form to the same purport as the commanding officer ascertains to be in accordance with the religion of the person to be attested or otherwise binding on his conscience.

Attestation.

(2) An entry of the fact that a person enrolled has taken the oath or affirmation directed by this rule shall be endorsed on the enrolment form signed by him, and shall be authenticated by the signature of the commanding officer.

10. (1) Subject to the provisions of Part II of these rules, every person accepted for enrolment shall be enrolled for a period of six years from the date of his attestation under rule 9:

Period of enrolment.

Provided that—

(a) any non-commissioned officer or man of the Indian Territorial Force at any time after the commencement of the last period of periodical training which he undergoes during his current term of enrolment, or

(b) any person who has completed a term of enrolment in the Indian Territorial Force, or

(c) any person who is discharged under rule 11 (3) from a University Corps after not less than 2 years' approved service, or, may be enrolled for a period of four years.

(2) The enrolment of any person such as is referred to in clause (a) of the proviso to sub-rule (1) shall date from the date of the completion of his current term of enrolment.

PART II.

DISCHARGE.

11. (1) Every person enrolled shall, on becoming entitled to receive his discharge under the Act or these rules, be so discharged with all convenient speed.

Discharge.

(2) Any such person may be discharged as hereinafter provided on any of the following grounds, namely :—

(a) that he has been convicted by a criminal or military court of an offence punishable with transportation or imprisonment;

(b) that he has, in filling up any form prescribed by these rules or otherwise for the purpose of obtaining his enrolment, made any statement which was false and which he knew to be false or did not believe to be true;

(c) that his services are no longer required;

(d) that he is medically unfit for further service.

(3) Any person enrolled, who is for the time being appointed to a University Corps shall be discharged on ceasing to be connected with, or to reside at, the University or, as the case may be, a college affiliated thereto.

Discharging authority.

12. The officer commanding any corps or unit may, on his own authority, discharge any person enrolled on any of the grounds specified in clauses (a) and (c) of sub-rule (2) and in sub-rule (3) of rule 11, but no person shall be discharged on the ground specified in clause (b) of sub-rule (2) of that rule save under the orders of the Officer Commanding the District in which the corps or unit is located.

Discharge on application.

13. (1) Any enrolled person not entitled to his discharge under the Act or these rules, who is desirous of being discharged prior to the expiration of the period for which he was enrolled, shall apply in writing to the officer commanding the corps or unit to which he is for the time being appointed stating the reasons for the application.

(2) The commanding officer may either grant such application or forward it with his own recommendation thereon to the Advisory Committee constituted for the Province in which the corps or unit is located.

Discharge certificate.

14. Every enrolled person who is discharged from the Indian Territorial Force shall be furnished by his commanding officer with a certificate similar to that referred to in section 17 of the Indian Army Act, 1911.

VIII of 1911.

TRAINING.

Preliminary training.

15. (1) Every person enrolled who has been appointed to a corps or unit other than a University Corps shall be liable, for the purpose of undergoing preliminary training, to be embodied, under the orders of the Officer Commanding the District in which the corps or unit is located, for a period or periods not exceeding in the aggregate 28 days.

(2) Every member of a University Corps shall be liable to undergo preliminary training consisting of not less than 78 hours of actual drill or instruction during the first six months after his enrolment: provided that a University vacation shall be disregarded in computing that period.

(3) The officer commanding any corps or unit may exempt, either wholly or in part, from liability to undergo preliminary training any person enrolled who has, in his opinion, undergone adequate military training under the Indian Defence Force Act, 1917, or otherwise.

III of 1917.

Annual training.

16. Every person who has undergone the preliminary training required by rule 15, or has been exempted from undergoing the same, shall be liable to undergo periodical training as herein provided, namely:—

(1) every such person who is not a member of a University Corps shall be liable to be embodied for periodical training for a period not exceeding 28 days in each training year;

(2) every member of a University Corps shall be liable to undergo not less than 2 hours of actual drill or instruction during each week of a University term, and to be embodied in camp for a period not exceeding 15 days in each training year:

provided that any person enrolled who has been embodied for military service under section 9 for a period or periods aggregating not less than 20 days in any training year shall not be required to undergo periodical training during that year.

PART IV.

PAY AND ALLOWANCES.

Pay and allowances.

17. Every person enrolled, other than a person enrolled in a University Corps, shall for any period during which he is called out or embodied for training, and every person enrolled shall for any period during which he is called out or embodied for military service, be entitled to such pay and such allowances as are for the time being admissible to corresponding ranks of His Majesty's Indian Forces.

PART V.

DISCIPLINE DURING TRAINING.

Corps or units other than University Corps.

VIII of 1911.

Application of the Indian Army Act, 1911.

18. The Indian Army Act, 1911, and the rules made thereunder in their application to members of the Indian Territorial Force, other than members of a University Corps, embodied for or otherwise undergoing military training, shall be modified to the extent and in the manner specified in Schedule II.

University Corps.

Offences.

19. An officer, non-commissioned officer or man of a University Corps commits an offence if he, when embodied for or otherwise undergoing training under the Act, does any of the following acts, namely :—

(1) when on parade or undergoing military training or wearing His Majesty's uniform—

(a) strikes, or uses or offers violence to, or uses threatening or insubordinate language to, or behaves with contempt to, his superior officer ; or

(b) disobeys any standing order of, or lawful command given by, his superior officer ; or

(c) neglects to obey a general or garrison order made specially applicable to the Indian Territorial Force, by the officer commanding the corps to which he belongs ; or

(d) is in a state of intoxication ; or

(e) being a non-commissioned officer strikes or ill-treats any person subject to military law or to the Act, or to the Auxiliary Force Act, 1920, who is his subordinate in rank or position ; XLIX of 1920.

(2) without sufficient cause fails to appear at the place of parade at the time fixed or to attend at any place in his capacity as a member of the Indian Territorial Force when duly required so to attend, or when on parade without sufficient cause quits the ranks ;

(3) without sufficient cause fails to perform any part of the training which by or under the Act he is required to perform ;

(4) strikes, or uses or offers violence to, any person whether subject to military law or not in whose military custody he is placed, and whether such person is or is not his superior officer ;

(5) resists an escort whose duty it is to arrest him or detain him in military custody ;

(6) being under arrest or detention or otherwise in lawful custody escapes or attempts to escape ;

(7) when in charge of any property belonging to Government or to a corps or unit of the Indian Territorial Force makes away with, or is concerned in making away with, such property ;

(8) wilfully injures, or by culpable neglect loses or causes injury to, any such property as is mentioned in clause (7) ;

(9) wilfully ill-treats a horse or other animal used in the public service ;

(10) knowingly furnishes a false return or report of the number or state of men under his command or charge, or of any money, arms or ammunition, clothing, equipment, stores or other property in his charge ;

(11) through design or culpable neglect omits to make or send any return of any matter mentioned in clause (10) which it is his duty to make or send ;

(12) when it is his official duty to make a declaration respecting any matter, makes a declaration respecting such matter which he either knows or believes to be false or does not believe to be true ;

(13) knowingly makes against any person subject to military law or to the Act or to the Auxiliary Force Act, 1920, an accusation which he either knows or believes to be false or does not believe to be true ; XLIX of 1920.

(14) falsely personates any other person at any parade or on any occasion when such other person is required by or under the Act to do any act or attend at any place, or abets any such act of personation.

Disposal of offences.

20. An officer commanding a University Corps shall, after investigation held of a charge made against a member of that corps of any offence specified in rule 19, deal with the matter in one or other of the following ways, that is to say, he may—

(a) dismiss the charge ; or

(b) deal with the case summarily ; or

(c) refer the case for trial by a court-martial convened under these rules, as hereinafter provided ; or

(d) where the offence is also an offence under the ordinary criminal law, take steps for bringing the offender to trial by the ordinary criminal courts :

provided that the officer commanding shall deal summarily with every case in which he does not dismiss the charge, unless in his opinion the offence is of so serious a nature as to require that it should be otherwise dealt with.

Summary and minor punishments.

21. An officer dealing summarily with an offence under rule 19 may inflict punishment according to the following scale, that is to say, he may—

(a) order dismissal of the offender from the Indian Territorial Force with or without forfeiture of all or any arrears of pay and allowances and other public money due to him at the time of such dismissal; or

(b) order the detention of the offender in military custody for a period not exceeding ten days; or

(c) order stoppages of pay and allowances until any proved damage or loss occasioned by the offence of which the offender is charged is made good; or

(d) order, in the case of a non-commissioned officer, reduction to a lower grade or to the ranks; or

(e) order, in the case of a non-commissioned officer, forfeiture of seniority of rank; or

(f) order the performance by the offender of additional drills not exceeding ten hours; or

(g) severely reprimand the offender; or

(h) reprimand the offender;

(i) admonish the offender:

provided that the punishments specified in clauses (b) and (c) of this rule shall not be inflicted unless the offender was at the time of committing the offence embodied for training.

Courts-martial.

22. Where a commanding officer decides under rule 20 that an offence should be tried by court-martial, he shall refer the case to the Officer Commanding the District in which the corps is undergoing training.

Convening and constitution of courts-martial.

23. (1) On receipt of a reference under rule 22, the Officer Commanding the District may either direct the officer making the reference to deal with the case under clause (a), (b) or (d) of rule 20, or may convene a court-martial consisting of three officers of whom not less than two shall be officers of His Majesty's regular forces and the third shall be an officer of the Indian Territorial Force not being—

(a) an officer who has taken any part in the investigation of the charge before trial; or

(b) the prosecutor or a witness for the prosecution.

(2) The President of the court-martial shall be named by the convening officer.

Powers of courts-martial.

24. A court-martial constituted under rule 23 shall have power to try any member of a University Corps for any offence made punishable by rule 19 and to pass—

(a) in respect of any of the offences specified in sub-clauses (b), (c) and (d) of clause (1) or in clauses (2), (3), (8), (11) and (14) of rule 19, a sentence of fine not exceeding two hundred rupees; or

(b) in the case of any other offence specified in rule 19, a sentence of imprisonment which may extend to two months, or of fine not exceeding two hundred rupees or both; or

(c) in any case, any sentence which might have been passed by a commanding officer trying the offence summarily under rule 21.

Procedure for courts-martial.

25. The proceedings of courts-martial convened under these rules shall be conducted according to the laws and customs applicable to courts-martial held under the Indian Army Act, 1911, and that Act and the rules made thereunder shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly.

II of 1911.

Confirmation.

26. The findings and sentences of a court-martial convened under these rules may be confirmed by the officer by whom the court-martial was convened, and no such finding or sentence shall be valid save in so far as it may be so confirmed.

Power to mitigate, remit, etc.

27. (1) The confirming officer may when confirming the sentence of a court-martial, mitigate or remit the punishment thereby awarded, or commute that punishment for any less punishment or punishments to which the offender might have been sentenced by the court-martial, and may, if the sentence passed by the court-martial is found for any reason to be invalid pass a valid sentence:

provided that the punishment awarded by the sentence so passed shall not be higher in the scale of punishments than, or in excess of, the punishment awarded by the invalid sentence.

(2) For the purposes of sub-rule (1) a sentence of imprisonment or fine shall be deemed to be a greater punishment than any punishment specified in rule 21.

Execution of sentences.

28. (1) A sentence of imprisonment passed by a court-martial under these rules may be carried out in the same manner as a sentence of imprisonment awarded under the Indian Army Act, 1911. VIII of 1911.

(2) A fine imposed by a court-martial under these rules may be recovered in the following manner, that is to say :—

(i) the Presiding Officer of the court-martial may send a certified copy of the sentence to the District Magistrate having jurisdiction in the area in which the fine has been inflicted, and

(ii) on receipt of the copy, the District Magistrate shall recover the fine in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, as if it had been imposed by him, and remit the amount recovered to the Presiding Officer.

PART VI.

ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

Constitution and procedure of Advisory Committees.

29. (1) The military officer to be appointed as a member of each Advisory Committee shall be appointed by the Officer Commanding the District concerned, or, if the Province includes parts of two or more Districts, by the Officers Commanding those Districts in consultation.

(2) The Local Government shall appoint one of the two non-official members of the Advisory Committee to be the President thereof.

(3) A recommendation concurred in by the majority of the members of the Advisory Committee on any matter shall be deemed to be the recommendation of the Committee.

(4) A record shall be kept of all the proceedings of the Advisory Committee, and one copy of each such record shall be forwarded to the Officer or Officers Commanding the District or Districts concerned.

Powers and duties of the Advisory Committee.

30. The Advisory Committee may, in relation to that portion of the Indian Territorial Force which is located within the province for which it is constituted, make recommendations to the Officer Commanding the District concerned—

(a) on applications forwarded to it by the officer commanding a corps or unit under sub-rule (2) of rule 13;

(b) regarding the period or periods in which the prescribed training is to be carried out in each year by any corps or unit;

(c) regarding the time and place at which the annual training in camp of a University Corps shall be undergone;

(d) regarding any matter relating to recruitment for the Indian Territorial Force; and

(e) regarding any matter which may be referred to it for advice by the Officer or Officers Commanding the District or Districts comprised in the Province.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 3rd August, 1921.

No. A.-72.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 51 of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910 (IX of 1910), the Governor General in Council is pleased, subject to the conditions specified in Schedule I annexed hereto, to confer upon Messrs. Tata Sons, Limited, Bombay, the licensees under the Nilgiri (Hydro-Electric) License, 1920, for the placing of appliances and apparatus for the transmission of energy for the purpose of their undertaking, between the points specified in Schedule II annexed hereto and as near as circumstances admit, along the actual route specified in the deposited map as defined in sub-clause (d) of clause 2, of the said license or along such other route as may be decided upon by the Governor General in Council, the powers which the telegraph authority possesses under sections 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 19A, of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885 (XIII of 1885), with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by Government or to be so established or maintained.

SCHEDULE I.—(CONDITIONS).

(a) Whenever any of the licensees' power wires cross a telegraph or a telephone line they shall erect guarding arrangements and maintain them in efficient order in accordance with any rules for the time being in force under the Indian Electricity Act, 1910 (IX of 1910).

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hours on Wednesday, the 3rd August 1921, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

The storm, which had formed at the head of the Bay towards the end of the previous week, advanced in a westerly direction and reached Baluchistan on the 1st August. It gave widespread rain from Orissa to Baluchistan, the falls being particularly heavy in Chota Nagpur, south Rajputana and lower Sind: thus more than 21″ fell at Mount Abu between the 29th and 31st, and nearly 10″ at Hyderabad (Sind) on the 30th and 31st. There was also some heavy rain in the Punjab, the North-West Frontier Province, Gujarat and the Central Provinces independently of this storm. The monsoon has been extremely vigorous during the past week, but the distribution of rain has been uneven, and while over most of northwest India the total is very largely above the average, the United Provinces East and Hyderabad South have received less than half the usual amount.

2. Burma.—Nearly general rain fell in Lower Burma throughout the week and in Upper Burma on the 28th; rainfall occurred locally or at a few stations on the remaining days in the latter area.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was nearly general rain in Assam on the 1st and 2nd August, in Bengal on the 27th July and 1st August, in Orissa on the 29th and 31st July, in Chota Nagpur between the 27th and 30th July, and on the 2nd August, and in Bihar on the 27th and 28th July: rain fell locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week in the first three areas, on one other day in Chota Nagpur and on four other days in Bihar.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Rainfall has been nearly general in the United Provinces East on the 31st July, in Central India West on the 29th and 31st July, in Central India East between the 28th July and 1st August, in the Central Provinces West between the 27th and 31st July, and on 2nd August, and in the Central Provinces East between the 27th and 30th July, and again on the 1st and 2nd August; there was local rain on four other days in the United Provinces East, on three other days in Central India West, on one other day in Central India East, and on the remaining days in the Central Provinces.

Northwest India.—In the Punjab rainfall was fairly general in the northern and central districts on most days of the week, in the southwestern districts on three days and in the eastern districts on two days. Nearly general rain fell in the North-West Frontier Province between the 30th July and 1st August, in Baluchistan on the 1st August, in Sind on the 30th and 31st July, in Rajputana West on the 31st July, in Rajputana East on the 27th, and between the 29th July and 1st August, and in Gujarat on the 27th, 28th and 30th July; rainfall occurred locally or at a few stations on the remaining days in Gujarat, on two other days in Rajputana West, one other day in Rajputana East, on three other days in the North-West Frontier Province and on four other days in Baluchistan. In Kashmir rain fell locally on the 29th and 30th July, and 1st and 2nd August, and at a few stations during the rest of the week.

The Peninsula.—There was nearly general rain in the Konkan and Malabar throughout the week, in Hyderabad North on the 27th and 30th July, in Hyderabad South on the 27th July, in Mysore on the 27th and 29th July, in southeast Madras on the 31st July, in the Madras Deccan on the 1st and 2nd August, and on the north Madras coast on the 1st August; rain fell locally or at a few stations during the rest of the week in Mysore, on two other days in Hyderabad North, on four other days in Hyderabad South and southeast Madras, and on five other days on the north Madras coast. In the Bombay Deccan rainfall was local between the 27th and 29th July, and the 2nd August, and occurred at a few stations on two other days.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 30th July, 1921.

Burma.—The rainfall during the week was heavy throughout Lower Burma and moderate in Upper Burma. Cultivation of the main rice crop is progressing in Lower Burma and standing crops are in good condition in Upper Burma. Prospects are brighter owing to recent rains. Cattle are healthy except in the Pegu Division. The price of unhusked rice is Rs. 235 to 238, and that of white rice (specials) is Rs. 580 per hundred baskets.

Assam.—The weather is generally seasonable. Harvesting of autumn rice, plucking of tea, and transplanting of winter rice continue. Floods are reported to have caused damage to rice and jute crops in parts of the Assam valley. Prospects of crops are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The price of common rice has fallen slightly.

Bengal.—Moderate to heavy rain fell during the week. Transplantation of winter paddy seedlings is proceeding. Harvesting of autumn paddy and cutting, steeping and washing of jute are going on in eastern and northern districts. The sudden rise of water has caused damage to standing crops in low-lying tracts. The average price of common rice has fallen very slightly.

Bihar and Orissa.—Rainfall during the week was general over the Province, the fall being heavy in Gaya, the Santal Parganas and the districts of the Orissa and Chota Nagpur divisions, and light to moderate in the rest of the Province. Transplantation of winter paddy is going on. More rain is wanted for the purpose in Patna, Shahabad, and Muzaffarpur. Standing crops are doing well. 5,912 persons received gratuitous relief in Puri (including 83 persons on relief from the District Charitable Relief Funds). The price of common rice has risen in four districts, fallen in two and remained stationary in the remainder. The average price of local common rice at Headquarters was 5·79 seers a rupee against 5·80 seers in the preceding week, and that of maize was 6·73 seers against 6·67 seers in the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur is good.

United Provinces.—The rainfall during the week was light in a number of districts where more rain is still required. Elsewhere the fall was moderate to good. Preparation of land for spring and autumn crops, sowing of autumn crops and transplantation of late rice continues. Standing crops are doing well. Prospects are good. The condition of agricultural stock is fair and cattle disease is decreasing slightly. Fodder continues dear in some districts. Water and market supplies are sufficient. Prices are generally stationary.

The weekly report on scarcity in Garhwal, Almora and Mirzapur is as follows:—The rainfall during the week was good in affected tracts. Weeding and transplantation of Rice in Garhwal and Almora and sowing of autumn crops in Mirzapur continue. Standing crops are doing well. Prospects are favourable so far. The condition of agricultural stock is fair, but some cattle disease is reported from Garhwal and Almora. Fodder and water are sufficient. Advances continue for importation of grain, and subsistence takavi is being distributed. Importation of grain is brisk in Garhwal and Almora. Prices are stationary in Garhwal, but are rising in Almora and Mirzapur. The price bases ranged from 2 to 3½ seers in Garhwal, and from 3 to 4 seers in Almora. Gram and juar are staple grains in Mirzapur. No relief works are needed at present in Garhwal and Almora. Crime is normal in Garhwal and decreasing in Mirzapur. There is no appearance of wandering. Cases of emaciation are noticeable in the south of Mirzapur where distress is increasing. Earthwork is now difficult. Labouring and cultivating classes are affected in the south of Mirzapur. The public health is generally good throughout the scarcity tracts, except for some cases of cholera. Medical measures are being taken to localize the disease. The physical condition of the people on relief in Mirzapur is good. Private charity is insufficient in Garhwal to meet the demand for clothing the distressed. Numbers relieved :—Mirzapur test works 55, poor-house 180, gratuitous 10,218, total 10,453; Garhwal gratuitous 928; Almora gratuitous 147; Grand total 11,528.

Punjab.—The rainfall during the week was fairly heavy in parts of Lahore, Sialkot and Shahpur, and light or moderate elsewhere. It was beneficial to sowings and to standing crops which are normal on irrigated, and below normal on unirrigated areas. Sowings of rice, millets, pulses and other autumn crops are in progress. The area sown is below normal to normal. Germination is good. Dry fodder is scarce, but green grass will shortly become available. Cattle are generally week owing to overwork and scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation purposes is sufficient. Prices are generally stationary. Prices of wheat and barley are generally between warning and scarcity rates, and of others at or above scarcity rates. Stocks of food grains are sufficient except in a few districts. Price of wheat:—Rawalpindi 4¼, Ambala, Ferozepore and Lahore 5, and Lyallpur 5¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Heavy and beneficial rain fell throughout the Province. Sowings of autumn crops are in progress. Great scarcity of fodder prevails in some parts. Wheat is selling in Peshawar at 4$\frac{15}{16}$ and in Dera Ismail Khan at 4¾ seers per rupee.

Jammu.—The rainfall during the week was moderate. Prices are stationary. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—Report not received.

Baluchistan.—During the week ending 23rd July fairly good rain fell in the Shorarud sub-tahsil of the Quetta district. The hills between Khanai and Kach also had a little rain. Good showers were received in Shahrig and Nasirabad, and moderate in the Sibi and Bugti country. Luni and Lakhi circles of the Duki tahsil of the Loralai district received good rains, but Thall, Baghao, Smallan, Sinjawi and Duki still need rain badly. Pui had also some rain. Good rain has also fallen in the Barkhan and Musakhel tahsils. Good rain fell in the Sherani, Abdullazai, Kibzai and Baber circles of the Fort Sandeman tahsil. No rain fell in the Chagai district where scarcity is increasing. The produce of spring crops is insufficient to meet local requirements and grain is being imported from outside. Shortage of plough oxen for purposes of cultivation of autumn crops is felt in the Loralai district. 662 persons were employed on relief works in the Pishin and Chaman sub-divisions. Bugti kitchen had 750 inmates. The number of workers on the Mekhtar relief work in the Loralai district has fallen to 70 owing to the cultivation of autumn crops. Relief works for Wanechi in the Sinjawi tahsil is being commenced. 530 persons were employed on relief works in the Fort Sandeman tahsil, and 498 in the Chagai district. Prospects are more hopeful but the condition of the surviving livestock is poor. Prices of staple grain are varying from 3½ to 5¼ seers per rupee. Very acute distress is prevailing in the Kalat State, where several relief works have been started and takavi granted free of interest for the improvement of the water supply and for seed grain.

Rajputana.—The rainfall during the week was general throughout. More rain is needed. The sky remains cloudy. Preparation of land for and sowing of autumn crops are progressing. Fodder is insufficient in Tonk, Jhalawar, Dungarpur and Merwara. Agricultural stock is emaciated in parts of Tonk, Jhalawar and Shahpura. Cattle disease exists in parts of Dungarpur, and cholera in parts of Kotah. Prices are stationary.

Central India.—Rainfall during the week was general. It was insufficient in Jaora, Sitamau and parts of the Southern States. Sowing and weeding continue. The condition of crops is fair to good. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good except for cattle disease in parts of two States. The condition of pasturage is improving in Indore, bad in Kurwai, and fair to good elsewhere. Prices are high.

The weekly report on famine is as follows:—Road works have been stopped. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 8,321, and in poor-houses 884. Distribution of takavi continues. Cholera is reported in Sohagpur and Deosar. Relief has been stopped in all tahsils except Deosar and Gopadbanas.

Gwalior.—The rainfall during the week was sufficient. Agricultural operations, including cotton sowing, are in progress. Fodder is scarce. Prices of food grains are high.

Central Provinces.—During the week moderate to heavy rain fell all over the Province. More rain is required for transplantation and thinning of rice in the Bhandara, Nagpur and Raipur districts. Sowings of autumn crops have been nearly finished and germination is very satisfactory. Weeding operations are in progress, and preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops is proceeding. Standing crops are in excellent condition, and general prospects at present are all that could be desired. Cattle are doing well. Fodder and water are sufficient everywhere. Prices of rice and juar have fallen slightly in a few districts, but fluctuations are unimportant generally.

Feudatory States:—Ample rain fell in the States. Thinning of rice is in progress.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Good and well-distributed rain fell in all the affected districts, varying from 1·42 inches in Drug to 10·21 inches in Mandla. The general situation has much improved. Sowing of autumn crops has re-started in Damoh where they were suspended for want of sufficient rain. Germination is good and prospects are hitherto favourable. Weeding operations are in progress. The number on works has decreased from 52,641 to 48,798. Relief works have been closed in Akola, Seoni and Buldana, and individual works are being closed elsewhere. The numbers of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief was 48,040. The public health is good, except for the continuance of cholera in milder form in some districts. There is no change in prices. Import of food grains continues wherever necessary. Private kitchens in Raipur and Bilaspur and private charity in Buldana continue to give relief. Crime is generally normal.

Bombay.—The rainfall during the week was general and beneficial throughout the Presidency and Sind. The fall was heavy in parts and a break is generally necessary. Sowing and transplantation continue except where the operations have been retarded by continuous rain. Germinated seedlings are thriving. Water in canals is rising. Fodder is sufficient, except in parts of Karachi, Nawabshah and Thar and Parkar, but is improving elsewhere as green grass becomes available. Drinking water is improving, but water for irrigation is still deficient. Cattle are in good condition except in Thar and Parkar. Prices are almost steady.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—Distress in Ahmednagar is decreasing. Number of works in progress:—Broach 4, the Panch Mahals 6, Ahmednagar 6, Poona 1. Sholapur 1 and Bijapur 7. Relief works are being closed as rainfall continues to be satisfactory. Gratuitous relief to the decrepit and needy and doles to inferior village servants continue. Number on relief:—workers—the Panch Mahals 5,212, Broach 506, Ahmednagar 11,980, Poona 1,321, Sholapur 2,001 and Bijapur 16,034; dependents—Ahmednagar 4,221, Sholapur 520 and Bijapur 4,151; gratuitous—the Panch Mahals 4,205, Broach 1,895, West Khandesh 1,488, Ahmednagar 22,409, Poona 3,726, Sholapur 6,889, Satara 6,549, Bijapur 6,48· and Belgaum 3,789. The condition of the people on works, and in receipt of doles is good. Fodder supply is improving as green grass is available in small quantities. Cattle camps are being closed. Drinking water supply is improving. Takavi is being given freely.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was nearly general. The highest fall recorded was 13·68 inches in the Warangal district. The average for the dominions was 2·88 inches. Sowings of autumn crops continue in parts. The crop is being weeded and its condition is fair. Early rice lands are under preparation. Sowings have commenced. Green grass is available for cattle. Tanks have received sufficient supplies of water almost in all districts. Cattle disease is reported from the Parbhani district. Prices of foodgrains continue to be high but almost stationary.

The weekly report on famine is as follows:—The rainfall during the week was nearly general, but insufficient in parts of the Gulbarga and Usmanabad districts. The number of persons on relief is fluctuating. Some relief works are being closed. Cheap grain shops continue in Hyderabad City. Prices of foodgrains continue high. Juar is selling at 3½ to 4 seers, and rice at 2¼ to 4¾ seers per rupee. Number on relief:—works 36,000, gratuitous 31,000, total 67,000.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was heavy in Kadur and Hassan, and light to fair elsewhere. Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Ragi, paddy and sugarcane are being sown in parts. Prospects of the season are fair. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—The rainfall during the week was heavy. Ploughing for and transplanting of rice continue. Water and fodder for cattle are available. Cattle are generally healthy. The public health is fair. Prices of food grains are high.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy or heavy on the West Coast, in the Agency division and the hills, moderate in Ganjam, Vizagapatam, Godavery and Kistna, nil in Trichinopoly, Madura and Ramnad, and light to fair elsewhere. Standing crops are fair generally. The outturn of the harvested paddy and dry crops in parts of fourteen districts is generally fair. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding in most districts. The condition of cattle is good generally. Water is insufficient in parts generally but is improving. Pasture and fodder are sufficient generally, except in parts of the Circars and the Deccan. Prices are tending to rise. Prospects are improving in parts of Kurnool and Tinnevelly, and are fair elsewhere. Three test works are in progress in Kurnool with an attendance of 1,924 units. The number of persons in receipt of gratuitous relief is 751.

The weekly report on famine in Bellary and Anantapur is as follows:—Four relief works are in progress in Bellary and five in Anantapur. Distress is moderate but tending to decrease. Coolie classes are mostly affected. People are freely resorting to works. There is no marked foreign influx. The condition of the people on relief and the public health are generally fair. No emaciation is noticeable. Relief measures are adequate. No special relief to weavers and other artizans is necessary now. State loans are being advanced. Prices of cholam :—Bellary 6·1 and Anantapur 6·8 seers per rupee. Number on relief :—Bellary—works 11,559, gratuitous 2,586, total 14,145; Anantapur—works 6,777, gratuitous 3,650, total 10,427.

Simla, the 29th July 1921.

SIR,

I am directed to state that the Government of India have had under consideration the question of legislation for the provision of compensation to workmen for injuries received by them in the course of their employment. The Government of India are of the opinion that the time has now arrived for legislation with this object in view. There are indications of a considerable expansion in the near future in the number and size of industrial establishments. Moreover machinery and power are being employed in factories to a much larger extent than was the case before. Mines are being worked at greater depths and very often with power machinery. The transport industries are developing. Until recently there were practically no industries in India which could be reasonably described as "dangerous." It is probable, however, that the next few years will see the establishment of industries of this category, whilst increased complexity will tend to make existing industries more liable to personal risk. I am to forward for the consideration and criticism of the local $\frac{\text{Government}}{\text{Administration}}$ the provisional views of the Government of India with regard to the nature of the legislation that seems to be necessary.

I am to point out that according to item 26 (g), Part II of Schedule I of the Devolution Rules, the welfare of labour including provident funds, industrial insurance (general, health and accident), and housing, is subject to Indian legislation, and that the Government of India consider it desirable that compensation for injury throughout India should be carried out on uniform lines.

2. The Government of India are advised that, in a large class of cases, it is impossible for a workman, under the present law in India, to recover damages by suit from his employer for physical injuries sustained in the course of his employment. Under the Common Law of England a master is liable to his servants only for injuries caused by his own negligence. An employer is not liable for injuries caused by the negligence of a fellow-servant, and in most industrial establishments the negligence of other workmen is responsible for a large proportion of the accidents which overtake employees. In England, this disability was removed by the Employers' Liability Act of 1880 and the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1906 but the Government of India understand that the Common Law principle above stated would still be applied by the Civil Courts in India. The legal position of the workmen in India is therefore far less favourable than that of the workmen in England at the present time.

3. Apart from the position in common law, the ignorance of working men and their inability to undertake extensive litigation place them in a disadvantageous position in suits for compensation. For these reasons most civilized countries have found it necessary to pass statutes defining the compensation for physical disabilities arising in and out of the course of employment. These considerations apply with at least equal force in India, where the great majority of working men are still illiterate, and where few of them have the means necessary to institute and carry on suits for damages. It is true that some liberal-minded employers—and this includes the railway administrations—do pay compensation on such occasions. But the amount paid is not based on uniform rules. In any case the Government of India feel that a matter which concerns the welfare of the working classes so closely cannot any longer be left to the uneven generosity of employers.

4. There is, however, room for considerable difference of opinion with regard to the actual limit of the protection that should be extended to workpeople in this respect. It would probably be wise to include in the Act a clause or clauses defining the liability of employers for accidents and removing any disabilities under which workmen suffer at present in this respect. These clauses could be made general in their application. They would merely make it possible for any person employed to sue his employer for compensation for injuries sustained in the course of, and as a result of, the employment, and might follow sections 1 and 2 of the English Employers' Liability Act of 1880 (see Appendix I). At the same time the necessity of proving negligence which these clauses enforce is now regarded by many as inequitable, and in framing legislation for this country it might be wise to dispense with this feature of the English Act quoted. In all recent legislation of this type, it is unnecessary to prove negligence in order to establish a claim for compensation.

5. The main portion of the Act should of course deal with compensatory benefits. The Government of India think that these benefits should be limited to industrial workers and that it is not at present practicable to extend their application to agricultural workers or to domestic servants. I am to suggest that the classes to be covered by the main provisions of the Act should be workers in factories, mines and in transportation services, e.g., on railways, on ships and in docks. It is in such occupations that accidents are most numerous, and the figures given in Appendix II afford a strong argument for the inclusion of those branches of industry to which they relate. As the proposed legislation, by its very nature, will be designed to give the working classes some form of insurance against disability, it is desirable to confine its operation to those who are unable, by reason of the smallness of their earnings, to make provision for incapacity resulting from accidents, or to provide for their dependents in the case of their death. This is effected in England and elsewhere by a provision that the Act shall not apply to persons in receipt of salaries higher than a certain fixed limit. The Government of India consider, however, that it would be preferable to avoid such a monetary limit by defining accurately the classes to which the Act should apply. Thus it might apply to manual workers only, except on railways, where it will probably be necessary to widen the definition so as to include, at least, the whole of the running staff.

6. In respect of factories, it will probably be necessary to adopt a definition of factory differing from that used in the present Factories Act and from that inserted in the amending Bill now before the Legislature. Both these definitions are elastic, i.e., they make it possible for an industrial establishment to be brought within the definition by executive order. The considerations that justify bringing a factory under the Factories Act may be quite different from those that justify the application of a Workmen's Compensation Act to that factory, and the opposition of small factory owners to the inclusion of their establishments within the Factories Act would be greatly strengthened if such inclusion involved also increased liability for compensation to their employees. I am to suggest that the Act should apply—

(1) to all industrial establishments using mechanical power,

(2) to all industrial establishments which carry on work of a hazardous nature (e.g., those involving processes dangerous to health) whether they use mechanical power or not.

7. Another question of some difficulty is whether the Act should be extended to seamen. Two classes of seamen require consideration, namely, those serving on ocean-going vessels and those serving on vessels plying on inland waters. With regard to the former, it should be remembered that Indian seamen serving on ships registered in the United Kingdom already receive the benefit of the British Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, and the Government of India believe that there are very few ships plying in Indian waters which are registered in India. From the returns collected from ports of registry in 1915 it appears that in that year, with the exception of 10 small steamships with an aggregate tonnage of less than 2,500 tons, the only ships registered in India under Act X of 1841 were sailing ships. It is possible that employment on a sailing ship might reasonably be held to come within the second of the two criteria suggested in the preceding paragraph of this letter, and if it be practicable to apply the Act such sailors should be protected. But the Government of India are inclined to doubt whether the Act should be applied to seamen serving on sailing ships. Many of these ships are very small (the average tonnage of the 727 ships registered in 1915 being less than 100 tons) and it is probable that many of them are mere fishing craft. If sailing vessels are excluded, only seamen serving on the few steamships registered under Act X of 1841 will be eligible for the benefit of the Act, unless indeed the Act is applied to service on the numerous tugs, motor-boats and steam launches which ply in ports and harbours. It will be seen that the question is one which will largely turn on the experience of maritime Local Governments. Similar difficulties arise in respect of seamen serving on inland water vessels. It will generally be held impracticable, it is thought, to apply the Act to service on the small country boats, lighters and sailing craft, which ply on inland waters, and if the Act is applied at all to inland seamen, it is thought that it should be applied only to service on vessels coming within the operation of the Inland Steam Vessels Act. The difficulty here is that the expression "Inland steam vessel" covers so large a variety of ships. It includes steam vessels of all types from small electric launches and motor vessels to the large steamers which ply on the Irrawaddy and the Ganges.

8. The list of occupations given in the preceding paragraphs might be enlarged with advantage. Possible additions are the building trades and telegraph and telephone services. It is desirable, too, to include all persons engaged in dangerous or unhealthy occupations which do not come under the classes named above. I am to invite the particular attention of the local Government/Administration to the question of the classes to be included and of their definition.

9. I am now to deal with the question of the conditions which should govern the grant of compensation. The English Act includes "personal injury by accident arising out of and in the course of employment." It also includes diseases "due to the nature of" the employment and specified in a schedule. The phrase "arising out of and in the course of employment" has been copied in a large number of Dominion and American Acts. It has given rise to an unusual amount of litigation in England and elsewhere. But a departmental committee, which met in England in 1920 to consider possible improvements in the English Act and system, was opposed to any alteration in the phrasing of the Act in this respect. The meaning of the phrases quoted above has been made clear by a large body of case law and the Government of India think that it will be difficult to adopt a different phraseology in the Indian enactment. As regards exceptions, these should, of course, include intentional injury. They might also include injuries due to the "serious and wilful misconduct of the employee", as in England and elsewhere, and injuries resulting from intoxication. But as the multiplication of exceptions involves an increase of litigation to the disadvantage of the employee, the Government of India think that the exceptions should be as few as possible. I am to invite the opinion of the Local Government on this question.

10. The Act should apply in the case of fatal injuries, and all injuries that are not trivial. The definition of these might follow the definition of grievous hurt in the Indian Penal Code. This would have to be supplemented by the inclusion of diseases and injuries which involve no definite period of complete incapacity but which result in permanent partial disablement (e.g. Hernia).

11. The Government of India think that the whole of the cost, for the time being at any rate, must fall on the employer. The only alternative to this is a contributory system of State insurance similar to those adopted in certain continental countries, and this is at present out of the question in India. It will be necessary to prohibit "contracting out" (i.e., the practice by which workmen can contract themselves out of the benefits of the Act). There appears to be no sound reason for preventing the employers from insuring their risks. It is true that, if insurance were prohibited, employers would be much more careful to prevent accidents than if they paid a flat rate to an insurance company. But insurance companies will naturally scrutinize the safety precautions before granting policies, and a serious accident, if uninsured, might prove the ruin of a small employer.

12. The question of the scale on which compensation should be paid is one of considerable difficulty. In some of the existing Acts in other countries, e.g., Great Britain, the scale of compensation has a considerable measure of elasticity. A fairly wide discretion is left to the adjudicating authority to adjust the compensation in any particular case to the merits of the case. In other Acts, and more especially those in force in the majority of the United States of America the scale is as rigid as possible. The compensation payable depends strictly upon the injuries received and on the wages of the man injured, and an attempt is usually made to prescribe for the commoner injuries fixed amounts of compensation which cannot be varied in any circumstances. With an elastic scale of compensation it is possible for the competent authority to consider the circumstances of any particular case and to fix the compensation with regard to the merits and needs of that case. It is obvious that similar injuries do not always involve similar loss or hardship, e.g., the loss of a left hand might render one man quite unable to pursue the occupation he had previously followed whereas to another it might mean little more than personal inconvenience. Also with an elastic scale the deciding authority can have regard to various factors such as the age and circumstances of the person injured, or his share in the responsibility for the accident. But the Government of India think that these advantages are more than outweighed by the disadvantages attaching to an elastic scale. Such a scale acts as a direct incitement to discord and litigation.

It diminishes very greatly the sense of security which it is one of the main objects of the Act to create. And the divergencies which are bound to occur between case and case and between tribunal and tribunal would give rise to bitterness of feeling among both parties and to distrust of the administering authority. A rigid scale will often act arbitrarily. But it enables each party to determine, in the great majority of cases, without reference to any authority, the compensation which is due and is thus likely to act more smoothly and more economically. The Government of India think that these considerations have special force in India where few working men have the knowledge or the resources required to contest disputes. If this conclusion is accepted, an endeavour should be made to frame fair and equitable schedules. In the following paragraphs a suggested scale is outlined, and I am to invite the criticisms of the local $\frac{\text{Government}}{\text{Administration}}$ on it.

13. Schedules of compensation are almost invariably based upon the wages received by the injured man at or shortly before the time of the injury. Such a basis automatically provides the adjustments necessary to make the compensation payable suit the circumstances of the persons to be compensated. Experience has shown, moreover, that even in countries where customs and conditions favour the profitable investment of savings, a greater economic benefit results from a continuing series of payments than is provided by the award of lump sums. Compensation should therefore take the form of a series of periodical payments based upon the wages received by the person injured and determined by the injuries sustained.

14. The object of an Act of the type contemplated is not so much the provision of facilities for the recovery of damages due for a civil injury as the mitigation of the hardship resulting from disablement in industries. Compensation therefore should be, and in other countries usually is, regulated by the above principle. Consequently, in determining the compensation that should be paid for fatal accidents the chief factor is the number and relationships of the dependents of the deceased person. I am to suggest that, in such cases, compensation should take the form of (a) a specified sum, e.g., two months' wages, to cover the funeral expenses of the deceased with (b) in cases where dependents survive, the payment for a specified and uniform period of a percentage of the deceased's wages regulated by the dependents surviving. It will probably be wise to limit the dependents to widows, legitimate children and parents, as the introduction of other relatives would certainly lead to fraudulent claims and numerous disputes. Children might be defined as persons under the age of 15 years, which it is now proposed to adopt as the upper limit of age for children under the Factories Act. As regards the period of payment the Government of India consider that 5 years would be suitable. A table of percentages fixed according to dependents will be found in Schedule I. To take an example, if the above suggestions are adopted and a man is killed leaving a widow and two children of 9 and 12 years, the widow will receive a lump sum equivalent to two months of her husband's wages together with a regular payment equivalent to 45 per cent. of the husband's wages until the elder child reaches 15 years of age. Thereafter the regular payment will be 40 per cent. of the deceased's wages until 5 years have passed since the date of his death. Where death occurs a long time after the accident which caused it, it will probably be necessary to make some allowance for compensation for disability already paid, by shortening the period during which compensation for death is payable.

15. In the case of disability, the Government of India propose to follow a large number of American Acts and to allow a fixed percentage of wages for a specified period. For total disability I am to suggest that half wages should be paid during the continuance of such disability subject to a maximum of 8 years. The payment for permanent total disability would thus be greater than the maximum possible amount payable for a fatal accident. But there is obviously nothing illogical in this, and, indeed, it may be questioned if the payment proposed should not be enhanced where the disability is such that the injured man requires an attendant, e.g., in the case of complete loss of eyesight. Payment for partial disability should be so fixed as to bear a proportion to the payment for total disability similar to the ratio between the loss of earning capacity in the two cases. Where the injury is of a clearly defined type, e.g., the loss of a limb, it is not difficult to fix by schedule the amount of compensation payable.

Logically, this should take the form of a payment based on the payment for total disability and representing a percentage of it, and continuing for the full period (a period of 8 years is suggested) during which payment is to be made for total disability. It has been found preferable in practice to express it rather in the form of the same periodical sum as that paid for total disability, but to reduce the period to suit the injury. To take an example, the loss of an arm may be regarded as giving rise to a 50 per cent. disability, i.e., it is supposed to reduce the wage earning capacity of the average worker by 50 per cent. The compensation payable for complete permanent disability is 50 per cent. of wages for 8 years. The compensation payable for the loss of an arm should therefore be 25 per cent. of wages for 8 years. But it is more convenient to express this as 50 per cent. of wages for 4 years. Such a method avoids the introduction of a series of trifling payments over a very long period and is in the nature of a compromise between that system and the payment of a lump sum. In the case of an injury regarded as creating a 5 per cent. disability it would obviously be most inconvenient to prescribe payment of 2½ per cent. of wages regularly for eight years and it is much simpler to pay 50 per cent. of wages for a few months, and quite as equitable. In Schedule II attached to this letter a table of periods for specific injuries is given. The period shown opposite any particular injury is the period for which it is proposed to prescribe the payment of half wages on account of that injury.

16. It is obviously impossible to bring all injuries within such a schedule. For injuries not falling within this schedule, payment should be based on the same principle, i.e., the competent authority should determine the percentage of wage earning capacity lost and express the compensation as a similar percentage of the compensation payable for complete permanent disability. In most of the cases now contemplated it will not be possible to allow for the comparative loss sustained by varying the period instead of the amount of the payments for it will frequently be difficult to determine at once whether the injury is likely to be permanent or not. Power might be given to the competent authority to express the compensation in larger sums over a shorter period where—

(a) the parties agree to this course, or

(b) it is proved that the injury is permanent. In this connection the possibility of varying the amount of compensation on account of subsequent increase or decrease in earning capacity due to the development of the injury should also be borne in mind.

17. The case of injuries to minors requires special consideration. Where a child is totally disabled owing to a factory accident, the loss sustained is more serious than that caused by a similar accident to an older employee. But, if compensation were paid on the scale suggested above, the amount payable would be very small, and in most cases insufficient even for bare subsistence. I am to suggest therefore that compensation for injuries to minors should be fixed on a scale based on full wages and not on half wages, i.e., that it should be double the corresponding compensation for adults. Compensation to dependents on the other hand might be given in the case of adults only.

18. The possibility of requiring employers to provide medical and surgical aid in the case of accidents should also be considered. Some of the statutes in force in other countries secure for the workmen free medical and surgical attendance during disability. The choice of the medical attendant in such cases usually rests with the employer, and a clause is sometimes added by which the employee is deprived of all compensation if he refuses or wilfully neglects to take advantage of the facilities provided by the employer. It is obviously in the employer's interest that injured workmen should receive the best medical care that can be provided; in many cases prompt medical attendance reduces very greatly the effects of an accident that would otherwise produce serious and lasting effects. It is clear that the choice of the medical attendant cannot be left to the employee if it is the employer who has to pay. Quite apart from the grave administrative difficulties that are involved in such an arrangement, it is inequitable that an employer should be asked to provide payment for treatment which he is powerless to control and which might result in increasing the bill he has to pay for compensation. To compel employers to provide medical attendance would probably excite considerable opposition, not only from the smaller employers whose expenses would be extremely heavy, but also from a considerable proportion of employees, who would object to undergoing the treatment prescribed. At the same time the Government of India think that it is desirable that employers who are willing to provide medical attendance should be encouraged to do so, and that it is unreasonable to ask an employer to pay compensation for results which medical attention could have prevented, when he was anxious to supply that attention. I am therefore to suggest that where an employer offers to provide free qualified medical and surgical attention and that offer is not accepted, the employee should be debarred from claiming any compensation. Many leading employers already provide free medical aid. This proposal should encourage others to follow their example and should also minimize the injuries resulting from accidents.

19. There remains lastly the question of the administration of the Act. However well-constructed the Statute may be, there will be many cases that cannot be settled without reference to some tribunal. And it will be necessary to set up and maintain machinery for enforcing the Act. In England both these functions are exercised by the ordinary Civil Courts, elsewhere it is more usual to have a special authority. There are two distinct advantages in making use of existing Courts. In the first place, the questions of law arising out of an Act of this type are frequently intricate, and it is essential that the deciding authority should have some judicial experience. Secondly, it is important that workmen making claims for compensation should not be compelled to travel long distances to place their cases before the tribunal concerned, and it is clearly impossible for Government to set up even one special tribunal in every district. On the other hand, procedure in the Civil Courts is both intricate and expensive, and, under ordinary conditions, it might happen that many working men who were entitled to compensation would find themselves unable to face the litigation involved. Even when they had obtained a decree they might be unable to enforce it, as it would obviously be unprofitable to institute a series of execution proceedings for small weekly payments against their employer if he paid irregularly or refused to pay. So that, if the Civil Courts were entrusted with the decision of the cases, it will probably be essential to adopt some simpler form of procedure than that used for ordinary cases. It may be necessary to grant summary powers and to limit the jurisdiction to Judges of status not lower than that of a District Judge. It may also be desirable to follow the English law in regard to declaring that decisions on facts given by the original court will be final, and that a right of appeal will lie only on questions of law.

20. Another alternative to the decision of the cases by the Civil Courts or by special tribunals is the entrusting of these cases to Magistrates or to Revenue Officers. Some such procedure as that at present in use in maintenance cases under the Criminal Procedure Code might be adopted, though it would, of course, be made clear that proceedings under a Workmen's Compensation Act had nothing of a criminal nature, and the procedure to be followed should be specially laid down in the Act. The objection to this course is that the points of law involved will often be difficult, and it is undesirable that officers of the standing of Magistrates should be entrusted with suits that may involve considerable sums of money. In view of these objections, the Government of India are not disposed at present to adopt this alternative. In very large industrial centres it may, however, be necessary to have full-time tribunals and the presiding officers could then be specially selected.

21. It may be necessary to provide for the imposition of special penalties where an employer has deliberately evaded his liabilities under the Act. Such fines would be imposed only in clear cases, i.e., where compensation was manifestly due and where the employer had declined to pay it until a case was brought in court, or where an employer who had admitted a claim for compensation had withheld regular payment. In all probability it will seldom be necessary to impose such penalties, but their existence will be a most valuable deterrent to litigation, and to evasion of the Act. Such penalties would be imposed by the tribunal awarding compensation or executing an order for compensation.

22. To sum up, the Government of India request the views of local $\frac{\text{Governments}}{\text{Administrations}}$ on the following points:—

(1) Is it desirable to affirm in general terms the principle of employers' liability?

(2) If so, should the necessary legislation follow the English Employers Liability Act of 1880 and the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1906?

(3) Should there be provision for compensatory benefits and should this be limited to industrial workers?

(4) What provisions should regulate the inclusion of workers in—

(a) Factories,

(b) Mines,

(c) Railways,

(d) Ships,

(e) Docks?

(5) Is the principle of limitation to manual workers as a general rule approved?

(6) Should the compensatory provisions cover—

(a) Building trades,

(b) Telegraph, and telephone services?

(7) What further classes should be included; are there any dangerous or unhealthy trades for which provision should be specially made?

(8) What should be the necessary circumstances antecedent to the injury to bring it within the scope of the Act?

(9) What exceptions should be made in this connection?

(10) For what injuries should compensation be provided?

(11) How should the cost of compensation be met?

(12) What type of scales should be adopted for compensation?

(13) Should the award of lump sums be avoided?

(14) Are the scales suggested suitable?

(15) Is the principle of special scales for minors approved?

(16) Should refusal to receive medical attention debar an employee from claiming compensation?

(17) How should the Act be administered?

(18) Should special penalties be provided for deliberate evasion of the Act?

The above questions are not intended to be exhaustive and the Government of India will welcome all suggestions and criticisms. They desire that this letter should receive wide publicity and that ample opportunity should be given to employers and employed for expressing their opinions before the views of the local Governments / Administrations are formulated. At the same time I am to say that the Government of India consider that legislation on this subject should be introduced not later than the early spring of 1922, and I am to request that a reply may be sent before the end of October 1921.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your obedient Servant,

A. C. CHATTERJEE,

Extracts from Employers' Liability Act, 1880.

Section 1.—Where after the commencement of this Act personal injury is caused to a workman—

(1) by reason of any defect in the condition of the ways, works, machinery, or plant connected with or used in the business of the employer; or

(2) by reason of the negligence of any person in the service of the employer who has any superintendence entrusted to him whilst in the exercise of such superintendence; or

(3) by reason of the negligence of any person in the service of the employer to whose orders or directions the workman at the time of the injury was bound to conform, and did conform, where such injury resulted from his having so conformed; or

(4) by reason of the act or omission of any person in the service of the employer, done or made in obedience to the rules or bye-laws of the employer, or in obedience to particular instructions given by any person delegated with the authority of the employer in that behalf; or

(5) by reason of the negligence of any person in the service of the employer who has the charge or control of any signal, points, locomotive engine, or train upon a railway, the workmen, or in case the injury results in death, the legal personal representatives of the workman, and any persons entitled in case of death, shall have the same right of compensation and remedies against the employer as if the workman had not been a workman of nor in the service of the employer, nor engaged in his work.

Section 2.—A workman shall not be entitled under this Act to any right of compensation or remedy against the employer in any of the following cases; that is to say,—

(1) Under sub-section 1 of section 1, unless the defect therein mentioned arose from, or had not been discovered or remedied owing to the negligence of the employer, or of some person in the service of the employer, and entrusted by him with the duty of seeing that the ways, works, machinery, or plant were in proper condition.

(2) Under sub-section 4 of section 1, unless the injury resulted from some impropriety or defect in the rules, bye-laws, or instructions therein mentioned; provided that where a rule or bye-law has been approved or has been accepted as a proper rule or bye-law by one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, or by the Board of Trade, or by virtue of any Act of Parliament, it shall not be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be an improper or defective rule or bye-law.

(3) In any case where the workman knew of the defect or negligence which caused his injury, and failed within a reasonable time to give, or cause to be given, information thereof to the employer or some person superior to himself in the service of the employer, unless he was aware that the employer or such superior already knew of the said defect or negligence.

SURVEY OF INDIA—NORTHERN CIRCLE.

NOTIFICATION.

Mussoorie, the 25th July 1921.

No. 5.—Mr. E. B. West, Extra Assistant Superintendent, is granted privilege leave for one month from 15th August 1921 under Article 260 of the Civil Service Regulations, with effect from 15th August 1921 or any subsequent date of availing.

H. WOOD, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,
Offg. Superintendent, Northern Circle.

AGENT TO THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN CENTRAL INDIA.

NOTIFICATION.

Indore, the 26th July 1921.

No. 1406-B.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 8 (1) of the Cinematograph Act, 1918, as applied to the Administered Areas in C. I., the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor General in C. I. is pleased to make, under sub-sec. (2) clause (a) and (c) of that section, the following Rules for the regulation of Cinematograph Exhibitions within the said Areas.

These Rules will come into effect on the 1st September 1921.

RULES.

I.—All applications for licenses for cinematograph exhibitions must be made to the District Magistrate and be signed by the proprietor or his duly authorised agent. They must state the form in which the license is required, the place in which the exhibition is to be held, the method of illumination for the place and for the apparatus, and the seating accommodation, and be accompanied by the prescribed fee.

II.—When electric light is reasonably available for use, no other illuminant shall be used for the purpose of the exhibition. In any case, no illuminant other than electric light or limelight shall be used for the cinematograph apparatus.

III.—When electric light is used the procedure detailed in Schedule A must be observed, and when limelight is used, the procedure detailed in Schedule B must be observed. In all cases when electricity is the illuminant the installation shall be inspected, before any license is granted, by an officer to be nominated by the Superintending Engineer, who shall receive a fee of Rs. 10 together with the travelling allowance admissible to him under the Civil Service Regulations which will be payable by the licensee.

IV.—When in any individual case, any departure from the Rules laid down in Schedule A is desired, a special application must be made to the licensing authority, who, after the installation has been inspected by the Superintending Engineer or his nominee, may approach the Hon'ble the Agent to the Governor General through the Secretary in the Public Works Department for a suspension of any rule in that Schedule.

V.—Licenses shall be in Form A and be subject to the conditions endorsed thereon, for exhibitions where the installations are of a permanent nature, and in Form B and be subject to the conditions endorsed thereon, for exhibitions where the installations are located in temporary structures or buildings not specially constructed or adopted for cinematograph exhibitions. The licensing authority may add other conditions, not inconsistent with the Act or these rules, to meet a special case.

VI.—Licenses in Form A shall be for the period of not more than one year, those in Form B for not more than one month.

VII.—The application fee for a license in Form A shall be ten rupees, and in Form B two rupees. Any application under rule IV shall bear a license fee of ten rupees. All fees, received under this Rule, shall be paid by chalan into the treasury of the District in which the application is made. The licensing authority shall have power to grant licenses free of fee for performances of a charitable or educational character.

SCHEDULE A.

Projector lamps and conductors.

1. (1) Cinematograph projector lamps and other arc light projectors shall be kept within a separate enclosure accessible only to authorised persons, and within the enclosure the dielectric of all conductors shall be covered with fire-resisting material.

(2) The circuit to the projector lamps shall be separate from all other circuits and shall be taken from the supply side of the main cut-outs in the general lighting circuit; and efficient switches and cut-outs shall be inserted in the circuit at the point of connection to the supply.

(3) A double pole switch shall be fitted in the projector lamp circuit within the said enclosure, and the pressure across the terminals of the same shall not exceed 110 volts when the lamp is working.

(4) There shall be no unnecessary slack conductors within the enclosure.

(5) The conductors to the projector lamp, unless enclosed within a metal pipe or other fire proof covering shall be kept apart both within and without the enclosure and shall be so run that their course may be readily traced.

2. (1) Resistances shall be constructed entirely of fire resisting material, and shall be so constructed and maintained that no coil nor other part shall in any time become unduly heated so as to cause danger.

Resistances.

(2) All resistances, with the exception of a resistance for regulating purposes, shall be placed outside the enclosure and if reasonably practicable outside the auditorium. If inside the auditorium they shall be adequately protected by a wire guard or other efficient means of preventing accidental contact.

(3) Resistances, if not under constant observation, shall be inspected at least once during each performance.

If any fault is detected, current shall immediately be switched off and shall remain switched off until the fault has been remedied.

(4) The operator shall satisfy himself, before the commencement of each performance, that all cables, leads, connections and resistances are in proper working order.

3. The lights of the auditorium and exits shall be on a separate circuit to that of the lantern or arc light projector, and the general lighting of the auditorium shall be capable of control outside and away from the enclosure.

Electric lighting for the auditorium.

SCHEDULE B.

LIMELIGHT.

1. If limelight is used in the cinematograph lantern, the oxygen and hydrogen gas shall be contained in cylinders and each such cylinder shall be accompanied by a certificate signed by the manufacturers to the effect that it has been tested and filled in conformity with the requirements set out below. The tubing shall be of sufficient strength to resist pressure from without and shall be properly connected up.

2. No gas shall be stored or used, except in containers constructed in accordance with the requirements described below.

Cylinder of Compressed Gas (Oxygen, Hydrogen or Coal Gas (a) Lap-welded wrought iron.—Greatest working pressure 120 atmospheres, or 1,800 lbs. per square inch.

Stress due to working pressure not to exceed $6\frac{1}{2}$ tons per square inch.

Proof pressure in hydraulic test, after annealing 224 atmospheres, or 3,360 lbs. per square inch.

Permanent stretch in hydraulic test not to exceed 10 per cent. of the elastic stretch.

One cylinder in 50 to be subject to a statical bending test, and to stand crushing nearly flat between two rounded knife edges without cracking.

Lap-welded or seamless steel.—Greatest working pressure 120 atmospheres, 1,800 lbs. per square inch.

Stress due to working pressure not to exceed $7\frac{1}{2}$ tons per square inch, in lap-welded, or 8 tons per square inch in seamless cylinders.

Carbon in steel not to exceed 0·25 per cent. or iron to be less than 99 per cent.

Tenacity of steel not to be less than 26 or more than 33 tons per square inch. Ultimate elongation not less than 1-2 inches in 8 inches. Test-bar to be cut from finished annealed cylinder.

Proof pressure in hydraulic test, after annealing 224 atmospheres, or 3,360 lbs. per square inch.

Permanent stretch shown by water jacket not to exceed 10 per cent. of elastic stretch.

REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL CYLINDERS.

Cylinders to be marked with a rotation number, a manufacturer's or owner's mark and annealing mark with date, a test mark with date. The marks to be permanent and easily visible.

Testing to be repeated at least every two years, and annealing at least every four years.

A record to be kept of all tests.

Cylinders which fail in testing to be destroyed or rendered useless.

Hydrogen and coal gas cylinders to be left handed threads for attaching connections, and to be painted red.

The compressing apparatus to have two pressure gauges, and an automatic arrangement for preventing overcharging. The compressing apparatus for oxygen to be wholly distinct and unconnected with the compressing apparatus for hydrogen and coal gas.

Cylinders not to be refilled till they have been emptied.

If cylinders are sent out unpacked, the value fittings shall be protected by a steel cap.

A minimum weight to be fixed for each size cylinder in accordance with its required thickness. Cylinders of less weight to be rejected.

4. This license is valid up to the ________________.

District Magistrate.

* Reverse of the License.

Conditions to be attached to a license issued under Sections 4 and 5 of the Cinematograph Act (Act II of 1918).

FORM A.

(For permanent structures.)

1. All buildings or other regulations for observance at places of public amusement imposed by Municipal bye-laws, or by any other law, or by rules under any other law for the time being in force shall be strictly adhered to.

2. No portion of the place licensed shall be occupied or used as a hotel, boarding or lodging house, factory, workshop or manufactory or for storage purposes, except as the licensing authority, may, for the time being, allow, nor shall such premises be used for residential purposes by day or night.

3. No building shall be used for cinematograph or other exhibitions to which the Act applies, unless it be provided with an adequate number of clearly indicated exits so placed and maintained as readily to afford the audience ample means of safe egress. The doors of all such exits shall open outwards and during performances shall not be closed except with "panic bolts", that is to say, bolts which will open automatically on pressure from within.

4. Overcrowding.—The seating in the building shall be so arranged as not to interfere with free access to the exit and no more of the public shall at any time be admitted into any part of the place licensed than the number which shall be prescribed in the license for that part. Persons shall not be allowed to stand or sit in any of the intersecting gangways.

5. Film Storage.—No greater quantity of film than 120 lbs. shall be kept in any place licensed without a special license from the licensing authority. Such special license shall be issued subject to such conditions as the licensing authority, with the previous sanction of the Agent to the Governor General in Central India, considers necessary and shall specify the quantity of films to be stored, the manner in which they are to be kept, and the particular place, or places in which storage is allowed.

6. In any case, whether the quantity of films exceeds 120 lbs. or not, all films shall be kept in securely closed, fire-resisting receptacles, which shall not be used for any other purpose, or in separate well ventilated chambers constructed of fire-resisting materials which shall not be used for any other purpose and shall be kept securely locked.

7. Fire Precautions.—In every place licensed shall be kept such number of chemical extinguishers, fire-buckets, hand-pumps or other small fire appliances as the licensing authority shall direct. In every license such specific conditions as appear necessary shall be laid down for the safeguarding of the public in case of fire.

8. Enclosure for apparatus.—The cinematograph machine shall be placed in a permanent enclosure of sufficient dimensions to allow the operator to work freely. The enclosure containing the cinematograph machine, in these rules-referred to as "the enclosure," shall be substantially constructed of fire-resisting materials or lines with the same.

9. The entrance to the enclosure shall be fitted with a closely fitting self-closing door of fire-resisting material, suitably placed and opening outwards, and all openings, bushes, points shall be so constructed and maintained as to prevent, so far as possible, the escape of any smoke in the auditorium. If means of ventilation are provided, they shall not be allowed to communicate direct with the auditorium.

10. Position of enclosure.—The enclosure shall be placed outside the auditorium and where such premises consist of a structure of a semi-permanent character, the enclosure shall be at a distance of at least 3 feet from such structure. Provided that where the licensing authority is of the opinion that it is impracticable, or, in the circumstances unnecessary for securing safety, that the enclosure shall be outside the building, he may, by express words in the license, dispense with that requirement provided that a space of two feet in width at the sides and in front of the enclosure, and a space of six feet at the back in which the door is situated shall be kept clear all round the enclosure.

11. Openings in the enclosure.—Openings not exceeding three in number shall be permitted in the front face of the enclosure, the centre one of which must not exceed eight inches square and those at each side six inches square. Each opening shall be fitted with a screen of fire-resisting material capable of being actuated both from the inside and from outside of the enclosure.

12. The necessary pipes and cables shall enter through efficiently bushed openings.

13. Combustible materials.—No unnecessary combustible material shall be allowed within the enclosure and all necessary combustible materials, films, etc., when not in use, shall be kept in fire-proof receptacles suitable for the purpose Only those films which are being used at each exhibition shall be kept in the enclosure during each exhibition.

14. Smoking, etc.—No smoking shall at any time be permitted within the enclosure and no match or candle or any other naked light shall be allowed in proximity to the lantern.

15. Machine.—The cinematograph machine shall be placed on firm supports of fire-resisting construction.

16. The body of the cinematograph machine shall be constructed of metal or lined with metal or asbestos, in which case there must be an air space between the metal and the asbestos lining. The bottom of the cinematograph machine must form a metal tray which shall be surrounded by a vertical edge at least one inch in depth.

17. The cinematograph machine shall be provided with a metal shutter which can be readily inserted between the source of light and the film gate.

18. This shutter shall be immediately dropped in the event of any accident to the cinematograph machine or stoppage of the film and shall only be raised when the film is in motion for the purpose of projection.

19. The film gate shall be massive construction and provided with ample heat-radiating surface and the passage for the film shall be sufficiently narrow to prevent flame travelling upwards or downwards from the light opening.

20. All cinematograph machines shall be fitted with two metal film boxes of substantial construction and not more than fourteen inches in diameter, inside measurement, to and from which the films shall be made to travel. Such boxes shall be made to close in a manner which will prevent the ingress of fire and shall be so constructed as to prevent the passage of flame to the interior of the film box.

21. Spools.—Spools shall be chain or gear driven and film shall be wound upon spools so that the wound film shall not at any time reach or project beyond the edges of the flanges of the spool.

22. Films.—All films when not actually passing through the lantern shall be enclosed in close metal boxes.

23. Lighting.—Where electric light is reasonably available for use, no other illuminant shall be used for the purpose of the exhibition. In any case, no illuminant other than electric light or limelight shall be used for the cinematograph apparatus.

24. Lighting of auditorium.—Where electric light is used the procedure detailed in Schedule A appended to Rule III of the notification shall be observed and where limelight is used the procedure detailed in Schedule B of that rule shall be observed.

25. Operators.—Not less than two, nor more than three, operators shall be engaged in manipulating each lantern, and no other persons shall be within ten feet of the lantern during the exhibition. The whole duty of one of the operators shall consist in taking charge of the films after they have passed through the lantern. The person in charge of the machine shall be a qualified operator approved of by the licensing authority.

26. Fire precautions in enclosure.—Two liquid chemical extinguishers, two buckets of sand, two buckets of water and a blanket shall be kept inside the enclosure. A large sponge shall be kept in one of the buckets of water. One liquid chemical extinguisher shall also be kept immediately outside the enclosure.

27. Precautions.—The management and the cinematograph operators shall take all due precautions for the prevention of accidents and shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire and is not reasonably necessary for the purpose of the exhibition; no unauthorised individual shall be allowed in the enclosure.

28. No alteration may be made in the structural lighting or seating arrangements, or in any of the other matters dealt with by the above rules in the case of the building licensed in this form, without previous reference to the licensing authority.

29. Certification of films.—The licensee will not exhibit or permit to be exhibited any film other than a film which has been certified as suitable for public exhibition by the prescribed authority, and which, when exhibited, displays the prescribed mark of that authority, and has not been altered or tampered with in any way since such mark was affixed thereto.

2. No building, tent, booth or similar structure shall be used for cinematograph or other exhibitions to which the Act applies, unless it be provided with an adequate number of clearly indicated exits so placed and maintained as readily to afford the audience ample means of safe egress.

3. The seating in the building shall be so arranged as not to interfere with free access to the exits, and persons shall not be allowed to stand or sit in any of the passages leading to the exits.

4. No greater quantity of films than 80 lbs. shall be kept in any place to which this license applies, and all films shall be kept in securely closed fire-resisting receptacles which shall not be used for any other purpose.

5. Fire precautions.—In every place licensed shall be kept such number of chemical extinguishers, fire-buckets, hand pumps or other small fire appliances as the licensing authority shall direct. In every license such specific conditions as appear necessary shall be laid down for the safeguarding of the public in case of fire.

6. The cinematograph machine shall be placed in a separate or railed off enclosure of sufficient dimensions to allow the operator to work freely. The minimum space to be so railed off shall be six feet on all sides of the apparatus.

7. Combustible materials.—No unnecessary combustible material shall be allowed within the enclosure, and all necessary combustible material, films, etc., when not in use, shall be kept in the fire-proof receptacles suitable for the purpose. Only those films which are being used at each exhibition shall be kept in the enclosure during each exhibition.

8. Smoking, etc.—No smoking shall at any time be permitted within the enclosure, and no match or candle or any other naked light shall be allowed in proximity to the lantern.

9. Machine.—The cinematograph machine shall be placed on firm supports of fire-resisting construction.

10. Films.—All films when not actually passing through the lantern shall be enclosed in close metal boxes.

11. Lighting of auditorium.—Where electric light is used the procedure detailed in Schedule A appended to Rule III of the Notification shall be observed and where limelight is used the procedure detailed in Schedule B of that rule shall be observed.

12. Operators.—Not less than two, nor more than three, operators shall be engaged in manipulating each lantern, and no other person shall be within ten feet of the lantern during the exhibition. The whole duty of one of the operators shall consist in taking charge of the films after they have passed through the lantern. The person in charge of the machine shall be a qualified operator approved of by the licensing authority.

13. Fire precautions in enclosure.—In every case there shall be provided in or close to the enclosure three buckets of water and one blanket. A large sponge shall be kept in one of these buckets. Two liquid chemical extinguishers shall also be kept close at hand.

14. Precautions.—The management and the cinematograph operator shall take all precautions for the prevention of accidents and shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire and is not reasonably necessary for the purpose of the exhibition; no unauthorised individual shall be allowed in the enclosure.

15. No alteration may be made in the structural, lighting or seating arrangements or in any of the other matters dealt with in the above rules in the case of any building licensed in Form A without previous reference to the licensing authority.

16. Certification of films.—The license will not exhibit, or permit to be exhibited, any film other than a film which has been certified as suitable for public exhibition by the prescribed authority, and which, when exhibited, displays the prescribed mark of that authority, and has not been altered or tampered with in any way since such mark was affixed thereto.

By order,

H. V. BISCOE, Major,

Secretary to the Agent to the Governor General in Central India.

TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE E. S. MONTAGU, M.P., HIS MAJESTY'S PRINCIPAL SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.

SIR,

We beg to submit our Report on the proceedings of the first session of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva, at which we had the honour to represent India.

It may be mentioned that confidential weekly reports were sent by Sir William Meyer to the Under Secretary of State for India, and copy of the same to the Hon'ble Sir George Barnes for the information of the Government of India.

2. The Assembly met at Geneva on Monday, 15th November, in accordance with the message of the President of the U. S. A. summoning it under the last paragraph of Article V. of the Covenant. The Assembly consisted of representatives of 41 States, the majority of whom sent three delegates apiece, though some had two or only one. The list of the States represented and of the delegates will be found in Appendix I.

3. M. Hymans (Belgium), at that time President of the Council of the League, was elected President of the Assembly, and an address of welcome was given by M. Motta, President of the Swiss Confederation and the leading Swiss delegate. The proceedings were lengthened inevitably by the fact that the Assembly is officially bi-lingual, i.e., every speech made in French had to be translated into English and vice versa, and the official interpreters were, some of them, very indifferent. The delegates sat in the alphabetical order of their countries, with the result that India and New Zealand were a good distance away from the other Empire Delegations. The acoustic properties of the hall in which the Assembly met are very poor, which added to the difficulty of following what was said.

4. After determining provisional rules of procedure, to be in force until definite rules should be framed, the Assembly set up six Committees for preliminary examination of the bulk of the agenda it had adopted. This agenda is set out below and consisted largely of subjects referred to the Assembly by the Council, but also included items submitted by the Secretary-General (e.g., Nos. 17 and 18) or placed on the agenda at the request of Members of the League (e.g., Nos. 8, 15 and 20).

The six Committees were to deal with items 7 to 29, distributed in the manner indicated, and each Committee included one representative of every Delegation present, while provision was made for a delegate who could not conveniently attend to be represented by a substitute (see Appendix II., Resolution 3). The result was that each Committee consisted of about 40 members, an unwieldy body for Committee purposes.

The distribution of the groups was as follows :—

Item No.		Subject.
Not referred to any Committee.	1	Report on credentials of representatives.
	2	Election of President.
	3	Temporary adoption of provisional rules of procedure.
	4	Examination and adoption of agenda.
	5	Nomination of Committees.
	6	General Report on the work of the Council.

General Organisation.

Item No.		Subject.
Referred to Committee No. I.	7	Definite rules of procedure.
	8	Proposed amendments to the League Covenant.
	9	The relations and respective powers of the League's Council and Assembly.
	10	Method of selection and appointment of the four Secondary States to be elected by the Assembly to the Council, in which the Great Powers (Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan) have permanent representation.
		Technical Organisation.
Referred to Committee No. II.	11	Relations between special technical organisations on the one hand and the Council and Assembly of the League on the other.
	12	Establishment of a permanent Health Organisation.
	13	The position in regard to typhus and other infectious diseases in Poland and elsewhere and the measures to be taken to combat them.
	14	Supervision of the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children (White Slave Traffic).
	15	Steps in connection with the carrying out of the provisions of the Hague Opium Convention, the Netherlands Government desiring to pass on the special responsibilities imposed on it to the League.
	16	The establishment of a permanent organisation to deal with communications and transit questions falling within the sphere of the League under the Treaty of Versailles.
	17	Tribunal for the settlement of differences referred to in Articles 336, 337, 376 and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles and the corresponding articles of other treaties.
	18	Passports for members of the Secretariat.
	19	Question of an Economic and Financial Organisation (with reference to the Report of the Brussels Conference).
	20	Claim of India to be represented on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office.
		Three further subjects were subsequently referred to Committee No. II., viz., (a) Children in countries affected by the war; (b) "International Language"; (c) "The organisation of Intellectual Labour."
Referred to Committee No. III.	21	Establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague.
		Financial Arrangements.
Referred to Committee No. IV.	22	The staff and organisation of the Secretariat.
	23	The first and second budgets of the League (running up to the end of 1920).
	24	Provisional estimates for the 1921 budget.
	25	Future method of apportionment of the expenses of the League.

	Item No.	Subject.
Referred to Committee No. V.	26	Admission of fresh States to the League.
Referred to Committee No. VI.	27	Reduction of armaments.
	28	Preparations required for the use of the "economic weapon" of the League in case of necessity (see Article XVI. of the Covenant).
	29	Mandates (with special reference to the responsibilities of the League under Article XXII. of the Covenant).

5. Sir William Meyer represented the Indian Delegation on Committees Nos. II. and VI., H. H. the Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar on Nos. IV. and V., and Sir Ali Imam on Nos. I and III.

6. Each of the six Committees appointed its own Chairman and Vice-Chairman, the Chairmen becoming ex officio Vice-Presidents of the Assembly. The selections were as follows :—

Committee No. I. :—Chairman, Mr. Balfour ; Vice-Chairman, Mr. Wellington Koo (China).

Committee No. II. :—Chairman, M. Tittoni (Italy) ; Vice-Chairman, M. Thomas Jonnesco (Rumania).

Committee No. III. :—Chairman, M. Léon Bourgeois (France) ; Vice-Chairman, M. Affonso Costa (Portugal).

Committee No. IV. :—Chairman, M. Quinones de Léon (Spain) ; Vice-Chairman, Dr. F. J. Restrepo (Columbia).

Committee No. V. :—Chairman, M. Antonio Huneeus (Chile) ; Vice-Chairman, Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco (Uruguay).

Committee No. VI. :—Chairman, M. Branting (Sweden) ; Vice-Chairman, Dr. A. De Aguero y Bethancourt (Cuba).

M. Tittoni having had to return to Rome a few days after the Assembly met, his place in the chair of No. II. Committee was occupied by the Vice-Chairman.

7. The Assembly likewise elected six general Vice-Presidents, viz. :—

Viscount Ishii (Japan).	M. E. Benes (Czecho-Slovakia).
Jonkheer van Karnebeek (Netherlands).	Sir George Foster (Canada).
M. H. Pueyrredon (Argentina).	M. R. Octavio (Brazil).

M. Motta, as President of the Swiss Federation, was also elected an Honorary President.

The regular and honorary Presidents, the six general Vice-Presidents, and the six Chairmen of Committees composed the General Committee of the Assembly.

8. Having disposed of these formalities, the Assembly settled down to a general debate on Item No. 6 of its programme, the General Report on the work of the Council. The speeches wandered at large over the whole field of the Report, and the debate was not finished till 20th November.

9. The Assembly sessions were public. As regards the Committees, it was decided, after a certain amount of discussion, that the public should not ordinarily be admitted, but that minutes should be kept of the Committee's proceedings, which should be published as soon as possible, and should be at any time accessible to any delegate to the Assembly. (See Appendix II., Resolution No. 1.) Committee No. VI. held some public meetings.

Matters dealt with by Committee No. I.

(A) Rules of Procedure (Item 7).

10. The Committee appointed a sub-committee of seven delegates to deal with this question. The draft prepared by this sub-committee was submitted to the Assembly, with a Report from the main Committee, on 30th November.

The draft rules were discussed and approved with certain slight amendments, and the Rules of Procedure as adopted are printed in Appendix V. (Annex 1). A summary of the covering Report of the Committee is printed in Appendix III. (Annex 1).

11. The following are points of special interest :—

(1) The Assembly will ordinarily meet every year on the first Monday in September (a much better time than November-December as far as climate is concerned), and a special meeting can be held on the demand of a majority of the Members of the Council or of the League. As regards the regular yearly meetings, Viscount Ishii stated in the discussion that, in view of Japan's distance from the seat of the League, she would have preferred biennial intervals.

(2) The budget for the ensuing fiscal year and the accounts for the preceding one must be submitted annually for the approval of the Assembly, which will consider them after they have been examined by a special Committee. The Assembly, through this Committee, will carry out all the duties of financial supervision which normally belong to a Parliamentary body.

This proposition, which rests on the authority of the Report of Committee No. I., but is not fully embodied in the rules, recognises the primary authority of the Assembly in matters of finance.

(3) Rule 16 (paras. 2, 4 and 5) resulted from a consideration by the sub-committee of the question of the use of Spanish as an official language, which was desired by the Spanish-American Republics and Spain. The sub-committee considered that the admission of Spanish as a third official language would open the way to other claims, but that there was no objection to delegates speaking in any language (if they provided for their interpretation into English and French), or to the circulation of documents by the Secretariat in any language outside French and English at the expense of the Delegation which might request such action.

(B) Amendments to the Covenant (Item 8).

12. Certain amendments had been proposed by the Danish, Norwegian and Swedish Governments, which would provide inter alia that Conciliation Committees should be set up, under Articles XII. and XV. of the Covenant, to investigate disputes between nations which are likely to lead to a rupture, but which are not submitted to arbitration ; also that the four non-permanent Members of the Council of the League should be elected yearly by the Assembly ; and that the Council might exempt from the obligation of non-intercourse with a covenant-breaker, imposed by Article XVI., any States for whom it might entail serious danger.

In the Committee, M. Viviani (France) opposed the amendments on the principle that the first Assembly should take no action which might appear to reverse the decisions embodied in the Treaty of Versailles. Viscount Ishii (Japan) and Mr. Balfour also opposed them, and the Committee decided by 20 votes to 8 that they should not be considered ; the minority was composed of Argentina, Cuba, the Netherlands, Panama and Siam, as well as the three Scandinavian States. The Committee, however, subsequently accepted a proposal made by the Netherlands delegate, that the Council should be requested to appoint a special Committee to study the proposed amendments and report, and that the Council should then bring the matter before the Assembly at its next session.

13. The Assembly, at its meeting of 2nd December, accepted this conclusion, with the addition, suggested by M. Costa (Portugal), that any other project of amendment made by any Member of the League should also be referred to the special Committee if submitted within a period to be fixed by the Council (see Appendix II., Resolution No. 10). The Council has fixed 31st March 1921 as the last date for the receipt of proposals.

14. This solution was regarded as unsatisfactory by the Argentine Delegation, which was contemplating the submission to the Assembly of a motion proposing various ambitious amendments to the Covenant, including a scheme for the automatic admission to the League of all States recognised by the Community of Nations which are not unwilling to join it. As there was no prospect of getting this motion adopted forthwith, the Argentine Delegation thereupon withdrew from Geneva. In a letter announcing this step, which was read at the Assembly's meeting of 6th December, they explained that they considered that amendments of the character which they proposed should be taken up at once as vital to the League, and that in view of the Assembly's decision that amendments of the Covenant should not be considered at its present session, they considered their mission at an end. This attitude gave rise in some outside quarters to the misapprehension that Argentine was withdrawing from the League. This was, of course, not the case ; she would have to give two years' notice for that (Article I. of the Covenant).

15. Nothwithstanding the withdrawal of the Argentine Delegation, their motion (the principles of which the Chilean Delegation supported) was regarded as still in existence. There was also a Canadian proposal to strike out Article X. of the Covenant, which guarantees the territorial integrity and political independence of Member-States against external aggression. Both motions were referred to the special Committee on Amendments to the Covenant (see Appendix II., Resolution No. 11).

(C) Relations between, and respective competence of, the Council and the Assembly (Item 9).

16. The Committee appointed M. Viviani (France) and Mr. Rowell (Canada) rapporteurs on this subject. Their Report is printed in Appendix III. (Annex 2). Like Mr. Balfour, whose previous report to the Council on the subject was laid before the Assembly, the rapporteurs deprecated any attempt to stereotype the relations of the two organs of the League. They held that the two bodies are independent, and that where certain powers have been expressly assigned by the Covenant to the Council, the Assembly has no right of intervention, and vice versa. Where there is no discrimination, i.e., if mention is made of both bodies (as in Articles III. and IV.), or only of the League of Nations, both Council and Assembly may be looked on as having concurrent jurisdiction. The Report also observes that certain matters referred to in the Covenant (e.g., in Article XXIII.), are not within the full competence of the organs of the League, but require the concurrence of the Governments concerned in the form of International Conventions (see para. VIII. of the Report).

17. The Report was adopted by the Committee, and was debated in the Assembly on 6th December. In this debate the following were the chief points of interest :—

(1) M. Spalaikovitch (Serb-Croat-Slovene State) proposed that, among the powers to be mentioned as appertaining to the Council, a reference should be made to that of adding to the number of (a) permanent and (b) elected Members of the Council, subject to the approval of a majority of the Assembly (Article IV. of the Covenant). The inclusion of a reference to Article IV. of the Covenant was agreed to.

(2) On the proposal of Lord Robert Cecil it was decided to add a passage to the Report [para. X., clause (a)] to the effect that the Council and the Assembly were each of them competent to discuss and investigate any matter which was within the general competence of the League.

(3) Sir William Meyer drew attention to the omission from the Committee's Report of any mention of the Assembly's prerogative in matters of finance, and said that he presumed that this was regarded as sufficiently covered by the Report of the Committee on the Rules of Procedure [see para. 11 (2) above]. It was agreed that this was so.

(4) Sir William Meyer, supported by Sir Ali Imam, then proposed that if a matter was constitutionally within the full competence of the Council, but had been referred by the Council to the Assembly, the latter should be competent to suggest, for the consideration of the Council, any amendments to the Council's proposals that it might think desirable. Such a case arose later on the question of Mandates (see para. 144 infra). We did not press this to a division as it was agreed by Mr. Rowell that the course indicated should be adopted in practice.

(5) M. Politis (Greece) made two proposals: firstly, that when the Assembly was in session the Council should not deal with any matter within the competence of both bodies without previous reference to the Assembly; and secondly that the Assembly (except during its sessions) should have no power to reverse or modify a decision which falls within the competence of the Council, i.e., the general competence of the Council, and not merely its "exclusive" competence as provided in para. X., clause (b), of the Committee's Report. The object was apparently to regulate the overlapping jurisdiction of the two bodies by making the Assembly supreme during its sessions, and the Council at all other times, in matters lying within the competence of both. The first of these proposals was withdrawn, while as regards the second Mr. Doherty (Canada) pointed out that this would now have the effect of barring the Assembly from ever discussing any matter which the Council was competent to deal with, including matters in which the Covenant gave concurrent jurisdiction to both organs. In the end the question of para. X., clause (b) of the Report was referred back to the Committee, and at the next day's sitting it was decided to omit the whole clause. As will be seen by reference to the Report, clause (b) adds nothing to the principle already expressed in clause (a).

Subject to the modifications indicated above the Committee's Report was adopted (Appendix II., Resolution No. 13).

(D) The method of selecting the four Members of the League to be non-permanently represented on the Council, and the first appointment of four such Members (Item 10).

18. This matter was referred by the Committee to a sub-committee consisting of :—

Mr. Wellington Koo (China), Chairman.	Sir Ali Imam (India).
M. Usteri (Switzerland).	M. Politch (Serb-Croat-Slovene State).
M. Aguero (Cuba).
M. Palacios (Spain).	M. Alvear (Argentine).
M. Munch (Denmark).	M. Struycken (Netherlands).

There were considerable differences of opinion in the sub-committee and these were reflected in the Report of the full Committee. This Report is printed in Appendix III. (Annex 3).

19. The proposals carried in the Committee—some of them by a very narrow majority—were as follows :—

(a) The mandates of Belgium, Brazil, Greece and Spain, which had been provisionally named in the Covenant as Members of the Council pending an election by the Assembly, were to expire on 31st December 1920.

(b) The appointment of States should be for two years; so that every year the Assembly would elect two States, by a separate and secret ballot for each. The two-year period had been suggested by Sir Ali Imam, and was carried by 14 votes to 13.

(c) On the present occasion, four States were to be thus elected, but two of these, to be selected by lot, were to hold office for a year only.

(d) The mandates of elected States were to date from the 1st January of the year following their election by the Assembly.

(e) The right of re-electing retiring States was to be subject to the condition that no State should hold office on the Council for more than four years at a time, and that outgoing States should not be eligible for further election till the lapse of a further period of four years.

(f) It was proposed by Mr. Wellington Koo that, at the coming election, three of the four nominees should be elected from European and American States, and one from Asia and the remaining parts of the world. Sir Ali Imam had supported this proposal, illustrating its desirability by the over-representation of Europe on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office. The proposal was carried in the Committee by 13 votes to 12.

(g) These provisions were to be regarded as matters of procedure within the meaning of Article V., para. 2, of the Covenant, so that they might be decided by a majority of the Assembly.

20. The discussion of these proposals in the Assembly on 11th December evoked differences of opinion on what may be called constitutional points. It was held by several delegates that—

(i) The matters dealt with covered important questions of principle and could not be relegated to "procedure."

(ii) The method of election, &c., proposed, limited the powers of future Assemblies and seemed to that extent incompatible with the provisions of Article IV. of the Covenant, which gave each Assembly power to elect "in its discretion" (librement in the French version) ; the proposal would therefore involve an amendment of the Covenant.

Mr. Balfour who, as chairman of Committee No. I., had presented its report, was evidently in personal agreement with these critics. Finally, as there seemed no possibility of attaining general agreement on the proposals as they stood, he made a very ingenious proposal which evoked general assent. It took the form of a Resolution and of a Recommendation (for the adoption of a Recommendation, unanimity is not considered to be requisite). The Resolution, reproduced in Appendix II. (Resolution No. 22), was to the effect that the four Members should be elected in 1920 for one year only, commencing 1st January 1921, and that the various proposals considered by Committee No. I., should be passed on to the special Committee which is to be constituted by the Council for considering amendments to the Covenant, so that the matter may come before the Assembly at its next session.

The Recommendation stated that it was desirable that in the forthcoming election for 1921 delegates should vote so as to secure the geographical distribution desired by Mr. Wellington Koo. This Recommendation was carried by 27 votes to 4.

21. On 15th December an election was held in accordance with the Resolution, separate ballots being taken for each place. 39 States took part in the voting. For the first place Spain was elected with 35 votes. For the second place Brazil was elected with 33 votes. On the first ballot for the third place no State had an absolute majority (which the procedure adopted required), but China led with 19 (i.e., only one short of a majority) and Belgium followed with 16 votes : on the second ballot, however, (between the two highest on the list) Belgium got a clear majority of 24. For the fourth place China received a majority (21 votes) on the first ballot.

Matters dealt with by Committee No. II. (Technical Questions).

22. These questions, 13 in all (see the list in para. 4 above) were referred to one Grand Committee (No. II.) which in view of their complexity and number had a heavy task imposed upon it.

We deal with these 13 subjects, not in the order in which they appear on the agenda, but in that in which (when in several cases subsequently grouped together) they were reported to the Assembly.

23. At the opening meeting M. Tittoni made a long statement of his personal views as to the functions of the League in the sphere of the questions referred to the Committee.

It is desirable to summarise this statement in order to explain much of what occurred in the subsequent proceedings of the Committee. He said that the League is called upon to perform a number of duties of an international character and of a technical order—such as those dealing with health, transit and communications, economic and financial questions. It is specially in regard to these questions that States may now be more disposed to renounce the individualistic point of view and to act in the general interest, since the results are more immediate. He instanced the International Labour Office as having increased the credit of the League in this direction. M. Tittoni then went through the agenda of the Committee, and with regard to the economic and financial duties of the League said that these might be grouped in two categories: those specially mentioned in the Covenant and in the Treaties of Peace, and those which the spirit of the Covenant, or circumstances, may suggest.

The League of Nations (he continued) had already organised the Financial Conference of Brussels. This Conference had adopted a resolution, among others, to convene a further Economic and Financial Conference, the main duty of which should be to create a permanent Economic and Financial Organisation. Meanwhile the Council, at its meeting at Brussels, had decided to establish a provisional Economic and Financial Committee, to pave the way for the permanent body and to consider practical means of carrying into effect the recommendations of the Brussels Conference, and give an opinion on such economic and financial questions as might arise. Among the latter was the question of raw materials and discrimination in prices; the Council had recognised the importance of this question and its urgency, and had recommended it for immediate examination by the Economic and Financial Organisation of the League.

Mr. Rowell (Canada) asked that it should be recorded in the minutes that he did not agree with certain points of view expressed by the Chairman. Mr. Rowell's views on these points were expressed in the course of the debate in the Assembly on the General Report on the work of the Council, during which he challenged the propriety of restricting the liberty of States in respect of their raw material. (At subsequent meetings of No. II. Committee Canada was represented by Sir George Foster.)

Rapporteurs on each of the ten items originally on the agenda were appointed as follows :—

No. of Question on Assembly's Agenda.

(11) Relations between special technical organisations on the one hand and the Council and Assembly of the League on the other : M. Tittoni (Italy).

(12) Establishment of a permanent Health Organisation (in accordance with Article XXIII. (f) of the Covenant) : Mr. G. N. Barnes (Great Britain).

(13) The position in regard to typhus and other infectious diseases in Poland and the measures to be taken to combat them and prevent their spread : Dr. Fernando Perez (Argentina).

(14) Supervision of the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children (in accordance with Article XXIII. of the Covenant) : Professor Thomas Jonnesco (Roumania).

(15) General supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs (in accordance with Article XXIII. of the Covenant and at the request of the Government of the Netherlands) : Sir W. S. Meyer (India).

(16) The establishment of a permanent organisation to deal with communications and transit questions falling within the sphere of the League (in accordance with Article XXIII. (e) of the Covenant and under the Treaty of Versailles and other Peace Treaties) : Jonkheer Loudon (Netherlands).

(17) Tribunal for the settlement of differences referred to in Articles 336, 337, 376, and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles and the corresponding articles of other Treaties : Jonkheer Loudon (Netherlands).

(18) Passports for members of the Secretariat : M. Politch (Serb-Croat-Slovene State).

(19) Economic and Financial Organisation (with reference to the Report of the Brussels Conference and Article XXIII. (e) of the Covenant) : M. Ador (Switzerland).

(20) Claim of India to be represented on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office : M. Lafontaine (Belgium).

Typhus (Item 13).

25. The first meeting in regard to typhus in Poland was adjourned because the Polish Delegate (M. Doermann) was not present, and also to enable the Committee to hear the Report of a Commission of Investigation which had been despatched by the Council of the League to Poland with a view to reporting to the Assembly on its return. This Commission, consisting of Dr. Madsen, Director of the Serum Institute, Copenhagen ; Dr. Pottevin, Deputy Director, Office International d'Hygiene Publique (Paris) ; and Dr. Norman White, Chief Medical Commissioner of the Typhus Commission of the League of Nations—assisted by Dr. Rachman, Director of the Central State Epidemiological Institute, Warsaw—was heard at two public meetings of a sub-committee consisting of any member of the full Committee who wished to be present. The Report of the Commission is printed in Appendix V. (Annex 2).

26. Sir George Foster submitted the Report of the sub-committee (see Appendix III. (Annex 4) to the full Committee, together with a draft Resolution proposing that an urgent and immediate appeal should be made by the Assembly for adequate funds for prosecuting an effective campaign against epidemic disease, including typhus and cholera, in Eastern Europe, beginning with Poland as a centre ; and that the co-operation of the International Committee of the Red Cross and of the League of Red Cross Societies should be sought in this connection. Sir George Foster laid stress on the inadequate response as yet obtained to the appeal made to the various Governments, and to the fact that such sums as had been offered were sometimes hedged by conditions as to other States subscribing. Sir H. Llewellyn Smith, therefore (as temporary substitute for Mr. Barnes, who was the British representative on the Committee) moved and carried an addition to the draft Resolution to the effect that, pending response to the appeal proposed, an immediate beginning should be made with the campaign to the extent that the funds already promised permitted. He indicated that Great Britain would probably withdraw the condition she had previously attached to her offer of 50,000*l.*, viz., that three other countries should subscribe a like amount, and M. Hanotaux said that the French Government would probably also withdraw a like reservation which they had made.

27. In the course of discussion, proposals were made by the delegates of Cuba and Belgium to give a big loan or grant (it would come to the same thing) to Poland for typhus expenditure, the funds to be met by the League, but the general feeling was that this was not a matter in which League funds, as such, could properly be employed, and the speakers did not press their view to a vote.

28. The full Assembly at its sitting of 7th December discussed the Resolution submitted by Sir George Foster urging an immediate appeal for further funds, and that a beginning should be made as soon as possible with the money already available. This was passed, with an addition suggested by Dr. Nansen (Norway) that a special Committee of three should be appointed by the Assembly to examine further the question of funds and consider how their collection could be promoted. In the course of the debate His Highness the Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar made the speech which is printed in Appendix IV., Annex 1, and while pointing out that the epidemic did not threaten India, said that he hoped private subscriptions would be obtained from there and that he himself would put the matter before the Chamber of Princes.

29. Mr. Balfour announced the withdrawal of the condition previously attached to Great Britain's contribution of 50,000*l.*, and referred to in para. 26. The representatives of various States which had already promised to subscribe to the fund, e.g., Spain, Greece and Persia, proclaimed their good deeds, and Mr. Wellington Koo (China) announced that his Government would now subscribe 2,000*l.*

30. As the Resolution puts the matter on a purely voluntary footing, India retains perfect liberty not to subscribe, in view of the reasons stated by the Government of India in their telegram of 12th November 1920, which you communicated to the Indian Delegation, viz., that the partial failure of the monsoon makes it necessary to conserve all their financial resources.

It has, however, been suggested to you by Sir William Meyer, on behalf of the Indian Delegation, that it might now be expedient for the Government of India to make a small donation, which need not exceed, say, 3,000*l.*

Technical Organisations (Items 11, 12, 16, 17, and 19).

31. A combined Report was ultimately made by the Committee to the Assembly on Items Nos. 11, 12, 16, and 19 of its Agenda, i.e., on the general question of the relations of technical organisations to be set up by the League to its two principal organs, and on the separate questions of setting up such organisations to deal with matters of Health, Communications and Transit, and Economic and Financial questions: the subject of the settlement of certain disputes (Item No. 17) was also included in this Report.

M. Hanotaux (France) was at a later stage in the Committee's proceedings appointed general rapporteur for this group of subjects, being assisted by the special rapporteurs originally appointed for each item. His Report (which was the outcome of prolonged discussions in Committee) will be found in Appendix III. (Annex 5) in the shape in which it was submitted to the Assembly.

Relations of Technical Organisations to the Council and Assembly (Item 11).

32. The Resolution on this subject as it appears in M. Hanotaux' Report was passed without much difficulty by the Committee.

Economic and Financial Organisation (Item No. 19).

33. The discussion in the Committee on the proposed setting up of an Economic and Financial Organisation commenced at the third meeting on 22nd November and was not concluded till the sixth meeting on 29th November.

The only matters referred by the Assembly to the Committee were (i) a proposal made by the Council in a Resolution dated 27th October 1920 to summon during 1921 a general Economic and Financial Conference with a view to the organisation of a Standing Economic and Financial Committee; and (ii) certain action already taken by the Council, under a Resolution of the same date, to form a limited provisional Committee on economic and financial questions to advise the Council pending the creation of the definite organisation contemplated.

34. The discussion on this limited reference commenced with an attempt made by MM. Tittoni (Italy) and Ador (Switzerland) to pass through the Committee, at the end of a lengthy sitting, a series of Resolutions, put forward by M. Ador, which would have committed it to lending definite support to a proposal previously made by M. Tittoni elsewhere, that measures should be taken, under cover of Article XXIII. of the Covenant, for examination of steps for controlling the distribution of raw material, i.e., for limiting the ability of States which produce such raw materials to fix their own prices for it, and preventing them from showing favouritism to particular countries. M. Tittoni's idea was that advantages created by special possession of valuable raw material should, as far as possible, be neutralised for the benefit of the whole world. This appeared to be primarily aimed at prices which had been charged by Great Britain for exported coal, but as a general proposition it would, of course, affect India also, e.g., in respect of her jute and raw cotton.

Sir William Meyer protested against mixing up in the draft Resolutions matters which had been clearly recommended by the Financial Conference at Brussels—the peg on which MM. Tittoni and Ador had hung their proposals—and Resolutions which were merely disputable inferences from the Brussels proceedings or ideas of M. Ador's own, and it was decided to adjourn discussion so that in the meantime M. Ador might separate his Resolutions in accordance with this criterion.

This meeting of the Committee was the last at which M. Tittoni was present.

35. At the next meeting M. Ador produced an entirely revised set of draft Resolutions, three in number, which were under discussion at this and subsequent meetings. The first of these merely endorsed the proposal of the Council regarding a general Economic and Financial Conference referred to in para. 33 (see first Resolution as printed in M. Hanotaux' Report*).

The second Resolution was on the face of it innocent. It merely asked the Assembly to say that, having noted the Resolution taken by the Council at its meeting at Brussels on 27th October, and completely sharing its opinions, it considered it indispensable that the Economic and Financial Committee (by natural inference the provisional one referred to in para. 33) should continue its work without delay in the manner indicated by the Council.

But from an expose given by M. Ador, it turned out that what he had in view was not the Council's Resolution in regard to the appointment of a provisional Committee, but quite another one of the same date, not communicated to the Assembly, which read as follows :—

"The Council has fully considered the difficulties experienced by numerous countries in assuring the import of raw materials essential to their welfare and even to their existence, and has requested the Economic Section of the Economic and Financial Committee to study :—

(a) the extent and nature of their requirements ;

(b) the causes of these difficulties (other than those arising from the lack of credit or fluctuation in the rate of exchange, which have already been considered by the Brussels Conference) ; the effects of the existence of monopolies will be very specially considered.

"The Council invites the Committee to submit to it at the earliest possible moment a report on the results of its enquiry—a report which is indispensable for the further deliberations of the International Economic and Financial Conference."

And it was this action which the Committee, and through it the Assembly, were asked emphatically to support.

36. Sir William Meyer took exception to this on the following grounds :—

(1) The Resolution of the Council, which M. Ador had referred to, had not been communicated to the Assembly or the Committee.

(2) M. Ador contended that the matter was covered by Article XXIII. (e) of the Covenant, but this contention was not sustainable. The words "equitable treatment for commerce" in this article had, from the context, obvious reference to freedom of communications and transit, and to the interests of the devastated regions.

(3) If, as was contended, Article XXIII. (e) could be specially applied to raw materials, why should it not also be applied to tariffs, which likewise limit full freedom of trade ? Nobody, however, would propose to limit the autonomy of States in regard to their tariffs in the way in which M. Tittoni, who had inspired M. Ador, evidently desired to limit the sovereignty of States in regard to their raw material, and to require those who possessed such material to consent to rationing.

(4) In the case of India, she received some compensation from nature for a climate unfavourable to productive energy in the existence of her jute monopoly, but she had exercised this with great moderation. India would have no fear of a general enquiry in regard to the world's raw material situation, but she could not assent to action which might result in interference with her fiscal policy.

Sir William Meyer was supported by the Dominions representatives, Sir George Foster asking emphatically whether it was really supposed that the United States could be dictated to in regard to its cotton.

37. M. Ador, on the suggestion of the Australian representative and Sir William Meyer, consented to cut out the words "completely sharing its opinions" which would have committed the Assembly to full participation in the Council's views.

Mr. Barnes further suggested that the draft Resolution should be amended by words which would merely connect it with the action of the Council in regard to the establishment of the Provisional Economic and Financial Committee. M. Ador at first expressed his willingness to accept this, but later on, when he found that some speeches were being made which were favourable to his original proposal, he withdrew this assent and went back to his intention of referring to the special Resolution of the Council in regard to raw material. His second Resolution was then carried by a large majority.

38. With a view to avoiding controversial discussion later on in the Assembly on the question of raw material (in which the British Empire might have been opposed by France as well as Italy), private negotiations were undertaken with M. Ador to endeavour to persuade him to put his second Resolution in a form so non-committal as to eliminate dissent, and at the next meeting of the Committee (29th November) M. Hanotaux, who had shown himself quite friendly to us, moved, in order to avoid any misunderstanding that the following should be added to M. Ador's second Resolution passed at the previous meeting :—

"It is understood that the present Resolution has been passed as an interpretation of Annex I. (a) of the Report of Mr. Bourgeois to the Council, dated 27th October 1920."

Annex I. (a) of the Report in question is the Resolution of the Council setting up a provisional Committee. This rider to the Resolution was accepted by the Committee, and the matter was thus brought back to the position which Mr. Barnes had tried to obtain at the previous meeting and to which M. Ador had then objected.

39. At the same meeting M. Ador's third Resolution, which expressed agreement with the views set forth in the Council's note addresed to the various Governments with reference to the decisions of the Brussels Conference and insisted on the urgent necessity of national wealth being employed in a productive manner, was carried, while a further clause, which invited the various Governments to reduce their military expenditure as soon as possible, was passed on separately to Committee VI., which was dealing with the question of armaments.

Communications and Transit (Item 16).

40. The Resolution on this subject, in the form in which it was adopted by the Committee, will be found in M. Hanotaux' Report.* It was introduced in the Committee by Jonkheer Loudon (Netherlands), and was based, with some minor differences, on the Resolution of the Council of 19th May 1920.

Some discussion took place in Committee on para. 1 (3) of the draft Resolution regarding the making of special rules and regulations in arranging for subsequent meetings of the proposed Conference. In the original Council Resolution these rules and regulations required, in order to obtain validity, acceptance by all the representatives of the Members of the League represented on the Council, and by two-thirds of the other States. Under the Committee's Resolution, subsequently accepted by the Assembly, they are to be adopted by two-thirds of the representatives of the Members of the League, the requirement of unanimity on the part of Members represented on the Council being dispensed with. This was in accordance with the view expressed by Sir William Meyer, that, while the unanimous agreement of the States represented on the Council might be necessary in questions of high policy, it would be undesirable to introduce such a requirement in other matters.

41. Sir William Meyer likewise secured the insertion of provisions (1) that Geneva (where the League has office accommodation and establishments) should be the place of the Conference's meetings (subsequent to the first, which is to be held at Barcelona), unless the Council for special and exceptional reasons decide otherwise ; and (2) that the headquarters of the proposed Standing Communications Committee should also be at Geneva. The Committee also adopted a proposal made by M. Ferraris (Italy) that the Council should be responsible for convening subsequent meetings of the Conference.

These were the only amendments other than verbal changes made in the draft Resolution as introduced.

42. The paragraph in the Council's Resolution which dealt with the composition of the Standing Committee was held over. and dealt with separately in the manner which we describe later on.

43. Mr. Barnes proposed to add to para. 1 (2) of the draft Resolution a clause inviting the Conference to "take such steps, if any, as it may think expedient to consult with representatives of any State which, though not a Member of the League of Nations, will be directly affected by any Conventions that may eventually be adopted." This clause was not incorporated in the draft Resolution, but was recorded in the minutes as a recomendation of the Committee.

Settlement of disputes regarding certain Waterways, etc., under Articles 336, 337, 376 and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles and corresponding Articles of other Treaties (Item 17).

44. In the Resolution adopted by the Committee on this subject (given in M. Hanotaux' Report*) the number of members of the Court of Arbitration, proposed in the Memorandum by the Secretary-General which was before the Committee, was reduced on the motion of Sir Hubert Llewellyn Smith (acting as substitute for Mr. Barnes) from five to three.

Health Organisation (Item 12).

45. The scheme covered by the Council's Resolution of 3rd August 1920 was considered by the Committee, and accepted by it with certain amendments (see M. Hanotaux' Report†). The following were the principal amendments introduced :—

(1) The functions of the Organisation under heading (b) are to confer and co-operate " with international Red Cross Societies and other similar Societies," instead of " with the League of Red Cross Societies." As was pointed out by the delegates of Persia and India, the clause as amended will include " similar Societies " in Muhammadan countries.

(2) The function of organising " missions in connection with matters of health at the request of the League of Nations " was limited, on Sir William Meyer's proposal, by the addition of the words " and with the concurrence of the countries affected."

(3) An amendment by M. Hanotaux fixed the meeting-place of the General Committee definitely at Paris.

(4) With regard to a clause in the Council's scheme that " the official languages of the International Health Section shall be French and English," Dr. Restrepo (Columbia) appealed to his British colleagues to agree to the omission of English, quoting the example of the Spanish-speaking delegates in the Assembly who had sacrificed their desire for Spanish as an official language of the League. Dr. Restrepo was not satisfied by a jocular suggestion that Latin should be adopted as a suitable language for the subject, and in the end it was decided to omit any reference to an official medical language as otiose.

(5) Mr. Barnes and M. Hanotaux secured an amendment providing for consultation, in relevant cases, with the Economic and Transit Organisations of the League, instead of with " technical trade experts " as proposed by the Council, in the framing of draft Conventions.

(6) Another amendment of M. Hanotaux, slightly modified (with his consent) by Sir William Meyer, provides for the submission of such draft Conventions by the Council of the League to the Governments concerned for signature, if they approve, by plenipotentiaries " without further examination." M. Hanotaux insisted on the last three words as necessary to avoid prolonged delays.

(7) The last two paragraphs under the head of " Conventions " in the Council's scheme were, on Mr. Barnes' proposal, omitted as superfluous ; these paragraphs related to action by the Standing Committee in the event of a representative on the General Committee failing to submit certain reports as to the measures taken in his country to carry out a Convention.

(8) Under the head of " Expenses," an amendment proposed by M. Hanotaux was adopted limiting the League audit of the expenditure of the Office International d'Hygiene Publique to sums provided by the League.

(9) The paragraph in the Council's scheme regarding the composition of the Standing Committee was held over for separate consideration.

Composition of Standing Committees on (a) Communications and Transit, (b) Health.

46. The Council's proposals as to the constitution of these Committees were in the following sense :—

(a) Communications and Transit Committee.

*Pages 70-71 infra. †Pages 71-74 infra.

This Committee should consist of one representative each of States which are permanently represented on the Council (i.e., four in all), and of eight members selected in a manner to be determined by the Conference.

This should consist of (a) four members from the States permanently represented on the Council of the League of Nations ; (b) four members elected by the General Committee which represents all States (see M. Hanotaux' Report, page 69 infra) ; (c) the President of this General Committee ; (d) a representative of the League of Red Cross Societies ; and (e) a representative chosen by the Governing Body of the Labour Organisation as being closely concerned with health questions.

47. A proposal had been circulated by the Argentine Delegation that the representation on the Standing Committees of all the technical organisations should be distributed on a purely geographical basis, running to a total of 17 or 18 representatives. Sir William Meyer pointed out that the number of representatives thus proposed (to which Chile proposed to add five) would make the Committees unnecessarily large, and that rigid distribution between Continents would not be easy to carry out. He accordingly suggested that the Committees should be constituted in the manner proposed by the Council, except that the number of delegates on the Standing Health Committee who were to be elected by the General Committee should be eight instead of four, so as to give the same proportion of representatives of secondary States to those of the Great Powers as in the case of the Transit Committee ; and he also proposed that in selecting representatives other than those of the Great Powers, due regard should be had to geographical representation.

48. The Argentine proposal, in the absence of the Argentine delegate, was defended by Venezuela, but was rejected, and Resolutions as to the composition of the Committees were adopted by Committee No. II. in the following form :—

Standing Committee on Communications and Transit.

"This Committee shall consist of members nominated by those Members of the League which are permanently represented on the Council, in the proportion of one member by each of those Members of the League, and also of eight members, selected in a manner to be determined by the Conference, having regard, as far as possible, to technical interests and geographical representation."

This was slightly modified by the Assembly (vide para. 54 infra).

Standing Health Committee.

"The Standing Committee shall consist of delegates of the States permanently represented on the Council of the League of Nations, five members elected by the General Committee) having regard to their scientific attainments and to geographical representation) ; the President of the General Committee ; a representative of the League of Red Cross Societies, and a representative chosen by the Governing Body of the Labour Conference."

Thus a provision as to geographical representation was inserted in each case.

49. As regards the Health Resolution, Sir William Meyer agreed to the number of representatives of secondary States being fixed at five instead of eight, in view of the general feeling that if their number were in excess of five, the Committee would be unduly large, as three special members had also to be included.

It may be added that Sir William was at first inclined to challenge the necessity of a special representative of the Labour Organisation, but withdrew his opposition on its being explained that there had been a concordat to this effect, to obviate independent action on Health questions by the Labour Office.

Expenditure on Technical Organisations.

50. The aggregate provisions in the orginal budget and in the supplementary estimates for the Economic and Financial, the Communciations and Transit and the Health Organisations were 2,070,000 gold francs. Sir William Meyer submitted a Resolution to Committee No. II. (which that Committee adopted) in favour of reducing this to a collective maximum of 2,000,000 gold francs, and allowing no increase of expenditure beyond this total without the special and previous sanction of the Assembly, but giving the Council, for the year 1921, power of reappropriation between one head or sub-head and another : any sums unspent from the total allotment were to lapse to the general funds of the League. The object was to prevent the Secretatriat or the special organisations from plunging into expenditure which the Assembly might later on be obliged to pass as having been actually incurred.

This Resolution was passed on to Committee No. IV. which was dealing with the League's budget, but no action was ultimately taken upon it by that Committee, it being argued, when the budget Report came before the Assembly, that the requisite check had been independently provided (vide para. 110 infra).

Action of the Assembly on M. Hanotaux' Report on Technical Organisations.

51. At their meeting of the 8th December, the Assembly discussed the Report of M. Hanotaux embodying the proposed Resolutions of No. II. Committee in respect of the Assembly's Items 11, 12, 16, 17 and 19—covering the general relations of Technical Organisations to the Council and Assembly, and specific recommendations in regard to the Health, Communications and Transit, and Economic and Financial Organisations.

Mr. Rowell (Canada) attacked the policy of the Report, holding that the Resolutions there contained, envisaging constant Conferences and the setting up of expensive permanent organisations, were not only inexpedient in themselves from the point of view of expense, but were in disaccord with the provisions of Article XXIII. of the Covenant. He interpreted this Article as contemplating the establishment of international Conventions prior to action in the matters with which it deals. Mr. Rowell was supported by Senator Millen (Australia), while M. Hanotaux and M. Ador replied that the organisations were merely consultative bodies which did not affect the ultimate rights of the component States of the League or the control of the Assembly in matters of finance. Moreover, matters could not be put in train for Conventions without much preliminary spade-work and consultation.

It was finally decided, on the proposal of Lord Robert Cecil, that there should be an informal conference between Mr. Rowell and those who were with him, on the one side, and some of the members of Committee No. II. on the other.

52. This Conference, in which Lord Robert Cecil took part, and at which Sir William Meyer was present, was held that evening. It was felt desirable to abstain, as far as possible, from discussion of the exact interpretation of Article XXIII. of the Covenant, and that the real points in issue were (a) the expense and (b) the character of the organisations which the Council, and Committee No. II in agreement with the Council, proposed to set up.

As regards the former the Canadian delegates expressed themselves satisfied with the principle of the Resolution (referred to in para. 50) which had been adopted by Committee No. II. that afternoon.

53. On the other point it was finally agreed that—

(1) As regards both the Economic and Financial, and the Communications and Tranist, Organisations, the terms "Permanent Organisation" and "Permanent" or "Standing Committee" should in all cases be replaced by "Advisory Committee."

(2) There should be no date specified for the meeting of the Economic and Financial Conference, which had previously been contemplated for 1921.

(3) The Resolutions regarding the Health Organisation need not be greatly modified.

54. At the Assembly meeting of 9th December proposals (1) and (2) above were put and accepted, and the Resolutions thus amended were unanimously carried, subject to the acceptance of an amendment proposed by the Chilean Delegation as regards the composition of the Advisory Committee for Transit. The composition recommended in M. Hanotaux's Report was four representatives of the Great Powers permanently represented on the Council, and eight representatives of other States selected with regard to technical interests and geographical representation. The Chilean amendment was to strike out the specific number eight, and to substitute a provision that, including the representatives of the four Great Powers, the total number of the Committee should not exceed one-third of the Members of the League. The Resolution, as passed by the Assembly, regarding the composition of the Advisory Committee on Communications and Transit is accordingly as follows :—

" This Committee will be composed of members appointed by the Members of the League represented permanently on the Council, one representative for each of those members, together with members to be appointed as determined by the Conference, taking into account as far as possible technical interests and geographical representation. The total number of members of the Committee shall not exceed one-third of the Members of the League."

As things are at present, this does not make much difference, but if the League materially expands by the adhesion of fresh States, it will mean a further increase in the size of the Committee. On the other hand, it will temper more fully the ex-officio representation of the Great Powers.

55. In connection with the Resolution on the Economic and Financial Committee, there was some reference by M. Ador (Switzerland) and M. Schanzer (Italy) to the question of raw materials, but there was nothing to which objection could be taken, as it was admitted by the speakers that for the present the matter must be left in the hands of the provisional Economic Committee set up by the Council, and that Committee is not likely to raise thorny points.

56. The remaining portion of the General Report of Committee II. on Technical Organisations—that dealing with Public Health—was discussed on 10th December, and the Resolutions proposed were passed by the Assembly, subject to slight modifications, including the substitution of " Standing Committee " for " Permanent Committee."

Here also the Chilean Delegation had proposed an amendment of the same character as that mentioned in para. 54. But this was withdrawn, and the text of M. Hanotaux's Report and Resolutions, as previously amended, was declared finally carried (Appendix II., Resolutions Nos. 14—20, of the Assembly)..

Special Technical Questions.

57. A collective Report was submitted to the Assembly by Committee No. II. on Items 14, 15, and 20 (traffic in women and children ; traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs ; and the claim of India to be represented, as a State of chief industrial importance, on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office). This Report was presented by M. Jonnesco as general rapporteur assisted by the special rapporteurs who had been appointed to deal with each of the separate items in Committee.

58. The first of these questions to be dealt with by the Committee was that of India's claim in regard to the Labour Office. M. Lafontaine (Belgium), in his Report to the Committee, took the ground that, as the question at issue was one for the decision of the Council under Article 393 of the Treaty of Versailles, the Assembly had no locus standi in the matter. Sir William Meyer gave an exposition of the reasons for which India claimed that the Governing Body of the Labour Organisation was not properly representative, and that her appeal had not been adequately considered by the Council, which had dealt with it on technical considerations and had refrained from giving a decision on the merits of the case. He recognised that the Assembly, and consequently its Committee, could not override the Council (for which reason he did not propose to move a formal Resolution in the Assembly), but he asked for consideration of the case on grounds of equity, and expressed the hope that, from this point of view, the result might be a suggestion to the Council to consider the matter further and to take steps to satisfy India's legitimate aspirations, either by putting her in the place of Denmark as substitute for the United States, or, preferably, by getting the Governing Body (which we regarded as illegitimately constituted and as discredited by the vote of censure passed on its composition at Washington) to resign office in time for a new body to be appointed for the Conference of 1921.

59. The Committee, however, passed the following Resolution :—

" In view of the terms of Article 393 of the Treaty of Versailles, which reserves for the Council of the League of Nations the right to decide on any questions as to which are the Members of the International Labour Organisation of chief industrial importance who should figure on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office, the Committee is of opinion that the Assembly of the League of Nations is not competent to deal with India's claim."

Sir William Meyer thereupon took the only course still open (outside ventilating the matter once more in the Assembly itself when the Committee's Report came before it) by stating that India would now have to consider the question of opposing the growing expenditure of the Labour Organisation, and of asking for a reconsideration of the unjust position by which she is rated as a first-class Power for contribution to the League's expenses and denied this position when it comes to any privilege such as representation on the Labour Governing Body.

Opium and other dangerous drugs.

60. This question had been placed on the Agenda at the request of the Netherlands Government. Under Article XXIII. (c) of the Covenant the League is entrusted with the general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to this matter. The question at issue was that of providing means for the discharge of such responsibility and of the transfer from the Netherlands Government of the functions vested in the latter by Articles 21 and 24 of the Hague Opium Convention.

Sir William Meyer had been appointed special rapporteur on the subject and circulated a preliminary Report which was subsequently presented to the Assembly, and is printed in Appendix III. (Annex 6). He had feared that efforts might be made to get the Committee to go beyond the business before it, namely, how best to carry out at the present stage the provisions of the Hague Convention, and had had some previous conversation with a Chinese representative, Mr. S. Tchéou-Wei, who was at the time rather in favour of asking for further restrictive measures in regard to opium. But when it was pointed out to Mr. Tchéou-Wei what great progress had been made by the provisions of the Convention, and that we ought to see that these provisions were made realities before getting on to something further, over which there might at present be acute difference of opinion, he accepted this point of view, and neither the Chinese nor any other delegate proposed to go outside the Convention limits.

61. In speaking on his preliminary Report in the Committee, Sir William Meyer pointed out two alternative ways in which the League could relieve the Netherlands Government of their duties under the Convention :—

(a) by simply passing on those duties to the Council and the Secretariat ;

(b) by giving them the assistance of a special Advisory Committee, representing the States most interested in the question.

As rapporteur, he left this matter to the decision of the Committee, but indicated a personal preference for the latter alternative, and pointed out that India should be included as one of the States specially interested. He also observed that we had to face the difficulty that the United States and Germany were not yet Members of the League (although they had ratified the Hague Convention, the United States independently, and Germany through the Treaty of Versailles), and if these States would not consent to pass on to the League direct the information which they were bound to furnish, they could send it to the Netherlands Government, which would in turn transmit it.

62. Mr. Barnes then moved a Resolution (the terms of which he had previously discussed with Sir William Meyer), and after discussion in the Committee it was passed subject to certain amendments. The text of the Resolution as thus passed, and subsequently adopted without further amendment in the Assembly, will be found in Appendix II. (Resolution No. 28). It will be seen that it proposed inter alia that an Advisory Committee be appointed by the Council to include representatives of the countries chiefly concerned, in particular the Netherlands, Great Britain, France, India, Japan, China, Siam and Portugal. The last named country was specifically included as the result of a statement, which the Portuguese representative, M. de Andrade, presented to the Committee and which is printed in Appendix V. (Annex 3).

Traffic in Women and Children.

63. In this matter also general supervision over the execution of agreements in entrusted to the League by Article XXIII. (c) of the Covenant, and the question to be decided was that of the method by which the League should carry out its task.

M. Jonnesco was special, as well as general, rapporteur on this subject and produced draft Resolutions which required considerable re-shaping in Committee to make them practicable. In the end the Committee adopted the Resolution which is printed (as subsequently modified by the Assembly) in Appendix II. Resolution No. 27). It falls into two parts, the first dealing with the general question, and the second with the particular question of Armenian deportees, in regard to whom a special Commission of Enquiry is proposed.

As regards the general question, there is nothing in the Resolution, as adopted, which prejudices the maintenance (if so desired) of the decision adopted by India in 1914 not to be a party to the Convention of 1910.

Action of the Assembly on M. Jonnesco's Report on Items 14, 15 and 20 (Traffic in Women and Children, Opium, &c., and India's claim in regard to the Labour Office).

64. The debate on these items in the Assembly took place on 15th December.

Opium was taken first, and the Resolution submitted by the Committee was adopted without alteration (Appendix II., Resolution No. 28). The speech made by Sir William Meyer in presenting his special Report (Appendix III., Annex 6) is printed in Appendix IV. (Annex 2).

Mr. Wellington Koo (China) and Jonkheer Loudon (Netherlands) both spoke in favour of the Resolution, the former paying tribute to the enormous assistance which his country had obtained from Great Britain and India in dealing with the suppression of its opium consumption, and the latter mentioning that, in his view, in order to relieve the Netherlands Government of their obligations, it would be necessary to have a special protocol signed, since a slight modification of the existing Hague Convention was involved.

65. The debate on the traffic in women and children was made noteworthy by the first appearance of a lady speaker (Mlle. Forchhammer of Denmark) at the Assembly's tribune. The part of the Resolution on the subject which dealt with the question of Armenian deportees owed its origin to her, and she had grounded it on the provisions of Article 142 of the Treaty of Sèvres. Although the Treaty remains unratified, the Assembly adopted the Resolution (Appendix II., Resolution No. 27) with a modification extending the purview of the Commission of Enquiry to adjoining territories as well as to Armenia and Asia Minor. M. Zoka ed Dowleh (Persia) secured this modification.

66. Speeches were delivered in the Assembly by Sir William Meyer and Sir Ali Imam on the Report on India's claim to be represented as a State of chief industrial importance on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office. These speeches are given in Appendix IV. At the close of the debate Mr. Barnes observed that the claim of India had not been considered at Washington on its merits because India had herself refused to take part in the election of representatives of States outside the principal Powers to the Governing Body of the Organisation. But the Washington Conference had no power to decide India's claim to representation as of right, and refusal to stand for election was motived by the fact that in India's view the proceedings in regard to the constitution of that body were irregular.

Passports for members of the Secretariat of the League.

67. This question had been raised under the fourth paragraph of Article VII. of the Covenant. When first discussed in Committee No. II. it had been referred to a sub-committee of four persons, including M. Hanotaux (France). This sub-committee produced a Report (see Appendix III., Annex 7) which is self-explanatory and was adopted by the Committee, and, on 15th December, by the Assembly (Appendix II., Resolution No. 29).

21

Supplementary Miscellaneous Subjects, viz.,

(A) Intervention on behalf of Children in Countries affected by the War.

(B) An " International Language."

(C) " Organisation of Intellectual Labour."

68. These three subjects were referred to Committee No. II. in the course of the Assembly's proceedings, but, except in the case of the first, the Committee had not time to sift them adequately. They were discussed in the Assembly on the 18th December, the last day of the session.

(A) Children in Countries affected by the War.

69. The proposal referred to the Committee originated with the Swiss Delegation, and was in favour of the appointment by the Council of a High Commissioner to consider the best means of furthering and assisting all charitable work undertaken on behalf of such children.

Doubts were expressed in Committee on the value of this suggestion : it was held by the opponents of the idea that the appointment of a High Commissioner would give the matter an official aspect which would tend to discourage private subscriptions, and that it was believed that Mr. Hoover, who was specially interesting himself in collecting money in America, was not in favour of it. Objection was also taken to the prominent position assigned in M. Ador's explanatory statement to the International Committee of the Red Cross (of which he is the President), as opposed to the apparently more powerful League of Red Cross Societies.

Finally, after private discussion with a local representative of Mr. Hoover, the following Resolution was submitted to the Assembly :—

" The Assembly, being desirous of giving its support to the urgent work of rescuing children in the countries affected by the war, invites the Council to consider as soon as possible the means by which the moral authority of the League of Nations might best assist this work which is being done in the cause of humanity."

This was carried (Appendix II., Resolution No. 35).

(B) An " International Language."

70. A proposal presented by certain Delegations in favour of encouraging the study of Esperanto as an international language was rejected.

(C) " Organisation of Intellectual Labour."

71. A nebulous Resolution was proposed by the delegates of Belgium, Italy and Rumania, asking the Council to assist in the development of international co-operation in the domain of intellectual activity, and to present to the Assembly during its next session a detailed report on " the educational influence which it is their duty to exert with a view to developing a liberal spirit of goodwill and world-wide co-operation, and to report on the advisability of giving them shape in a technical organism attached to the League of Nations." The analogy invoked by M. Lafontaine (Belgium), who presented the Resolution, was the Labour Organisation. Mr. Barnes opposed on the ground that no attempt should be made to discriminate between manual and intellectual labour, that we had quite enough technical organisations at present, and that if and when intellectual labour is to be assisted, the Labour Office could take the matter up. Mr. Barnes was supported on a division by the other Empire Delegations, but the Resolution was carried.

Work of Committee No. III.

72. This was confined to questions relating to a Permanent Court of International Justice to be established at The Hague. (Item 21 of the Assembly's Agenda.)

The draft of a statute constituting the Court had been prepared by the Council in accordance with Article XIV. of the Covenant, on the advice of a committee of 10 jurists representing Great Britain (Lord Phillimore), the United States of America (Mr. Elihu Root), France (M. de Lapradelle), Italy (M. Ricci Busatti), Japan (M. Adatci), Spain (M. Altamira), Belgium (Baron Descamps), Brazil (M. Fernandes), the Netherlands (Dr. Loder), and Norway (Dr. Hagerup).

This Advisory Committee had prepared a draft, which, after certain important amendments, had been adopted by the Council at its Brussels meeting in October, and on being submitted to the Assembly, was remitted for consideration to Committee No. III.

For the examination of points of detail, Committee No. III. appointed a sub-committee consisting of 10 members, the first five of whom had been members of the Advisory Committee of Jurists, viz. :—

M. Adatci (Japan),	Mr. Doherty (Canada),
Dr. Hagerup (Norway),	Sir Cecil Hurst (Great Britain),
M. Fernandes (Brazil),	M. Fromageot (France),
M. Ricci Busatti (Italy),	M. Politis (Greece),
Dr. Loder (Netherlands),	Dr. Max Huber (Switzerland).

73. As regards matters of principle, the following decisions were arrived at by the Committee :—

The Question of Compulsory Jurisdiction.—The right of compulsory jurisdiction was contemplated by the advisory committee of jurists in certain classes of cases. Article 34 of their draft contained the words :—

"Between States which are Members of the League of Nations the Court shall have jurisdiction (and this without any special Convention giving it jurisdiction) to hear and determine cases . . . ."

The Council's amendments to Articles 33 and 34 of the jurists' draft were as follows :—

Article 33. "The jurisdiction of the Court is defined by Articles XII., XIII., and XIV. of the Covenant."

Article 34. " . . . . The Court shall have jurisdiction (and this without any special agreement giving it jurisdiction) to hear and determine disputes, the settlement of which is by Treaties in force entrusted to it or to the tribunal instituted by the League of Nations."

74. Opinion was divided within the Committee as to which solution should be adopted. The predominant feeling was in favour of the system of compulsory jurisdiction, but it was generally admitted that reasons of practical policy, and the necessity of obtaining unanimity in the Assembly, were in favour of adopting the solution proposed by the Council.

For the Council's draft Article 33 the sub-committee proposed, however, to substitute (Article 36) : "The jurisdiction of the Court comprises all cases which the parties refer to it and all matters specially provided for in Treaties and Conventions in force." They were thus prepared to adopt the Council's view of the limits of the Court's jurisdiction under a different mode of expression.

75. This formula was accepted by the full Committee subject to the addition of the last three paragraphs of Article 36 as it now stands in the Statute. The additional paragraphs, which were moved by the Brazilian delegate, are as follows :—

"The Members of the League of Nations and the States mentioned in the Annex to the Covenant may, either when signing or ratifying the protocol to which the present Statute is adjoined, or at a later moment, declare that they recognise as compulsory, ipso facto and without special agreement, in relation to any other Member or State accepting the same obligation, the jurisdiction of the Court in all or any of the classes of legal disputes concerning :—

"(a) The interpretation of a Treaty.

"(b) Any question of International Law.

"(c) The existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of an international obligation.

"(d) The nature or extent of the reparation to be made for the breach of an international obligation.

"The declaration referred to above may be made unconditionally or on condition of reciprocity on the part of several or certain Members or States, or for a certain time.

"In the event of a dispute as to whether the Court has jurisdiction, the matter shall be settled by the decision of the Court."

76. Continuance of the Hague Court of Arbitration.—A proposal made by the Argentine Delegation to suppress the Permanent Court of Arbitration at the Hague was rejected. It was thought that the Court of Arbitration would still play a part in certain international disputes more easily settled by arbitral decisions than by an award based on strict rules of law. It was further felt that it was not possible to ignore a Convention signed by several States which were not Members of the League.

77. Geographical representation.—A proposal of the Columbian Delegation to the effect that judges should be distributed between the different Continents in certain proportions was not adopted by the Committee, who felt that such a regulation would be too rigid and that it was unnecessary in view of the provisions for the nomination of candidates actually contained in the Statute.

78. Representation on the Electing Panel of countries not represented on the Court of Arbitration.—It will be seen from Article 4 of the Statute that judges are to be elected from a list of persons nominated for the most part by the "national groups" provided for in the Court of Arbitration. Certain Members of the League, including India, were not separately parties to the Hague Convention setting up the Court of Arbitration, and, therefore, have no national groups in that Court. The Committee accordingly decided that countries not represented on the Court of Arbitration shall be allowed to nominate candidates through national groups consisting of persons appointed for this purpose by their Governments.

The maximum number of candidates who may be nominated by each national group was increased by the Committee from two to four (not more than two to be of the nationality of the nominating group).

79. Positions incompatible with that of Judge of the Court.—The Committee settled the text of Article 16 of the Statute thus :—"The ordinary members of the Court may not exercise any political or administrative function." This disability applies to judges, but not to deputy judges except when the latter are performing their duties on the Court. Similarly, deputy judges, in cases in which they do not sit, may act as agents, counsel or advocates.

80. Validity of precedents.—The Committee decided not to adopt an Argentine amendment to Article 38 intended to limit the power of the Court to attribute the character of precedents to judicial decisions. The Committee considered that it would be one of the Court's most important tasks to contribute through its jurisprudence to the development of International Law. On the other hand the Committee retained Article 59 which had been inserted by the Council (viz., "The decision of the Court has no binding force except between the parties and in respect of that particular case").

81. Publicity and dissentient judgments.—The Committee considered very carefully the question of the publicity of the sessions of the Court, and decided that non-publicity ought always to be an exception. The Court is left with the power of holding a private session either at its discretion or upon the request of both the parties.

The Committee also agreed with the Council that dissentient members of the Court should have the right to publish their individual opinions.

82. Composition of the Court for the purpose of dealing with Labour cases and cases relating to Transit and Communications under Part XIII. (Articles 416, 418 and 423), and under Part XII. respectively of the Treaty of Versailles and the corresponding parts of other Treaties.—This ground had not been covered by the draft of the advisory committee of jurists. A method of dealing with the cases in question was proposed by the British Delegation and adopted by Committee No. III. in the form of Articles Nos. 26, 27 and 28 of the Statute. On the demand of the parties such cases may be heard by a Special Chamber appointed for three years, but in the absence of such demand they will be heard by the full Court. In either case the Special Chamber, or the Court, will be assisted by four technical assessors chosen from a list composed of two persons nominated by each Member of the League and (in the Labour cases) an equivalent aggregate number nominated by the Governing Body of the Labour Office. The Special Chamber may, with the consent of the parties, sit elsewhere than at The Hague. This solution was arrived at after rejecting the original proposal of the Labour Office that there should be a special section of the Court for Labour cases.

83. A number of amendments other than those referred to above were introduced by the sub-committee and the full Committee. We attach (Appendix III., Annexes 8 and 9) the Report presented by the full Committee on behalf of the sub-committee (Assembly Document 199), and the Report of Committee No. III. itself (Assembly Document 216) covering certain draft Resolutions proposed for adoption by the Assembly.

84. At the morning and afternoon sittings of 13th December the Assembly debated the Committee's draft Statute and the draft Resolutions, which proposed that, in view of the special wording of Article XIV. of the Covenant (" The Council shall . . . . submit to the Members of the League "), the Statute should be submitted by the Council to Member States for ratification in the form of a protocol and that it should come into force on ratification by a majority of Members.

Some dissatisfaction was expressed at the Court not being given compulsory jurisdiction, and the form of the Resolutions excited considerable discussion, some delegates deprecating it as a derogation from the sovereignty of the Assembly and a return to the methods of the old diplomacy.

Dr. Hagerup, as rapporteur, though he stated that he would himself have preferred out-and-out adoption by the Assembly as against ratification by States, defended the course proposed as an exceptional case necessitated by the wording of Article XIV. of the Covenant.

85. The Resolutions (Appendix II., Resolution No. 23) and draft Statute were finally unanimously passed by the Assembly, with one amendment moved by M. Loudon (Netherlands) to replace the words at the end of the second paragraph of Article 27 " on all occasions " by the words " when desired by the parties or decided by the Court." The Statute, as finally passed by the Assembly, is reprinted in Appendix VI. (Annex 1).

Covering Protocol.

86. The protocol referred to in the Resolution was subsequently opened for signature at Geneva by the leading delegates on behalf of their Governments and was signed, after consultation with the British Delegation, by Sir William Meyer on behalf of the Government of India.

The main protocol was supplemented, in accordance with Article 36 of the Statute, by an optional clause, automatically accepting, subject to such conditions of reciprocity, etc., as might be stipulated, the jurisdiction of the Court as compulsory—ipso facto and without special agreement, in relation to other States accepting the same obligation—in all cases concerning (a) the interpretation of a treaty ; (b) any question of International Law ; (c) the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of an international obligation ; and (d) the nature and extent of the reparation to be made for any such breach. Sir William Meyer did not consider that he was competent to go as far as this on behalf of the Government of India.

Remuneration of Judges, etc.

87. The salaries and allowances of the members of the Court were to be determined by the Assembly on the proposal of the Council (Article 32 of the Statute). The question was referred by the Council to Committee No. III, which submitted certain proposals contained in their Report on the subject (Assembly Document 248, see Appendix III., Annex 10). These proposals were accepted by the Assembly on 18th December.

Proposal as to the more precise definition of International Law.

88. Attached to the draft Statute which had been submitted by the Council to the Assembly were four Recommendations (voeux), three of which had been proposed by the advisory committee of jurists, and a fourth by the Council. These were considered by Committee No. III., and the Committee proposed action by the Assembly on only one of them, which suggested a continuation of the work of the former Peace Conferences at The Hague in regard to the codification and development of International Law. The Committee proposed that the Assembly should invite the Council to take up with authoritative institutions the question of the more precise definition and co-ordination of the rules of International Law. This proposal was considered by the Assembly on 18th December, but was opposed by Lord Robert Cecil on the ground that it was premature if it was the intention to proceed at once to the codification of International Law and otherwise useless. The proposal was rejected on a division.

Points on which a decision is required by the Government of India.

89. It will be seen from a perusal of the Statute of the International Court that it falls to the Government of India to decide in the near future on the action to be taken in regard to the following matters :—

(1) A decision whether or not to ratify the protocol which accepts the Statute constituting the Court.

(2) A decision on the important question whether to sign and ratify, with or without conditions, the optional clause accepting automatically the jurisdiction of the Court in certain classes of disputes.

(3) The appointment, under Article 4 of the Statute, of a national group of persons to nominate candidates for judgeships ; this national group must be appointed under the same conditions as those prescribed for members of the Permanent Court of Arbitration by Article 44 of the Hague Convention of 1907.

(4) The nomination under Article 26 of the Statute of two persons to be included in the list of " Assessors for Labour cases."

(5) The nomination under Article 27 of two persons to be included in the list of " Assessors for Transit and Communications cases."

Work of Committee No. IV. (Financial Organisation of the League).

90. This Committee was concerned with the four subjects on the Agenda connected with financial organisation, viz. :—

Item 22.—Report by the Secretary-General on the staff and organisation of the Secretariat.

Item 23.—The first budget, covering the " organisation period " (extending to 30th June 1920), and the second budget for the period from 1st July to 31st December 1920.

Item 24.—The budget for 1921 (the calendar year having now been adopted as the League's fiscal period).

Item 25.—The future method of apportioning the expenses of the League among its Members.

The Committee appointed Sir James Allen (New Zealand) as rapporteur on Item 22, and Sir George Foster (Canada), assisted by Jonkheer van Eysinga (Netherlands), as rapporteur on the remaining three items.

Staff and Organisation of the Secretariat.

91. The information provided in the Secretary-General's report as submitted to the Assembly was most meagre. H. H. The Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar, who represented India in this Committee, requested further information on the subject, and the request was supported by other representatives, particularly those of the Dominions. Under this pressure the Secretariat produced lists of the officers employed, showing their salaries, sumptuary allowances and nationalities. It was also stated that travelling allowances in addition to the actual expenses of locomotion are granted to officers absent on duty from the headquarters of the League, and that salaries were supplemented by temporary allowances towards the extra cost of living at Geneva, resulting from the initial difficulty of finding accommodation ; but it was explained that such temporary allowances ceased as soon as permanent accommodation was found, and would in no case be paid after the end of the Assembly session.

92. The information furnished gave rise to considerable and valuable discussion, from the point of view of economy, in the Committee. The fact, for instance, that while the Secretary-General gets a sumptuary allowance of 6,000*l.* a year, three of his subordinates draw sumptuary allowances also, appeared to indicate unnecessary lavishness, and it was felt that the general range of the salaries attached to the higher appointments was on an extravagant scale.

It may be observed, by way of illustration, that the Secretary-General's emoluments—10,000*l.* a year in all (and free of income-tax)—are about twice as much as those thought necessary for the very distinguished jurist who will have to be selected to be the President of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague; and the emoluments of the Secretary-General's principal lieutenants are analogously high. It was pointed out by the Australian representative that out of 186 persons employed, 38 were receiving salaries of 1,000*l.* or more, and 48 others between 500*l.* and 1,000*l.*

93. Other questions discussed by the Committee were the period of appointment of officers; their security against dismissal during this period and their replacement or retention at the end of it; the publication of vacancies; the creation of a body within the Secretariat to advise as to selection; and the regard to be paid to international considerations in filling vacancies. A proposal that a certain proportion of the salaries of the staff should be retained for pension was rejected.

94. The Committee ultimately decided on the recommendations contained in Sir James Allen's Report (Assembly Document No. 229), attached as Appendix III., (Annex 11). This was discussed by the Assembly on 17th December.. The rapporteur announced that he personally would have been prepared to make stronger proposals than those contained in his Report, which had been watered down by the Committee. The Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar, who had taken a leading part in the discussion of this and the kindred subjects dealt with by the Committee—he was, in fact, the protagonist of the economy party—had intended to speak in the Assembly, but was unfortunately prevented by illness from attending its sittings during the last week of the session. The speech which His Highness had prepared was delivered on his behalf by Sir Ali Imam, who followed it up by remarks of his own. Both speeches are attached to our Report (Appendix IV.).

95. After some amendment by the Assembly, Resolutions corresponding to the first three recommendations of Sir James Allen's Report were passed to the following effect:—

(a) Secretariat officers appointed for a period of five years or more by the Secretary-General should, in the event of dismissal, have the right of appeal to the Council.

(b) A list of the staff showing nationalities, salaries and allowances, by classes, should be published yearly, with an account, in the first two years, of the previous services of the higher officials; and attached to each budget should be a list showing the nationality, salary and allowances, including travelling allowances, of every individual member of the staff.

(c) In filling the various posts, and having of course regard to efficiency, consideration should be given to the international character of the League; information regarding vacancies to be made as public as possible. (Sir Ali Imam pointed out in this connection that no Indian had as yet been employed in the Secretariat).

The fourth recommendation (regarding the renewal of the staff at the termination of each five-year period) was rejected.

The most important of the amendments was one moved by Sir William Meyer, and accepted, that the principles of the Resolutions should apply equally to the staff of the International Labour Office. The Resolutions as adopted by the Assembly will be found in Appendix II. (Resolution No. 30).

The Budgets.

96. Committee No. IV. devoted a number of long meetings to the discussion of this subject. The existing condition of the League's financial organisation was felt to be unsatisfactory. The following were among the principal questions discussed:—

(a) The cost of the Secretariat.

(b) The cost of the Labour Office and the absence of any explanation of its budget of 7,000,000 gold francs for 1921.

(c) The question of creating an organ of financial control.

(d) The provision for working capital and for unforeseen expenses.

(e) Non-payment of contributions by certain States.

97. On the first point H. H. The Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar brought forward a motion that the cost of the Secretariat was susceptible of useful reduction. This was supported by the representatives of Australia, South Africa and New Zealand, but was not adopted. A somewhat similar motion by Sir James Allen (New Zealand) was also lost. The Secretary-General, in the course of his subsequent explanations to the Committee, said that he anticipated that the expenses of the League would not increase in 1922 in anything like the same proportion as in the years covered by the present budgets.

98. As regards the relations of the Labour Organisation to the Assembly, the Labour Office was understood at the outset to claim complete autonomy, under Part XIII. of the Treaty of Versailles, subject merely to the control of its own Governing Body, with the result that the League, through its Members, would have to pay whatever the Governing Body thought fit. M. Albert Thomas, however, who appeared before the Committee, admitted that this was an overstatement of the case, and that the Assembly must have general budgetary control over globular estimates, as he put it ; he seemed to think that details were outside the Assembly's scope. But he claimed complete independence of the Secretary-General. The last clause of Article 399 of the Treaty of Versailles he read as merely meaning that the Secretary-General can obtain the audit of money that he has paid in to the Labour Organisation.

99. The Labour Organisation budget of 7,000,000 gold francs for 1921 contained no details whatever, but after he had undergone a certain amount of heckling in the Committee, M. Thomas said that he would endeavour to give such details as soon as possible.

Mr. Butler, the Deputy Director, subsequently added, by way of excuse, that the Labour Office had not been able to prepare details owing to a sudden change in the budget period, which they had previously thought would be for the year commencing 1st April. He assured the Committee that full and previous explanations would be given in connection with the budget for 1922.

100. Several members of the Committee expressed themselves in favour of expert financial control by some body discharging the functions which correspond to those of a Government's Finance Department. The Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar proposed the appointment of an adequate committee to supervise expenditure and check all proposals for fresh expenditure ; His Highness withdrew his own motion to this effect in favour of an analogous proposal tabled by Mr. Barnes, but the latter was not moved owing to Mr. Barnes' absence. This and similar proposals, however, produced partial effect in the Report which was eventually submitted by the Committee to the Assembly.

101. The second budget (for the last half of 1920) contained a provision for 1,725,000 gold francs for a "working capital" or reserve. The object of this was to avoid the temporary borrowing which had been found necessary owing to the unpunctuality of many States in paying their contributions. The budget for 1921 contained, however, another provision for working capital. It was ultimately explained that the amount previously provided had been used to defray expenses resulting from the move to Geneva, which had been carried out at an earlier date than was expected at the time of the preparation of the budget for the last half of 1920.

It was pointed out that contributions for the first fiscal period (ended 30th June 1920) had not yet been received from three Members, viz., Paraguay, Salvador and Argentina.

102. The first draft of the Committee's Report, prepared by Sir George Foster and Jonkheer van Eysinga, did not sufficiently meet the criticisms made in the Committee. H. H. The Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar and Sir R. Blankenberg (South Africa) accordingly circulated a protest to their colleagues on the Committee, indicating the points on which the draft Report was held to be inadequate, and desiring that if it was not amended the protest should be laid before the Assembly.

103. This document, which had been drafted by Sir William Meyer as principal Indian delegate for his colleague's use, and to which, as has been stated, the leading delegate of South Africa also adhered, produced an immediate effect, and was supported by other delegates at the next meeting of the Committee. The rapporteurs then gave up any attempt (for which they had previously seemed prepared) to curtail discussion, which was continued on an amended draft that they had circulated, containing some material improvements.

104. The Foster-Eysinga Report as finally adopted by the Committee is attached (Appendix III., Annex 12). It proposes a complete change in the existing financial organisation, and by implication recognises the unsatisfactory nature of the present position. It provides that the budget shall be placed before the Assembly in a much more complete form in future, and in time to enable preliminary scrutiny by Members of the League. The budget, with detailed explanations, must reach the Member-States a month before the Assembly meets. If supplementary estimates are necessary, these must be submitted to the Assembly at the earliest practicable moment. The power of the Assembly to modify or reject the budget proposals is fully recognised, and provision is made for adequate audit and for the separation of accounts under appropriate heads. The Labour Office and each Organisation, Office or Commission, provided for in chapter II. of the budget (Indirect Expenditure), is to prepare its own detailed budget (and explanation) to be annexed to the general budget.

The Report advised that the League should, so far as possible, avoid entering upon costly enterprises which could equally well remain in the hands of individual Members of the League or of existing international official bodies (such as the Postal Union).

105. The Report dealt as follows with points which had come under special discussion in the Committee :—

(1) With reference to the criticisms that had been made in regard to the Secretariat and Labour Office and the lack of financial control, a small committee of experts is to be set up to consider all factors connected with their organisation and methods of work ; the efficiency, number, salaries and allowances of the staff ; the general expenditure of the organisation, &c.* It was further laid down in the body of the Report (on the motion of Senator Millen of Australia), that after considering the report of this committee the Assembly will reserve to itself the right to vary, to such extent as it may think fit, the rate of remuneration of the officers concerned.

(2) Lists of the officials of the Secretariat and of the International Labour Office, with their salaries, allowances and nationality, are to be annexed to the annual budget.

(3) Where there is a lump provision for unforeseen expenditure in the budget, this can only be drawn on under the authority of a special Resolution of the Council, which must be immediately communicated to all the Members of the League of Nations.

During the year 1921 transfers from one item to another of the same budget chapter may be effected by virtue of a special Resolution of the Council, which must be immediately communicated to all the Members of the League of Nations. This action is not, however, to be regarded as establishing a precedent.

(4) Except as regards recoverable advances (e.g., on account of Commissions whose expenses are refunded at a later date by the countries concerned), expenditure which has not been provided for in the general budget, either specifically or under the head of unforeseen expenditure, cannot be met from the special working capital fund established to tide over delays in obtaining subscriptions.

Consequently unforeseen expenditure, if not covered by clause (3) above, cannot be incurred till the Assembly has sanctioned it at its next meeting.

(5) The Secretary-General is to submit regularly as an annex to each budget a list of payments and receipts on account of the working capital fund, and a statement as to how it has been utilised.

(6) Member-States are to be asked to take steps to ensure their contributions being paid at the earliest possible date. Sir G. Foster also dealt with defaulting Members in his introductory speech, emphasising the fact that Argentina, which had attracted so much attention to itself by its Delegation leaving the Assembly, had so far not contributed a penny towards the League expenses in spite of repeated reminders.

Allocation of expenses among the States.

106. This subject, which was also covered by the Foster-Eysinga Report, had received special attention from the Committee.

*See Recommendation III. attached to the Report (Appendix III., Annex 12).

The matter had already been considered by a special Committee appointed in connection with the Brussels Financial Conference. Under Article VI. of the Covenant the expenses of the Secretariat including (under Article XXIV.) the expenses of subsidiary organisations placed under the direction of the League, are borne by Member-States in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union. Under this system the six British Members of the League (five of which, including India, are grouped in the first class) pay about one-fourth of the League's total expenses. It had become clear that a system of apportionment which might pass without comment in regard to the relatively small expenditure of the Postal Union was quite unsuitable for the division of the growing cost of the League : inequalities under the Postal Union scheme matter very little in practice because of the small amounts involved, whereas a mistake in grouping or in percentage allotment is far more serious in regard to League outlay.

The Brussels Committee, of which Mr. H. F. Howard was a member, had made recommendations in favour of reapportionment on a basis of net revenue plus population. These recommendations were transmitted by the Council to the Swiss Government, which supervises the office of the Postal Union, and were forwarded by that Government to the Director of the Union office (who at the time of the Assembly's meeting was attending the Postal Congress at Madrid) with the request that he would ascertain the views of the delegates at the Congress regarding a possible modification of the Postal Union schedule. Committee No. IV., to whom these facts were communicated, caused an enquiry to be addressed to Madrid as to the attitude of the Congress. It is understood that (as the Indian Delegation were independently informed by Mr. Geoffrey Clark, the representative of India at the Madrid Congress) the Congress decided that the International Bureau should get into touch with the Secretariat of the League of Nations before any alteration was suggested and that the votes of the States in the Union should be taken. It thus appeared that while many delegates at Geneva wished to avoid amending Article VI. of the Covenant and looked to the Postal Union to revise its classification, the Postal Union in turn was looking to the League. This, to our mind, emphasised the necessity for getting the Covenant amended by cutting out all connection between the distribution of League expenses and that of the Union charges.

107. The solution adopted by the Committee was a compromise between the views of those who wished for an immediate amendment of the Covenant (led primarily by the representatives of India and the Dominions), and of those, including M. Hanotaux (France), who were anxious to avoid the necessity of amendment, or, like M. Trygger (Sweden), were opposed to the adoption of net revenue as a basis of allocation. This solution is set forth in Articles 13 (a) to 13 (e) annexed to recommendation No. II. in the Foster-Eysinga report.* Its practical effect is that a small Committee should be appointed, including the Swiss delegate to the Postal Union, to try and obtain a scheme of allocation which would suit both the Union and the League, but that, if this effort failed, the question of allocation of expenditure should again be placed on the agenda of the Assembly for 1921 ; and also that the allocation for 1922 should be so arranged that States, who contributed in 1921 more than the revised scheme would impose on them, would get a refund in 1922, a contrary adjustment being made in the case of Members whose quota would be increased.

Action of the Assembly on the Foster-Eysinga Report regarding the budgets and the question of reapportioning the League Expenses.

108. Report was taken into consideration by the Assembly on 17th December. Sir George Foster made a clear and eloquent introductory speech, and was followed by M. Trygger (Sweden) and Sir R. Blankenberg, the latter emphasising the anomalies of a system of allocation of expenses modelled on that of the Postal Union, where " South Africa, " as he pointed out, included territories with which the South African Dominion is not concerned. A speech by Sir James Allen contained a specific reference to the emoluments of the Secretary General, which, he pointed out, were five times what was deemed sufficient for the New Zealand Premier, and later on drew from Mr. Balfour a defence of that officer's salary ; both criticism and apologia were received in a spirit of apathy by the Assembly.

*See Appendix III, Annex 12.

109. The Indian Delegation had put down seven amendments to the Committee's proposals (see Appendix V., Annex 4), but in view of the relatively satisfactory character of that Committee's Report, as ultimately presented, and of Sir George Foster's explanatory speech, it was possible, after private conference between Sir George and Sir William Meyer, to withdraw five of them, viz., those numbered 1, 3, 4, 5, and 6. The speech delivered by Sir William Meyer on the Indian amendments is given in Appendix IV. (Annex 7).

Amendment No. 1 was withdrawn because Sir George Foster furnished the explanation required, and satisfactory future provision regarding working capital is made in the Report.

Amendment No. 2, which was pressed and ultimately accepted, refers to non-payment of contributions, and requests that the special Committee which was already to be set up to consider modifications in the Covenant, should also consider what steps should be taken with reference to defaulting States. It was contemplated, for instance, that such steps might include debarring the delegates of such States from holding office in the Assembly, or from sitting on any Committees.

110. Amendment No. 3 was withdrawn on condition that an alteration* was made in the wording of Recommendation II. in the Report, the object of which was to make it clear that the "principles" which followed were to be observed henceforth in any case, and not, as might be inferred from the original wording, till a draft Resolution was submitted regarding them at the 1921 session.

Amendment No. 4 (to reduce the budget by a million gold francs) was specially justified in the case of the Labour Office by the manner in which M. Thomas had submitted a mere globular estimate of 7,000,000 gold francs without giving details, alleging that the Governing Body had not had time to consider them. Sir William Meyer was, however, furnished privately with some detailed estimates prepared by M. Thomas; and though he considered that these were on an extravagant scale, especially in regard to the expenditure proposed for printing, he thought that it would be a tactical mistake to press matters at the present stage, having regard to Sir George Foster's practical admission that the Labour Office's action had been very unsatisfactory, and in view of the fact that steps were being taken to prevent its recurrence.

Amendment No. 5, fixing a maximum aggregate cost for certain technical organisations, but allowing reappropriation between different heads in 1921, followed the lines of the Resolution which had been adopted by Committee No. II., and passed on by them to Committee No. IV. (see para. 50 above); but it was thought that the ground had been covered by the second paragraph of Article 6 under Recommendation II. in the Foster-Eysinga Report.

111. Amendment No. 6, the most important of the amendments withdrawn, was as follows :—

"That the Council be asked to consider more adequate future control of expenditure by the appointment of a Standing Committee, independent of the Secretariat and the Labour Organisation, to consider all items of fresh expenditure before these are submitted to the Council."

Sir William Meyer pointed out that the special enquiry to be instituted under Recommendation III. of the Report was good in itself, but inadequate as regards the future. What was desired was constant control, such as is exercised in every country by its Finance Ministry over the estimates of spending Departments; and the Council were far too much occupied to afford this check. The amendment was, however, not pressed in deference to representations made to Sir William Meyer by Sir George Foster that the question might provoke much discussion and that the Assembly had already obtained considerable scope for control. The general attitude of the Assembly in regard to economies was, moreover, clearly apathetic. It was thought desirable, therefore, for tactical reasons not to press the amendment on the present occasion, but in announcing this decision Sir William Meyer explained that the Indian Delegation adhered to the principle underlying it, and reserved full liberty to bring it forward again next year.

*For this alteration compare Appendix II., Recommendation No. 8, with the draft Recommendation II., in the Foster-Eysinga Report (Appendix III., Annex 12).

112. Amendment No. 7 was to the effect that the Committee to consider alterations in the Covenant should also be instructed to consider an amendment of Article VI. thereof, which would make future contributions of States to League expenditure depend not on the quotas adopted for the purposes of the Postal Union, but on some independent principle. Sir William Meyer pointed out the absurdity of making the division of expenditure which had already attained to over a score of million gold francs depend on the allocation adopted for the outlay of the Postal Union, which only amounted to some 3,00,000 francs; and that as the Postal Union might quite well decline to modify their existing scheme materially, the proper course was to cut the League adrift from the Union promptly instead of waiting till we were forced to do this.

Sir George Foster, however, declined to depart from the compromise arrived at in his Report, and the Indian Delegation's amendment on this subject, as well as another on somewhat different lines moved by Sir R. Blankenberg (South Africa), were rejected on a division by large majorities.

113. With the amendments indicated above, the Assembly accepted the Foster-Eysinga Report (see Appendix II., Resolutions Nos. 31 and 32, and Recommendations Nos. 7-9). The figure of 21 million gold francs was shown in the original Report for the Budget for 1921, but this became 21,250,000 gold francs, because 2,50,000 gold francs were added on account of new expenditure sanctioned during the session in respect of armaments, traffic in women and children, and the Armenian enquiry.

114. The leading of the movement for greater and more economical control over the league finances was the most important work done by the Indian Delegation in the session under report, and though the results acheived fell short of our desires, they mark great improvement. The full right of control of the Assembly and its Budget Committee over the League's finances, including those of the Labour Office, has been admitted. There has been practical admission that the estimates for 1921 were submitted in an inadequate form (especially those of the Labour Office), and steps have been taken to obtain more adequate information and examination for the future. The special Committee to be set up to examine the organisation and emoluments of the Labour Office and the League Secretariat may not result in any drastic economy in regard to the present scales, but will hinder future extravagant expansion. The necessity for revising the methods of assessment of the constituent States, whereby India at present suffers, has been admitted, though the actual method accepted is in our opinion cumbrous and dilatory. Lastly, we have put a check on the idea entertained by a number of the delegates that expansion of the League's expenditure was a matter of little consequence, since it was for good objects and the amounts would be distributed among many countries.

As above indicated, we should have liked to go further, especially in the direction of constant outside control over the League's spending departments and the revision of the present very faulty assessment system. But we had to face the apathy of the majority of the foreign States. We have, however, paved the way for future progress.

In this campaign we were ably seconded by the Dominions delegates, especially those of South Africa and New Zealand. From the British representative in Committee No. IV. (Mr. Barnes) we obtained intermittent support, but he was absent every now and then. We had also to face the fact that the international character of the League's establishments tends to extravagance. It would be invidious (as M. Thomas argued) to discriminate in the matter of emoluments between citizens of countries in which the scale of official remuneration is large and those in which it is much lower.

Work of Committee No. V. (Admission of new States to the League).

115. This Committee dealt with the applications for admission to the League received from 14 States, which were referred to various sub-committees.

In each case the applications were examined with reference to the five following points :—

(1) Is the application for admission to the League of Nations in due form?

(2). Is the State recognised de jure or de facto, and by which other States?

(3) Does the country possess a stable Government and settled frontiers ? What are its size and population ?

(4) Is the country fully self-governing ?

(5) What has been the conduct of the country, including both acts and assurances, with regard to—

(a) its international obligations ;

(b) the prescriptions of the League as to armaments.

116. The conclusions reached by the Committee after receiving the sub-committees' reports were debated by the Assembly from 15th to 17th December.

The Assembly adopted, as a preliminary, a Recommendation moved by Lord Robert Cecil requesting the Baltic and Caucasian States and Albania, in the event of their admission, to enforce the principles of recent Treaties regarding the protection of minorities (see Appendix IE, Recommendation No. 3).

117. In the course of the general discussion M. Motta (Switzerland) spoke in favour of extending membership of the League to all Powers in the world as soon as possible, and dealt specifically with the United States of America, Russia and Germany ; he said that he considered that the decision of the Peace Conference not to give immediate admission to Germany was a mistake. This evoked from M. Viviani the most eloquent speech of the session, in which he justified the position of France in this matter in regard to Russia and Germany. Russia could be admitted as soon as she returned to real democracy : as regards Germany, he appealed to Article I. of the Covenant, and asked how it would be safe to admit at once to the League, which depended on mutual responsibilities and good faith, a Power which was still on test in regard to its readiness to carry out the specific obligations of a Peace Treaty. He, too, wanted the League to be all embracing, and the sooner America could enter, the better pleased France would be, but the too early admission of certain States would defeat the real object in view ; and he reminded M. Motta that it would not have been possible for the Assembly to meet but for the sacrifices of the Allied Powers, which had defended the liberties of the world.

Germany was not among the applicants for admission, but the proposal of the Argentine Delegation, referred to in para. 14 above, that civilised Powers should be admitted to the League whenever they wished, without having to undergo a ballot, was regarded in some quarters as having been specially made in her interests.

118. Basing itself on the five criteria indicated above, the Assembly then proceeded to the individual candidatures, in regard to which a two-thirds favourable vote is required by Article I. of the Covenant.

Six of the applicant States were admitted. Austria (with 35 votes for and none against) was readily accepted. The Committee had put on record, on the representation of Switzerland, that Austria's entry into the League would in no way prejudge the future political destiny of the Vorarlberg.

The application of Bulgaria had at first been opposed in the Committee by the representatives of her Balkan neighbours, but in the end her admission was unanimously recommended, on the motion of Greece and Rumania, after the receipt of reports by the Allied Military Council at Versailles and the Council of Ambassadors. These reports tended to the conclusion that Bulgaria had shown a sincere intention to execute her international obligations.

The Assembly adopted this conclusion by 35 votes for admission and none against. M. Viviani, however, who had abstained from voting in the Committee on behalf of France, also abstained in the Assembly.

The following States were also admitted without any adverse vote :—Costa Rica (38 votes).

Finland (39 votes), without prejudice to a decision in the Aaland Islands dispute. The French policy of treating the Russian problem as an integral whole, which was one of the obstacles to the admission of the other Baltic States, did not stand in the way of Finland's admission in view of the fact that she had been autonomous before the Russian revolution.

Luxemburg (39 votes). Luxemburg had at first asked for a special guarantee of her neutrality on admission, but had subsequently withdrawn this request. In the Committee Mr. Fisher had proposed to postpone the question of her admission, and to ask the Council to make a special study of the case. He drew attention to the difficulties that might arise from he admission of a State as small as Luxemburg. He thought that her request for admission might be postponed until the next session of the Assembly, in order that the Council might meanwhile decide whether a minimum of territory or population should not be required to qualify for admission to the League. Since, however, MM. Poullet (Belgium), Van Karnebeek (Netherlands), Politis (Greece) and Lord Robert Cecil (South Africa), had recommended the immediate admission of Luxemburg, Mr. Fisher withdrew his proposal, and the admission of this State had been unanimously recommended by the Committee to the Assembly.

119. The sixth State to be admitted was Albania. The Committee had recommended by a majority that the admission of Albania should be postponed until her international status has been definitely determined. Lord Robert Cecil, who had led the minority in her favour in the Committee, now moved that Albania should be admitted. Her supporters urged that she stood on a different footing from the other States which were rejected by reason of their indeterminate boundaries, because she was surrounded by Members of the League who had recognised her international existence, and if any question arose as to her boundaries it could be settled amicably as between League States. Mr. Fisher announced that on reconsideration he would support the motion, and M. Viviani and M. Schanzer (Italy) concurred. Sir Ali Imam made a telling speech pointing out that a favourable decision would appeal especially to India, because Albania is a country where the adherents of two great rival religions are working cordially together. Albania was admitted by 35 votes with none against.

It had at first been thought that, if there was opposition to the Albanian claim, it might be prudent for the British Empire Delegations to abstain from voting, but it was subsequently decided that she should be supported, and, as a matter of fact, the opposition had disappeared. We were very glad of a situation which enabled India to support the application, in view of the satisfaction which this might give to Indian Muhammadans.

120. The remaining applications failed. There was no hesitation in rejecting the Ukraine and Azerbaijan (no States voting in favour) since they did not appear to possess stable governments with authority extending over the whole of their territories.

As regards Liechtenstein, the Committee was of the opinion that her application could not be granted, as she did not appear to be in a position to carry out all the obligations imposed by the Covenant, but they recommended that the special Committee to be appointed by the Council of the League to consider proposals with reference to amendments to the Covenant should also consider in what manner it would be possible to attach to the League of Nations sovereign States which, by reason of their small size, cannot be admitted as ordinary Members. The Assembly rejected the application of Liechtenstein (only Switzerland voting in her favour) but accepted the Committee's general Recommendation (Appendix II., Recommendation No. 6).

121. In considering the requests of Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Georgia, and Armenia for admission to the League, the Committee considered these States as all falling under a like category, since, though differing widely geographically, they are all situated in a disturbed portion of the world, and are of recent creation, with indeterminate boundaries, and menaced by the possibility of Russian revindications. This being so, the League could not effectively undertake the responsibilities for their protection against external aggression contemplated by Article X. of the Covenant.

Lord Robert Cecil had wished to admit them subject to a formula stating that they should not necessarily get the benefit of the League's guarantee in Article X. of the Covenant, but other delegates pointed out that this would not be a satisfactory solution, since if these States were to be Members of the League, they must be treated in the same way as the rest, and the guarantee of Article X. would be of primary necessity to them. Mr. Rowell (Canada) thought that all that could be done at present was to establish some formula which would admit of special relations between these States and the regular Members of the League.

122. Finally, after careful consideration, the Committee recommended that these States were not ripe at present for regular admission to the League, but that if they wished they might be given representation on the League's technical organisations, including the International Labour Conference (Appendix II., Recommendation No. 5).

This decision was taken by the Committee with reference to Armenia after a noteworthy declaration by Mr. Rowell (Canada), in which he challenged the propriety of the alleged hostile attitude of the recent Conference of Premiers in London in regard to the admission of Armenia to the League, and said that in the opinion of his Government the question of the admission of new States must be decided by the Assembly in Geneva, and not in London, Paris, or Rome. This view was supported by Lord Robert Cecil and Dr. Nansen (Norway).

123. The Assembly agreed with its Committee that the question of the admission of these five States should be postponed. Only five States voted for Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, ten for Georgia, and eight (including Canada) in favour of Armenia. It was decided, however, that the three Baltic States and Georgia might, as recommended by the Committee, be admitted, if they so desired, to the technical organisations of the League and to the Labour Organisation. This Resolution, however, was less emphatic than the Committee had suggested, being made merely an expression of opinion by the Assembly that such a course would be desirable.

A similar proposal could have been carried for Armenia, but Lord Robert Cecil, who had been the protagonist of the Armenian claim, said that in present circumstances, with her very existence threatened, it would be a mockery to ask her to take part in technical deliberations.

Work of Committee No. VI. (Economic Weapon, Armaments, and Mandates).

124. Committee No. VI. dealt with the following items on the Assembly's agenda :—

Item 27.—Reduction of armaments. This question was placed on the agenda as the result of a Resolution adopted by a Conference of Ministers of State and Ministers of Foreign Affairs of Denmark, Norway and Sweden, expressing the hope that the work of the Permanent Advisory Commission on Military, Naval and Air questions, established by the Council in accordance with Article IX. of the Covenant, would be carried out without delay.

Item 28.—Preparations required to enable the "economic weapon" of the League (i.e., the steps contemplated in the first paragraph of Article XVI. of the Covenant) to be used in case of necessity.

Item 29.—Mandates. Responsibilities of the League arising from Article XXII. of the Covenant.

Economic Weapon (Item 28).

125. This was the first of the three subjects disposed of. Lord Robert Cecil was Chairman of the sub-committee of five members which dealt with it. Their Report, in which some minor modifications had been made by the full Committee, was presented to the Assembly on 10th December, and as amended by the Assembly is reproduced in Appendix III. (Annex 13).

The Report commences by reciting the Resolution which, on the proposal of M. Tittoni, the Council had adopted on 3rd August 1920, viz.:—

"The Council decides to place upon the agenda of the first Assembly of the League of Nations the consideration of the necessary measures to ensure the application of Article XVI. of the Covenant. With this aim in view, it will propose to the Assembly that, as a preliminary measure, an International Blockade Commission should be appointed under the authority of the first Assembly for the purpose of studying the problem and settling the general plan of action, the organisation of the more permanent machinery required and the principles on which it should work."

126. The sub-committee's Report, endorsed by the Committee—

(1) Provides that this Commission should be appointed by the Council, and should not exceed eight in number, with power to bring in experts to advise them, and that not less than half of its members should represent States not having a right to permanent membership on the Council.

(2) Recommends the following steps to obviate difficulties in the way of the immediate application of the economic weapon if necessary, pending the elaboration of procedure by the Commission :—

It is to be the duty of the Secretary-General to call the attention of the Council to any facts which seem to point to violation of the Covenant within the meaning of Article XVI.; the Council should thereupon consider the matter and report the result of their deliberations (whether unanimous or not) to the other Members of the League. If any State is thereupon satisfied, with reference to the Council's findings, that there has been such a breach, it becomes the duty of that State to carry out the first part of the Article. Where the Covenant-breaking State has a seaboard which it would be necessary to blockade, the Council ought to consider what Members of the League can most conveniently be asked to discharge this duty.

(3) Refers to the proposed Blockade Commission other questions relating to the application of Article XVI., as for instance :—

- (a) That of securing identity of action by all the Members of the League against the Covenant-breaker.
- (b) As to relations between nationals of the Covenant-breaking State and those of other Members of the League.
- (c) A question suggested for consideration by Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, as to the case of Members of the League who, from their weakness and their geographical position, might be in serious danger if they carried out to the full their obligations under the first paragraph of Article XVI. against a powerful Covenant-breaking State.
- (d) How the blockade can be enforced where a State which is not a Member of the League is a neighbour of the Covenant-breaking State, and
- (e) What restrictive measures of a financial character can and ought to be taken.

127. The Report also laid down that where a State which has been invited under Article XVII. of the Covenant to accept the obligations of Membership of the League, but has refused, makes war against a Member of the League, it must be treated in precisely the same way as if it were itself a Covenant-breaking State.

128. Two of the minor amendments made by the Assembly, and incorporated in the Report as printed, are worth mentioning :—

(1) The provisional proposals of the Report [see para. 126 (2) above] are to be reviewed at the next Assembly on the report of the Blockade Commission.

(2) The meeting of the Council to consider a prima facie breach of the Covenant is to be called on the request of any of its Members instead of on the initiative of the Secretary-General.

129. It seems inevitable that, for the present, the "economic weapon" will be a difficult one to apply with adequate unanimity and promptitude. It will be observed that it is left to each State to decide (when the emergency arises) whether a case for applying the "blockade" under the Covenant has arisen or not. In reply to M. Motta (Switzerland) in the Assembly, Lord Robert Cecil admitted that this was the Committee's view of the meaning of the Covenant, but insisted that each State, when once it had decided that there had been a breach of the Covenant, was obliged to apply the full provisions of Article XVI. The interim procedure proposed in the Report [see para. 126 (2) above] was designed to assist each State in arriving at a conclusion as to whether a breach had actually occurred.

Reduction of armaments (see Articles VIII. and IX. of the Covenant).

130. In view of the interest taken in the question, the first meeting of the Committee on the subject of disarmament was open to the public. At this meeting Dr. Lange (Norway) presented a long memorandum, in which he stated that the application of the Articles of the Covenant which relate to the question should not be further delayed, since the peace of the world demanded an immediate solution : not only was it necessary for an exchange of information concerning the armament programme of each country to be organised, but the accuracy of the information must be checked.

131. At the next meeting it was decided that the discussions should for the present be private. At this meeting M. Bourgeois recalled that the French Delegation at the Peace Conference had made two important proposals, one for the organisation of a control of armaments, and the other for the formation of a body of international police recruited from the various States. As things now were, in the opinion of M. Bourgeois, it would be wiser to delay for a short time the reduction of armaments than to take measures which were ill-considered and premature; otherwise the States which disarmed and honoured their obligations might find themselves at a disadvantage.

M. Schanzer (Italy), however, thought that the League should not in any way seem to postpone the study of the question. Although armaments must be reduced according to a uniform plan, so that immediate reduction was not possible, the solution of the problem must not be too long deferred.

132. At a further meeting of the Committee, divergent views continued to be forcibly expressed.

M. Fock (Netherlands) said that when the Parliament of the Netherlands were considering the question of applying for admission to the League, they adopted a unanimous Resolution to the effect that in their opinion the reduction of armaments was the most important question for the League of Nations. It was, he thought, impossible to make warfare more humane; the only hope lay in the complete abolition of the military system.

M. Neguleseo (Rumania) said that Rumania could not disarm until the ex-enemy countries did so. He thought with M. Bourgeois that an international police force must be created to enforce the decisions of the League. He proposed Resolutions (a) in favour of such a police force; (b) that the limitation of armaments should be imposed not only on Member-States, but on others; (c) that a Commission should be appointed to verify the information interchanged between States; and (d) that there should likewise be an international army in order to undertake the common action contemplated by Article XIII., and also by Articles X. and XVI., of the Covenant.

The Chairman, M. Branting (Sweden), stated that the present Permanent Commission appointed to deal with the disarmament question could not be satisfactory, because it was exclusively composed of military experts. The peoples of the world were tired of the burden of armaments, and he suggested the possibility that armies which seemed so large on paper might not turn out to be so in reality when the peoples found that they had been deceived in their hopes. It was necessary for the Assembly to take into consideration the feelings which prevailed in the Labour world.

133. As the result of these discussions, Dr. Lange admitted that it was impossible during the present session to reach a definite solution on the general problem of disarmament, and that therefore the Assembly should do its best to create the necessary machinery to prepare a plan for consideration at the next session. It was then decided to appoint a sub-committee of nine members, nominated by the Chairman. The sub-committee had no specific instructions, but considered inter alia the questions of the arms traffic, the steps to be taken under paras. 5 and 6 of Article VIII. of the Covenant in regard to the private manufacture of munitions, &c., and the interchange of information as to armaments.

134. The Report of this sub-committee, which was adopted by the full Committee, and presented by Mr. Fisher, as rapporteur, to the Assembly on 14th December, is printed in Appendix III. (Annex. 14).

It contains three draft Resolutions. The first of these invites the Council to urge on all Governments the necessity for speedy adherence to the Arms Traffic Convention drawn up at St. Germain in September 1919 (which was designed to stop the unlicensed exportation of arms and munitions to inflammable portions of the world, such as the Persian Gulf, but on which no real action had been taken), as also for its ratification by Powers that had already signed. These last include Great Britain, the Dominions and India, France, the United States of America, Japan, Italy, Greece and Belgium.

135. The second Resolution refers to the condemnation by Article VIII. of the Covenant of the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war, and requests the Council to investigate this serious problem without delay. It also suggests that attention should be given to the possibility of utilising the International Office of Control over the traffic in arms, when created under the Arms Traffic Convention, to deal likewise with questions relating to private manufacture.

136. The third, and most important, Resolution deals generally with the steps towards disarmament prescribed in the first four paragraphs of Article VIII. of the Covenant. It should be noted that the Report recognises that progress must be gradual, and suggests three stages—first, a limitation on the growth of armaments; second, a progressive reduction; while the culminating third stage would be final disarmament in the sense recognised by para. 1 of Article VIII. as requisite for the maintenance of peace, i.e., reduction "to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations." The Resolution, after a general preamble, was mainly concerned with supplementing existing machinery with a view to accelerating reduction and providing for the publication, exchange, and, if possible, verification of information on the subject; but it finally proposed one positive step in the direction of the initial process of a limitation on the further growth of armaments, which will be dealt with presently.

137. The preamble of this Resolution, besides referring to Article VIII. of the Covenant and to the preamble of Part V. of the Treaty of Versailles and other Treaties, goes on to cite the pronouncement made by the Supreme Council on 8th March 1920, that "in order to diminish the economic difficulties of "Europe, armies should everywhere be reduced to a peace footing, that arma-"ments should be limited to the lowest possible figure compatible with na-"tional security, and that the League of Nations should be invited to examine "proposals to that end without delay." It also quotes the Resolution of the International Financial Conference at Brussels, earnestly urging the general reduction of "the crushing burdens which, on their existing scale, armaments still impose on the impoverished peoples of the world." On the other hand, the preamble points out that a complete and comprehensive scheme of disarmament depends upon the following conditions: first, under the responsibility of the Powers signatory to the Treaties of Peace, upon the complete fulfilment of the reduction of armaments imposed by the said Treaties on certain of these Powers; secondly, upon the exercise, as occasion may demand, of the right of investigation accorded by these Treaties to the Council of the League of Nations, in order to maintain this reduction; and lastly, upon the collaboration of the great military Powers which have hitherto remained outside the League.

138. After this preamble the Resolution invites the Council to act as follows:—

(a) To request the Permanent Advisory Commission for Military, Naval and Air Questions rapidly to complete its technical examination into the present condition of armaments.

(b) To instruct a temporary Commission, composed of persons possessing the requisite competence in matters of a political, social and economic nature, to prepare, for submission to the Council in the near future, reports and proposals for the reduction of armaments as provided for by Article VIII. of the Covenant.

(c) To form within the Secretariat a section to serve as a centre of information for the Commission in question, and also as a channel for the publication and exchange of the information referred to in the Covenant.

(d) To consider the mechanism by means of which the military information to be exchanged under the provisions of Article VIII. of the Covenant can be verified, in the event of the principle of mutual verification by Members of the League being confirmed by an amendment of the Covenant.

139. Finally, in clause (e) of the Resolution as proposed, the Assembly was to "request" the Council, pending the full execution of the steps for the reduction of armaments recommended by Article VIII. of the Covenant, to submit for the consideration of the Members of the League the acceptance of an undertaking not to exceed, for the first two financial years following the next financial year, the sum total of expenditure on military, naval and air services provided for in the budget of the last-mentioned period, subject, however, to account being taken of—

(1) any contribution of troops, war material and money recommended by the League of Nations, with a view to the fulfilment of obligations imposed by Article XVI. of the Covenant or by the treaties registered by the League;

(2) exceptional conditions notified as such to the Council of the League of Nations in accordance with the spirit of paras. 2 and 6 of Article VIII. of the Covenant.

140. As regards clause (b) in para. 138 above, Mr. Fisher drew attention to the fact that the existing Permanent Military, Naval and Air Commission appeared to be too exclusively a body of military, &c., experts. It was, therefore, desired to supplement their deliberations by special non-military committees appointed from time to time. Mr. Fisher also observed, with reference to a report on poison gas on which the Permanent Commission had been engaged, that matters were not yet ripe for a revision of the laws of warfare ; the first step was to prepare the way for a reduction of armaments. Clause (e) (para. 139 above) made a specific proposal in this direction, but Mr. Fisher pointed out that its acceptance by the Assembly would not bind the Governments of the States belonging to the League to carrying out the particular plan it set forth, and he himself was unable to commit his Government at present. Similar reservations were then made by the Belgian and Spanish representatives.

141. It thus became clear that clause (e) was in effect merely an advice to the Governments. Even so, however, it was opposed by M. Bourgeois, on behalf of France, on the grounds that it was not fair to compare the budgets of States which had taken part in the war with those of neutral Powers; that the war budgets of the different countries were not prepared in the same way, e.g., one might include under military outlay expenditure which in another might be classified under some civil head : and that present economic and exchange conditions made the estimates in different countries of very different real value.

142. After considerable discussion the first two Resolutions and clauses (a) to (d) of the third, were unanimously passed. As regards clause (e) of the third Resolution, the President suggested that it might be made still less positive by substituting a recommendation to the Council instead of a request, and that as a mere " Recommendation " it would not require a unanimous vote. This procedure was agreed to, but even as a " Recommendation " the proposal did not obtain unanimous assent. M. Schanzer (Italy) and Lord Robert Cecil thereupon insisted on a roll call vote being taken in order that those who were prepared to vote against the Recommendation might publicly accept the responsibility of their action. A roll call was accordingly taken, and the Recommendation was carried by 30 votes to 7. The States voting in the minority were France, Poland, Rumania, Greece, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay. It may be noted that, though voting by roll call is the rule and not the exception under the Rules of Procedure (No. 20), this occasion (14th December) was the first during the session on which a public roll call vote had been taken. The usual method on a division was to ask the leader of each Delegation to rise from his seat in response to the question " Aye or No " and to decide the result by counting those who stood up.

Copy of the three Resolutions and of the Recommendation adopted are attached (Appendix II., Resolutions Nos. 24-26, and Recommendation No. [illegible]

Mandates.

143. The lack of precise expression in the last two paragraphs of Article XXII. of the Covenant had caused widespread doubt (which was reflected in the sub-committee) on the following questions :—

(1) What was the extent of the League's responsibilities.

(2) Whether these responsibilities fell upon the Council or the Assembly.

The sub-committee, of which Dr. Nansen was Chairman, did not attempt to solve these questions, as they found that it had been assumed that " the Principal Allied and Associated Powers," and not the League itself, were to be the Mandators (a decision based on the absence of express language to the contrary in the Covenant, and on the implications of Articles 118 and 119 of the Treaty of Versailles) ; and that as regards the remaining functions, of confirming the appointment of Mandatories, defining the scope of the different classes of mandate, and constituting a Mandates Commission to examine the annual reports of the Mandatories, these questions were already in the hands of the Council. As regards the scope of the mandates, the reference in the penultimate paragraph of Article XXII. to a hypothetical previous agreement by the Members of the League regarding the degree of the Mandatories' authority, control or administration had been elaborately explained away in a Report by M. Hymans, adopted by the Council on 5th August 1920, to the effect that the framers of the Covenant assumed that Conventions governing mandates would be included in a later chapter of the Treaty of Versailles, so that " the Members of the League " would have meant the signatories of the Treaty other than Germany ; and that as this assumption had turned out to be incorrect, the question of previous agreement did not arise.

It may be noted that on 20th November the Secretary-General circulated to delegates a memorandum received from the German Government, in which the latter contended that only the League could nominate the Mandatories, and that the Assembly was the proper authority for settling the terms of the mandates and appointing the Mandates Commission, and protested against any other solution as a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

144. The attitude taken by the Council vis-a-vis the Assembly was that the responsibilities of the League in the matter of mandates fall within its own exclusive competence. It was, therefore, somewhat perplexing that the question should have been placed by the Council on the Assembly's agenda. The reason for this step was apparently that the Council considered it its duty to make a special Report to the Assembly on the decisions which it had taken up to that date, when the most important decisions—as to the terms of the mandates —were still pending owing to the non-receipt of the draft mandates under preparation by the principal Powers.

The sub-committee held that, even so, on the admission of Mr. Rowell, as rapporteur on the question of the relations between the Assembly and the Council, if the Council submitted a matter within its own competence to the Assembly, the latter body had a perfect right to make suggestions in regard to it [see para. 17 (4) above].

145. In some correspondence between the sub-committee and the Council, the sub-committee expressed in very strong terms the hope that all the mandates might be defined before the end of the session, and was of the opinion that a failure to dispose of the question during the session would be a disaster for the League of Nations. The sub-committee, therefore, requested the Council to lay before it any draft mandates which it had received for consideration. The Council consented to communicate the draft mandates for Syria, Mesopotamia, and Palestine, but only confidentially and on condition that no reference to their terms should be made in the sub-committee's Report to the Assembly. No other draft mandates than those mentioned had at that date apparently been received by the Council.

146. The sub-committee's Report had accordingly to be confined, as regards the terms of the mandates, to laying down certain general principles as follows :—

C. Mandates (those for countries which are to be administered as integral portions of the Mandatory's territory) called for no observations, as the terms are already sufficiently defined in the Covenant.

As regards B. Mandates (the class to which the Central African territories belong), the conditions in the Covenant are also clearly defined, but the intention that the Mandate territories should be administered for the well-being and development of their inhabitants might require closer examination than in the case of the C. Mandates.

In regard to A. Mandates (for former Turkish territories), the theory of independent States assisted and advised by the Mandatory left room for greater variety in the terms ; but it might be generally laid down that the Mandatory State should not abuse its position by increasing its military strength, or by favouring itself or its friends in the exploitation of the country ; and it should pass an organic law, which should be submitted to the League before coming into operation.

147. The sub-committee also dealt with the question of the Mandates Commission. As regards the functions of this Commission, M. Hymans' report adopted by the Council on 5th August 1920 (see para. 143 above) had expressed the view that the League's right of supervision extended beyond the mere task of ascertaining whether the Mandatory had acted in accordance with the terms of its mandate ; and that the annual report of the Mandatory should cover the whole moral and material situation of the peoples under its rule. In regard to the constitution of the Commission,

M. Hymans had favoured the inclusion of a representative from each Mandatory, and a majority of other members who should be private individuals chosen by the Council from nationals of non-Mandatory Powers. On the basis of this proposal the Secretary-General prepared a draft constitution, giving a member to each of the seven Mandatories, and adding eight members who were, however, to be chosen from nominees of the non-Mandatories by the Assembly and not by the Council.

The Council subsequently, at its Geneva meeting on 1st December, decided on a smaller Commission of nine members appointed by the Council for their personal qualifications, and to contain in any case a majority of non-Mandatories' nationals. Each Mandatory State's report should, however, be examined with the assistance of an authorised representative of that State, though he would attend only in the capacity of an assessor.

This was the solution which had been favoured by the Empire Delegations, including India, when the matter was informally discussed with reference to the attitude to be adopted by the British representative in the Council. We were not in favour of the Secretary-General's scheme, as it gave too large a proportion of the representation to Mandatory States as such.

148. The sub-committee of the Assembly made the following proposals with regard to this Commission : that its members should not be dismissed without the assent of the majority of the Assembly ; that at least one of them should be a woman ; and that the Mandatories should be asked to present reports on their interim administration prior to the grant of the mandates.

The Report of the sub-committee finally regretted that, owing to the course the Council had taken, there had been no opportunity for the public consideration of the draft mandates before they come into force, and trusted that if any further delay should unfortunately take place, the draft mandates would be forthwith published.

149. Owing to pressure of time the sub-committee's Report (which is reproduced in Appendix III., Annex 15) was not considered by the full Committee, but was presented direct to the Assembly on the 18th December. After a prefatory remark by Dr. Nansen that the effectiveness of the Mandate system would be regarded by critics as a test of the sincerity of the League, Lord Robert Cecil presented the Report and dwelt particularly on the request for publicity in respect of the draft mandates. M. Loefgren (Sweden) and Mr. Doherty (Canada) also spoke in favour of the Report. Mr. Balfour, however, made a speech in which he objected to the general tone of the Report and of the debate, as indicating a claim on the part of the Assembly to dispute the Council's exclusive control of the question. As regards the specific proposals, he reserved the Council's freedom of action so far as the British representative was concerned. Lord Robert Cecil then disclaimed any desire to take the matter out of the hands of the Council, and after a conciliatory speech by M. Bourgeois the suggestions made in the Report were adopted by a majority of the Assembly—Senator Millen (Australia) voting against them—in the form of Recommendations (Appendix II., Recommendation No. 10).

150. Throughout these discussions, and at occasional informal conferences between the Empire Delegations, we bore in mind the special interests of India in maintaining the status of her nationals on an equality with those of other members of the League in respect of the Mandate territories. The Council, however, did not allow the question of the terms of the mandates to pass into the hands of the Assembly, and it is believed that it had not itself received the drafts of the B. Mandates before the session was closed, nor those of the C. Mandates until the last days of the session.

It was expected that equal treatment of the nationals of all Members of the League would be adequately safeguarded by the drafts of the A. and B. Mandates. As regards mandates of the C. class, which are given to the Dominions, the provision in the Covenant for administration under the laws of the Mandatory as an integral portion of its own territories involves, of course, the extension to these new areas of any policy of exclusion of Asiatics as applied in the Dominion itself. This is very regrettable, but cannot be challenged, having regard to the wording of the sixth paragraph of Article XXII. of the Covenant. There seems no reason to fear (as had at one time been suggested) that special concessions will be made to Japan in preference to any other State affected by the adoption of the C. Mandates.

Miscellaneous Questions.

151. Certain Resolutions and Recommendations were adopted by the Assembly on various questions which were not originally on its agenda and were not referred to any of its Grand Committees. Thus on 23rd November, on the motion of Jonkheer van Karnebeek (Netherlands), it was resolved, in regard to the registration with the Secretariat, and publication, of treaties and international engagements under Article XVIII. of the Covenant :—

> "That the Council should be called upon to entrust the examination of the scope of Article XVIII. of the Covenant, from a legal point of view, to a special Committee, which would prepare for the Council all relevant proposals. The Council would then report on the question to the next General Assembly, and place before it the proposals of the special Committee."

152. On the same day, on the proposal of Lord Robert Cecil, two Resolutions were adopted, one requesting the Council to take into consideration the means of securing greater publicity for their proceedings, and the other in favour of the immediate publication of papers in regard to the dispute between Poland and Lithuania.

153. These motions were presented in the course of the debate on the General Report on the work of the Council (Item No. 6 on the agenda), which covered the whole field of the Council's activities during the year. But Mr. Barnes secured a special debate, on 4th December, on a motion which, however, he did not press to a division, upon the subject of the Council's attitude in regard to the hostilities between Poland and Soviet Russia.

154. Interesting pronouncements were made at different times by the representatives of Japan and China on the subject of the policies of those countries in connection with the League.

On 30th November Viscount Ishii recalled Japan's desire, at the time when the Covenant was framed, to see the equality of individuals before the law established as a world principle irrespective of nationality, race or religion. The Japanese delegates to the Peace Conference had declared that they would continue to press for the adoption of this principle by the League in future ; but Viscount Ishii announced that Japan refrained from making any concrete proposal during that session of the Assembly as to equal opportunity and treatment, as she was persuaded that for the present precedence must be given to the consolidation of the League on the basis of the existing Covenant. The relevant extract from Viscount Ishii's speech is printed in Appendix V. (Annex 5).

155. On 18th December Mr. Wellington Koo made a declaration on behalf of his Government, reserving China's right, and stating her intention, to bring before either the Assembly or the Council (of which China is now a Member) several subjects of vital interest to herself, affecting international relations, which she had refrained from bringing before the Assembly during its first session while its attention was being devoted to perfecting the organisation of the League. This declaration is printed in Appendix V. (Annex 6), and has, no doubt, primary reference to the question of Shantung.

156. It remains to notice the action of the Assembly in regard to the position in Armenia. The subject was raised during the debate on the General Report on the work of the Council by Lord Robert Cecil, who gave notice of a motion to request action on the part of the Council with a view to establishing a permanent settlement of that country. This was debated on the 22nd November, and M. Viviani (France) proposed that steps be taken at once to mediate between Armenia and the Kemalists. Ultimately a Resolution was adopted which both invited the Council to consult Governments with a view to entrusting some Power with the task of taking necessary measures to stop the hostilities between Armenia and the Kemalists, and proposed the appointment of a special Committee of six members to consider and report to the Assembly what steps could be taken to put an end to these hostilities (see Appendix II., Resolution No. 4). This Resolution was carried unanimously, though Mr. Balfour had expressed grave scepticism as to the possibility of conducting negotiations with a chief like Kemal.

157. On 25th November the Council accordingly telegraphed to the Governments of the States of the League and to the United States of America in the following terms, after reciting the first part of the above Resolution :—

"The Council begs your Government to state whether it will be disposed, either alone or conjointly with others, to undertake, on behalf of the League of Nations, this great humanitarian mission—a mission which, moreover, entails no obligation of a permanent nature. The Council would be grateful to receive your reply if in the affirmative as soon as possible, so that it may be communicated to the Assembly before the end of the present session."

The President of the United States replied on 1st December that he would use his good offices and was willing to offer his personal mediation ; the Government of Spain replied that they would co-operate in any steps of a moral and diplomatic nature, and the Government of Brazil also offered co-operation. The reply of the British Government (with which the Government of India associated itself) suggested that Armenia, where it was reported that a Soviet Government had now been installed, might perhaps have already anticipated matters by arranging for peace with either or both of her neighbours (Russia and the Kemalists), and that His Majesty's Government was not willing to accept any independent mission, but would lend moral and diplomatic support to the President of the United States of America.

158. In accordance with the second part of the Assembly's Resolution of 22nd November, a Committee was appointed, consisting of the following delegates : Lord Robert Cecil, M. Lafontaine (Belgium), Dr. Nansen (Norway), M. Pueyrredon (Argentina), M. Schanzer (Italy), and M. Viviani (France). The Report of the Committee (Appendix III., Annex 16), was presented to the Assembly on 18th December by M. Lafontaine : they had little to say, but suggested that the Council should appoint a permanent Committee, and that the latter should carry on work in the direction of providing the Armenians with the means of helping themselves. On the other hand, M. Jonnesco (Rumania) proposed an international expeditionary force of 40,000 men to re-establish peace and order in Armenia. In the end the Assembly passed a colourless Resolution (Appendix II., Resolution No. 33), and the question of further action was left to the Council.

Concluding Remarks.

159. Looking back on the work of the Assembly as a whole, we think that, as claimed for it by Mr. Balfour in the House of Commons, it has been of much value. The Assembly was bound to disappoint the expectations of those impatient idealists who thought it would usher in a new era, and what it was able to do in respect of the limitation of armaments fell short of more moderate expectations. Account has, however, to be taken of the atmosphere of mutual suspicion to which this question still gives rise, of the still disturbed state of the world, and of the facts that the disarmament of Germany is not yet fully accomplished, and that Russia and the United States are outside the League and untrammelled by any decisions it may take with reference to its own Members. But leaving this aside, the Assembly made very considerable progress, in an unostentatious way, towards fulfilling the intentions with which the League was called into existence, and what it accomplished paves the way for further and faster progress hereafter.

160. It has to its special credit the final establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague. It has established important technical organisations to deal with communications and transit, and health, and has endorsed generally the action taken by the Council to render more effective the decisions arrived at in the Brussels Financial Conference. It has fixed its rules of procedure, and defined the relations between itself and the Council in a way which will, at any rate, suffice at the outset. It has set on foot machinery for obtaining amendments to the Covenant where these may be found necessary. It has taken measures to expedite the consideration of the adequate carrying out of the economic blockade contemplated by the Covenant in the case of a Covenant-breaking State ; and it has put forward an opinion in regard to the limitation of expenditure on armaments to that accepted by the various States for the coming financial year, which must, at any rate, carry weight. It has emphasised the necessity for an international campaign against typhus and cognate diseases in Eastern Europe, and for the relief of children in war areas. It has arranged for international action under the League in respect of the carrying out of the Hague Convention for the control of opium and other harmful drugs, and in respect of the "white slave" traffic. It made a praiseworthy, though somewhat hopeless, attempt to deal with the difficulties of Armenia; and in admitting new Members to the League it has, with the general assent of the British Empire Delegations, included two ex-enemies, Austria and Bulgaria. Lastly, it has asserted the control of the Assembly in matters of League finance, and it has taken measures—excellent in themselves, though we of the Indian Delegation do not consider them fully adequate—for the establishment of economy and method in the expenditure of the League, and for a revision of the present unsatisfactory system under which the League expenses are distributed among the Member-States.

161. One very significant fact which struck us was that when the Assembly met the delegates, for the most part strangers to one another, were mutually suspicious, and looked entirely to the interests of their own States. But before the Assembly concluded, there was the beginning of what may be called an Assembly consciousness, delegates realising that they had a duty to the world at large as well as to their own country. If, as will probably be the case, the majority of the delegates to the recent Assembly are also members of the next, and consequently meet with mutual knowledge, this tendency will rapidly develop. It will also be stimulated by what is likely to be a feature of the future, the further assertion by the Assembly, as the democratic element in the League, of claims as against what may come to be regarded as the oligarchic pretensions of the Council. It is significant, too, that in electing representatives of "secondary" States to the Council, the Assembly adopted the view that one of the four should be taken from outside Europe and America, and in pursuance of this policy selected China.

162. As regards the part played by India in the Assembly, our effort to obtain a reconsideration of the Council's decision declining to take early action on India's appeal for immediate representation, as a great industrial Power, on the Governing Body of the Labour Organisation, met with failure, Committee No. II. and the Assembly holding, as they were justified in doing on technical grounds, that the matter was not one in which they could interfere with the prerogatives of the Council. But we attracted universal attention to the danger, which the present constitution of this Governing Body exemplifies, of the undue predominance of Europe in bodies which deal with matters affecting the world at large, and we rendered it practically impossible that the constitution of the Labour Governing Body should be repeated on other Standing Committees. In fact, as has been brought to notice in dealing with these, we obtained a definite pronouncement that the members of the Advisory Committees on Health and Transit should be selected inter alia with reference to geographical considerations.

163. Our attitude and attainment in respect of questions of League finance, where we took a leading part, have been summarised in para. 114, and though, as there stated, we did not achieve all that we wished, we can claim that but for us the financial reforms which have been effected would have been of a far less important character. In dealing with this matter, we were, as has been stated, efficiently supported by the Dominions, and our relations with the Dominions' delegates throughout were of a very cordial nature. This fact may, it is hoped, bear fruit hereafter when questions arise as regards India's relations with the Dominions in such matters as emigration.

164. We were also on most cordial terms with the British Delegation, and were every now and then indebted to Mr. Balfour for kindly and useful advice. The absolute independence of India, as of the Dominions, in regard to her attitude and voting on questions coming before the Assembly and its Committees was fully recognised; but, like the Dominions, we felt that when our own interests were not directly or indirectly concerned we should endeavour to keep step with the mother country, and there were frequent informal meetings to this end between the various Empire Delegations.

165. To conclude, we venture to think that the remark made in the Times review of the events of 1920, that at the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva the Indian Delegation took such a share in the discussions as showed that India had become an influential participant in the councils of the world, was in accordance with actual facts ; and we have the satisfaction of feeling that we three representatives of India worked together in the most cordial and harmonious way, and that there was not the least difference of opinion between us on matters of any importance.

APPENDIX II.

Resolutions and Recommendations adopted by the Assembly in the course of its First Session.

(NOTE.—The numeration and wording which follow are not necessarily those which may be ultimately adopted.)*

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
		PUBLICITY OF ASSEMBLY COMMITTEES' PROCEEDINGS.
1	16 Nov. 1920	The Committees shall keep a record of their deliberations and a Procès-Verbal, which shall be published as soon as possible and shall always be accessible to a Member of the Assembly.
		VICE-PRESIDENTS OF THE ASSEMBLY.
2	16 Nov. 1920	There shall be 12 Vice-Presidents. Each Committee shall nominate its own Chairman. These Chairmen will be Vice-Presidents of the Assembly. The Assembly will elect by secret ballot six other Vice-Presidents.
		SUBSTITUTES IN COMMITTEE.
3	16 Nov. 1920	In addition to the right conferred upon delegates to appoint substitutes in the Assembly, the Delegations may, in the case of Committees, appoint substitutes who have no seat in the Assembly, but such a substitute could not be nominated President or Rapporteur, and would not have the right to a seat in the Assembly.
		SITUATION IN ARMENIA.
4	22 Nov. 1920	The Assembly, anxious to co-operate with the Council, in order to put an end in the shortest time possible to the horrors of the Armenian tragedy, requests the Council to arrive at an understanding with the Governments, with a view to entrusting a Power with the task of taking the necessary measures to stop the hostilities between Armenia and the Kemalists, and The Assembly further decides to nominate a Committee of six members to consider and report to the Assembly during this session the steps, if any, which can be taken for this object.
		POLAND AND LITHUANIA.
5	23 Nov. 1920	That any statements of their case made by Poland and Lithuania, together with all the relevant facts and papers, be forthwith published.
		PUBLICITY FOR COUNCIL'S PROCEEDINGS.
6	23 Nov. 1920	That the Council be requested to take into consideration the means for securing greater publicity for their discussions and decisions.
		INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE RED CROSS.
7	23 Nov. 1920	The Assembly of the Nations wishes to express its admiration and gratitude to the International Committee of the Red Cross, for the efforts they have made on behalf of the prisoners of war, and it has the greatest pleasure in acknowledging the importance of the services rendered by the eminent ex-President of the Swiss Confederation, M. Gustav Ador, and by Dr. Nansen, to this organisation and to the cause of humanity.
		REGISTRATION OF TREATIES.
8	23 Nov. 1920	That the Council should be called upon to entrust the examination of the scope of Article XVIII. of the Covenant, from a legal point of view, to a special Committee, which would prepare for the Council all relevant proposals. The Council would then report on the question to the next Assembly, and place before it the proposals of the special Committee.
		RULES OF PROCEDURE FOR THE ASSEMBLY OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
9	30 Nov. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations, after having examined the Draft Rules of Procedure presented by the First Committee, and having heard the Report made by the Rapporteur of the Committee, Signor Ferraris, Representative of Italy, has resolved that these Draft Rules of Procedure, as amended by the Assembly,† be hereby adopted as the Rules of Procedure for the Assembly of the League of Nations.

* See Rule 24 of Rules of Procedure (Appendix V., Annex 1).

No.	Date.
		PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
10	2 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations decides— (a) That the amendments to the Covenant proposed by the Danish, Norwegian, and Swedish Governments shall, at this moment, not be taken into consideration by the Assembly, and (b) That the Council be invited to appoint a Committee to study the said proposals of amendments together with any which may be submitted by a Member of the League within a period to be fixed by the Council. This Committee shall report to the Council, who shall place the conclusions before the Assembly at its next session.
11	6 Dec. 1920	That the motion proposed by the Argentine Delegation and the motion proposed by Mr. Doherty, of the Canadian Delegation, shall not be considered during the present session of the Assembly and shall be referred to the Committee appointed by the Council to deal with amendments to the Covenant.
		TYPHUS IN POLAND.
12	7 Dec. 1920	The Assembly resolves— To address an urgent and immediate appeal to all the countries of the world for an adequate fund for prosecuting an effective campaign against epidemic disease in Eastern Europe, beginning with Poland as a centre, and that the Office International d'Hygiène Publique, the Comité International de la Croix Rouge and the League of Red Cross Societies, be earnestly asked to co-operate in the matter. That the President be empowered to nominate a Committee of not more than three delegates of the Assembly to examine the question of the funds necessary for the campaign against Typhus and to take any steps possible before the end of the session of the Assembly to secure these funds. The Assembly approves of the action taken by the Council and the Reports submitted by the various Committees and sub-Committees of the Assembly which have considered the subject, and pending the result of the appeal feels that it is imperatively necessary to make at once such a beginning of the campaign as may be possible within the limits of the funds already promised.
		RELATIONS BETWEEN THE COUNCIL AND THE ASSEMBLY.
13	7 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations decides unanimously to adopt, subject to certain amendments* to paras. II. and X., the Report of Committee I. on the relations between, and respective competence of, the Council and the Assembly.
		RELATIONS OF TECHNICAL ORGANISATIONS TO COUNCIL AND ASSEMBLY.
		ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL PROBLEMS.
15	9 Dec. 1920	First Resolution : The Assembly recognises the necessity of an Advisory Economic and Financial Committee and adopts as a consequence the following Resolution :— In order that the League of Nations may proceed without interruption with the working out of measures of an economic and financial nature which shall be submitted for adoption by Members of the League in accordance with the Covenant of the League, an Advisory Economic and Financial Committee shall be constituted. As soon as this Committee is constituted, it shall replace the provisional technical economic and financial Committee appointed by the Council. The Council of the League of Nations may summon an Economic and Financial Conference to consider economic and financial problems as circumstances may require, with power to constitute the Advisory Economic and Financial Committee above referred to. In the regulations to be prepared by the Council for the holding of the Conference, due regard shall be paid to the general principles governing the relations between the technical organisations of the League and the Council, and also to the general provisions that may be adopted for the other organisations, at the same time making such modifications as may be required in view of the object for which the Conference is being called. Second and Third Resolutions. See Appendix III. (Annex 5).

		COMMUNICATIONS AND TRANSIT.
16	9 Dec. 1920	1. The Members of the League of Nations are hereby invited to send special representatives to a General Conference on Freedom of Communications and Transit, to meet at Barcelona as soon as possible after the meeting of the Assembly. This Conference shall be invited to :—

(1) Draw up, under conditions laid down in the Resolution regarding the relations between the Technical Organisations and the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations, the measures which may be taken by the Members of the League in fulfilment of that part of Article XXIII. (e) of the Covenant which concerns freedom of communications and transit, as well as the General Convention on the international regime of transit, of ports, of waterways and of railways referred to in Articles 338 and 379 of the Treaty of Versailles.

(2) Determine under the same conditions whether the measures which it elaborates should take the form of Draft Conventions to be ratified by the Members of the League or of "recommendations" to the various Governments, or of Draft Resolutions to be adopted by the Assembly of the League.

(3) Regulate its own procedure and make suitable arrangements for any subsequent meetings which may be called by the Council by means of special rules and regulations to be adopted by two-thirds of the representatives of the Members of the League.

(4) Hold its subsequent meetings convened by the Council of the League of Nations at Geneva, unless the Council of the League decides otherwise for special and exceptional reasons.

II. The Conference shall likewise be invited to organise an Advisory Committee, the headquarters of which shall be at Geneva. This Committee shall be a consultative and technical body to consider and propose measures calculated to assure freedom of communications and transit at all times, and to assist the Council and Assembly of the League in discharging the functions entrusted to the League by Article XXIV. of the Covenant and by Articles 342, 377 and 378 of the Treaty of Versailles, and the corresponding Articles in the other Treaties.

The Committee may arrange for any future Conference and prepare its agenda; it will exchange all requisite information concerning communications and transit with the appropriate technical Ministries of the Members of the League; it will be entrusted with the investigation of any disputes which may be referred to the League under Articles 336, 376 and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles, and corresponding Articles in the other Treaties of Peace, and will endeavour to adjust such disputes whenever possible by conciliation between the parties; in the event of such disputes being brought before the Permanent Court of International Justice, the Committee may be called upon to assist the Court.

III. The Secretary-General of the League of Nations will render every possible assistance to the General Conference and to the Committee; he will, with the assistance of the existing Committee of Enquiry on Freedom of Communications and Transit, take the necessary measures for the meetings of the Conference, and he will designate members of the International Secretariat to act as Secretaries of the Conference and of the Advisory Committee.

IV. The general expenses of the Conference and of the Committee, and the travelling and subsistence allowances of the members of the Committee only, shall be defrayed out of the general funds of the League.

		SETTLEMENT OF CERTAIN DISPUTES UNDER TREATY OF VERSAILLES.
		COMPOSITION OF TRANSIT AND COMMUNICATIONS ADVISORY COMMITTEE.
18	9 Dec. 1920	This Committee will be composed of members appointed by the Members of the League represented permanently on the Council, one representative for each of those Members, together with members to be appointed as determined by the Conference, taking into account as far as possible technical interests and geographical representation. The total number of members of the Committee shall not exceed one-third of the Members of the League.

Health Organisation.

19 10 Dec. 1920 . In pursuance of the Covenant of the League of Nations, and in order to facilitate the discharge by the League of Nations of the responsibilities which may be placed upon it by provisions of the various Treaties of Peace, the Assembly of the League of Nations resolves as follows :—

That in accordance with the provisions of Article XXIV. of the Covenant, the Assembly approves of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique being placed under the direction of the League of Nations and that an International Health Organisation as hereinafter provided (of which the Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall be the foundation) shall carry out the provisions of the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, and also advise the League of Nations on all questions arising out of Article XXIII. (f) and XXV. of the Covenant.

Functions of the Organisation.

The main functions of the organisation may be summarised under the headings which follow, and their exercise shall be determined by the Standing Committee :—

(a) To advise the League of Nations in matters affecting health.

(b) To bring administrative Health Authorities in different countries into closer relationship with each other.

(c) To organise means of more rapid interchange of information on matters where immediate precautions against disease may be required (e.g., epidemics) and to simplify methods for acting rapidly on such information where it affects more than one country.

(d) To furnish a ready organisation for securing or revising necessary international agreements for administrative action in matters of health, and more particularly for examining those subjects which it is proposed to bring before the Standing and General Committees, with a view to International Conventions.

(e) In regard to measures for the protection of the worker against sickness, disease and injury arising out of his employment which fall within the province of the International Labour Organisation, the International Health Organisation will co-operate with and assist the International Labour Organisation, it being understood that the International Labour Organisation will on its side act in consultation with the International Health Organisation in regard to all health matters.

(f) To confer and co-operate with international Red Cross Societies and other similar societies, under the provisions of Article XXV. of the Covenant.

(g) To advise, when requested, other voluntary organisations in health matters of international concern.

(h) To organise missions in connection with matters of health at the request of the League of Nations and with the concurrence of the countries affected.

The permanent International Health Organisation shall consist of :—(1) the Office International d'Hygiène Publique, which, with certain additions set out below, will become the General Committee ; (2) a Standing Committee ; and (3) an International Health Bureau. In carrying out its duties the organisation shall conform to the general principles laid down in the Resolution of the Council, as to the relations between the Technical Organisations and the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations, passed at Rome, 19th May 1920.

The Office International d'Hygiene Publique.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique changed as indicated below shall, subject to the approval of the Government signatory to the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, form part of the new International Health Organisation. The headquarters of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall remain in Paris.

Members of the General and Standing Committees and of the staff of the International Health Bureau shall have the right to use the Library of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique and its rooms in Paris shall be available for special meetings if required.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
19	10 Dec. 1920 —contd.	The Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall undertake such duties of a technical character as may be assigned to it by the Standing Committee in accordance with the Resolution agreed to by the Committee of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique at the meeting held in Paris on 30th October 1919.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique will, subject to the consent of the Government signatory to the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, agree to such alterations as may be found necessary in the "Statuts Organiques" of the Rome Convention of 1907 (especially Article 15) and in the Rules governing the internal administration of the Office, especially Article 8 of Part I of these Rules, but no alteration shall be made in Part II. with regard to the "Caisse des Retraites et de Secours," which is prejudicial to any person entitled to benefit therefrom.

The General Committee.

The General Committee shall consist of the delegates to the Office International d'Hygiène Publique now holding appointments in accordance with the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, or who may hereafter be so appointed by any country party to that Agreement, together with delegates appointed by countries not parties to the Agreement of 1907 but members of the League of Nations.

The General Committee shall meet at least once a year at the headquarters of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique in Paris. In cases of emergency the Council may convene the General Committee for an extraordinary session.

The General Committee shall appoint its own President, regulate its own procedure, and may at any time appoint sub-committees to consider any special question. Any delegate may at any time call in the assistance of technical advisers, but the advisers shall not vote.

A delegate, however, who during the progress of a session may for any reason be unable to attend any particular meeting, may, by notice in writing addressed to the President, appoint an adviser to act as his deputy, and this adviser while so acting shall be allowed to vote.

The Standing Committee.

The Standing Committee shall elect its own Chairman and regulate its own procedure, but shall meet not less than four times a year, and may in addition at any time be called to deal with questions requiring urgent consideration. It shall be empowered to form sub-committees and to call in technical advisers on special points, but these advisers shall have no voting power.

Full reports of the Proceedings of the Standing Committee and of all sub-committees shall be submitted to the General Committee and to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations through the Medical Secretary.

The Chairman and Members of the Standing Committee shall hold their appointments for three years only, but shall be eligible for reappointment or re-election.

The International Health Bureau or Personnel of the Standing Committee at the Seat of the League of Nations.

This shall consist of (a) a Medical Secretary ; (b) personnel.

The Medical Secretary shall be appointed by the Standing Committee in consultation with the Secretary-General, and shall be responsible to this Committee for the efficient working of the International Health Bureau, and for any other duties that may be assigned to him by the Standing Committee. He shall have the right of direct access to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, and shall be empowered to have direct communication with all Government Health Offices.

He shall be entitled to attend all meetings of both Standing and General Committees, and shall be a member ex-officio of all Committees and sub-committees.

Subject to the approval of the Council of the League, the personnel of the International Health Bureau at the seat of the League of Nations shall be appointed by the Standing Committee in consultation with the Medical Secretary, and, as far as possible with due regard to the efficiency of the work of the office, shall consist of persons of different nationalities.

The headquarters of the International Health Bureau shall be at the seat of the League of Nations.

Conventions.

19 10 Dec. 1920 —concld.

The Standing Committee shall be empowered to draw up any draft new Conventions or revise existing ones.

These Conventions must, however, be sumbitted to the General Committee for consideration and approval, and a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the General Committee will be required on the final vote for the adopting of the draft Convention.

In framing any Convention the Committee shall in all cases consult with the Economic and Transit Organisations of the League of Nations where the matter is in any way likely to affect International Commerce, Communications or Transit. If it be decided that the draft Convention shall be adopted, it shall be signed by the President of the General Committee and the Medical Secretary of the International Health Bureau, and then be deposited with the Secretary-General. This Draft Convention will be submitted by the Council of the League of Nations to the Governments concerned with an invitation that if they approve the Convention, the Convention should. within as short a time as possible, and without further examination, be signed by plenipotentiaries.

Each country undertakes to ratify a draft Convention thus signed and deposited before one year has passed, or to signify to the Secretary-General, before the expiration of that period, its decision not to ratify and the reasons for that decision, and each member of the General Committee undertakes himself to keep the question of the draft Convention before the Authority within whose competence the matter lies, with the object of obtaining a decision as soon as possible from the country which he represents.

Any Convention so ratified shall be registered by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, but shall only be binding upon the country which ratifies it.

Each member of the General Committee agrees to make special or annual reports on the measures the country he represents has taken to give effect to the promises of the Convention to which it is a party, and these reports shall be made when and in such form as the Standing Committee may prescribe. Similar reports shall be requested from countries not signatory to the Convention concerned on matters affecting the subject-matter of the Convention.

These reports shall be circulated to all members of the General Committee, and shall in addition be given publicity in the Press if necessary.

Expenses.

The expenses of the International Health Organisation, so far as they are not covered by the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, shall be paid from the funds of the League.

The Medical Secretary of the International Health Bureau shall prepare in advance an annual statement of all the ordinary expenditure for submission to the Standing Committee, 'whose duty it will be to recommend sanction for the proposed expenditure to the Council of the League of Nations through the medium of the Secretary-General. Extraordinary expenses shall be submitted by the Medical Secretary to the Standing Committee, which will present the same as a matter of urgency to the Council of the League of Nations through the medium of the Secretary-General.

The Medical Secretary shall be responsible to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations for the proper expenditure of all moneys paid to him, and shall submit to such audit as may be deemed desirable.

Until otherwise determined, the expenses of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall be paid as at present by contributions according to the apportionment of the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall from time to time submit to such auditing of expenditure as may be deemed desirable by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, in regard to any sums applied by the League to provide for the expenses noted above.

The Secretary-General of the League of Nations shall render all possible assistance to the Permanent International Health Organisation.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
		COMPOSITION OF HEALTH STANDING COMMITTEE.
20	10 Dec. 1920	The Standing Committee shall consist of delegates of the States permanently represented on the Council of the League of Nations, of five members elected by the General Committee—having regard to their scientific attainments and to geographical representation— of the President of the General Committee, of a representative of the League of Red Cross Societies and of a representative chosen by the Governing Body of the Labour Conference.
		ECONOMIC WEAPON.
21	13 Dec. 1920	(See Appendix III. (Annex 13).
		THE DESIGNATION OF NON-PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL.
22	11 Dec. 1920	(1) The Mandates of Belgium, Brazil, Spain and Greece as Members of the Council, as provisionally conferred by Article IV., para. 1, sentence 3, of the Covenant will expire on 31st December 1920.
		(2) In execution of Article IV., para. 1, sentence 2, of the Covenant, the non-permanent Members of the Council shall, at the present session of the Assembly, be selected one at a time and by secret ballot for a period of one year. If no Member obtains at the first ballot an absolute majority of votes, a new ballot shall be taken, but on this occasion the voting shall be confined to the two Members who obtained the largest number of votes at the first ballot. If at this ballot the two Members obtain an equal number of votes, the President shall decide by lot.
		(3) The various proposals considered by the first Committee of the Assembly on the subject shall be sent to the Committee to be constituted by the Council for studying amendments to the Covenant, which shall report on them to the next Assembly.
		COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE.
23	13 Dec. 1920	(1) The Assembly unanimously declares its approval of the draft Statute* of the Permanent Court of International Justice—as amended by the Assembly—which was prepared by the Council under Article XIV. of the Covenant and submitted to the Assembly for its approval.
		(2) In view of the special wording of Article XIV. of the Covenant, the Statute of the Court shall be submitted within the shortest possible time to the Members of the League of Nations for adoption in the form of a protocol duly ratified and declaring their recognition of this Statute. It shall be the duty of the Council to submit the Statute to the Members.
		(3) As soon as this protocol has been ratified by the majority of the Members of the League, the Statute of the Court shall come into force and the Court shall be called upon to sit in conformity with the said Statute in all disputes between the Members or States which have been ratified, as well as between the other States, to which the Court is open under Article 35, para. 2, of the said Statute.
		(4) The said protocol shall likewise remain open for signature by the States mentioned in the Annex to the Covenant.
		ARMAMENTS.†
24	14 Dec. 1920	(1) The Committee having received a report of Sir Cecil Hurst on the Convention for the Control of the Trade in Arms and Ammunitions which was signed at Saint Germain on 10th September 1919 by the United States of America, Belgium, Bolivia, the British Empire, China, Cuba, Ecuador, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Fiji, Italy, Japan and other Powers, and being greatly impressed by the value of this Convention as an instrument of civilisation, and by the evils which would ensue from its non-observance, are anxious that the signatory Powers should proceed without delay to ratification and to the establishment of the International Office of Control contemplated by the Convention.
		(2) The Committee note that the signatory Governments declared in a Protocol that it was contrary to the intention of the high contracting parties and to the spirit of this Convention that, pending the coming into force of the Convention, a contracting party should adopt any measure which is contrary to its provisions.

* See Appendix VI., Annex 1.

† The terms of Resolutions Nos. 24, 25, and 26 are those in which they were presented by Committee No. VI. to the Assembly. The Assembly adopted them en bloc.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
24	14 Dec. 1920 —contd.	(3) The Committee note, however, that it has not been possible for the Powers to give full effect to their Protocol, and that up to the present time the Convention of Saint Germain has had no effect save upon the traffic in arms to the certain special areas specified in the Convention. The Committee would therefore urge that the Assembly should declare its high sense of the gain to civilisation which would ensue from a strict control of this traffic, and should invite the Council to urge upon all Governments without delay speedy ratification of, or adhesion to, the Convention.
25	14 Dec. 1920	Whereas the Covenant formally denounces the evil effects of the private manufacture of munitions and of war material, The Committee suggest that the Assembly should request the Council to invite the Commissions referred to in the following resolution to investigate without delay this serious problem. They also suggest that attention be given to the question as to whether the International Office of Control for the Traffic in Arms when erected could not also be utilised so as to obviate the evils arising from the private manufacture of arms to which reference is made in the Covenant.
26	14 Dec. 1920	The Committee, being convinced that the maintenance of peace demands the reduction of armaments, in accordance with the principles set forth in Article VIII. of the Covenant and in the preamble of Part V. of the Treaties of Peace of Versailles, Saint Germain and Neuilly, which declare that the disarmament of certain Powers signatory to those Treaties be provided for "in order to render possible the initiation of a general limitation of the armaments of all nations" and associating itself with the pronouncement of the Supreme Council on 8th March last that "in order to diminish the economic difficulties of Europe, armies should everywhere be reduced to a peace footing, that armaments should be limited to the lowest possible figure compatible with national security, and that the League of Nations be invited to examine proposals to that end without delay," and with the Resolution of the International Financial Conference at Brussels "recommending most earnestly to the Council of the League of Nations the desirability of conferring at once and agreeing with the several Governments concerned with a view to securing a general reduction of the crushing burdens which, on their existing scale, armaments still impose on the impoverished peoples of the world, sapping their resources and imperilling their recovery from the ravages of war," realising on the other hand that a complete and comprehensive scheme of disarmament depends upon the following conditions: firstly, under the responsibility of the Powers signatory to the Treaties of Peace, upon the complete fulfilment of the reduction of armaments imposed by the abovementioned Treaties upon certain of these Powers; secondly, upon the exercise, as occasion may demand, of the right of investigation accorded by these Treaties to the Council of the League of Nations, in order to maintain this reduction; and lastly, on the collaboration of the other great military Powers which have hitherto remained outside the League, invite the Council :— (a) To request the Permanent Advisory Commission for Military, Naval, and Air Questions rapidly to complete its technical examination into the present condition of armaments; (b) To instruct a temporary Commission, composed of persons possessing the requisite competence in matters of a political, social, and economic nature, to prepare for submission to the Council in the near future reports and proposals for the reduction of armaments as provided for by Article VIII. of the Covenant; (c) To form within the Secretariat a section to serve as a centre of information for the Commission in question and also as a channel for the publication and exchange of the information referred to in the Covenant; (d) To consider the mechanism by means of which the military information to be exchanged under the provisions of Article VIII. of the Covenant can be verified in the event of the principle of mutual verification by Members of the League being confirmed by an amendment of the Covenant.
		TRAFFIC IN WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
27	15 Dec. 1920	The Assembly resolves that— (1) The Secretariat of the League of Nations shall issue a questionnarie and the Assembly authorises the Secretariat to send this questionnarie to all Governments. The Governments shall be asked what legislative measures have been taken by them to combat the traffic, and especially what additional measures they are proposing to take in the future.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
27	15 Dec. 1920— contd.	Also that the Governments signatory to the 1904 and 1910 Conventions be immediately urged to put such conventions into operation.

The Assembly requests the Council to invite the countries signatory or adherent to the International Conventions of 1904 and 1910 to send representatives to an International Conference to be held before the next Assembly.

This Conference would co-ordinate the replies to the questionnaire received by the Secretariat and would endeavour to secure a common understanding between the various Governments with a view to future united action.

(2) The Council is invited to constitute a Commission of Enquiry with a view to informing the Council as to the present situation in Armenia, in Asia Minor, in Turkey and in the Territories adjoining these countries, regarding deported women and children.

This Commission should be composed of three members selected from among the persons best qualified residing in the districts in question. At least one member shall be a woman.

The expenses of this enquiry will be borne by the League of Nations.

The Secretariat shall receive, in addition to the information furnished by this Commission, all relative information from other countries.

The Council will report to the Assembly.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
28	15 Dec. 1920	That having regard to the duty placed on the League by Article XXIII. of the Covenant to supervise the execution of arrangements with regard to the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs, the Assembly concurs with the Netherlands Government in its view that it will be preferable for the League to undertake the duties placed upon the Netherlands Government by the Opium Convention with regard to the collection of data and dealing with disputes.

That for this purpose and for the purpose of enabling the League to exercise its general supervision over the execution of arrangements with regard to this traffic, the Secretariat of the League is entrusted with the duty of collecting information as to the arrangements made in the various countries for carrying out the Opium Convention, the production, distribution and consumption of the drugs, and other necessary data.

That in order to secure the fullest possible co-operation between the various countries in regard to the matter, and to assist and advise the Council in dealing with any questions that may arise, an Advisory Committee be appointed by the Council which shall include representatives of the countries chiefly concerned, in particular, Holland, Great Britain, France, India, Japan, China, Siam, Portugal, and shall, subject to the general directions of the Council, meet at such times as may be found desirable.

That in view of the importance of the co-operation of States which have ratified or may hereafter ratify the Opium Convention, but which are not yet Members of the League, the Netherlands Government be requested to invite their concurrence and co-operation in the arrangements indicated above, and that in the event of such concurrence being given the Council be authorised to add to the Advisory Committee in the capacity of member or assessor, a representative of any such country which is specially concerned in the traffic, and that in any case a special invitation be addressed to the United States of America.

That the Council be authorised, if and when they think it necessary, to add as assessors to the Committee not more than three persons not representatives of Governments, having special knowledge of the question; and that the travelling expenses and allowances of such members shall be paid out of the funds of the League.

That the Advisory Committee shall, three months before the beginning of every session of the Assembly, present to the Council for submission to the Assembly, a report on all matters regarding the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs.

That the Assembly welcomes the action of the Netherlands Government in endeavouring to secure the signature and ratification of the Opium Convention by countries which have not yet done so, and invites it to inform the Secretariat of the League of the results of its action.

		PASSPORTS FOR MEMBERS OF THE SECRETARIAT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
29	15 Dec. 1920	The Secretary-General of the League of Nations shall deliver to members of the Secretariat and officials of the League an identity card certifying the identity of the holder and the nature of his official duties. On presentation of this card and at the request of the Secretary-General, the Government of which the holder is a national shall deliver or cause to be delivered by any of its diplomatic representatives or by its consular agent at Geneva, a diplomatic passport permitting the official to carry out the mission with which he is entrusted with the benefit of all privileges and immunities provided for in Article VII. of the Covenant, and valid for the duration of such mission in the limits indicated by the Secretary-General. Diplomatic visas will be given gratuitously, whenever necessary, on the request of the Secretary-General of the League of Nations by the diplomatic or consular agents of the Powers in whose territory the official will be travelling in accomplishment of his mission.
		STAFF AND ORGANISATION OF THE SECRETARIAT.
30	17 Dec. 1920	(1) That all members of the Secretariat and of the International Labour Office appointed for a period of five years or more by the Secretary-General or the Director of the International Labour Office shall, in the case of dismissal, have the right of appeal to the Council. (2) That a list of the staff of the Secretariat and of the International Labour Office, showing nationalities and salaries and allowances by classes, be published yearly, with the addition to the first and second issues of a list containing an account of the previous services of certain of the higher officials; and that a further list be prepared and attached to the annual Budget, showing the nationality, salary and allowances of each individual member of the staff, and containing a schedule showing the travelling allowances for each class with the amounts paid. (3) That information regarding vacancies on the staff of the Secretariat and of the International Labour Office be made as public as possible and that, in filling the various posts, whilst having special regard for efficiency, at the same time consideration be given to the international character of the League.
		1ST AND 2ND BUDGETS.
31	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations hereby adopts the General Budget of the League for the first financial period ending 30th June 1920, together with the Budget for the second financial period ending 31st December 1920.
		3RD BUDGET.
32	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations hereby adopts the annexed General Budget for the year 1921. (See Appendix III., Annex. 12.*)
		SITUATION IN ARMENIA.
33	18 Dec. 1920	The Assembly reaffirms its resolution of 22nd November 1920. It will continue to co-operate with the Council, which it entrusts with the duty of watching over the fate of Armenia, and of referring any question it considers necessary to the Members of the League. On the invitation of the League the valuable intervention of President Wilson, of Spain and Brazil, has already been secured for Armenia in addition to marks of universal sympathy.
		EMOLUMENTS OF MEMBERS OF INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE.
		CHILDREN IN COUNTRIES AFFECTED BY THE WAR.
35	18 Dec. 1920	The Assembly, being desirous of giving its support to the urgent work of rescuing children in the countries affected by the war, invites the Council to consider as soon as possible the means by which the moral authority of the League of Nations might best assist this work which is being done in the cause of humanity.

* The budget there annexed is that originally presented by Committee No. IV, and is exclusive of 250,000 gold francs added after presentation to the Assembly; see para. 113 of our Report.

No.	Date.	RESOLUTIONS.
		Organisation of Intellectual Work.
36	18 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations, approving the assistance which the Council has given to works, having for their object the development of international co-operation in the domain of intellectual activity, and especially the moral and material support given to the Union of International Associations on the occasion of the Inaugural Session of the International University and of the publication of the List of Recommendations and Resolutions of the International Congresses, recommends that the Council should continue its efforts in this direction, and should associate itself as closely as possible with all methods tending to bring about the international organisation of intellectual work. The Assembly further invites the Council to regard favourably the efforts which are already in progress to this end, to place them under its august protection, if it be possible, and to present to the Assembly during its next session a detailed Report on the educational influence which it is their duty to exert with a view to developing a liberal spirit of goodwill and world-wide co-operation, and to report on the advisability of giving them shape in a technical organism attached to the League of Nations.
		RECOMMENDATIONS.
		The Designation of Non-Permanent Members of the Council.
1	11 Dec. 1920	The Assembly is recommended to vote for the four non-permanent Members in such manner that three Members be selected from among the Members of the League in Europe and the two American continents, and one selected from among those in Asia and the remaining parts of the world.
		Armaments.
2	14 Dec. 1920	Pending the full execution of the measures for the reduction of armaments recommended by Article VIII. of the Covenant, the Assembly recommends to the Council to submit for the consideration of the Governments the acceptance of an undertaking not to exceed for the first two financial years following the next financial year, the sum total of expenditure on the military, naval, and air services provided for in the latter budget, subject however to account being taken of the following reservations :— (1) any contributions of troops, war material, and money recommended by the League of Nations, with a view to the fulfilment of obligations imposed by Article XVI. of the Covenant or by Treaties registered by the League. (2) Exceptional conditions notified as such to the Council of the League of Nations in accordance with the spirit of paragraphs 2 and 6 of Article VIII. of the Covenant.
		Protection of Minorities in certain States seeking admission to the League of Nations.
3	15 Dec. 1920	In the event of the Baltic and Caucasian States and Albania being admitted to the League the Assembly requests that they should take the necessary measures to enforce the principles of the Minorities Treaties and that they should arrange with the Council the details required to carry this object into effect.
		Protection of Armenia.
4	16 Dec. 1920	The Assembly earnestly hopes that the efforts of the President of the United States, energetically supported by the Governments of Spain and Brazil and by the Council of the League, will result in the preservation of the Armenian race, and in securing for Armenia a stable government, exercising authority throughout the whole of the Armenian State as the boundaries thereof may be finally settled under the Treaty of Sèvres, so that the Assembly may be able to admit Armenia into full membership in the League at its next meeting.
		Recommendations in regard to States not admitted to the League.
5	16 Dec. 1920	Pending a further decision of the Assembly, it is desirable that Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Georgia should, on presenting a request to that effect, be treated on the same footing as States Members of the League of Nations, as regards their participation in the work of the technical organisations of the League.
6	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly expresses the wish that the Special Committee appointed by the Council of the League of Nations to consider proposals with reference to amendments to the Covenant, should also consider whether, and in what manner, it would be possible to attach to the League of Nations Sovereign States, which by reason of their small size could not be admitted as ordinary Members.

No.	Date.	RECOMMENDATIONS.
		EARLY PAYMENT OF CONTRIBUTIONS.
7	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations requests the Members of the League to take the necessary measures to ensure their contribution being paid at the earliest possible date. Each Member should in any case inform the Secretariat on 1st January 1921 on what date it may expect payment to be made. The Special Committee to be appointed to consider modifications in the Covenant should also consider what steps should be taken with reference to States which have not paid their quotas within a specified period.
		PRINCIPLES OF FINANCIAL ADMINISTRATION.
8	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations requests the Council to be guided by the principles embodied in the following Articles in regard to the financial administration of the League, and if experience proves that it can be strengthened and improved, to prepare for the annual session of the Assembly of 1921 a draft resolution upon this subject. [For the Articles in question, see Appendix III. (Annex 12*).]
		COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER ALL FACTORS CONNECTED WITH INTERNAL ORGANISATION.
9	17 Dec. 1920	The Assembly of the League of Nations requests the Council to take the necessary steps to appoint as soon as possible a small Committee of experts to consider all factors connected with the organisation, methods of work, efficiency, number, salaries and allowances of the staff and with the general expenditure of the organisation as well as with all other points necessary to enable the Assembly to form a fair judgment in respect thereto, both as regards the Secretariat and the International Labour Office. The report of this Committee should be in possession of the Members of the League by 1st June 1921.
		MANDATES.
10	18 Dec. 1920	(a) Recommendations regarding the Mandates Commission. (1) The members of the Commission should not be dismissed without the assent of the majority of the Assembly. (2) The Commission should contain at least one woman. (3) The mandatories should be asked to present to the Commission a report on the recent administration of the territories now confided to their care. (b) Recommendations as to Mandates "A." (4) The Mandatory should not be allowed to make use of its position to increase its military strength. (5) The Mandatory should not be allowed to use its power under the mandate to exploit for itself or its friends the natural resources of the mandated territory. (6) An organic law should be passed in the mandated territories as soon as possible, and before coming into force should be submitted to the League for consideration. (c) General Recommendation. (7) Future draft mandates should be published before they are decided on by the Council.

* Articles 13 (a) to 13 (e) were renumbered 13 to 17 by the Assembly.

APPENDIX III.

Reports of Committees of the Assembly on various Subjects.

ANNEX 1.—Summary of Report of Committee No. I. on the Rules of Procedure of the Assembly (taken from the Official Journal of the Assembly).

The Rules of Procedure of the Assembly are based on :—

1. The Covenant.

2. The Rules of Procedure of the Council adopted during its Session at Rome on the 17th May 1920.

3. The Provisional Rules of Procedure distributed to the delegates of the Assembly at the beginning of the Session.

4. The Rules of Procedure in force in various Parliaments of the world.

5. The draft amendments submitted to the Committee by the delegates of Sweden, Switzerland, Australia, Portugal, China, and by the Hon. N. Rowell, delegate of Canada.

The Rules of Procedure define the respective positions and powers of the Members of the League, of the delegates who represent them, of the Council of the League, and of the Secretariat-General. The Committee have regarded the Members of the League as the origin and source of the whole organisation ; the Assembly as its sovereign but intermittent power ; the Council as its permanent parliament ; and the Secretariat-General as its permanent executive organ.

Members of the League.—The Rules provide that a majority of the Members of the League can at any time summon a Session of the Assembly, settle the place of its meeting, propose the questions to be placed on the agenda, and name their representatives and substitutes.

The Assembly.—The Assembly will meet once a year, on the first Monday in September. It has the power to designate its place of meeting, to choose its President and Vice-Presidents, to verify the credentials of its representatives, to draw up its agenda, and to determine the composition and work of its Committees.

The Council.—Upon the Council falls the task of carrying out the results of discussions held during the session of the Assembly. The Council or its President has the power to convene the Assembly, to approve the agenda prepared by the Secretary-General, to present reports to the Assembly, and to intervene in the debates of the Assembly through one of its Members in order to make an explanatory statement.

The Secretary-General.—The Secretary-General, as an executive officer, has to collect the opinion of the Members of the League with regard to the summoning of an extraordinary Session of the Assembly. He has to communicate the order convening the Session to the different Members, to prepare the agenda, to register the names of the representatives with their substitutes, to present his report to the Assembly, and to execute decisions taken either by the Assembly or the Council.

The Budget.—The Budget proposed for the ensuing fiscal year, and the report and the accounts for the past fiscal year, will be submitted annually for the approval of the Assembly in September. The Assembly will consider them after they have been examined by a special Committee which will carry out all the duties of financial supervision which normally belong to a parliamentary body.

The Use of Spanish as an Official Language.—The Committee recognises that the League of Nations represents the principle of equality amongst States, but points out that the adoption on equal terms of some 20 languages spoken by the various nations of the world would cause general confusion and render discussion impossible. The Committee has examined the question from the point of view of the practical working of the League, and from the point of view of keeping expenditure within reasonable limits. It expresses its gratitude to the representatives of the Spanish-speaking countries who, in a spirit of devotion to the common welfare, have agreed not to insist during this Session on the use of Spanish as an official language, although making a reservation with respect to the future.

The Committee has decided in this connection that every representative should, under the Rules of Procedure, be allowed to speak in whatever language he may prefer, and to publish documents published by the League in his native language. It is understood that each representative or Member of the League will provide for the necessary translation and publication.

Subjects Reserved.—The Committee has reserved for further examination the proposals concerning the institution by the Assembly of permanent Committees and the election of the non-permanent Members of the Council. Separate reports will be presented to the Assembly on these questions.

ANNEX 2.—Report on the Relations between and respective Competence of the Council and the Assembly. Presented by Committee No. I. to the Assembly.

I. We must seek in the Covenant the rights and duties attributed to the Council and the Assembly respectively. Before proceeding to this analysis, and in order to throw light upon it, we will attempt to take account, from the constitutional point of view, of the legal position of the League of Nations. We cannot attain a definite opinion until we have eliminated from the discussion certain hypotheses on which we must dwell for a moment.

(a) It is impossible to consider the Assembly as a Chamber of Deputies and the Council as an Upper Chamber. The objections to this view are that, while in certain matters the Council and the Assembly have identical rights, in others they have each their special rights ; and that the two bodies are not called upon to discuss and decide exactly the same points. If the Assembly was the Chamber of Deputies and the Council a sort of Upper Chamber, the same subjects would come first before the one and then before the other body.

(b) It is equally impossible to consider the Council as invested with the executive and the Assembly with the legislative power. The conclusive objection to this view is that the Assembly possesses executive prerogatives.

The truth is that the League of Nations has no analogy in ordinary constitutional law. Article 2 of the Covenant provides that the action of the League shall be effected through the instrumentality of an Assembly and a Council. It follows that the League is a single organism which has at its disposal two organs whose distinct or similar attributes must now be considered.

II. Competence of the Council.—The Council has the approval of the appointments made by the Secretary-General (Article 6), and may decide that the seat of the League shall be elsewhere than at Geneva (Article 7). The Council shall formulate plans for the reduction of armaments, and must give its consent to armaments exceeding those limitations (Article 8). It shall advise as to the evil effects attendant upon manufacture of arms by private enterprise (Article 8). The Council shall advise in case of agression (Article 10). It must formulate and submit proposals for the establishment of a Permanent Court of Justice (Article 14), and it may act as a Council of Mediation (Article 15). It must make recommendations to the Governments as to military contribution to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the League (Article 16). It will define the conditions of the Mandates if they have not been previously agreed upon by the Members of the League (Article 22, para. 8). Its consent is required for the co-operation of the Secretariat with International Bureaux and Commissions (Article 24, para. 2).

The Council furthermore derives clearly defined functions from the Peace Treaties (see Article 48, Article 50, Annex 17, Article 213 of the Treaty of Versailles; Article 159 of the Treaty with Austria, Article 104 of the Treaty with Bulgaria, &c.).

III. Competence of Assembly.—The Assembly also has duties and rights which are peculiar to it; for example, admission of new Members (Article 1); election of representatives on the Council (Article 4); approval of additional Members on the Council (Article 4); approval of the Council's nomination for the office of Secretary-General (Article 6); hearing of disputes referred from the Council to the Assembly, &c., &c. We find that on these very important matters the final decision rests with the Assembly and not with the Council.

IV. While, as we have seen, the Council and the Assembly have each their distinctive rights and duties, there are matters the decision of which is left to the League of Nations without its being specified to which organ of the League the right of decision belongs. (Articles 23 and 24 of the Covenant; Article 103, Article 338, Article 376 of the Treaty of Versailles).

V. Finally the account of the provisions of the Covenant in regard to the powers of the Council and the Assembly should be completed by setting out the relevant provisions of Articles 3 and 4. The former provides :—

"The Assembly may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of action of the League or affecting the peace of the world."

The latter Article provides :—

"The Council may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of action of the League or affecting the peace of the world."

VI. In the opinion of the Committee it would not seem to be desirable or necessary to formulate in explicit language at the present time what are the precise functions which the Council and the Assembly are respectively expected to perform. In the Report presented by Mr. Balfour and approved by the Council the following conclusion is reached :—

"The moral I would draw from these broad considerations is that the less we attempt to formulate in explicit language the precise functions which the Council and the Assembly are respectively expected to perform, the better for the future of the League.

"Let us substitute for any such formulating of our respective duties a resolve to deal with any difficulties between the Assembly and the Council not according to pre-arranged rules, but according to the dictates of tact and common sense, treating each case as it arises on its merits."

The Committee recommends the Assembly to accept and act upon this conclusion.

VII. In the Report by Mr. Balfour already referred to, a proposal is made for the appointment of mixed committees to determine questions of doubtful competence between the Council and Assembly. While appreciating the purpose of this proposal, we think it is not necessary at the present time to decide this question.

VIII. It remains to solve a very important question : What is the nature of the executive effect of decisions of the Council and the Assembly? In our opinion the Assembly and the Council should be considered to have complete authority in all matters which the Covenant or the Treaties have committed to them for decision. There are, however, matters referred to in the Covenant which are not within the competence of these organs, but require the concurrence and action of the Governments concerned in the form of international conventions, such as the serious questions contemplated by Article 23, paras. a, b, c, f. In these matters one must not forget that the responsibility of the Governments represented at the Assembly, which is external to the Assembly, cannot be engaged. The action of the Assembly should accordingly take the form of a recommendation or invitation leading up to agreement between the Governments.

IX. Two further questions were discussed in the Committee.

(a) The first question was whether a member of the Council, in rendering his decisions on the Council, represented the Member of the League which appointed him, or acted in an independent capacity. Representatives on the Council and the Assembly are responsible to their own Governments and to those Governments alone. The Assembly has no right to interfere with the choice which a

Member of the League may make of persons to represent it, nor prevent a representative from saying what he pleases; but it is essential that it should be thoroughly understood that, when a representative votes, the vote is that of the Member which he represents, whether the vote be cast in the Council or the Assembly. (See Article V.)

(b). The idea was suggested not of permanent Committees continuing to function after the Assembly had risen, but of allowing Committees which have failed to complete their labours in the course of a session of the Assembly to retain their mandates until their discussions are completed. The Committee is unable to accept this proposal. Practical reasons render it unrealisable. As each Committee consists of one representative from each State, it would be impossible to keep the members of a Committee in Geneva after the Assembly Session was over.

X. At the close of this purely juridical discussion, and as an assistance towards reaching a working basis for the time being, the Committee suggests the adoption of the following principles, which they have framed after close examination of the investigations upon the subject in question already made by the Secretary-General and Mr. Balfour:—

(a) The Council and the Assembly are each invested with particular powers and duties. Neither body has jurisdiction to render a decision in a matter which has been expressly committed to the other organ of the League.

(b) The Assembly has no power to reverse or modify a decision which falls within the exclusive competence of the Council. The same respect must be shown by the Council for decisions of the Assembly.

(c) Under the Covenant representatives sitting on the Council and the Assembly render their decisions as the representatives of their respective States, and in rendering such decisions they have no standing except as such representatives.

(d) The Council will present each year to the Assembly a report on the work performed by it.

ANNEX 3.—Report presented to the Assembly by Committee No. I. on the Question of the Designation of the Non-permanent Members of the Council.

Gentlemen,

I. The question dealt with in the present Report is that of the selection of the four non-permanent Members of the Council. The provisions of the Covenant relative to this question read as follows:—

Article 4, para. 1.—The Council shall consist of Representatives of the Principal Allied and Associated Powers, together with Representatives of four other Members of the League. These four Members of the League shall be selected by the Assembly from time to time in its discretion. Until the appointment of the Representatives of the four Members of the League first selected by the Assembly, Representatives of Belgium, Brazil, Spain and Greece shall be members of the Council.

There are thus two categories of Members on the Council; permanent Members described in the foregoing Article as the Principal Allied and Associated Powers and the four non-permanent Members who are to be selected by the Assembly.

The discussions of the Committee with a view to fixing upon a general method of selection, principally dealt with the following points:—

(d) Dates of the partial renewals.
(e) Re-eligibility.
(f) Temporary arrangements and method of distribution of seats in 1920.
(g) Form to be given to the decisions of the Committee.

II. In the course of the discussion a difference of opinion appeared as to the interpretation of the first parapgraph of Article 4 of the Covenant.

The French text of Article 4, para. 1, lays down that the four non-permanent Members of the Council sont designes librement par l'Assemblee et aux epoques qu'il lui plait de choisir, while the English text reads "shall be selected by the Assembly from time to time in its discretion."

Part of the Committee was of opinion that this provision should be understood as follows:—The plenary Assembly should remain free to chose as Members of the Council those of the Members of the Leage of Nations whom, at the time the selection is made, it considers best fitted to carry out their duties as such, that is to say, to watch over the interests entrusted to the Council. The selection of the four Members is, therefore, to befree and not subject to any regulations on the part of the Assembly, either in respect of apportionment of seats or of the progressive limitation of choice. Such regulations are alone admissible as are confined to the method of selection and the duration of the mandates, or are intended to guarantee freedom of choice. In other words, only regulations exclusively affecting the actual procedure of selection can be considered as compatible with the Covenant.

On the other hand, however, other members of the Committee are of opinion that Article 4 gives the Assembly of the League absolute liberty not only to regulate at will the method of election and the duration of mandates, but also to introduce any system of apportionment of seats or of rotation calculated to increase the prestige of the Council and to enable it to watch over the common interests of the whole world in the best possible manner.

III. Part of the Committee was of opinion that the fundamental principle to which the Assembly should always adhere in selecting the non-permanent Members of the Council, is that those Members should be chosen who are best fitted to carry out, in conjunction with the Permanent Members, the duties entrusted to the Council; the election must always be a selection. With this object in view, especial consideration should amongst other things be given to international, political, economic, social and financial relations of every sort, as well as to the respective situations of the various States at the time of the election.

[APP. III., ANNEX 3—contd.] 64

Other members consider that, in order to ensure that the composition of the Council is satisfactory, it is essential to guarantee to Members of the League the certainty of obtaining a seat in turn, since without this certainty there would be a risk that they would gradually cease to take an interest in the work of the Council, and that the spirit of co-operation would be weakened. For these reasons, they proposed that the duration of the mandate of non-permanent Members of the Council should be reduced to a short period—for example, two years—in order to accelerate the rotation as much as possible, and to require that a Member who had sat on the Council should not be re-elected until all the other Members had also sat on the Council. This system has been called the system of obligatory rotation.

Part of the Committee believes that this is incompatible with Article 4 of the Covenant. The system of free selection provided for in this Article would thus be replaced by the system of obligatory rotation. The latitude of choice would be restricted from year to year, and would indeed finish by disappearing altogether, because the Assembly would ultimately only be able to appoint to the Council those Members who had not yet been elected.

It was urged that justice, as well as expediency, requires that all the Members of the League of Nations should in turn obtain a seat on the Council, in order to be able to represent their views on matters of international policy, and to utilise their special knowledge concerning the actual situation in different parts of the world. The majority, however, considers that the appreciation of these elements should always be left to the Assembly. The latter cannot therefore adopt a rigid system, which is foreign to the Covenant, nor can it be bound by any such principle as that of obligatory rotation. The Committtee has accordingly not adopted this system.

IV. In order to ensure a wiser apportionment and a more enlightened choice at the election, the Committee preferred the system of voting for one name at a time to the "Scrutin de liste" and, although the election is one of States and not of persons, the Committee unanimously declared itself in favour of a secret ballot. It further decided to apply in a modified form Rule 21, para. 2, of the Rules of Procedure adopted by the present Assembly.

V. As regards the duration of the mandates, part of the Committee is in favour of as short a period as possible, in order to give the Members of the League the greatest possible chance of being represented on the Council within a reasonable time. Another part of the Committee, however, considers that the four non-permanent Members of the Council will not be able to exercise an appreciable influence by the side of the permanent Members, unless they sit for a sufficiently long period to enable them to become familiar with the course of business. They, therefore, proposed four years as the period of the mandates. The Committee decided by 14 votes to 13 in favour of the period of two years, 15 members being absent or abstaining from voting.

VI. The Committee further declared itself in favour of partial renewals of the non-permanent Members and fixed upon two as the number of Members to be selected each year. Any system involving the simultaneous renewal of the four seats was rejected.

VII. The Committee was further of the opinion that a system of qualified non-re-eligibility should be adopted with a view to preventing the growth of a species of customary right to re-election. The majority thought that it would be possible to allow a Member, who had held his seat upon the Council for two years, to be selected for a further two years, but felt the necessity of stipulating that, subsequently, retiring Members should be ineligible for a period of four years. Even when a Member was not re-elected after sitting for two years, he should not be able to sit again on the Council until a period of four years had expired.

VIII. The Committee proposes, firstly, that two of the four Members should be selected at each annual meeting of the Assembly, and, secondly, that all four Members should be selected during the present session. As a temporary measure, therefore, the Committee suggests that two of the mandates should be for one year and two for two years. The respective length of the mandates could be decided at the election, but the Committee prefers that this question should be decided by drawing lots, after the selection of the Members. A proposal to distribute the four non-permanent seats upon the following geographical basis :—Three seats to the European and American Members of the League, and one seat to the Members from Asia and the other parts of the world, was thoroughly discussed by the Committee.

On the one hand, it was urged in support of this idea that, due regard being given to the main branches of humanity, the great currents of civilisation, the principal sources of wealth, and the commercial arteries of the world :—

(1) The Members of the League of Nations, who are not permanently represented on the Council naturally fall into three groups : the European group, the American group, and a third group including Asia and the other parts of the world.

(2) These three groups of Members of the League, with their respective problems, conditions and capabilities, should all be represented on the Council, the permanent embodiment of the spirit of the League, inasmuch as universal co-operation is essential for the effective maintenance of world peace and the advancement of the common interests of humanity.

(3) The proposed system of apportionment is equitable and is designed to obviate the preponderance of any one part of the world, to the exclusion of other parts, with regard to non-permanent representation, a preponderance which would be possible in the absence of any system of apportionment.

(4) The non-representation of any one of these three groups of Members might jeopardise friendly relations between them, and even weaken the League itself, since the non-represented group would gradually lose interest in the League.

(5) Such a system of apportionment is desirable since it would tend to enhance the prestige of the Council and to inspire confidence in its deliberations and decisions among all the Members of the League.

(6) An equitable system of this kind is entirely in harmony with the spirit of the Covenant and does not constitute a restriction on the discretionary power conferred upon the Assembly by the Covenant, but is rather an enligthened use of that power.

On the other hand, it was urged that any hard and fast system of apportionment would be contrary to the Covenant, since it would involve restriction of the freedom of the Assembly, by introducing a system of representation foreign to the Covenant, as has been already explained; that neither the Asia-Africa-Oceania group, nor even Asia or Africa separately, can be considered from any point of view entities sufficiently homogeneous to supply a legal basis for representation on the Council; that the universal co-operation necessary for the effective maintenance of world peace and for the advancement of the common interests of humanity must be achieved by the Assembly of the League rather than by the Council; that in order to obtain equitable representation, and to avoid the undue preponderance of any part of the world, among the non-permanent representatives of the Council, we must rely rather on the spirit that animates the League than on any predetermined regulations; that Europe is at present in the throes of a crisis, and that in consequence the composition of the Council must offer guarantees which will meet the requirements of this situation; that later on a crisis may develop in some other part of the world, creating new requirements; and that, at any rate until peace has been finally re-established, there can be no restriction of the freedom of choice of the Assembly as regards the selection of the four non-permanent Members of the Council.

A motion proposing to adopt experimentally at the elections in the present Session of 1920 the system of distribution of seats mentioned above was accepted by 13 votes to 12, two members abstaining from voting, and 15 being absent.

IX. The Committee finally considered whether the regulations which it recommends are or are not matters of procedure within the meaning of Article 5, para. 2 of the Covenant. Certain members of the Committee urged that at least Resolution IV. could not be regarded as a question of procedure, but was a question of substance. The Committee, however, adopted by a majority the view that all the Resolutions proposed deal with matters of procedure.

X. In conclusion, the Committee submits the following draft Resolutions for consideration by the Assembly :—

(I) The mandates of Belgium, Brazil, Spain, and Greece as Members of the Council, as provisionally conferred by Article 4, para. 1, sentence 3, of the Covenant, will expire on 31st December 1920.

(II) In execution of Article 4, para. 1, sentence 2, of the Covenant, the non-permanent Members of the Council shall be selected one at a time and by secret ballot for a period of two years. If no Member obtains at the first ballot an absolute majority of votes, a new ballot shall be taken, but on this occasion the voting shall be confined to the two Members who obtained the largest number of votes at the first ballot. If at this ballot the two Members obtain an equal number of votes, the President shall decide by lot.

At each Annual Meeting, the Assembly will select two of these four Members. The mandate conferred upon these Members will date as from 1st January of the following year.

No Member shall serve for more than two consecutive periods of two years. Members ceasing to hold office after one or two periods of two years, as the case may be, shall not be re-eligible until after the lapse of a period of four years.

(III) At its Session in 1920 the Assembly shall, as an exception to the rule laid down above, proceed to select all four non-permanent Members of the Council. The mandates shall be two for one year and two for two years. After the election the President shall determine by lot which Members shall hold office for one and which for two years.

The principle of non-re-eligibility shall not apply to the elections at the present Session.

(IV) Of the four non-permanent Members to be selected by the Assembly in 1920, three shall be selected from among the Members of the League from Europe and the two American Continents, and one selected from among those from Asia and the remaining parts of the world.

(V) The present provisions shall be deemed matters of procedure within the meaning of Article 5, para. 2, of the Covenant.

ANNEX 4.—*Report submitted to Committee No. II. by the Delegate for Canada (on behalf of the Typhus Sub-Committee) and approved by the Committee.

At a meeting of Committee No. II., held on 22nd November, the following Resolution was adopted :—

"The Committee decides that the report of the Medical Mission on Typhus, now returned from Poland, shall be heard by a sub-committee under the presidency of the delegate of the Argentine, and composed of all members of the Committee who wish to attend. The meeting of this sub-committee will be public."

The sub-committee thereby constituted held meetings on 24th and 26th November, at which Drs. Madsen, Pottevin and Norman White submitted their report and gave such additional information as was asked for by the members of the sub-committee. I beg leave to submit this report, together with the Proces-Verbaux of the sub-committee, for the consideration of the full Committee.

It would appear from the reports and statements of the above-named experts :—

(1) That the epidemic condition of typhus in Poland and Galicia is very grave and constitutes a distinct menace especially to Eastern Europe and in general to the world at large.

* For the Resolution passed by the Assembly, see Appendix II., Resolution No. 12.

[APP. III., ANNEX 4—contd.] 66

(2) That the resources of mechanical and medical equipment of Poland, though hitherto employed in an excellent manner, are altogether insufficient to successfully cope with the conditions in Poland itself.

(3) That he infecion of typhus is widely distributed in Russia and other countries adjoining Poland and opportunities for its distribution are constant and continually increasing.

(4) That urgent necessity exists for an immediate and adequate effort, participated in by the nations of the world, to successfully combat a menace which is international and world-wide.

Already two appeals have been issued by the Council of the League and 42 States have been communicated within an urgent request for a fund to a minimum of 2,000,000*l.*, with which to undertake the limitation and possible extermination of the epidemic. In answer to this appeal, the following nations have promised to contribute, as shown hereunder; but up to date nothing has been actually paid in owing to the conditional nature of the contributions offered. As a consequence, no funds from this source have been available for use:—

France . . . £50,000
(on condition that three other countries subscribe a like amount).
England . . . £50,000
(on condition that three other countries subscribe a like amount).
Canada . . . 200,000 dollars (an initial payment when Great Britain has also contributed her initial payment).
Spain (conditional) . £40,000
Belgium . . . £1,000
Greece . . . £10,000

Bulgaria . . . £ 27
Siam . . . £ 1,000
Germany . . 1,000,000 paper marks
Austria . . 100,000 kronen
Holland . . 100,000 florins
Japan . . 100,000 francs.
Switzerland . 50,000 francs.

The sub-committee is of the opinion that an urgent and immediate appeal should be made by the Assembly to all the countries of the world for an adequate fund for prosecuting an effective campaign against epidemic disease, especially typhus and cholera, in Eastern Europe, beginning with Poland as a certre, and that the Office International d'Hygiène Publique, the Comité International de la Croix-Rouge and the League of the Red Cross Societies, should be earnestly sought to co-operate with the League of Nations in this matter.

ANNEX 5 :—General Report of Committee No. II., by M. Hanotaux, French Delegate, on Technical Organisations.

Mr. President, Gentlemen,

In distributing the work allotted to the different Committees, the Assembly had entrusted Committee No. 2 with the task of examining certain economic and financial questions.

This Committee was formed under the Chairmanship of M. Tittoni, the first Italian delegate, appointed by the Assembly as one of its Presidents, with M. Toma Jonescu, the first Roumanian delegate, as Deputy Chairman.

The subjects which had been referred to this Committee appeared in your provisional agenda under the following headings :—

11. The relations between Technical Organisations and the Council and the Assembly of the League.

12. The establishment of a Permanont Health Organisation.

13. Typhus.

14. Supervision over the execution of Agreements with regard to the Traffic in Women and Children.

15. General supervision over the execution of Agreements with regard to the Traffic in Opium in accordance with Article 23 of the Covenant (at the request of the Government of the Netherlands).

16. The establishment of a Permanent Organisation to deal with Communications and Transit questions falling within the sphere of the League of Nations under the Treaty of Versailles.

17. Tribunal for the settlement of differences referred to in Articles 336, 337, 376 and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles, and in corresponding Articles of other Treaties.

18. Passports for Members of the Secretariat.

19. Economic and Finaneal Organisation.

20. The claim of India to be represented on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office.

The questions covered by these headings correspond to the Article of the Covenant, that have entrusted the League with a guardianship over the various matters which make up the world's life from the point of view of economics, finance and health, and which are still affected by the crisis which has shaken the social structure to its very foundations.

Of these Articles the chief is Article 23, from which I have selected for quotation the paragraphs which deal with the work of the Committee.

Article 23.—" Subject to and in accordance with the provisions of international Conventions at present existing or hereafter to be agreed upon, the Members of the League—

" (c) Will entrust the League with the general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children, and the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs.

[APP. III., ANNEX 5—contd.] 67

"(e) Will make provision to secure and maintain freedom of communications and of transit and equitable treatment for the commerce of all Members of the League. In this connection the special necessities of the regions devastated by the war shall be borne in mind.

"(f) Will endeavour to take steps in matters of international concern for the prevention and control of disease."

It should be added that Articles 24 assure the permanence of the International Bureaux which were previously in existence, by placing them, subject to the consent of the parties concerned, under the authority of the League, and that they institute a strong moral connection between the League of Nations and the voluntary international Red Cross Societies.

The foundations having been thus established, the next point was to commence a study of the permanent procedure to be adopted for obtaining effective results in regard to the variety of questions covered by these Articles.

First of all, the Council of the League discussed the question and took the requisite steps to ensure that the preparatory work should be ready for submission to the Assembly at its first meeting.

At this point, Gentlemen, the connection of the labours of the Second Committee and the lofty sentiments expressed by M. Léon Bourgeois, President of the Council of the League of Nations, at the meeting of Saturday, 4th December, becomes evident.

M. Léon Bourgeois pointed out the difficulties which beset the launching of so vast an undertaking, and he told us that we must dig the ground, that we must lay the foundations, organise and weigh our resources and create the machinery; he described that obscure and thankless period during which the materials are scattered over ground and the architect alone can in his mind's eye visualise the majestic lines of the future edifice.

We are exactly at this stage, and public opinion, which is waiting on our first achievements and is urging us to act, will doubtless grant us the necessary time to enable us to lay solid foundations for this structure, which has no equivalent in history.

Scarcely had the Council of the League of Nations assembled, when the economic and financial questions were placed on its agenda. Obviously neither the Council nor the Assembly could possibly enter upon the consideration of these difficult subjects without the intention of establishing first of all, in accordance with the Covenant, special organisations entrusted to prepare their work and carry out their decisions. Whether the question be one of political economy, finance, transport or hygiene, quite apart from other matters which will at one time or another be submitted to the supreme authority, the League of Nations, the immediate establishment of special organisation is imperative; it is on these lines that a start must be made.

For the purpose of preparing these indispensable organisations, the Council had entrusted the preliminary study of the question to the Provisional Economic and Financial Committee, the Provisional Committee on Communications and the Health Conference. I cannot doubt that the Assembly desires to tender its most sincere thanks to these Committees.

The Committees have worked hard, have evolved principles, collected data and arrived at conclusions worthy of our closest consideration. And we must add that if this excellent preliminary work had not been accomplished, our own labours could hardly have been finished in one short but arduous session. From the general tenour of this report it will be seen that the Second Committee, whose task was to deal with all these questions, had to consider two classes of subjects:—

(1) Those relating to the establishment of special organisations which are in some sort constructive;

(2) Those which bear on certain fundamental questions which demand immediate consideration in view of their urgency or of their state of preparation for consideration by the Assembly.

Taking into consideration this division of the work, the Second Committee decided that the Reports to be submitted to the Assembly should deal with each of these two groups of subjects. It also decided that one of the two Rapporteurs which it has appointed (the present reader of this Report) should be instructed to deal with all questions relating to the creation of technical organisations, and that another Rapporteur, the Hon. M. T. Jonnesco, should deal with questions of principle which have already been discussed; the Committee, moreover, decided that, in view of the complexity of the problems, the two general Rapporteurs should be assisted by certain special Rapporteurs, viz., M. Ador for the economic and financial questions, M. Loudon for Communications and Transit, Mr. Barnes for Health, Sir W. Meyer for Opium, M. Politch for Passports.

II.—RELATIONS BETWEEN TECHNICAL ORGANISATIONS, THE COUNCIL AND THE ASSEMBLY OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Before taking up the study of the three technical organisations submitted for its consideration, your Second Committee, in accordance with the request of the Council, was desirous of fixing the rules of procedure regulating the relations between these organisations and both the Council and the Assembly of the League.

In order to work efficiently, these organisations, in which the most eminent specialists of the various countries would be called upon to take part, cannot be placed in a position of dependence which would deprive them of all initiative; but on the other hand, it is a matter of the greatest importance for the League of Nations that this new machinery should fit in with the main machinery of the League, so as not to upset its delicate mechanism.

The Council of the League, with this object in view, passed a Resolution on 19th May 1920, which has been submitted to your Committee for consideration.

[APP. III., ANNEX 5—contd.] 68

Your Committee decided unanimously that it was ready to adopt the principle laid down by the Council.

And it submits to you, in its turn, the following Resolution, which does not appear to call for special comment.

Resolution.—"With a view to defining the relations between the technical organisation of the League of Nations and the Council and the Assembly of the League, the Assembly, after having noted the Resolution of the Council of the League of Nations, dated 19th May 1920, submitted to it by the Council, adopts the following Resolution. The Resolution will be forwarded to the Secretariats of all technical organisations, which Secretariats must in all cases be administered by the Secretary-General of the League.

The technical organisations of the League now in process of formation are established for the purpose of facilitating the task of the Assembly and the Council by the setting up of technical sections on the one hand and on the other to assist the Members of the League, by establishing direct contact between their technical representatives in the various spheres, to fulfil their international duties.

With this double object, they must keep enough independence and flexibility to make them effectively useful to the Members of the League, and yet they must remain under the control of the responsible organisations which conduct the general business of the League, with a view to verifying whether the proposals are in conformity with the principles and spirit of the Covenant, in accordance with Articles 19 and 20.

The two following principles will serve as a guide :—

They will prepare their own agenda, and communicate it to the Council of the League before discussion thereon takes place.

In exceptional cases in which it is necessary to add to the agenda during the progress of a conference of a technical organisation, and time does not admit of the communication of the additional item to the Council, any decision arrived at thereon shall be provisional only until the Council has had an opportunity of exercising its control.

(b) Their relations with the Members of the League should be under control.

Before any communication of the results or proposals of the technical organisations is made to the Members, and before any action concerning a Member is taken, the Council of the League must be immediately informed in order that they may be able to exercise their power of control, if necessary. In this case, the Council may decide that the communication or action in question shall be postponed and request the technical organisation concerned either to withdraw the question from its agenda or to submit it to further consideration.

The technical organisation may, however, request that the decision taken by the Council shall be discussed at the next meeting of the Assembly.

The Assembly of the League should be informed of all questions dealt with in the interval between its meetings by the Council in the exercise of its power of control defined above. It may either be informed of such questions by the Council on its own initiative, or on the proposal of any one of its Members, or at the request of one of the technical organisations of the League."

III.—TECHNICAL ORGANISATIONS.

Once these principles of our internal administration had been established, the Second Committee considered the creation of the technical organisations which have just been referred to.

In connection with all these subjects, the League of Nations must be acquainted with the needs and wishes of the peoples, and the scientific treatment of various subjects ; it must prepare the text of any Agreements or Conventions which may be necessary or useful ; it must approach its labours with the assistance of those concerned, whether Governments or groups of Governments, or even individuals ; in a word, it must keep in constant touch with labouring humanity, and by holding aloof from all special points of view and private interests, it must strive to unite, to conciliate, and to pacify them so that, their claims as far as possible satisfied, they may thus by their voluntary adherence contribute to the general pacification and to universal well-being.

It thus proposes to set up three technical organisations which are immediately necessary—an Economic and Financial Organisation, an Organisation for Communications and Transit, and an Organisation of International Health.

A.—Economic and Financial Organisation.

With regard to the creation of this, the Committee found itself in presence of a detailed Resolution taken by the Council and submitted by it to the Assembly :—

"In order that the League of Nations may proceed without interruption with the working out of measures of an economic and financial nature, which Members of the League shall be called upon to adopt, in accordance with the Covenant of the League, an Economic and Financial Organisation shall be constituted and shall work under conditions laid down in the general Resolution of the Council of the 19th May. As soon as this organisation is constituted, it shall replace the technical provisional Economic and Financial Committee appointed by the Council.

"For this purpose, the Council of the League of Nations shall summon during 1921 a first General Economic and Financial Conference, one of the duties of which shall be the organisation of a Standing Economic and Financial Committee.

"In the regulations to be prepared by the Council for the holding of the Conference, due regard shall be paid to the general principles governing the relations between the technical organisations of the League and the Council, and also to the general provisions already adopted for the other organisations at the same time making such modifications as may be required in view of the object for which the Conference is being called."

Faced by the difficulties presented by the debates on questions of principle, all the Delegations within the Committee were of the opinion that the simplest method would be to refer the matter to the initiative of the Council, and to agree on the establishment of a technical organisation to consider de facto conditions and to prepare plans for submission to the Council.

As regards financial questions, everybody knows the remarkable statements made at the Brussels Conference, at which the authority of the most competent men was called in to consider every aspect of the problem. We propose that you should carry these discussions into practice, and we ask you to vote for a technical financial organisation. At the same time let us add that the labours of the Brussels Conference have already taken effect and that important agreements are in course of preparation in respect of the international organisation of credit.

It is in this sense that we propose to you to vote on the motions which have been unanimously adopted by the Committee itself.

Resolutions.

First Resolution.—"The Assembly recognises and proclaims the urgent necessity of a permanent Economic and Financial Organisation.

"It adopts, as a consequence, the following resolution submitted to it for its approval by the Council on 27th October 1920 :—

"In order that the League of Nations may proceed without interruption with the working out of measures of an economic and financial nature, which shall be submitted for adoption by members of the League, in accordance with the Covenant of the League, an Economic and Financial Organisation shall be constituted and shall work under conditions laid down in the general resolution of the Council of the 19th May. As soon as this organisation is constituted, it shall replace the provisional Technical Economic and Financial Committee appointed by the Council.

"For this purpose, the Council of the League of Nations shall summon during 1921 a first Economic and Financial Conference, one of the duties of which shall be the organisation of a Standing Economic and Financial Committee.

"In the regulations to be prepared by the Council for the holding of the Conference, due regard shall be paid to the general principles governing the relations between the technical organisations of the League and the Council, and also to the general provisions that may be adopted for the other organisations, at the same time making such modifications as may be required in view of the object for which the Conference is being called."

2nd Resolution.—"The Assembly having noted the resolution taken by the Council at its meeting in Brussels, 27th October last, considers it indispensable that the Economic and Financial Committee should continue its work without delay in the manner indicated by the Council.

"It is understood that this Resolution is voted as an interpretative clause to Annex IA. of the Report on the International Financial Conference presented by M. Bourgeois to the Council at Brussels ; viz. :—

"ANNEX IA.—Resolution with regard to the Provisional Committee.

"Pending the coming into operation of a definite organisation, for the preparation of which some time will be necessary, it is essential that the Council should immediately form a limited Provisional Committee to advise it :—

(a) In considering the immediate application of the recommendations of the Brussels Conference ;

(b) In preparing the agenda for the next General Economic and Financial Conference ;

(c) In examining the economic and financial problems submitted to it by the Council.

"For this purpose a Committee should at once be appointed by the Council."

Third Resolution.—"The Assembly associates itself with the opinions expressed by the Council in its note addressed to all the Governments following on the Brussels Conference ; it considers, in fact, that, in the present conditions of Europe, there is urgent need for the different Governments to apply the principles laid down by the Brussels Conference as completely as possible within each of their countries. The Assembly particularly emphasises the urgent necessity unanimously expresed by the Brussels Conference, that all national wealth should be employed in strictly productive channels.*"

B.—Communications and Transit.

We now come to the second technical organisation which is in process of creation, and whose subject, though very limited, does not yield in importance to any other.

As you will remember, Article 23 (e) of the Covenant imposes on the Members of the League the obligation "of making provision to secure and maintain freedom of communications and of transit." Thus the League of Nations has been induced to deal with questions of transport, the international character of which cannot be doubted. In the present state of the world no question of transport can properly be regarded as not affecting the generality of nations ; but among the questions of transport, that of transit is undoubtedly one of the most specifically international problems. Transports in transit, that is to say, those which cross a national territory while their place of departure and their destination lie outside this territory, obviously cannot be limited or trammelled in favour of the sovereign State without thereby unjustifiably injuring other States. Such injury might give rise to reprisals, and would thus extend even beyond the States immediately concerned, and would seriously tend to trouble the peace of the world by the material inconvenience and the state of unrest which it would cause.

* An additional paragraph originally suggested by M. Ador, which gave expression to a desire for the reduction of armaments, was withdrawn by its proposer and submitted to Committee No. VI. for consideration.

In accordance, therefore, with the terms of the Covenant, it is above all necessary, especially in considering the present configuration of frontiers, and the number of States who have no access to the sea, to obtain international guarantees under the auspices of the League of Nations, for freedom of communications, and, in particular, of transit. Moreover, certain Articles of various Peace Treaties express the sense of Article 23 (e) of the Covenant more explicitly, and, with this object in view, lay down certain international Conventions which deal with the freedom of transit, ports, navigable waterways and railways.

Moreover, in these matters, the same Treaties assign to the League of Nations a certain number of other technical duties which would take too long to enumerate.

To establish the organisations which are to fulfil these various duties, the Assembly found that, as in the case of the Economic and Financial Organisation, it was faced with a former scheme. Indeed, and the fact was recalled by M. Loudon in his interesting and detailed statement before the Second Committee, the French Government, struck by these considerations, convened a Committee composed of delegates from the same Powers which were represented on the Ports, Waterways and Railways Commission at the Peace Conference and of delegates from certain other Powers specially interested in questions of communication and transit ; this Committee was to consider the methods by which the League of Nations could accomplish this task. The mission of the Committee was confirmed by a Resolution of the Council on 13th February last, and it did not delay in submitting to the Council a Report specially dealing with the Permanent Organisation of Communications and Transit. This Report led to the Resolution taken by the Council at Rome on 19th May 1920. The Second Committee was therefore, faced, on the one hand, with a scheme maturely considered by an assembly of most competent men who were inspired by the Covenant and by the existing systems in the important matter of communications and transit, who laid the foundations for the organisation which is henceforth to inform, advise, and guide the League of Nations ; and, on the other hand, it was faced by a Resolution of the Council sanctioning this point of view. These two documents formed the basis of its discussions.

The Second Committee asked the Honourable M. Loudon, the Dutch delegate, to draw up a Report and to submit Resolutions bearing on this subject for its consideration.

The Resolutions on M. Loudon's Report were unanimously adopted by the Second Committee, with some slight modifications of the text of the Resolution of the Council, and we now submit them, in their final form, to the vote of the Assembly.

Resolution.—" I. The Members of the League of Nations are hereby invited to send special Representatives to a General Conference on Freedom of Communications and Transit, to meet at Barcelona as soon as possible after the meeting of the Assembly. This Conference shall be invited to :—

(1) Draw up, under conditions laid down in the Resolution regarding the relations between the Technical Organisations and the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations, the measures which may be taken by the Members of the League in fulfilment of that part of Article 23 (e) of the Covenant which concerns freedom of communications and transit, as well as the General Convention on the international régime of transit, of ports, of waterways and of railways referred to in Articles 338 and 379 of the Treaty of Versailles.

(2) Determine under the same conditions whether the measures which it elaborates should take the form of Draft Conventions to be ratified by the Members of the League or of " recommendations " to the various Governments, or of Draft Resolutions to be adopted by the Assembly of the League.

(3) Regulate its own procedure and make suitable arrangements for subsequent meetings by means of special rules and regulations to be adopted by two-thirds of the representatives of the Members of the League.

(4) Hold its subsequent meetings convened by the Council of the League of Nations at Geneva, unless the Council of the League decides otherwise for special and exceptional reasons.

II. The Conference shall likewise be invited to organise a Standing Communications Committee, the headquarters of which shall be at Geneva. This Committee shall be a consultative and technical body to consider and propose measures calculated to assure freedom of communications and transit at all times, and to assist the Council and Assembly of the League in discharging the functions entrusted to the League by Article 24 of the Covenant and by Articles 342, 377, and 378 of the Treaty of Versailles, and the corresponding Articles in the other Treaties.

The Committee will plan the meetings of the Conference and prepare its agenda ; it will exchange all requisite information concerning communications and transit with the appropriate technical Ministries of the Members of the League ; it will be entrusted with the investigation of any disputes which may be referred to the League under Articles 336, 376, and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles, and corresponding Articles in the other Treaties of Peace, and will endeavour to adjust such disputes whenever possible by conciliation between the parties ; in the event of such disputes being brought before the Permanent Court of International Justice, the Committee may be called upon to assist the Court.

III. The Secretary-General of the League of Nations will render every possible assistance to the General Conference and to the Committee; he will, with the assistance of the existing Commitee of Enquiry on Freedom of Communications and Transit, take the necessary measures for the first meeting of the Conference, and he will designate members of the International Secretariat to act as Secretaries of the Conference and of the Standing Committee.

IV. The general expenses of the Conference and of the Committee, and the travelling and subsistence allowances of the members of the Committee only, shall be defrayed out of the general funds of the League."

The General Conference, which, in accordance with the Resolution submitted to you and in reponse to the very kind invitation of the Spanish Government, is shortly about to hold its first meeting at Barcelona, will study its agenda; it will itself decide on its own methods of procedure and propose its own solutions. Its task, however, will be greatly facilitated by the Committee of Enquiry to which I have already alluded, and which, in accordance with the instructions of the Council of the League of Nations, has elaborated at Paris not only a draft agenda, but also the texts of preliminary drafts for eventual conventions on freedom of transit, navigable waterways, railways, on the right to a maritime flag of States not in the possession of a sea-board, a draft resolution with regard to ports, as well as an explanatory report drawn up by the Secretary-General of the Committee, and which is above all praise.

A very great importance must be attached to the first General Conference, for it will be the first time that the competent authorities of the whole world will be gathered together to collaborate in this task, which is a matter of equal and vital concern to all.

As regards this matter, I wish particularly to remind you that an invitation to the Barcelona Conference has been addressed to the Government of the United States. We all hope that we shall not be refused the assistance of its experts, which proved of such value to us at the Financial Conference at Brussels, since, in this case more than in any other, the co-operation of the world is indispensable.

Jurisdiction on Communications and Transit.

The Assembly will also have to take resolutions as regards jurisdiction over Transit. We cannot do better than to give the following extract on this subject from the report of M. Loudon :—

'As regards Communications and Transit, the League of Nations has, in addition to the duties provided for by the Council's Resolution of the 19th May last, a judicial task which has been assigned to it by the various Treaties of Peace.

'Article 376 of the Treaty of Versailles states that disputes which may arise with regard to the interpretation and application of Part XII. of the Treaty relating to ports, waterways, and railways shall be settled as provided by the League of Nations. Several other Articles, especially Nos. 336, 337, and 386, anticipate a recourse to the jurisdiction established by the League of Nations for this purpose. The other Treaties of Peace contain similar provisions. Consequently, it is incumbent on the Assembly to take at once the steps necessary for setting up, before any disputes arise, the jurisdiction to which the parties may have recourse.

'Article 13 of the Covenant declares that disputes as to the interpretation of a treaty, as to any question of international law, as to the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of any international obligation, or as to the extent and nature of the reparation to be made for any such breach, are among those which are generally suitable for arbitration.

'All the disputes provided by the above Articles would seem to fall under this enumeration. The choice of the jurisdiction is left by these Articles to the League of Nations.

'It is, therefore, obvious that this jurisdiction is the one created by the League of Nations, that is to say, the Permanent Court of International Justice.

'It is perfectly understood that the disputes in question shall not be brought before the Court, except after the failure of the measures of conciliation provided for by the Resolution on the Transit Organisation.'

Until such time as the Permanent Court is able to enter upon its duties, it will be necessary to submit eventual disputes to a special Tribunal of Arbitration. Under the circumstances, the Assembly might adopt the following Resolution :—

Resolution.—"All disputes brought before the League of Nations, under Articles 336, 337, 376 and 386 of the Treaty of Versailles and under analogous Articles of the other Treaties of Peace, which are not settled by the procedure provided in the Resolution relating to the organisation of Transit shall be brought before the Permanent Court of International Justice. Until the Permanent Court of International Justice is in a position to deal with such disputes, they shall be brought before a Court of Arbitration of three Members, appointed as follows :—

"One Member appointed by the Plaintiff or plaintiffs, one Member appointed by the Defendant or Defendants, one Member appointed by the Council of the League of Nations, who shall act as President of the Court."

If the preceding Resolution is adopted by the Assembly, the Council of the League of Nations can take, and communicate to the Parties concerned, all measures with regard to the details required for putting it into force.

C.—Health.

As regards international measures concerning health questions, the instructions of the Covenant are contained in a single line of Article 23 (f) :—

"The Members of the League will endeavour to take steps in matters of international concern for the prevention and control of disease."

[APP. III., ANNEX 5—contd.] 72

All who have followed the progress of health and international prophylaxis during the last half century realise how much has been accomplished for the good of humanity in such matters by the good-will of the nations intelligently directed by eminent specialists.

I myself, having had the honour of taking part 20 years ago in the Conferences which organised the fight against cholera and of plague, having witnessed the wonderful effects of the conventions which resulted from the Conferences, being able to testify to the fact that these conventions have kept back these scourges, and being able definitely to state the exact date when the last western epidemic yielded before the thoroughness with which the international system of protection was organised, I am in a position to state with all emphasis how fertile in results may be the work which the League of Nations will undertake in the future in accordance with the instructions so simply set forth in these lines of the Covenant.

It is, therefore, with the most complete confidence that I submit to you in conformity with Mr. Barnes' report the conclusions which are the results of the preliminary investigations and of the discussions carried on in the Second Committee.

Here we found ourselves already provided with carefully elaborated reports.

A special Committee was convened by the British Government on 29th and 30th July 1919, and a second Committee, to which additional experts had been added, was convoked on 13th April 1920. The report of the latter Committee was submitted to the Council, which accepted its conclusions, and has transmitted them to us, in order that we may obtain its approval by the Assembly.

But it should be pointed out that we on this subject have to deal with one of the eventualities provided for by the following passage in Article 24 of the Covenant :—

"There shall be placed under the direction of the League all international bureaux already established by general treaties if the parties to such treaties consent."

An International Health Office, the Office International d'Hygiène Publique, already existed at Paris. It was a question of adapting it to the rôle which it would have to fulfil under the authority of the League of Nations.

Your Second Committee, after carefully considering the circumstances, recommends that you should adopt in their entirety the proposals of the London Conference, which were accepted by the Council with certain slight modifications due to amendments representing the combined wisdom of our experts.

These proposals would, then, take the form of a resolution, and it is this resolution that we are now submitting to the Assembly :—

Resolution.—"In pursuance of Articles 23 (f), 24 and 25 of the Covenant of the League of Nations, and in order to facilitate the discharge by the League of Nations of the responsibilities which may be placed upon it by provisions of the various Treaties of Peace, the Assembly of the League of Nations resolves as follows :—

That a permanent International Health Organisation be established as part of the organisation of the League of Nations.

Functions of the Organisation.

It will be the task of the Organisation to deal with such matters as affect individual countries only in their relation to other countries.

The main functions of the Organisation may be summarised under the headings which follow, and their exercise shall be determined by the Permanent Committee :—

(a) To advise the League of Nations in matters affecting health.

(b) To bring Administrative Health Authorities in different countries into closer relationship with each other.

(c) To organise means of more rapid interchange of information on matters where immediate precautions against disease may be required (e.g., epidemics) and to simplify methods for acting rapidly on such information where it affects more than one country.

(d) To furnish a ready organisation for securing or revising necessary international agreements for administrative action in matters of health, and more particularly for examining those subjects which it is proposed to bring before the Standing and General Committees, with a view to International Conventions.

(e) In regard to measures for the protection of the worker against sickness, disease and injury arising out of his employment which fall within the province of the International Labour Organisation, the International Health Organisation will co-operate with and assist the International Labour Organisation, it being understood that the International Labour Organisation will on its side act in consultation with the International Health Organisation in regard to all health matters.

(g) To advise, when requested, other voluntary organisations in health matters of international concern.

(h) To organise missions in connection with matters of health at the request of the League of Nations and with the concurrence of the countries affected.

The permanent International Health Organisation shall consist of (1) the Office International d'Hygiène Publique, which, with certain additions set out below, will become the General Committee; (2) a Standing Committee; and (3) an International Health Bureau. In carrying out its duties the Organisation shall conform to the general principles laid down in the Resolution of the Council, as to the relations between the Technical Organisations and the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations, passed at Rome 19th May 1920.

The Office International d'Hygiene Publique.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique, changed as indicated below, shall, subject to the approval of the Governments signatory to the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, form part of the new Permanent International Health Organisation. The headquarters of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall remain in Paris.

Members of the General and Standing Committees and of the staff of the International Health Bureaus shall have the right to use the library of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique and its rooms in Paris shall be available for special meetings if required.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall undertake such duties of a technical character as may be assigned to it by the Standing Committee, in accordance with the resolution agreed to by the Committee of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique at the meeting held in Paris on 30th October 1919.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique will, subject to the consent of the Governments signatory to the International Agreement signed at Rome 9th December 1907, agree to such alterations as may be found necessary in the "Statutus Arganiques" of the Rome Convention of 1907 (especially Article 15) and in the rules governing the internal administration of the Office, especially Article 8 of Part I. of these Rules, but no alteration shall be made in Part II. with regard to the "Caisse des Retraites et de Secours," which is prejudicial to any person entitled to benefit therefrom.

The General Committee.

The General Committee shall consist of the Delegates to the Office International d'Hygiène Publique now holding appointments in accordance with the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907, or who may hereafter be so appointed by any country party to that Agreement, together with delegates appointed by countries not parties to the Agreement of 1907 but Members of the League of Nations.

The General Committee shall meet at least once a year at the headquarters of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique in Paris. In cases of emergency the Council may convene the General Committee for an extraordinary session.

The General Committee shall appoint its own President, regulate its own procedure, and may at any time appoint sub-committees to consider any special question. Any delegate may at any time call in the assistance of technical advisers, but the advisers shall not vote.

A delegate, however, who during the progress of a Session may for any reason be unable to attend any particular meeting, may, by notice in writing addressed to the President, appoint an adviser to act as his deputy, and this adviser while so acting shall be allowed to vote.

The Standing Committee.

The Standing Committee shall elect its own Chairman and regulate its own procedure, but shall meet not less than four times a year, and may in addition at any time be called to deal with questions requiring urgent consideration. It shall be empowered to form sub-committees and to call in technical advisers on special points, but these advisers shall have no voting power.

Full reports of the Proceedings of the Standing Committee and of all sub-committees shall be submitted to the General Committee and to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations through the Medical Secretary.

The Chairman and members of the Standing Committee shall hold their appointments for three years only, but shall be eligible for reappointment or re-election.

The International Health Bureau or Personnel of the Standing Committee at the seat of the League of Nations.

This shall consist of (a) a Medical Secretary; (b) personnel.

The Medical Secretary shall be appointed by the Standing Committee in consultation with the Secretary-General and shall be responsible to this Committee for the efficient working of the International Health Bureau, and for any other duties that may be assigned to him by the Standing Committee. He shall have the right of direct access to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, and shall be empowered to have direct communication with all Government Health Offices.

He shall be entitled to attend all meetings of both Standing and General Committees and shall be a member ex officio of all Committees and sub-committees.

The personnel of the International Health Bureau at the seat of the League of Nations shall be appointed by the Standing Committee in consultation with the Medical Secretary, and, as far as possible with due regard to the efficiency of the work of the office, shall consist of persons of different nationalities.

The headquarters of the International Health Bureau shall be at the seat of the League of Nations.

Conventions.

The Standing Committee shall be empowered to draw up any draft new Conventions or revise existing ones.

These Conventions must, however, be submitted to the General Committee for consideration and approval, and a majority of two-thirds of the votes of the General Committee will be required on the final vote for the adopting of the draft Convention.

In framing any Convention the Committee shall in all cases consult with the Economic and Transit Organisations of the League of Nations where the matter is in any way likely to affect International Commerce, Communications or Transit. If it be decided that the draft Convention shall be adopted, it shall be signed by the President of the General Committee and the Medical Secretary of the International Health Bureau, and then be deposited with the Secretary-General. This draft Convention will be submitted by the Council of the League of Nations to the Governments concerned with an invitation that if they approve the Convention, the Convention should, within as short a time as possible, and without further examination, be signed by plenipotentiaries.

Each country undertakes to ratify a draft Convention thus signed and deposited before one year has passed or to signify to the Secretary-General, before the expiration of that period, its decision not to ratify and the reasons for that decision, and each member of the General Committee undertakes himself to keep the question of the draft Convention before the Authority within whose competence the matter lies, with the object of obtaining a decision as soon as possible from the country which he represents.

Any Convention so ratified shall be registered by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, but shall only be binding upon the country which ratifies it.

Each member of the General Committee agrees to make special or annual reports on the measures which the country he represents has taken to give effect to the promises of the Convention to which it is a party, and these reports shall be made when and in such form as the Standing Committee may prescribe. Similar reports shall be requested from countries not signatory to the Convention concerned on matters affecting the subject-matter of the Convention.

These reports shall be circulated to all members of the General Committee, and shall in addition be given publicity in the Press if necessary.

Expenses.

The expenses of all new organisations, special committees and administrative charges of the International Health Bureau of the League of Nations shall be paid from the consolidated funds of the League.

The Medical Secretary of the International Health Bureau shall prepare in advance an annual statement of all the ordinary expenditure for submission to the Standing Committee, whose duty it will be to recommend sanction for the proposed expenditure to the Council of the League of Nations through the medium of the Secretary-General. Extraordinary expenses shall be submitted by the Medical Secretary to the Standing Committee, which will present the same as a matter of urgency to the Council of the League of Nations through the medium of the Secretary-General.

The Medical Secretary shall be responsible to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations for the proper expenditure of all moneys paid to him, and shall submit to such audit as may be deemed desirable.

Until otherwise determined, the expenses of the Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall be paid as at present by contributions according to the apportionment of the International Agreement signed at Rome, 9th December 1907.

The Office International d'Hygiène Publique shall from time to time submit to such auditing of expenditure as may be deemed desirable by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, in regard to any sums applied by the League to provide for the expenses noted above.

The Secretary-General of the League of Nations shall render all possible assistance to the Permanent International Health Organisation."

D.—Composition of the Standing Committees for Transit and Health.

The Second Committee is of opinion that the question of the composition of the Standing Committees for Transit and Health should be the subject of resolutions distinct from those which lay down the broad lines of these two organisations.

After an exchange of views which followed expositions by the delegate of Venezula(who had taken up the resolution presented by the Argentine Delegate) and by the delegate of Chile, the Committee agreed by a majority on the two following Resolutions, which give effect in some measure to the desiderata formulated by these delegates. These are now submitted to you as supplementary resolutions :—

Resolution regarding the composition of the Transit Standing Committee.—"This Committee shall consist of members nominated by those Members of the League which are permanently on the Council, in the proportion of one Member by each of those Members of the League and also of eight Members selected in a manner to be determined by the Conference, having regard as far as possible to technical interests and geographical representation."

Resolution regarding the composition of the Health Standing Committee.—"The Standing Committee shall consist of delegates of the States permanently represented on the Council of the League of Nations, five Members elected by the General Committee—having regard to their scientific attainments and to geographical representation—the President of the General Committee, a representative of the League of Red Cross Societies and a representative chosen by the Governing Body of the Labour Conference."

Now that this report, the length of which I admit exceeds the usual limits, has been read, and that the Resolutions have been voted upon, I will not occupy the attention of the Assembly for a moment longer.

Even taking into consideration the technicality of the subject, I cannot doubt that universal public opinion will be impressed by the rapidity and cordiality with which such important decisions have been arrived at.

The League of Nations is now in a position to approach in the terms of the Covenant those questions which concern the very life of humanity,—Commerce, Finance, Transit, Health,—and you will not be surprised if your reporter adds, in conclusion, the special necessities of the regions devastated by the war; all these subjects are in future to be entrusted to the best qualified men for investigation and study. It will now be for them to bring before us the fruits of their labours, and if, as we have every reason to hope, the results are very beneficial they will be due to your wisdom, to your desire for agreement, to your high conception of human fellowship.

ANNEX 6.—Report of Committee No. II, by Sir William Meyer, on the general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the Traffic in Opium and other dangerous drugs in accordance with Article XXIII. of the Covenant.

I have the honour, in accordance with the task imposed upon me, to submit to the Committee an account of the questions at issue in respect of Item 15 on the General Agenda of the Assembly. That item is there described thus :—"General supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in opium in accordance with Article XXIII. of the Covenant (at the request of the Government of the Netherlands)."

I may remark here that it is not merely opium that is in issue, but other and more dangerous drugs of a like character such as morphia, cocaine, and their derivatives. See in this connection Article 23 (c) of the Covenant.

In order that the Committee may fully appreciate the importance of the questions involved, I think it is desirable to give a short historical summary of the international action hitherto taken.

International Opium Commission, Shanghai, 1909.

This Commission was convened at Shanghai in 1909 on the initiative of the United States. The following nations were represented :—United States, Austria-Hungary, China, France, Germany, Great Britain, Japan, Netherlands, Persia, Portugal, Russia and Siam. This Commission made the following recommendations :—

(1) That the Chinese Government and people were to be congratulated on the sincerity and success of their efforts to check the opium traffic.

(2) That each delegation should move its own Government to take measures for the gradual suppression of opium-smoking in its own territories.

(3) That the use of opium in any form otherwise than for medicinal purposes being in almost every participating country a matter for prohibition or for careful regulation, such systems of regulation should be re-examined with a view to making them still more stringent.

(4) That all countries represented having strict laws against smuggling of imported opium, similar strictness should be shown in the regulation of opium exports.

(5) That the sale and distribution of morphine already constituted grave danger and each Government should take drastic measures to control the manufacture, sale and distribution of this drug and of other deleterious derivatives of opium.

Other recommendations urged the suppression of opium divans, and the application of strict pharmacy laws in foreign concessions and settlements in China, and the prohibition of the trade in deleterious anti-opium remedies.

Anglo-Chinese Agreement, 1911.
